SWAMPS SCORE OF BOATS

Storm Is Fatal For At Least 11; 25 Are Missing

MONOTON, N. B. (UPI) — A violent storm swept through the lobster fishing grounds between New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island Saturday, leaving a trail of wreckage and death.

Royal Canadian mounted police reported 11 known dead and at least 10 boats with 25 men aboard were missing.

An RCMP spokesman said the bodies of nine victims were identified.

Search parties, led by the RCMP, patrolled the New Brunswick shore line in the hope of finding survivors.

The wind and rain storm whipped up heavy seas in the Northumberland Strait, one of the world's richest lobster fishing grounds and swamped a score of fishing boats, most of which carry three to four-man crews.

TOLL MAY RISE

The area is near the home of Yvon Durelle, Canadian and British empire light - heavyweight champion who operates a three-boat fleet.

Durelle, who escaped the storm, said he believed at least 23 and possibly 24 fisherman were lost in the storm.

"Their boats have been found," he said. "They're empty. It's a terrible thing. All the men are lost."

However, A. A. Robichaud, local department of fisheries officer said 11 fishermen drowned.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police reported at least five fishing boats were washed up on the shore. At one time 23 fishing boats were missing, but it was reported at least 16 limped back to shore.

Winds gusting to 65 and 70 miles an hour were reported in the strait last night, whipping up waves 30 feet high.

Summer cottages along the shoreline in Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick were wrecked. Others had to be evacuated because of the rising water. Thousands of dollars worth of fishing gear was lost and damage to moored boats was extensive.

The storm disrupted communications throughout the seaboard facing on the Northumberland Strait in New Brunswick.

Love Wins Over Coveted Title

BATH, Maine (AP)—Love has conquered all for Miss Maine of 1959.

Linda Fay Leeman Saturday surrendered her right to compete for the coveted Miss America title to get married. She turned her symbol of office — a jeweled tiara — over to the runnerup for the Maine crown, Linda Mills of Lewiston.

Probers Call Witnesses In Hoffa Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Rackets Committee has blanketed the country with subpenas in preparation for the final phase of its massive investigation of James R. Hoffa and the Teamsters Union.

Chief Counsel Robert F. Kennedy told newsmen Saturday that witnesses will be brought in from all parts of the nation for hearings scheduled to open next Thursday and run for two weeks or more.

The witness list will be headed by Hoffa himself and five of his top lieutenants — four international vice presidents and one international trustee.

NEW MATERIAL

All have appeared before the committee before during its more than two years of digging into alleged corruption and hoodlumism in America's largest labor union.

Kennedy said staff investigators have collected a big batch of new material to spring on the teamster bosses, the bulk of it having occurred since Hoffa was elected president of the union in the fall of 1957.

The inquiry is expected to be the climax of the committee's third year of operation although a couple of other hearings likely will be held before it closes up shop this summer.

Kennedy said Hoffa would be among the first witnesses and probably would return near the end of the session. He will be followed by Teamster vice presidents John O'Rourke of New York, John T. (Sandy) O'Brien of Chicago, Harold Gibbons of St. Louis and Owen (Bert) Brennan of Detroit. International trustee Ray Cohen of Philadelphia also was booked for a return engagement.

Sailor Is Slain By Jealous Rival

GUTTENBERG, N. J. (AP) — A 23-year-old sailor, who was to have been married Saturday afternoon, was shot and killed early in the day while his beautiful bride-to-be looked on. His jealous rival was charged with murder.

The victim, Jacob Bronler, a Navy air technician at Quonset, R. I. naval base, was killed in his mother's home. His mother, Sabina Glanz, 43, was shot and critically wounded as she ran to his defense.

Charged with murder was Robert Sharp, 32, of Union City, part owner of a tavern.

Pair Stopped After Shots During Chase

PERRY, Okla. (AP)—An Oklahoma man was slightly wounded and an Arkansas resident was jailed Saturday after a bullet-punctuated chase at speeds up to more than 105 miles an hour.

Highway Patrol Capt. Charles Reese, a 19-year-veteran with the patrol, said "That was the wildest ride I ever took in my life."

Reese and Lt. Bert George said they met a speeding car as they approached Pawnee in northern Oklahoma late Friday night and tried to slow it with blinking lights. When the car failed to check its speed, the patrolmen set out in pursuit.

Reese said the chase covered 23 miles at speeds of more than 105 m.p.h. He said the patrol car finally managed to pull alongside the speeding car and that he yelled for the driver to stop. But, he said, he was soundly cursed.

The captain said he fired and hit the pursued auto's left rear tire but failed to stop it. Then he shot the right rear tire and the

Delhi Boy Gets Wonderful Gift

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A Louisiana school boy who pleaded for delicate heart surgery so he could play baseball has received what his dad called "the most wonder-Father's Day gift in all the world."

Doctors say Joe Gilly, 11, son of P. N. Gilly of Delhi, La., can expect a full life span as a result of the operation.

Joe was bron with a hole in his heart. He could not run and play like most youngsters.

Doctors had given him less than 20 years to live.

After the New York Giants' Hank Sauer gave Joe his autograph two years ago in New York, Joe knew baseball was a game he would just have to play. Gilly and his wife gave permission for the operation at Texas Medical Center here.

Joe entered the hospital Wednesday and was scheduled for surgery Thursday. But Gilly said he and his wife grew fearful and wanted to back out.

Their son insisted the chance had to be taken. He won.

Three hours later the surgery was over and Joe was on his way to a new life. The red - haired youngster says he can't wait to get home and take up baseball.

SHINES FROM PUBLICITY

Father's Day Tops Founder's Dreams

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — It was just 50 years ago this spring that a young Spokane woman, Mrs. John Bruce Dodd, got the idea for Father's Day — an idea that came during a Mother's Day sermon.

It was a modest idea at first, but Mrs. Dodd has now seen the observance grow "beyond anything I ever dreamed."

Still she shies away from publicity and, although an attractive, gray-haired woman, won't even have her picture taken.

"Father's Day is to glorify fatherhood and not to glorify me," she told a reporter this week. "I'm not a beautiful woman. I was a plain child, too, and one that just happened to get an idea that was bound to come along in time."

Mrs. Dodd has never made any attempt to cash in on her plan for Father's Day and has refused hundreds of offers to endorse products in connection with the observance.

"That doesn't mean though, I'm against giving or that I think Father's Day has grown too commercial," she said. "It was my idea back in 1909 that gifts be given to father. I even made the suggestion to merchants that they display them in their windows. After all, why should the greatest givers of gifts not be on the receiving end at least once a year.

About the sermon that prompted the Father's Day movement?

"It was full of adulation for motherhood. The preacher was very eloquent though he didn't even mention the word 'father'. I began thinking of my mother who passed away in 1898 while I was yet a child. My thoughts naturally turned to my father who was left with the responsibility of rearing six children.

"He was a very strict man, a real disciplinarian. But he was also a king and loving parent who kept us together and happy. He

U.S. Pledges West Berlin New Support

Herter To Give Ike Report On Geneva Failures

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States pledged new support to threatened West Berliners Saturday as Secretary of State Christian A. Herter flew home to report to President Eisenhower on failures of the Big Four foreign ministers conference at Geneva.

The pledge was the President's answer to the latest Soviet threat to the West to get out of Berlin if there is to be peace in Europe.

Herter was to arrive in Washington Sunday afternoon and confer with C. Douglas Dillion at the White House later in the day.

SUBJECTS LISTED

The secretary was expected to take up these subjects with the president:

The newest threat to the West in the joint Soviet Union-East German communique issued Saturday in Moscow.

How the West will counter Soviet refusal to remove its threat of a separate peace treaty with the East Germans.

Whether a Western summit conference is necessary before the foreign ministers reconvene July 13 in Geneva.

The U. S. statement on Berlin was issued shortly after the joint Communist communique was made public in Moscow.

The communist governments warned again that Western occupation rights would end if the West "frustrates" drafting of an all-German peace treaty.

The Soviet Union said it would sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany if the West refused to give in to the Soviet proposals.

The State Department, with White House approval, promptly made public a pledge to the "courageous" people of West Berlin. "Our responsibility to them

Stolen Credit Card Provides Brief Luxury

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Two New Yorkers turned one stolen credit card into luxury living, police said Saturday.

Police arrested Nicholas Silene, 32, and Frank Hunter, 21, and reported the pair had been maintaining $30-a-day suites at five different hotels all at the same time; had been cashing bad checks on the strength of the credit card, and had been buying clothes and merchandise in hotels and swanky Lincoln Road shops with the card.

Police were put on the trail Friday night by a suspicious hotel owner who checked the Diners Club credit card, which had been issued to a William D. Wilson of Dallas, Tex. He found that it had been issued in Los Angeles and reported missing or stolen 24 hours earlier in New York City.

When police tracked down the holder of the card through a trail of hotels and shops they found Silene and Hunter. Officers still were trying to determine just how much had been charged against the credit card in the one-day spending spree.

Monroe area residents may look forward to generally fair weather today through tonight and tomorrow. Clear skies and continued warm temperatures are forecast.

Yesterday's high was 85, low 67. Today's high is expected in the 85 to 90 range. Generally fair skies are expected elsewhere in the state.

Arkansas residents are favored by the weathermen's predictions of clear skies with occasional cloudiness today and tomorrow. No important temperature changes are in prospect.

OF TEAMSTER OFFICIALS

Monitors Submit Plan On Ouster

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Teamsters Union and court-appointed monitors Saturday filed in the U.S. Court of Appeals a proposed ruling to spell out planned union ouster proceedings against a number of Teamsters officials.

The officials include Owen Bert Brennan, Detroit, an international vice president; Ray Cohen, Philadelphia local official, and others named in Senate rackets committee testimony.

The appeals court ruled 10 days ago that the monitors' reform orders are enforceable by U.S. Dist. Judge F. Dickinson Letts. It directed the union and monitors to draft a judgment.

MAY APPEAL

There is no guarantee the Teamsters will follow the procedures outlined for court approval. James R. Hoffa, Teamsters president, has said that the union may carry the question of monitor powers to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Pending the Supreme Court appeal the union also could seek a stay of the appeals court's orders.

The proposed judgment, worked out by union and monitor attorneys, outlined detailed trial proceedings looking to union ouster of Brennan, Cohen, Saul Feldman of Philadelphia, and Glenn W. Smith and H. L. Boling, suspended officers of Chattanooga, Tenn., Local 515.

Audits of union funds handled by each of the union officials also would be undertaken.

The proposed judgment also would specify that the Teamsters would call no special convention to elect international officers until such time as approved by Judge Letts.

The legal situation began with a suit challenging Hoffa's right to serve as Teamsters president on grounds he helped rig his own

22 OTHERS INJURED

Lodge Fire Fatal For Elderly Pair

BRAINERD, Minn, (AP) — An elderly couple died Saturday and 22 other persons injured fleeing a fire that tore through Breezy Point Lodge, one of the showplace resorts of Minnesota's northwoods.

Guests leaped from second story windows and slid down blankets and bedsheets as flames demolished the 33-year-old log building built by the late magazine publisher and sportsman, Capt. Billy Fawcett.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Hilldinger of Cleveland were killed trying to reach safety.

LANDS ON HEAD

Hilldinger, 77, jumped from a second floor window and landed on his head. His wife, 70, tried to slide down a rope and fell 20 feet to the ground. She died in a Brainerd hospital.

Thirteen of the injured were treated for minor injuries and were released from the hospital. Nine others were hospitalized with more serious injuries, most of them suffered in leaps from the building.

Jamar Adcock Is Candidate For Senator

Jamar W. Adcock, Monroe businessman and civic leader, yesterday announced that he will be a candidate for state senator representing Ouachita and Jackson parishes.

Promising that he will be running "strictly independent," Adcock said that he "will never be a 'rubber stamp' for any governor or special interest group."

"I pledge my full energies and abilities toward bringing to our state government the dignity and business - like administration it deserves," he stressed.

STATEMENT

In announcing his candidacy, Adcock issued the following statement: "Our parishes of Ouachita and Jackson have been fortunate in having outstanding independent representation in the Senate during the past two terms.

"Since Senator Sparks announced his decision not to seek re-election, I've given much serious consideration to seeking the post.

LAST CIVIL WAR VETERAN

'Old Reb' Rallies In Fight For Life

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) —"Old Reb" Walter Williams 116, the last living veteran of the Civil War, rallied Saturday in his fight against pneumonia and ordered his daughter to put his boots on.

"He has been wanting me to put his boots on for some time now," his daughter, Mrs. Willie May Bowles, said.

She gently refused for fear the boots will scar his feet, the skin of which looks tissue - thin and fragile.

Williams, who was 116 last November, caught pneumonia two weeks ago. It looked as if he had beaten it, but he suffered a relapse Friday and he was put under an oxygen tent in his room in Mrs. Bowles' home.

Dr. Russell Wolfe, who is treating him, said after an examination that he had rallied. His chest had cleared up "a little" and his temperature was down from 101 degrees to 99.2.

Still, Dr. Wolfe said, his condition is "serious," but not critical, and he will have to stay under the oxygen tent.

"Any time he gets ill, he is in precarious condition at his age," Dr. Wolfe said.

"This bout has hit him pretty hard," Mrs. Bowles said. "Harder than anything he has ever had."

Williams, in addition to being the last of four million men who fought in the Civil War, is certainly one of the oldest human beings on earth.

He is toothless, blind, almost deaf and has been confined to his bed in Mrs. Bowles, home for three years. Mrs. Bowles feeds him a little soft scrambled egg for breakfast and strained baby food for his other meals.

He mumbles rather than talks. Mrs. Bowles, who sleeps on another bed in his room, understands him and answers. Dr. Wolfe also ordered a nurse for him night and day.

As Dr. Wolfe left him yesterday, he said: "I'd like to let you have

Steps Taken To Arrange For Counsel

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Louisiana Gov. Earl K. Long, convinced he belongs back in his office in the state capitol instead of in a mental hospital, made arrangements Saturday to wage a legal battle for his freedom.

Attorney Theo Cangelosi, an old friend of the governor's and legal adviser for many years, said he had agreed to retain legal counsel for Long.

Cangelosi, who made the statement after a meeting with Long at Southeast Louisiana State (mental) hospital would not elaborate except to say the names of Long's attorneys would be announced Monday or Tuesday.

MAY SEEK WRIT

State Hospital director Jesse Bankston sat in on the conference.

Judge Fred S. Leblanc sent the 63 - year - old governor there, screaming and kicking, after two hastily appointed doctors talked with him briefly in a police car and ruled him a schizophrenic-paranoid.

One said he had delusions of persecution and a subconscious death wish to follow the violent end of his older brother Huey, who was assassinated in a capitol corridor 24 years ago.

Long was expected to instruct Cangelosi to demand the sanity hearing. State law is explicit that any person committed without a hearing is entitled to petition for one.

Long also could get out with a writ of habeas corpus for a hearing on grounds he was unlawfully committed.

In background to Long's battle for freedom was a squabble between his followers and enemies for power in the state.

Heading the battle against the Long machine was Secretary of State Wade Martin Jr., an old

Summer Arrives This Evening In Twin Cities Area

Summer arrives in the Twin Cities' area at 9:50 tonight. . . but area residents will vouch that "sizzlin' season" has been around for several weeks.

During the past ten days, the mercury darted above the 90 degree mark as air conditioners were turned on, full blast.

Traditional summer-time recreation didn't wait for the official "first day." Boaters and water skiers have churned the waters of Bayou DeSiard and the Ouachita River for several weeks.

The Swayze natatorium opened the last week of May, and youngsters swarmed in, followed by a large number of adults.

The spring term of school ended on May 30, and summer school has been in full-swing for two weeks.

Besides the distinction of being the first "official" day of summer, today is also the longest day of the year ... starting tomorrow, the days gradually will grow shorter and the nights longer until 6 months from now, Dec. 21.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States pledged new support to threatened West Berliners Saturday as Secretary of State Christian A. Herter flew home to report to President Eisenhower on failures of the Big Four foreign ministers conference at Geneva.

The pledge was the President's answer to the latest Soviet threat to the West to get out of Berlin if there is to be peace in Europe.

Herter was to arrive in Washington Sunday afternoon and confer with C. Douglas Dillion at the White House later in the day.

SUBJECTS LISTED

The secretary was expected to take up these subjects with the president:

The newest threat to the West in the joint Soviet Union-East German communique issued Saturday in Moscow.

How the West will counter Soviet refusal to remove its threat of a separate peace treaty with the East Germans.

Whether a Western summit conference is necessary before the foreign ministers reconvene July 13 in Geneva.

The U. S. statement on Berlin was issued shortly after the joint Communist communique was made public in Moscow.

The communist governments warned again that Western occupation rights would end if the West "frustrates" drafting of an all-German peace treaty.

The Soviet Union said it would sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany if the West refused to give in to the Soviet proposals.

The State Department, with White House approval, promptly made public a pledge to the "courageous" people of West Berlin. "Our responsibility to them

Stolen Credit Card Provides Brief Luxury

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Two New Yorkers turned one stolen credit card into luxury living, police said Saturday.

Police arrested Nicholas Silene, 32, and Frank Hunter, 21, and reported the pair had been maintaining $30-a-day suites at five different hotels all at the same time; had been cashing bad checks on the strength of the credit card, and had been buying clothes and merchandise in hotels and swanky Lincoln Road shops with the card.

Police were put on the trail Friday night by a suspicious hotel owner who checked the Diners Club credit card, which had been issued to a William D. Wilson of Dallas, Tex. He found that it had been issued in Los Angeles and reported missing or stolen 24 hours earlier in New York City.

When police tracked down the holder of the card through a trail of hotels and shops they found Silene and Hunter. Officers still were trying to determine just how much had been charged against the credit card in the one-day spending spree.

Monroe area residents may look forward to generally fair weather today through tonight and tomorrow. Clear skies and continued warm temperatures are forecast.

Yesterday's high was 85, low 67. Today's high is expected in the 85 to 90 range. Generally fair skies are expected elsewhere in the state.

Arkansas residents are favored by the weathermen's predictions of clear skies with occasional cloudiness today and tomorrow. No important temperature changes are in prospect.

OF TEAMSTER OFFICIALS

Monitors Submit Plan On Ouster

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Teamsters Union and court-appointed monitors Saturday filed in the U.S. Court of Appeals a proposed ruling to spell out planned union ouster proceedings against a number of Teamsters officials.

The officials include Owen Bert Brennan, Detroit, an international vice president; Ray Cohen, Philadelphia local official, and others named in Senate rackets committee testimony.

The appeals court ruled 10 days ago that the monitors' reform orders are enforceable by U.S. Dist. Judge F. Dickinson Letts. It directed the union and monitors to draft a judgment.

MAY APPEAL

There is no guarantee the Teamsters will follow the procedures outlined for court approval. James R. Hoffa, Teamsters president, has said that the union may carry the question of monitor powers to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Pending the Supreme Court appeal the union also could seek a stay of the appeals court's orders.

The proposed judgment, worked out by union and monitor attorneys, outlined detailed trial proceedings looking to union ouster of Brennan, Cohen, Saul Feldman of Philadelphia, and Glenn W. Smith and H. L. Boling, suspended officers of Chattanooga, Tenn., Local 515.

Audits of union funds handled by each of the union officials also would be undertaken.

The proposed judgment also would specify that the Teamsters would call no special convention to elect international officers until such time as approved by Judge Letts.

The legal situation began with a suit challenging Hoffa's right to serve as Teamsters president on grounds he helped rig his own

Lodge Fire Fatal For Elderly Pair

BRAINERD, Minn, (AP) — An elderly couple died Saturday and 22 other persons injured fleeing a fire that tore through Breezy Point Lodge, one of the showplace resorts of Minnesota's northwoods.

Guests leaped from second story windows and slid down blankets and bedsheets as flames demolished the 33-year-old log building built by the late magazine publisher and sportsman, Capt. Billy Fawcett.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Hilldinger of Cleveland were killed trying to reach safety.

LANDS ON HEAD

Hilldinger, 77, jumped from a second floor window and landed on his head. His wife, 70, tried to slide down a rope and fell 20 feet to the ground. She died in a Brainerd hospital.

Thirteen of the injured were treated for minor injuries and were released from the hospital. Nine others were hospitalized with more serious injuries, most of them suffered in leaps from the building.

Jamar Adcock Is Candidate For Senator

Jamar W. Adcock, Monroe businessman and civic leader, yesterday announced that he will be a candidate for state senator representing Ouachita and Jackson parishes.

Promising that he will be running "strictly independent," Adcock said that he "will never be a 'rubber stamp' for any governor or special interest group."

"I pledge my full energies and abilities toward bringing to our state government the dignity and business - like administration it deserves," he stressed.

STATEMENT

In announcing his candidacy, Adcock issued the following statement: "Our parishes of Ouachita and Jackson have been fortunate in having outstanding independent representation in the Senate during the past two terms.

"Since Senator Sparks announced his decision not to seek re-election, I've given much serious consideration to seeking the post.

"One of the strongest factors influencing my decision to become

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP) —A nuclear reactor designed to determine whether atomic energy can thrust a rocket into outer space went into operation Saturday for the first time.

The first of a series of power operations of the Kiwi-a experimental reactor was carried out deep in the desert of this vast southern Nevada testing site.

LAST CIVIL WAR VETERAN

'Old Reb' Rallies In Fight For Life

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) —"Old Reb" Walter Williams 116, the last living veteran of the Civil War, rallied Saturday in his fight against pneumonia and ordered his daughter to put his boots on.

"He has been wanting me to put his boots on for some time now," his daughter, Mrs. Willie May Bowles, said.

She gently refused for fear the boots will scar his feet, the skin of which looks tissue - thin and fragile.

Williams, who was 116 last November, caught pneumonia two weeks ago. It looked as if he had beaten it, but he suffered a relapse Friday and he was put under an oxygen tent in his room in Mrs. Bowles' home.

Dr. Russell Wolfe, who is treating him, said after an examination that he had rallied. His chest had cleared up "a little" and his temperature was down from 101 degrees to 99.2.

Still, Dr. Wolfe said, his condition is "serious," but not critical, and he will have to stay under the oxygen tent.

"Any time he gets ill, he is in precarious condition at his age," Dr. Wolfe said.

"This bout has hit him pretty hard," Mrs. Bowles said. "Harder than anything he has ever had."

Williams, in addition to being the last of four million men who fought in the Civil War, is certainly one of the oldest human beings on earth.

He is toothless, blind, almost deaf and has been confined to his bed in Mrs. Bowles, home for three years. Mrs. Bowles feeds him a little soft scrambled egg for breakfast and strained baby food for his other meals.

He mumbles rather than talks. Mrs. Bowles, who sleeps on another bed in his room, understands him and answers. Dr. Wolfe also ordered a nurse for him night and day.

As Dr. Wolfe left him yesterday, he said: "I'd like to let you have

Steps Taken To Arrange For Counsel

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Louisiana Gov. Earl K. Long, convinced he belongs back in his office in the state capitol instead of in a mental hospital, made arrangements Saturday to wage a legal battle for his freedom.

Attorney Theo Cangelosi, an old friend of the governor's and legal adviser for many years, said he had agreed to retain legal counsel for Long.

Cangelosi, who made the statement after a meeting with Long at Southeast Louisiana State (mental) hospital would not elaborate except to say the names of Long's attorneys would be announced Monday or Tuesday.

MAY SEEK WRIT

State Hospital director Jesse Bankston sat in on the conference.

Judge Fred S. Leblanc sent the 63 - year - old governor there, screaming and kicking, after two hastily appointed doctors talked with him briefly in a police car and ruled him a schizophrenic-paranoid.

One said he had delusions of persecution and a subconscious death wish to follow the violent end of his older brother Huey, who was assassinated in a capitol corridor 24 years ago.

Long was expected to instruct Cangelosi to demand the sanity hearing. State law is explicit that any person committed without a hearing is entitled to petition for one.

Long also could get out with a writ of habeas corpus for a hearing on grounds he was unlawfully committed.

In background to Long's battle for freedom was a squabble between his followers and enemies for power in the state.

Heading the battle against the Long machine was Secretary of State Wade Martin Jr., an old

Summer Arrives This Evening In Twin Cities Area

Summer arrives in the Twin Cities' area at 9:50 tonight. . . but area residents will vouch that "sizzlin' season" has been around for several weeks.

During the past ten days, the mercury darted above the 90 degree mark as air conditioners were turned on, full blast.

Traditional summer-time recreation didn't wait for the official "first day." Boaters and water skiers have churned the waters of Bayou DeSiard and the Ouachita River for several weeks.

The Swayze natatorium opened the last week of May, and youngsters swarmed in, followed by a large number of adults.

The spring term of school ended on May 30, and summer school has been in full-swing for two weeks.

Besides the distinction of being the first "official" day of summer, today is also the longest day of the year . . . starting tomorrow, the days gradually will grow shorter and the nights longer until 6 months from now, Dec. 21.

SHINES FROM PUBLICITY

Father's Day Tops Founder's Dreams

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — It was just 50 years ago this spring that a young Spokane woman, Mrs. John Bruce Dodd, got the idea for Father's Day — an idea that came during a Mother's Day sermon.

It was a modest idea at first, but Mrs. Dodd has now seen the observance grow "beyond anything I ever dreamed."

Still she shies away from publicity and, although an attractive, gray-haired woman, won't even have her picture taken.

"Father's Day is to glorify fatherhood and not to glorify me," she told a reporter this week. "I'm not a beautiful woman. I was a plain child, too, and one that just happened to get an idea that was bound to come along in time."

Mrs. Dodd has never made any attempt to cash in on her plan for Father's Day and has refused hundreds of offers to endorse products in connection with the observance.

"That doesn't mean though, I'm against giving or that I think Father's Day has grown too commercial," she said. "It was my idea back in 1909 that gifts be given to father. I even made the suggestion to merchants that they display them in their windows. After all, why should the greatest givers of gifts not be on the receiving end at least once a year.

About the sermon that prompted the Father's Day movement?

"It was full of adulation for motherhood. The preacher was very eloquent though he didn't even mention the word 'father'. I began thinking of my mother who passed away in 1898 while I was yet a child. My thoughts naturally turned to my father who was left with the responsibility of rearing six children.

"He was a very strict man, a real disciplinarian. But he was also a king and loving parent who kept us together and happy. He has been and will remain our primary consideration," it said.

"The U. S. government believes they share our confidence that with patience and determination we shall find solutions which will safe-guard their security and welfare."

The unusual statement amounted to a blunt rejection of the new Soviet threats by reaffirming U. S. pledges of support to West Berlin.

The new moves from both East and West were expected to heighten tensions during the three-week recess in the foreign minister's talks — a recess described as a "cooling off" period. Meantime, it is believed some effort must be made to solidify the U.S. — British-French position at the East-West talks.

foe who became infuriated when Long took away from him two state posts adding an additional $8,800 a year to his salary.

Martin, who must attest all executive orders, refused to recognize Long s faithful aide, Lt. Gov. Lether Frazar, as acting governor. Martin said Long was governor until he declared himself incapable of acting or some proper authority did so.

Frazar, who wants to be president of Louisiana State University, not governor, had reluctantly accepted the acting governor role on the advice of Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion, another Long stalwart.

The governors' lieutenants were badly worried about the repercussions and political effects of Long getting out and appearing at a sanity hearing.

In a similar setting in Galveston, Tex., last Tuesday, Long was persuaded by his attorneys not to testify in his own behalf but he strolled around the courtroom during the hearing, ostentatiously munching on a chocolate bar and having trouble with the nuts in his dentures, wisecracking and snorting at one of his physicians, a cousin, as a "horse doctor."

Suspect Jailed In Slaying Here

A shotgun blast ended the life of a West Monroe Negro shortly after midnight Saturday and a man charged as his assailant surrendered to Ouachita Parish Sheriff's Department officials about three hours later.

Dead on arrival at the E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital was Albert Mercy, 28, of Rt. 1, West Monroe. In the parish jail charged with murder was Lonzo Dixon, 31, Negro, who gave his address as 11th Street, Monroe.

According to witnesses, Mercy and another unidentified Negro were involved in an argument in front of Snow's Place on Ridge Drive in West Monroe about 2:10 a.m. Saturday. At this time, Dixon reportedly went to his car parked nearby and returned with a .20 gauge shotgun. Mercy turned to run, witnesses said, but stumbled and fell. It was at this time, witnesses told police, Dixon fired one blast from the shotgun into Mercy's face. He was pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital.

Sheriff's department authorities said Dixon came to the courthouse and surrendered himself about 5:30 a.m. Saturday. He was placed under arrest and charged with murder.

a cigar, general, but you can't smoke in that oxygen tent."

The old rebel became the last veteran of the Civil War with the death of John Salling in Kingsport, Tenn., last March 16. Williams predicted years ago he would be the last survivor of the Civil War.

He particularly wanted to outlive the last Union veteran, Albert Woolson of Duluth, Minn., who died two years ago.

Williams' bedroom walls are bedecked with curios, honorary commissions, flags and certificates. They include a gold medal awarded him by Congress on Nov. 2, 1956.

Texas bestowed the honorary rank of colonel of him in 1950 but he actually never advanced above the rank of private in the Confederate Army.

He was 19 when the Civil War broke out in 1861 and joined Gen. John B. Hood's Fifth Calvary at Corinth, Miss., as a forage master. He was in action only once, with Confederates who ambushed a group of union soldiers one morning and killed about 100 of them.

Williams' last public appearance was May 16 when he rode in the downtown Houston armed forces day parade in an ambulance. He appeared to enjoy the parade, keeping time with his fingers to the band music and occasionally humming to himself one of his favorite tunes.

Once while recalling events of the Civil War, he said:

"We didn't get beat. We were starved out. Got down to nothing but parched acorns to eat. I've eaten many a parched acorn."

Williams' second wife and companion for 60 years died Nov. 2, 1957. He fathered 19 children, with 12 of them still living today. His youngest son was born when Williams was 89 years old.

Schabilon, a blonde 21-year-old divorcee sobbed: "He never hurt anyone. Is it right, is it fair?"

When Bronler and Mrs. Schabilon came to the apartment they were followed by Sharp.

Sharp brought along a rifle and left it standing in the hallway. Sharp, police said, asked Bronler to promise him he wouldn't marry the girl. When the sailor refused, Sharp reached for his rifle and started firing, police said.

After the shooting, Mrs. Shabilon grabbed the rifle and threw it out of an open window. Sharp sat and waited for police who had been summoned by neighbors.

"My entire life revolved around her," said Sharp who had met the young woman two years ago. "Nothing else mattered." Bronler was shot in the abdomen and died instantly. Mrs. Glanz also was hit in the abdomen and was taken to the hospital in critical condition.

sort estimated loss at more than a million dollars.

The blaze, breaking out about 5:30 a.m. near the kitchen, ate quickly through the three-story wood structure and an adjoining annex. Flames shot 75 feet into the air.

"I opened the bedroom door and the whole corridor was filled with flames," said Jack Nylen of Paullina, Iowa. "My wife jumped one story to a plastic roof on one side of the main lodge. I was going to do the same but I'm heavy and people on the ground talked me out of it. They got a ladder and I crawled down.'

Another guest, Arthur Durand, 29, St. Paul, said many of the injuries could have been averted if the guests waited for ladders and other aid instead of jumping in their fright.

Cause of the fire was not determined.

About 100 persons were in the main section of the lodge when the fire struck. Some 200 more were in the cabins surrounding it on the shore of Pelican Lake 20 miles north of here.

Within a half hour after the fire was discovered the lodge was uncontrollably ablaze from end to end.

A restort employe who discovered the fire roused other workers to help him sound the alarm. They ran through corridors, shouting "Fire" and pounding on doors.

"A fourth of the building was on fire by the time we got out of a rear exit," said Gene McHugh of St. Paul, a guest. "People were jumping all around us."

"Everybody was terribly frightened," said Mrs. William Schneider, St. Paul, who escaped with her family. "Some ran to the lake. Almost everyone was in night clothes.' '

The driver was identified as Billy J. Hudson, 22, Harrison, Ark., and his passenger as Richard Corley, 25, Pawnee. The car had an Arkansas license plate.

Suspect Jailed In Slaying Here

A shotgun blast ended the life of a West Monroe Negro shortly after midnight Saturday and a man charged as his assailant surrendered to Ouachita Parish Sheriff's Department officials about three hours later.

Dead on arrival at the E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital was Albert Mercy, 28, of Rt. 1, West Monroe. In the parish jail charged with murder was Lonzo Dixon, 31, Negro, who gave his address as 11th Street, Monroe.

According to witnesses, Mercy and another unidentified Negro were involved in an argument in front of Snow's Place on Ridge Drive in West Monroe about 2:10 a.m. Saturday. At this time, Dixon reportedly went to his car parked nearby and returned with a .20 gauge shotgun. Mercy turned to run, witnesses said, but stumbled and fell. It was at this time, witnesses told police, Dixon fired one blast from the shotgun into Mercy's face. He was pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital.

Sheriff's department authorities said Dixon came to the courthouse and surrendered himself about 5:30 a.m. Saturday. He was placed under arrest and charged with murder.

Banquet

A father - son banquet will be held by the North Monroe Kiwanis club, June 22, at Forsythe park. It had been hoped to provide a swimming party at this time, but it chances that on Monday the Swayze pool is closed. Games will be played suited to attract the youngsters.

Arrival

Mrs. Carl Hupman, better known here as Miss Lucyle Godwin, arrived by plane from her home in La Grande, Wash., Saturday morning. She was several days ahead of schedule for she had received word that her sister who lives in Baton Rouge was ill. She went with her brother Pete Godwin, Saturday noon to her sister's home. She and her sister are widely known here.

Over

Fully 500 persons in the Order of Rainbow Girls ended three days of delightful experiences in the state convention here and left by chartered buses for New Orleans and other state cities yesterday morning.

Mrs. Leta Sexton served at the convention as supreme recorder for the order and Linda Clark as grand worthy advisor. It was one of the largest conventions to be held here this year.

Installation

The 10th annual installation of officers of North Monroe Lions club and ladies night is set for the Saddle and Spur at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday. Program chairman is Frank K. McDermott. The address will be by the Rev. E. C. McKenzie, local pastor.

Award of the Outstanding Lion of the year will be made to Lion Major Louis Mockabee.

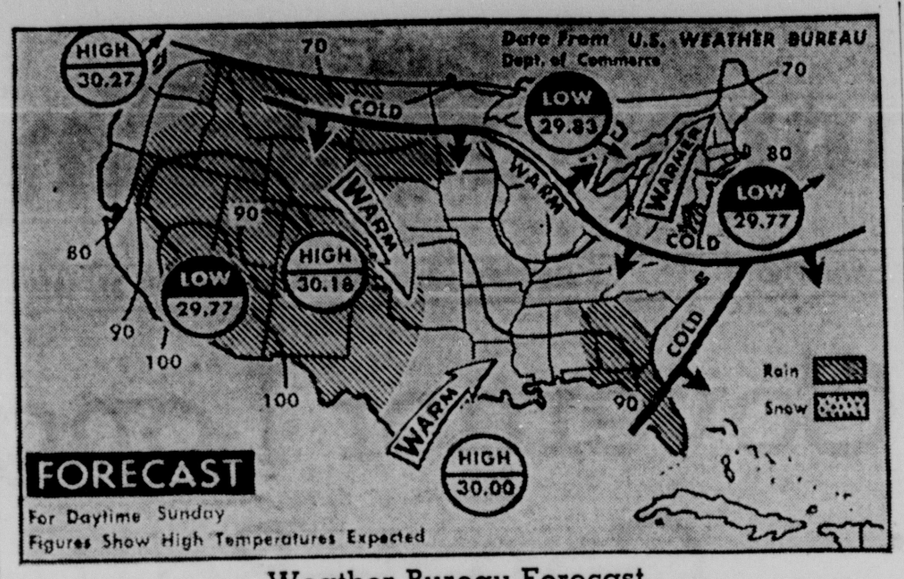
The dalai lama ruled out any direct negotiations with the Reds because he said he feared they would go back on their promises. He said mediation was possible only through a third power.



Weather Bureau Forecast

Generally fair weather will be the rule Sunday east of the Mississippi, except for some showers in Florida and Carolina. A widespread rain pattern—mostly scattered showers and isolated thunderstorms—is in prospect for western half of U.S. from Great Plains westward to Cascades and Sierra range. Temperatures over Northeast will be somewhat warmer, with little change elsewhere. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Sailor Is Slain By Jealous Rival Before Wedding

Schabilon, a blonde 21-year-old divorcee sobbed: "He never hurt anyone. Is it right, is it fair?"

When Bronler and Mrs. Schabilon came to the apartment they were followed by Sharp.

Sharp brought along a rifle and left it standing in the hallway. Sharp, police said, asked Bronler to promise him he wouldn't marry the girl. When the sailor refused, Sharp reached for his rifle and started firing, police said.

After the shooting, Mrs. Shabilon grabbed the rifle and threw it out of an open window. Sharp sat and waited for police who had been summoned by neighbors.

"My entire life revolved around her," said Sharp who had met the young woman two years ago. "Nothing else mattered." Bronler was shot in the abdomen and died instantly. Mrs. Glanz also was hit in the abdomen and was taken to the hospital in critical condition.

Mrs. Dodd took her plan to the preacher. A resolution was introduced in Congress. Then, the first World War intervened.

The first observance of truly national proportions was in 1922 on the third Sunday of June. It has continued on that day since.

a cigar, general, but you can't smoke in that oxygen tent."

The old rebel became the last veteran of the Civil War with the death of John Salling in Kingsport, Tenn., last March 16. Williams predicted years ago he would be the last survivor of the Civil War.

He particularly wanted to outlive the last Union veteran, Albert Woolson of Duluth, Minn., who died two years ago.

Williams' bedroom walls are bedecked with curios, honorary commissions, flags and certificates. They include a gold medal awarded him by Congress on Nov. 2, 1956.

Texas bestowed the honorary rank of colonel of him in 1950 but he actually never advanced above the rank of private in the Confederate Army.

He was 19 when the Civil War broke out in 1861 and joined Gen. John B. Hood's Fifth Calvary at Corinth, Miss., as a forage master. He was in action only once, with Confederates who ambushed a group of union soldiers one morning and killed about 100 of them.

Williams' last public appearance was May 16 when he rode in the downtown Houston armed forces day parade in an ambulance. He appeared to enjoy the parade, keeping time with his fingers to the band music and occasionally humming to himself one of his favorite tunes.

Once while recalling events of the Civil War, he said:

"We didn't get beat. We were starved out. Got down to nothing but parched acorns to eat. I've eaten many a parched acorn."

Williams' second wife and companion for 60 years died Nov. 2, 1957. He fathered 19 children, with 12 of them still living today. His youngest son was born when Williams was 89 years old.

Lodge Fire Fatal For Elderly Pair

sort estimated loss at more than a million dollars.

The blaze, breaking out about 5:30 a.m. near the kitchen, ate quickly through the three-story wood structure and an adjoining annex. Flames shot 75 feet into the air.

"I opened the bedroom door and the whole corridor was filled with flames," said Jack Nylen of Paullina, Iowa. "My wife jumped one story to a plastic roof on one side of the main lodge. I was going to do the same but I'm heavy and people on the ground talked me out of it. They got a ladder and I crawled down.'

Another guest, Arthur Durand, 29, St. Paul, said many of the injuries could have been averted if the guests waited for ladders and other aid instead of jumping in their fright.

Cause of the fire was not determined.

About 100 persons were in the main section of the lodge when the fire struck. Some 200 more were in the cabins surrounding it on the shore of Pelican Lake 20 miles north of here.

Within a half hour after the fire was discovered the lodge was uncontrollably ablaze from end to end.

A restort employe who discovered the fire roused other workers to help him sound the alarm. They ran through corridors, shouting "Fire" and pounding on doors.

"A fourth of the building was on fire by the time we got out of a rear exit," said Gene McHugh of St. Paul, a guest. "People were jumping all around us."

"Everybody was terribly frightened," said Mrs. William Schneider, St. Paul, who escaped with her family. "Some ran to the lake. Almost everyone was in night clothes.' '

Crisis Eases For Leader In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—The military crisis which seemed about to topple the 14-month-old administration of President Arturo Frondizi Friday night apparently had blown over Saturday.

Furthermore, the President was bolstered by the decisions of two big labor uninos which have been on strike or threatening to strike against his policies. The bank clerks union finally ordered an end to its nine-week walkout. The light and power workers union decided to postpone a decision on its threatened strike.

Top army men who decided Friday night to remain loyal to the President started a mopping-up operation against disgruntled officers who earlier had been demanding a change in personnel and policies.

Lt. Col. Francisco Tizado was placed under arrest and relieved of command of an antiaircraft defense unit at Mar del Plato. Col. Tizado was among those who had been demanding the ouster of Gen. Hector Solanas Pacheco as war secretary, until the top army commanders Friday night declared their confidence in the war secretary.

Earlier, Adm. Arturo Rial, a leader in the revolution that overthrew former dictator Juan Peron, and retired Lt. Gen. Arturo Ossorio Arana agreed to submit to detention.

Rial and Ossorio Arana were reported ringleaders of a group tl t was demanding harsher action against Peron backers alleged to remain in the government.

Looking grim and tired, Frondizi appeared in the grandstand across the street from his pink palace Saturday and presided at the main ceremony in a nationwide celebration of Flag Day. Surrounded by cabinet ministers, high officials and loyal military men he was greeted with mild applause by the small crowd.

B M I GRADUATE

Mr. Ray Bennett

Mr. Ray Bennett was graduated from Hico High School in 1957. He entered Bish Mathis Institute for the Junior Accounting Course September 15, 1958.

Mr. Bennett completed his course on April 1 and received his diploma in Junior Accounting. The average time to complete this course is eight months, but he completed it in six months. He entered our Advanced Accounting course and continued in it until he was employed by the Studebaker and Packard Dealer as Bookkeeper here in Monroe on May 15.

Mr. Bennett says: "While in school at B M I, I acquired a greater knowledge of Accounting which enabled me to accept my present position with which I am very happy. I not only acquired good training in school, but made many new friends. During the time I was at B M I, I had some happy occasions which I shall always remember." Adv.

Cities Complain On Air Service To West Coast

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Representatives from widely scattered cities complained to the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) Friday that air service to the Pacific coast is inadequate.

The group from six Southern states said the service was costly in delays, and is failing to keep pace with the expanding business, industrial and tourist interests of the South.

States represented at Friday's session were Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia and Louisiana.

Dr. Robert W. French, director of the Port of New Orleans, urged a directair route from Caracas, Venezuela, through New Orleans to San Francisco.

Two travel agents, Mrs. Gene Elliott, Tampa, and C. E. Hill, St. Petersburg, said the tourist trade to the Orient and particularly Hawaii has picked up considerably.

MARSHALL BROWN

Solon Tosses Hat In Race For Governor

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — State Rep. J. Marshall Brown of New Orleans Saturday announced his candidacy for governor in the December Democratic primary.

The 37-year-old Brown, a New Orleans insurance executive, said he would open campaign headquarters in New Orleans during the coming week.

Louisiana must have a change, he said, contending a "majority of the people in the state want young, aggressive leaders who will go to Baton Rouge with a firm dedication to the highest principles, men who will not sacrifice integrity for political expediency."

Brown noted that in recent months at least six states have elected governors in their 30's or early 40's.

One of his campaign planks, he said, will be lower taxes.

He said he believes the state could lower taxes "in many instances without reducing by a single penny any necessary services."

Brown is the third announced candidate in the governor's race. The others who have officially declared are state comptroller William Dodd and Gale Berry of Lake Charles.

New Orleans Mayor deLesseps Morrison, state Sen. W. M. Rainach and former Gov. Jimmie Davis also are expected to enter the race. Some reports indicate former state police superintendent Frank Grevemberg, an unsuccessful candidate in 1956, will also enter the race.

Ike Enjoys Golf Weekend Outing At Gettysburg

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — President Eisenhower shot his seventh round of golf in 11 days Saturday. It was an ideal day cloudless, sunny, but not too warm.

Sunday the chief executive will wind up a weekend at his country estate and return to the White House to confer with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter on the stalemated, recessed foreign ministers conference at Geneva. First, he plans to attend church and then get in another round of golf.

Eisenhower's knee, injured in his football days at West Point, annoyed him when he went around the Gettysburg Country Club golf course Friday. But he wasn't complaining about the knee Saturday — only about his wood shots and long game.

The President teamed with retired Brig. Gen. Arthur S. Nevins, a Gettysburg friend and neighbor, against George Allen and R. A. Brown. As usual the scores were not made known but apparently Eisenhower and Nevins won.

Allen is a Washington and New York businessman who, like the President, owns a farm here. Brown is a Gettysburg attorney.

Grads Receive Job Offers In Advance

RUSTON, (Special) — Seniors recently graduating from Louisiana Tech received more than 1,100 job offers from employers throughout the country during the school year beginning last September, according to Dr. Elenora Cawthon, director of the department of placement and services at the college.

These offers came in many instances through direct contact made by the students with business firms and also through services extended the degree candidates by the Tech placement office.

Representatives of industrial concerns came to Tech from as far away as Hartford, Minneapolis, Los Angeles and Orlando, Fla.

Through the placement office here, an average of 21 firms sent representatives to Tech each month about 220 graduating seniors met with these agents in the four interviewing rooms supplied by the placement department.

An average of 48 companies each month contacted the placement office regarding interviews which were scheduled at locations off the campus, usually at the firms' personnel offices.

The placement and services department is a coordinating agency through which seniors, faculty members and employers may locate jobs for which the seniors are best suited. The office assists the senior in finding out what the openings have to offer and gives the employers opportunities to learn about Tech's products.

The office serves the seniors by scheduling interviews with prospective employers and also by supplying the agents of the firms with data concerning the students' college records.

Each student who is interested in these services indicates his desire by reporting to the placement office and filling out printed forms. At this office, the student may obtain a list of interviews currently scheduled and may reserve a time for an interview.

Since many firms notify the office of interviews on short notice, it is up to the student to check a bulletin board for additions occasionally.

Students may receive directories and addresses of probably employers and also company publications at the placement office.

In operating the employment services Mrs. Cawthon is assisted by Miss Mary Lou Ledbetter, who is in charge of records, and Mrs. Elizabeth Stevens, secretary.

Besides serving as a clearing house for students and employers, the department of placement and services maintains a file of thousands of alumni addresses and provides duplicating services for campus departments.

Figures through May show that the department handled 3,424 dittо jobs toalling 135,932 copies, and 4,803 mimeograph jobs, totalling 497,807 copies, for grand totals of 8,227 jobs and 634,739 copies.

Another activity of this department is the distribution of films, with Miss Cleo Alexander serving as the librarian. During the past year, the department sent out 3,342 movies. These satistics include 23,043, bookings, 32,339 screenings and 1,275,587 viewers, Dr. Cawthon reported.

The placement and services department, located in the dramatic arts wing of Howard Auditorium, is one of the oldest of its kind in the state. It was begun in 1939 as an adjunct of the college's extension service under the direction D. G. Armstrong.

Through the placement office here, an average of 21 firms sent representatives to Tech each month about 220 graduating seniors met with these agents in the four interviewing rooms supplied by the placement department.

An average of 48 companies each month contacted the placement office regarding interviews which were scheduled at locations off the campus, usually at the firms' personnel offices.

The placement and services department is a coordinating agency through which seniors, faculty members and employers may locate jobs for which the seniors are best suited. The office assists the senior in finding out what the openings have to offer and gives the employers opportunities to learn about Tech's products.

The office serves the seniors by scheduling interviews with prospective employers and also by supplying the agents of the firms with data concerning the students' college records.

Each student who is interested in these services indicates his desire by reporting to the placement office and filling out printed forms. At this office, the student may obtain a list of interviews currently scheduled and may reserve a time for an interview.

Since many firms notify the office of interviews on short notice, it is up to the student to check a bulletin board for additions occasionally.

Students may receive directories and addresses of probably employers and also company publications at the placement office.

In operating the employment services Mrs. Cawthon is assisted by Miss Mary Lou Ledbetter, who is in charge of records, and Mrs. Elizabeth Stevens, secretary.

Besides serving as a clearing house for students and employers, the department of placement and services maintains a file of thousands of alumni addresses and provides duplicating services for campus departments.

Figures through May show that the department handled 3,424 ditto jobs toalling 135,932 copies, and 4,803 mimeograph jobs, totalling 497,807 copies, for grand totals of 8,227 jobs and 634,739 copies.

Another activity of this department is the distribution of films, with Miss Cleo Alexander serving as the librarian. During the past year, the department sent out 3,342 movies. These satistics include 23,043, bookings, 32,339 screenings and 1,275,587 viewers, Dr. Cawthon reported.

The placement and services department, located in the dramatic arts wing of Howard Auditorium, is one of the oldest of its kind in the state. It was begun in 1939 as an adjunct of the college's extension service under the direction D. G. Armstrong.

Vagie H. Rivers

The unexpected death recently of Vagie H. Rivers, president of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce and prominent Monroe businessman, was a severe blow not only to his family and friends and those who knew him but to the community as a whole. Because of his apparently boundless energy and his keen interest in civic affairs, he had filled such a large niche here that his place will be hard to fill.

Mr. Rivers was always ready to respond when called upon for any civic activity and always filled any assignment with credit to himself and to the organization or group which he represented. He possessed an unusual degree of human kindness and understanding, with the result that he was able to work with people in all walks of life with a minimum of friction. Those who served with him in various progressive projects for the good of the community found that he was always cooperative, always a good leader and always loyal. He never attempted to elevate himself at the expense of others or to dominate aggressively but moved forward in a warm spirit of cooperation which gained good will and support.

This public-spirited man was a living example of the fact that those who do the most always seem to have the most time to devote to the advancement of their community and the good of their fellow men.

Mr. Rivers' many business interests did not deter him in any way from public activities and his civic affiliations exceeded even his numerous business connections.

At the time of his death he was serving on the board of directors of the Louisiana State Board of Directors Association, on the board of directors of the Ouachita National Bank, and board of directors of the Monroe Area Industrial Development Corporation.

He was a member and former director of the Bayou DeSiard Country Club, a member of the Highland Park Country Club in West Monroe and of the Morehouse Country Club in Bastrop, was a member of St. Paul's Methodist church and a former member of the Lotus club of Monroe.

Mr. Rivers was president of Brown-Rivers-Scogin, Inc., which has the local Ford dealership, and was part owner of Steele Motors, Inc. Extremely active in business circles throughout the area, he was president of the Welori Lumber Company, which was engaged principally in oil production. He was president of a firm with real estate interests in Hot Springs, Ark.

It was on December 10, 1958, that Mr. Rivers was installed as president of the Chamber of Commerce. Since that time he had cooperated with and inspired the Chamber of Commerce leadership in many creditable activities, never pressuring anyone too much but always seeking to advance the worthy causes.

Mr. Rivers was a native of Alden Bridge, located near Shreveport. He received his early education at Benton and attended the University of Alabama. He had resided in Monroe 11 years.

Soon after completing the university, Mr. Rivers plunged into business activities and, from the beginning, he made himself more than an ordinarily useful citizen and civic leader. His interest in community affairs was always strong and, wherever he lived, he made it a practice to spend a large part of his time working for the good of the town in which he lived and for the betterment of the whole community, both in industrial development and in cultural improvements.

While it will be difficult to fill his place, the good work he has done will have a lasting effect.

Crime Deterrents

Which is more successful in preventing a first-offender from committing a second crime—imprisonment or parole? Those who think the best way to stop crime is to crack down hard on a first-offender may be surprised to learn that 50 per cent of those who are imprisoned for their first crime find the way behind bars more than once. Only 15 per cent of those placed on probation ever go to prison.

These were cited as national figures by Charles Crow, executive secretary of the Tennessee state pardons and paroles board.

It was also pointed out that the average cost of maintaining a prisoner in one of the penal institutions is $2.68 a day, while the average cost of supervising a person placed on probation runs about 21 cents daily.

The federal courts have a fairly good system of adult probation and each federal court is served by a probation officer who can make a full study of the situation surrounding the commission of each crime and who can make recommendations to the court. This makes it possible to put many first offenders on probation.

Many of the states are sadly lacking in probation and parole officers, with the result that judges often find it necessary to impose prison terms on defendants who could be rehabilitated. In most courts, some sort of pre-sentence investigation is conducted but it may be made by members of the sheriff's department, who do not have the time nor the experience possessed by a probation officer.

Inadequate pre-sentence investigation or a lack of efficient supervision of those placed on parole often results in the imprisonment of persons who could be rehabilitated outside of prison wall. For some persons committed to a penal institution, the prison itself becomes a school of crime. Rehabilitation is precluded under these circumstances.

One of the chief reasons for a lack of sufficient number of parole officers in many states is a lack of money. Legislatures are reluctant to appropriate money for this purpose. Nevertheless, in the long run, it is far cheaper to employ a sufficient number of parole officers than to care for a large numbers of prisoners, year after year, who might have been rehabilitated and returned to useful lives.

Parole calls for strict supervision of the person released. Each parolee must report to his parole officers once a month for the first year and quarterly thereafter until his sentence expires.

It has been estimated that the case load of a parole officer should run about 55 but the officers frequently handle a much larger number.

With prisons throughout the country overflowing and with constant expansions and enlargements necessary it would seem that money expended on rehabilitating an offender before he goes to prison is well spent.

Man is that smart creature who can see a billion light-years into space, yet can't see around the next corner.

The father of a 4-year-old son, a psychologist who before marriage wrote a book on "How to Rear Children," was seen the other day eating a copy of the book.

When it comes to a case of love at first sight, many a person lacks a great deal of having 20-20 vision.

GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Lauds Older Generation

Class Valedictorian Points Out Love, Understanding And Guidance Provided For Younger People

A young lady who was the class valedictorian in the Banks, Oregon, High School wrote an essay which someone sent me, as it was published in The Bradford (Pa.) Era. It is a statement which one hears so often among contemporary teen-agers:

"You (the older generation) have given us love, understanding and guidance. You have also given us the most wonderful country in the world in the most enlightened age since life came on earth. For this we humbly thank you. But you have also given us something that is hard to face: the fact that we are living under a shadow of danger. Our soft rug may be jerked out from under us at any moment. We may fall so hard that the earth can never recover from the shock. We may witness the most terrible and total destruction that the world has ever seen."

Of course, had these children a true historical sense, they would realize that it was not their parents or their grandparents who created this world of fear and confusion. It is the long history of man's upward march to truth and freedom which has brought on the temporary phase which we now witness. There cannot be an accumulation of wealth such as the United States has possessed for decades without also a tendency to debauchery. There cannot be the growth of such an imperialism as Soviet Russia projects without a resistance. Every action produces a reaction. Sooner or later, the forces of evil in the world will be shamed into retreat as has so often occurred in history.

The young lady writes:

"... The world you have given us upon your silver platter is far from a life of ease. Do you dare to think? You have given us the destiny of the world on your silver platter; and we do dare to think: we are not the 'beat generation'—we have just begun to fight. With God's help we accept the challenge."

But she does not say what she is to fight for. Perhaps it is sufficiently praiseworthy to be willing to fight. But there must be a target. Throughout history when an era of intense debauchery occurred, when puritanical standards collapsed and no social distinctions existed between "family" women and hetairai, when the moral control of the parents weakened, when public officials were almost uniformly corrupt — a reaction took place which was so strong, so overpowering as to amount to a revolution.

Such a revolution took place in Jerusalem and it produced Hillel, Gamaliel and Jesus—and in time, the early Christians. In Rome, it was just such conditions which revived Stoicism and produced such moralists as Marcus Aurelius and Plotinus. It was the corruption of the Renaissance which gave to the world the moralists, Maimonides, Thomas Aquinas, Martin Luther and John Calvin. It was the breakdown of right living in England which gave to that country the moralistic revolution of Oliver Cromwell.

In every country, among every people, the reaction to materialism and extravagance, to overt immorality and the exaltation of the improper and indecent is a puritanical revolt. That it has not happened here yet is due only to the fact that excesses and waste appear principally in our large cities and a few universities — the main body of our people are untouched by it.

However, the so-called beatnik reaction, the resentment against possessions, the uncleanliness and untidiness of person, the endless palaver about nothing, the sitting and sitting and the hopelessness of young people, the self-pity which they now exhibit—these are symptoms of a growing revolt. True, in its first phase, this revolt has hitched on to the absurd doctrine of existentialism; but there will be other, more robust phases as young people come to the fore who speak again the idiom of hope.

Youth, in this generation, has no inspiring leadership, particularly in the United States. Neither the political, the religious nor the intellectual groups have produced rallying personalities. It is an era of marking time, but already among the very young, there is anger—badly expressed, inadequately formulated anger.

A moral problem is solved by social pressure, that is, the rejection of individual social idiosyncrasies by a society which insists on general conformity to its own ways. This concept runs counter to current public opinion but the pendulum always swings and society stabilizes itself.

House pets, such as dogs and cats, need more water during winter months because furnace heat dries body moisture.

BASCOM TIMMONS

Able Statesmen

Senate Great Deliberative Body And Many Members Brilliant

What are the chances of the United States Senator, who has held no public office except that of legislative in Washington, to attain lasting fame?

The Senate has been called the greatest Deliberative Legislative body in the world and has earned that title. It has and always has had mediocre members, even some misfits, but it has always had brilliant able men.

So consistently has the Senate had outstanding men in its membership that I think it is fair to say that at almost any time in the history of the Republic you could find one United States Senator or more who would patently be as able, perhaps abler, than the President in the White House, the Chief Justice or any member of the United States Supreme Court, or any member of the Cabinet.

Yet it is likely that not a dozen, men, whose public service was limited to the Senate no matter how outstanding their records may have been, who did not go on to be a President, a Chief Justice or perhaps a Secretary of State, have found a lofty pinnacle in history.

A case could perhaps be made that only three of all the hundreds of men who have sat in the Senate achieved everlasting fame on their Senate service and would have had that place if they had occupied no other public office. Those three men, of course, were Daniel Webster, Henry Clay and John C. Calhoun.

These thoughts are evoked by the fact that June is the centennial month of the late Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, who served in the Senate for twenty years from 1913 to 1933. Walsh's public service was in the United States Senate only, although he was preparing to resign from that office to become Attorney General at the age of 74 in the cabinet of Franklin D. Roosevelt when he died in 1933.

In the Senate the other day, Senator James E. Murray of Montana arose to call the attention of his colleagues to the fact that Walsh was born in Wisconsin just one hundred years ago. Murray suggested that as Montana had only one figure in Statuary Hall in the United States Capitol that Walsh should be the second of the two to which each State is entitled.

Montana's other figure in Statuary Hall is Charles M. Russell, the cowboy artist, whose capacity to picture, for future generations, the early days of the new frontier makes the work of this genius in chaps historically important.

Senator Michael J. Mansfield of Montana also addressed the Senate and joined with his colleague in expressing the hope that his State would put a figure of Tom Walsh in Statuary Hall. Walsh richly deserves it. He would have deserved it if his claim rested alone on his fame in ferreting out the corruption in the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills oil leases.

Most people today have only a hazy idea of what Teapot Dome and Elk Hills cases were. They were the corrupt leasing of Naval Oil Reserves in Wyoming and California by Albert B. Fall, Secretary of Interior.

Senator Walsh got a scent of what was going on. He pursued sided over two of its national ment. Only a man with Tom Walsh's bull dog tenacity would have held on. This writer, who at the time was the correspondent for a Montana newspaper in which Walsh had a small stock interest and great pride, was permitted to know how Walsh held on until he proved that Fall was a traitor to his trust. Fall went to the penitentiary. And the trail of corruption which Walsh uncovered saw another Cabinet officer, Attorney General Harry M. Daughtery, saved from a prison term by the vote of only one juror out of twelve.

Not only was Walsh one of the great all time investigators in Senate history. He was a constitutional lawyer of high rank, superb debater, and a lawmaker with few peers. No man commanded higher respect.

He was a leading figure in a half dozen Democratic National conventions, wrote some of the party's national platforms, pre- it in the face of great discourage- conventions as permanent chairman, including the 103 - ballot Madison Square convention in New York in 1924 and the one which nominated Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1932.

Once at a night session in 1924 and once at a night session in 1932 the convention was churned by passions and threatened riot. Probably no man other than Tom Walsh could have prevented trouble. The slight man in a gray suit on each occasion ceased pounding with his gavel, walked to the front of the platform, surveyed the scene with his cold blue eyes, pointed his gavel like a mace, demanded order and got it. Only a man with his particular demeanor and fabulous fame could have done it.

But ask some person under 40 years old who Tom Walsh was. It is to be hoped that enough Montanans remember his service to the nation to put his stature in the Capitol Building in Washington.

There is always the pleasant thought that no one will be deterred from Senate service by the fact that it is hardly a portal to everlasting fame. It offers a pleasant and useful abode for the living.

Berlin Game Grim

West In Awkward Position In Most Exposed Free World Place

WEST BERLIN— As you move Up Front in wars, cold and hot, the strong verities begin to assert themselves. In this city, the most exposed position in the free world today, one truth is that we are the butt of a very grim game. The awkward position of the United States is a lethal version of the old parlor trick where somebody is stood on the arms of a chair and given two glasses of water to hold against the ceiling. How does he get down form the perch?

But another truth about Berlin is that we do have a chance to come away from it, if we play it right, without a humiliating and dangerous sprawl. Two important and contrasting dignitaries, each in a separate manner, represents a way out. One is Major General Barksdale Hamlett, U. S. Commander of Berlin — baldish, patient, experienced, perceptive and unquotable. The other is Willy Brandt, Mayor of West Berlin—thick-haired, brilliant, tough, amiable and articulate in several, tongues.

Ten Hamlett is both the military and diplomatic head of the American occupation. Although he talks to correspondents only off the record, one comes away from a interview with a sense of his determination and tenacity that do not require quoted words. From where Hamlett sits in his dual capacity, the outlook is that victory of a sort can be won in Berlin of we don't do anything else than refuse to budge and if we do not flinch from the possibility of going to was rather than retreat.

If there is war in Europe, it will not be a limited one with prophylactic weapons. President Eisenhower has said, and it is fully accepted as a fact, that any European war is sure to be fought with nuclear explosives. This fact and its acceptance are in our favor. The war which the Krelim least wants to fight is the all-out neclear war. This represents the best chance of making Khrushchev back down from what is thought to have been a drunken threat to oust us from Berlin. But if we are to take advantage of this, we must be willing to take the awesome risks.

To cause Khrushchev to back down— that is the best we can hope for. It may not seem much of a victory, and a measure of our predicament is that we must be grateful for crumbs. But to prevent Khrushchev from having his way about Berlin is something, and the alternative of permitting him to take all of Berlin, or even to improve his position there, would be a calamity.

Also inherent in this concept of winning a victory by denying one of the Russians in the frank admission that there is no "solution" to the Berlin problem. If Khrushchev backs down, we are still in the ungraceful and untenable position which has been such an embarrassment and danger to us since 1945. We are going to have to stay in that position throughout the lifetimes of most adult Americans. The Russians have made the city an outpost of their empire from which it is inconceivable that they will voluntarily withdraw. It is a situation which we cannot mend and which we must school ourselves to live with.

This calls for a quality which one senses in Gen. Hamlett and which is very scarce in most Americans — patience. After a long, long time the Russian empire may start to crack up at home, causing the withdrawal of the far-flung legions. Or a West European federation, headed by a rearmed Germany, may become big enough to cause the Russians to make some prudent readjustments.

This in one sort of victory in Berlin — a waiting victory. The other one is personified in the peppy and engaging leader, Willy Brandt. The dynamic Mayor has everything going his way. Despite all the threats and outside tension, West Berlin is a boom city. The Mayor speaks exuberantly of his lessening unemployment, his increasing industry, his huge street and housing projects and the funds to pay for them, the many tourists, the closer ties with the Federal Republic, the continuing flow of immigrants from the Communist cities and provinces of East Germany.

It is trite to say that the West Berlin prosperity makes a mockery of the shabby East Berlin and other Communist cities, but this material good fortune may not be as important as something else. Mayor Brandt is only one of many living proofs that Germany is producing vigorous, personable, resourceful leaders who are recognized as such in Europe and everywhere else. It is German leadership which, in the end, will have to save Europe from Communism.

Disposal Areas

Three Locations Off Louisiana Gulf Coast Are Recommended

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Three areas off the Louisiana Gulf Coast Saturday were recommended by a panel of the National Academy of Sciences and the National Research Council as suitable for disposal of low - level radio-active waste material.

Other recommended areas in the Gulf are off Galveston and Corpus Christi, Texas, and Pensacola, Fla. In all, the panel recommended 28 sites on the Atlanitc and Gulf coasts, from Boston to Corpus Christi.

Navigational areas designated off the Louisiana coast are:

28:40 N, 89:51 W; in 600 feet of water, 26 miles from Southwest Pass; 28:30 N, 89:10 W, 1800 feet, 10x10 miles square, 30 miles from South Pass; 28:25 N, 88:55 W, 3600 feet, 10x10 miles square, 36 miles from South Pass.

The panel insisted that "before the beginning of any such shallow-depth disposal operation, an on-site survey of the area must be made to determine details of local circulation and marine biology, especially bottom-feeding organisms."

No licenses have yet been granted by the Atomic Energy Commission to dump radio-active wastes in the Gulf. One license has been ordered issued by an AEC hearing examiner to a Houston, Tex. firm, but this is subject to review by the commission.

The license was ordered issued to Industrial Wastes Disposal Corp. of Houston to dump low-level wastes about 180 miles off Galveston in 6000 feet of water.

The decision resulted in opposition from all Texas' congressmen representing coastal districts. It evoked from Sen. Clinton Anderson, D-N.M., chairman of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, a tentative pledge that the license grant would be investigated by his committee. The Foreign Office of the government of Mexico has also voiced opposition to any atomic waste disposal in the Gulf.

The panel said the wastes it had in mind were "in the main composed of the trash of industrial and academic research laboratories, hospitals, and institutions that have been licensed by the AEC to use small quantities of radio-active materials for scientific research or the diagnosis and treatment of illness."

The panel's survey was in response to request from three government groups: the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, the AEC, and the Office of Naval Research.

"Where uncertainties exist because of inadequate knowledge (of the ocean) a conservative position has been taken," the report said. "That is, calculations underlying the recommendations may err on the side of safety."

The panel was composed of some of the nation's most eminent marine and nuclear scientists. Chairman was Dayton E. Carritt, associate professor of oceanography, Johns Hopkins University; Robert O. Reid, Texas A & M; Walter A. Chipman, U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service; John H. Harley, AEC; Bruce C. Heezen, Columbia University; James H. Carpenter, Johns Hopkins U.; and Bostwick H. Ketchum, Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution. The panel was assembled by Dr. Roger Revelle, director of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography, and chairman of the academy's Committee on the Effects of Atomic Radiation an Oceanography and Fisheries.

Some of the safety factors considered by the panel before it made its recommendations were: effects of local sea circulation, effective containment of the wastes in concrete mixtures encased in steel drums, the "uptake" by fish and bottom-dwelling organisms, and recreational and other uses of local marine resources.

The panel also noted that in order to insure an adequate safety factor in regard to human health it had gone so far as to assume that coastal populations subsisted entirely on a sea-food diet as a source of protein.

The panel further recommended that disposal areas should be "periodically monitored" during use for changes in background radiation throughout the region, including studies of the bottom sediments and living organisms.

"The present practice of using 55-gallon steel drums as disposa canisters containing the waste mixed with concrete is estimated to produce containment of ap proximately 10 years, th panel's report said.

"The waste container shoul be of such construction that n part of it or its contents wi float to the surface should th container be broken," the repor added.

The panel said it emphasize the term "low-level wastes. These are broadly classified a wastes containing up to th equivalent of "millicurie" qua tities of activity per gallon.

These were cited as national figures by Charles Crow, executive secretary of the Tennessee state pardons and paroles board.

It was also pointed out that the average cost of maintaining a prisoner in one of the penal institutions is $2.68 a day, while the average cost of supervising a person placed on probation runs about 21 cents daily.

The federal courts have a fairly good system of adult probation and each federal court is served by a probation officer who can make a full study of the situation surrounding the commission of each crime and who can make recommendations to the court. This makes it possible to put many first offenders on probation.

Many of the states are sadly lacking in probation and parole officers, with the result that judges often find it necessary to impose prison terms on defendants who could be rehabilitated. In most courts, some sort of presentence investigation is conducted but it may be made by members of the sheriff's department, who do not have the time nor the experience possessed by a probation officer.

Inadequate pre-sentence investigation or a lack of efficient supervision of those placed on parole often results in the imprisonment of persons who could be rehabilitated outside of prison wall. For some persons committed to a penal institution, the prison itself becomes a school of crime. Rehabilitation is precluded under these circumstances.

One of the chief reasons for a lack of sufficient number of parole officers in many states is a lack of money. Legislatures are reluctant to appropriate money for this purpose. Nevertheless, in the long run, it is far cheaper to employ a sufficient number of parole officers than to care for a large numbers of prisoners, year after year, who might have been rehabilitated and returned to useful lives.

Parole calls for strict supervision of the person released. Each parolee must report to his parole officers once a month for the first year and quarterly thereafter until his sentence expires.

It has been estimated that the case load of a parole officer should run about 55 but the officers frequently handle a much larger number.

With prisons throughout the country overflowing and with constant expansions and enlargements necessary it would seem that money expended on rehabilitating an offender before he goes to prison is well spent.

Man is that smart creature who can see a billion light-years into space, yet can't see around the next corner.

The father of a 4-year-old son, a psychologist who before marriage wrote a book on "How to Rear Children," was seen the other day eating a copy of the book.

Lauds Older Generation

Class Valedictorian Points Out Love, Understanding And Guidance Provided For Younger People

A young lady who was the class valedictorian in the Banks, Oregon, High School wrote an essay which someone sent me, as it was published in The Bradford (Pa.) Era. It is a statement which one hears so often among contemporary teen-agers:

"You (the older generation) have given us love, understanding and guidance. You have also given us the most wonderful country in the world in the most enlightened age since life came on earth. For this we humbly thank you. But you have also given us something that is hard to face: the fact that we are living under a shadow of danger. Our soft rug may be jerked out from under us at any moment. We may fall so hard that the earth can never recover from the shock. We may witness the most terrible and total destruction that the world has ever seen."

Of course, had these children a true historical sense, they would realize that it was not their parents or their grandparents who created this world of fear and confusion. It is the long history of man's upward march to truth and freedom which has brought on the temporary phase which we now witness. There cannot be an accumulation of wealth such as the United States has possessed for decades without also a tendency to debauchery. There cannot be the growth of such an imperialism as Soviet Russia projects without a resistance. Every action produces a reaction. Sooner or later, the forces of evil in the world will be shamed into retreat as has so often occurred in history.

The young lady writes:

"... The world you have given us upon your silver platter is far from a life of ease. Do you dare to think? You have given us the destiny of the world on your silver platter; and we do dare to think: we are not the 'beat generation'—we have just begun to fight. With God's help we accept the challenge."

But she does not say what she is to fight for. Perhaps it is sufficiently praiseworthy to be willing to fight. But there must be a target. Throughout history when an era of intense debauchery occurred, when puritanical standards collapsed and no social distinctions existed between "family" women and hetairai, when the moral control of the parents weakened, when public officials were almost uniformly corrupt — a reaction took place which was so strong, so overpowering as to amount to a revolution.

Such a revolution took place in Jerusalem and it produced Hillel, Gamaliel and Jesus—and in time, the early Christians. In Rome, it was just such conditions which revived Stoicism and produced such moralists as Marcus Aurelius and Plotinus. It was the corruption of the Renaissance which gave to the world the moralists, Maimonides, Thomas Aquinas, Martin Luther and John Calvin. It was the breakdown of right living in England which gave to that country the moralistic revolution of Oliver Cromwell.

In every country, among every people, the reaction to materialism and extravagance, to overt immorality and the exaltation of the improper and indecent is a puritanical revolt. That it has not happened here yet is due only to the fact that excesses and waste appear principally in our large cities and a few universities — the main body of our people are untouched by it.

However, the so-called beatnik reaction, the resentment against possessions, the uncleanliness and untidiness of person, the endless palaver about nothing, the sitting and sitting and the hopelessness of young people, the self-pity which they now exhibit—these are symptoms of a growing revolt. True, in its first phase, this revolt has hitched on to the absurd doctrine of existentialism; but there will be other, more robust phases as young people come to the fore who speak again the idiom of hope.

Youth, in this generation, has no inspiring leadership, particularly in the United States. Neither the political, the religious nor the intellectual groups have produced rallying personalities. It is an era of marking time, but already among the very young, there is anger—badly expressed, inadequately formulated anger.

A moral problem is solved by social pressure, that is, the rejection of individual social idiosyncrasies by a society which insists on general conformity to its own ways. This concept runs counter to current public opinion but the pendulum always swings and society stabilizes itself.

BASCOM TIMMONS

Able Statesmen

Senate Great Deliberative Body And Many Members Brilliant

What are the chances of the United States Senator, who has held no public office except that of legislative in Washington, to attain lasting fame?

The Senate has been called the greatest Deliberative Legislative body in the world and has earned that title. It has and always has had mediocre members, even some misfits, but it has always had brilliant able men.

So consistently has the Senate had outstanding men in its membership that I think it is fair to say that at almost any time in the history of the Republic you could find one United States Senator or more who would patently be as able, perhaps abler, than the President in the White House, the Chief Justice or any member of the United States Supreme Court, or any member of the Cabinet.

Yet it is likely that not a dozen, men, whose public service was limited to the Senate no matter how outstanding their records may have been, who did not go on to be a President, a Chief Justice or perhaps a Secretary of State, have found a lofty pinnacle in history.

A case could perhaps be made that only three of all the hundreds of men who have sat in the Senate achieved everlasting fame on their Senate service and would have had that place if they had occupied no other public office. Those three men, of course, were Daniel Webster, Henry Clay and John C. Calhoun.

These thoughts are evoked by the fact that June is the centennial month of the late Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, who served in the Senate for twenty years from 1913 to 1933. Walsh's public service was in the United States Senate only, although he was preparing to resign from that office to become Attorney General at the age of 74 in the cabinet of Franklin D. Roosevelt when he died in 1933.

In the Senate the other day, Senator James E. Murray of Montana arose to call the attention of his colleagures to the fact that Walsh was born in Wisconsin just one hundred years ago. Murray suggested that as Montana had only one figure in Statuary Hall in the United States Capitol that Walsh should be the second of the two to which each State is entitled.

Montana's other figure in Statuary Hall is Charles M. Russell, the cowboy artist, whose capacity to picture, for future generations, the early days of the new frontier makes the work of this genius in chaps historically important.

Senator Michael J. Mansfield of Montana also addressed the Senate and joined with his colleague in expressing the hope that his State would put a figure of Tom Walsh in Statuary Hall. Walsh richly deserves it. He would have deserved it if his claim rested alone on his fame in ferreting out the corruption in the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills oil leases.

Most people today have only a hazy idea of what Teapot Dome and Elk Hills cases were. They were the corrupt leasing of Naval Oil Reserves in Wyoming and California by Albert B. Fall, Secretary of Interior.

Senator Walsh got a scent of what was going on. He pursued sided over two of its national ment. Only a man with Tom Walsh's bull dog tenacity would have held on. This writer, who at the time was the correspondent for a Montana newspaper in which Walsh had a small stock interest and great pride, was permitted to know how Walsh held on until he proved that Fall was a traitor to his trust. Fall went to the penitentiary. And the trail of corruption which Walsh uncovered saw another Cabinet officer, Attorney General Harry M. Daughtery, saved from a prison term by the vote of only one juror out of twelve.

Not only was Walsh one of the great all time investigators in Senate history. He was a constitutional lawyer of high rank, superb debater, and a lawmaker with few peers. No man commanded higher respect.

He was a leading figure in a half dozen Democratic National conventions, wrote some of the party's national platforms, presided in the face of great discourage- conventions as permanent chairman, including the 103 - ballot Madison Square convention in New York in 1924 and the one which nominated Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1932.

Once at a night session in 1924 and once at a night session in 1932 the convention was churned by passions and threatened riot. Probably no man other than Tom Walsh could have prevented trouble. The slight man in a gray suit on each occasion ceased pounding with his gavel, walked to the front of the platform, surveyed the scene with his cold blue eyes, pointed his gavel like a mace, demanded order and got it. Only a man with his particular demeanor and fabulous fame could have done it.

But ask some person under 40 years old who Tom Walsh was. It is to be hoped that enough Montanans remember his service to the nation to put his stature in the Capitol Building in Washington.

There is always the pleasant thought that no one will be deterred from Senate service by the fact that it is hardly a portal to everlasting fame. It offers a pleasant and useful abode for the living.

Berlin Game Grim

West In Awkward Position In Most Exposed Free World Place

WEST BERLIN— As you move Up Front in wars, cold and hot, the strong verities begin to assert themselves. In this city, the most exposed position in the free world today, one truth is that we are the butt of a very grim game. The awkward position of the United States is a lethal version of the old parlor trick where somebody is stood on the arms of a chair and given two glasses of water to hold against the ceiling. How does he get down form the perch?

But another truth about Berlin is that we do have a chance to come away from it, if we play it right, without a humiliating and dangerous sprawl. Two important and contrasting dignitaries, each in a separate manner, represents a way out. One is Major General Barksdale Hamlett, U. S. Commander of Berlin — baldish, patient, experienced, perceptive and unquotable. The other is Willy Brandt, Mayor of West Berlin— thick-haired, brilliant, tough, amiable and articulate in several, tongues.

Ten Hamlett is both the military and diplomatic head of the American occupation. Although he talks to correspondents only off the record, one comes away from a interview with a sense of his determination and tenacity that do not require quoted words. From where Hamlett sits in his dual capacity, the outlook is that victory of a sort can be won in Berlin of we don't do anything else than refuse to budge and if we do not flinch from the possibility of going to was rather than retreat.

If there is war in Europe, it will not be a limited one with prophylactic weapons. President Eisenhower has said, and it is fully accepted as a fact, that any European war is sure to be fought with nuclear explosives. This fact and its acceptance are in our favor. The war which the Krelim least wants to fight is the all-out neclear war. This represents the best chance of making Khrushchev back down from what is thought to have been a drunken threat to oust us from Berlin. But if we are to take advantage of this, we must be willing to take the awesome risks.

To cause Khrushchev to back down— that is the best we can hope for. It may not seem much of a victory, and a measure of our predicament is that we must be grateful for crumbs. But to prevent Khrushchev from having his way about Berlin is something, and the alternative of permitting him to take all of Berlin, or even to improve his position there, would be a calamity.

Also inherent in this concept of winning a victory by denying one of the Russians in the frank admission that there is no "solution" to the Berlin problem. If Khrushchev backs down, we are still in the ungraceful and untenable position which has been such an embarrassment and danger to us since 1945. We are going to have to stay in that position throughout the lifetimes of most adult Americans. The Russians have made the city an outpost of their empire from which it is inconceivable that they will voluntarily withdraw. It is a situation which we cannot mend and which we must school ourselves to live with.

This calls for a quality which one senses in Gen. Hamlett and which is very scarce in most Americans — patience. After a long, long time the Russian empire may start to crack up at home, causing the withdrawal of the far-flung legions. Or a West European federation, headed by a rearmed Germany, may become big enough to cause the Russians to make some prudent readjustments.

This in one sort of victory in Berlin — a waiting victory. The other one is personified in the peppy and engaging leader, Willy Brandt. The dynamic Mayor has everything going his way. Despite all the threats and outside tension, West Berlin is a boom city. The Mayor speaks exuberantly of his lessening unemployment, his increasing industry, his huge street and housing projects and the funds to pay for them, the many tourists, the closer ties with the Federal Republic, the continuing flow of immigrants from the Communist cities and provinces of East Germany.

It is trite to say that the West Berlin prosperity makes a mockery of the shabby East Berlin and other Communist cities, but this material good fortune may not be as important as something else. Mayor Brandt is only one of many living proofs that Germany is producing vigorous, personable, resourceful leaders who are recognized as such in Europe and everywhere else. It is German leadership which, in the end, will have to save Europe from Communism.

Disposal Areas

Three Locations Off Louisiana Gulf Coast Are Recommended

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Three areas off the Louisiana Gulf Coast Saturday were recommended by a panel of the National Academy of Sciences and the National Research Council as suitable for disposal of low - level radio-active waste material.

Other recommended areas in the Gulf are off Galveston and Corpus Christi, Texas, and Pensacola, Fla. In all, the panel recommended 28 sites on the Atlanitc and Gulf coasts, from Boston to Corpus Christi.

Navigational areas designated off the Louisiana coast are:

28:40 N, 89:51 W; in 600 feet of water, 26 miles from Southwest Pass; 28:30 N, 89:10 W, 1800 feet, 10x10 miles square, 30 miles from South Pass; 28:25 N, 88:55 W, 3600 feet, 10x10 miles square, 36 miles from South Pass.

The panel insisted that "before the beginning of any such shallow-depth disposal operation, an on-site survey of the area must be made to determine details of local circulation and marine biology, especially bottom-feeding organisms."

No licenses have yet been granted by the Atomic Energy Commission to dump radio-active wastes in the Gulf. One license has been ordered issued by an AEC hearing examiner to a Houston, Tex. firm, but this is subject to review by the commission.

The license was ordered issued to Industrial Wastes Disposal Corp. of Houston to dump low-level wastes about 180 miles off Galveston in 6000 feet of water.

The decision resulted in opposition from all Texas' congressmen representing coastal districts. It evoked from Sen. Clinton Anderson, D-N.M., chairman of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, a tentative pledge that the license grant would be investigated by his committee. The Foreign Office of the government of Mexico has also voiced opposition to any atomic waste disposal in the Gulf.

The panel said the wastes it had in mind were "in the main composed of the trash of industrial and academic research laboratories, hospitals, and institutions that have been licensed by the AEC to use small quantities of radio-active materials for scientific research or the diagnosis and treatment of illness."

The panel's survey was in response to request from three government groups: the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, the AEC, and the Office of Naval Research.

"Where uncertainties exist because of inadequate knowledge (of the ocean) a conservative position has been taken," the report said. "That is, calculations underlying the recommendations may err on the side of safety."

The panel was composed of some of the nation's most eminent marine and nuclear scientists. Chairman was Dayton E. Carritt, associate professor of oceanography, Johns Hopkins University; Robert O. Reid, Texas A & M; Walter A. Chipman, U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service; John H. Harley, AEC; Bruce C. Heezen, Columbia University; James H. Carpenter, Johns Hopkins U.; and Bostwick H. Ketchum, Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution. The panel was assembled by Dr. Roger Revelle, director of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography, and chairman of the academy's Committee on the Effects of Atomic Radiation an Oceanography and Fisheries.

Some of the safety factors considered by the panel before it made its recommendations were: effects of local sea circulation, effective containment of the wastes in concrete mixtures encased in steel drums, the "uptake" by fish and bottom-dwelling organisms, and recreational and other uses of local marine resources.

The panel also noted that in order to insure an adequate safety factor in regard to human health it had gone so far as to assume that coastal populations subsisted entirely on a sea-food diet as a source of protein.

The panel further recommended that disposal areas should be "periodically monitored" during use for changes in background radiation throughout the region, including studies of the bottom sediments and living organisms.

"The present practice of using 55-gallon steel drums as disposal canisters containing the waste mixed with concrete is estimated to produce containment of approximately 10 years, the panel's report said.

"The waste container should be of such construction that no part of it or its contents will float to the surface should the container be broken," the report added.

The panel said it emphasized the term "low-level wastes." These are broadly classified as wastes containing up to the equivalent of "millicurie" quantities of activity per gallon.

Flying Doctor, 46, Covers Vast Area

FRIDAY HARBOR, Wash. (AP)—Dr. Malcolm G. Heath is the kind of doctor who, when his patients call, goes to treat them.

Sometimes this takes some doing, since Dr. Heath's possible patients are scattered over more than 100 islands in wild and watery northern Puget Sound.

Dr. Heath, now 46, is an ex-paratrooper. So far he hasn't parachuted to a bedside, but he does spend considerable time in the air.

"It's a flying job mostly," he says. "Usually 10 to 40-minute hops. Honestly I couldn't figure my mileage but I logged about 250 flights this past year. Most were to the dozen or so bigger islands."

Dr. Heath disclaims anything heroic or unusual about his San Juan Island flying practice. He and a partner are the only regular physicians in all San Juan County

"You could call me a country doctor, yes," he said. "Only my partner and I think we're quite modern and up-to-date.

"Things are modernized a lot now. We're not as isolated as we used to be. Transportation, everything else, is improved."

TEN YEARS OF PRACTICE

Dr. Heath and his wife, daughter of a Cornwall, England, physician he met overseas in World War II, came to this area in the winter of 1950.

Up to then, retired physicians occasionally saw patients on the San Juans. Vacationing or a few full - time doctors would stay a few months and make calls, usually only on their own islands. There was no hospital.

This past year and through the winter Dr. Heath and his partner, Dr. John M. Bell, were usually always able to fly to answer calls for medical help when needed, because of favorable weather. But it's not infrequent that winter gales, or blinding fog, stop flying.

Dr. Heath flies his own light plane. For night calls or tough assignments, he has flying service friends who take him in a larger plane.

He also makes trips on the Coast Guard's 83-foot patrol boat or smaller craft, or in his own outboard cruiser. Mrs. Heath on occasion pilots their small boat to land him in an isolated spot.

The practice runs the whole list of a Northwest physician's work: logging or fishing injuries, pregnancies, automobile accidents, childrens' hurts.

Dr. Heath has been summoned from Vancouver, B. C., symphony concerts and from medical meetings as far away as Los Angeles. A vacation? The word is hardly in his vocabulary.

The San Juans have a year-round population of about 3,400. Their beauties as a vacation area and such nationally-popular books as "Till Fish Us Do Part" have helped bring summer visitors in great numbers.

POPULAR CITIZEN

Dr. Heath, who was born in North Carolina, is a member of the National Flying Physicians Assn. He and Mrs. Heath have two children, Paula, 11, and Andrew, 8. The family's popularity and well-earned admiration is undoubted.

As one evidence, two modest medical centers have been built, one here at Friday Harbor, and the other at Eastsound on Orcas Island, in large part a tribute to Dr. Heath.

An acquaintance, Dr. Robert F. Kaiser of Bellingham, puts it this way:

"The people of the islands almost worship Dr. Heath. He is a most intelligent man. He would be a success in any large city, yet he chooses to live in this out-of-the-way area because he has the missionary spirit of serving others."

AUTOMOTIVE ACROBAT

FAMILY REUNION SET

Century Of History Centers At Homesite

The year: 1859 — twenty-four months before a national eruption called the War Between the States. But in the dwindling months of "peace", Charles A. Killgore and his bride, Susan Sssan Curry Kilgore, saw completion of their new home.

The beautiful colonial - style residence, located in Lisbon, Claiborne parish, was to house their family.

A century has passed, and this July 5, 260 descendants of the couple will converge at the historic site from 14 states, including Alaska, for the 100th anniversary celebration.

Hosting the event will be the present owners, Mrs. Tom M. Killgore and her children, Mrs. Jack Reed, Natchez, Miss.; Mrs. Claude Kirkpatrick, Jennings; Tholas Henry Jr., Monroe; and Thomas Maxwell Killgore, New Orleans.

FIREPLACES

The many descendents will tour the huge old home with it's eight wood-burning fireplaces, it's hand planed boards, hand cut, square nails, huge supporting beams, and 100-year-old original wall paper.

Only the grandfather clock and a marble top side board are original furnishings. Everything else was distributed among relatives and faithful slaves after the Civil War.

The present furnishings represent antiques collected by five generations of Killgore's.

Family pictures, the family Bible, the family coat of arms brought from Scotland, and the clan plaid will be on display in the hall of the Colonial Home.

The Killgore family, which dates back to pre-Revolutionary War days, and before then to Scotland, has contributed significantly to the American way of life.

FIRST

Judge R. L. Killgore, brother to the builder of the home, was the first state representative from Claiborne parish. A brother-in-law to Charles, J. Lamar Curry, was a U. S. Congressman from Georgia, U. S. ambassador to Spain, and president of Howard College in Alabama.

Among the direct descendants of Charles and Susan Killgore are farmers, merchants, engineers, college professors, a medical doctor, graduate nurses, lawyers, a former lieutenant governor of Louisiana, a former parish superintendent of education, school principals and teachers, and veterans of every American war from Civil War to the Korean.

The Killgore's were the first Louisiana family to be chosen by the Book of Knowledge as an All American Family.

U.N. Assails North Korea Fortificaton

SEOUL, Korea (UPI)—The United Nations High Command charged today that North Korean Communists have been building military fortifications in the demilitarized zone west of battle-scarred "pork chop hill" since late April.

"Fortification of the demilitarized zone is clearly a violation of the armistice agreement," U.S. Army Col. R. B. Firehock told a meeting of secretaries of the Military Armistice Commission near Panmunjon.

After the Communists denied the charge and accused the U.N. of "slander," Firehock retorted: "Your side has denied this violation without even the most cursory investigation. It is evident that you are afraid of the results of an investigation."

Firehock, secretary of the U.N. panel of the truce body, made the charge amid reports by American intelligence sources that the North Koreans were frantically building a 151 - mile "Maginot Line" across Korea, just north of the demilitarized zone. The line is intended to be capable of withstanding atomic attack.

Firehock said the Communists had employed more than 500 military personnel, at least 50 horses and large quantities of explosives on the project in their part of the neutral zone.

U.S. personnel had "seen with their own eyes" the fortifications being constructed, Firehock said.

The "Maginot Line" project, which puzzled U.S. Army officers, was described as an intricate system of trenches, underground bunkers, and subterranean installations. Communist defectors confirmed reports that tunnels were being blasted in mountains to provide underground artillery positions, hospitals and command posts.

Lt. Gen. Charles, Beauchamp, commander of the First Cavalry Division, admitted, "We are frankly puzzled by their ambitious defense installations."

"They are going to great pains and working under the most difficult conditions to build an interlocking system of underground defenses," he said. "The Communists are levelling mountain tops, pouring tons of concrete and utilizing an immense labor force to do the job."

U.S. Army engineers said the basic idea of the project seemed to be construction of an impenetrable line of fortifications capable of holding up against nuclear attack.

Let Contract For Paving In Catahoula

JONESVILLE, — A contract for the blacktopping of the Mayna to Jonesville Junction in Catahoula parish on Route 124 has been let according to State Representative W. S. Peck Jr. and Senator R. E. King.

The Louisiana Department of Highways awarded the $264,772 contract to Cunningham and McCullen of Shreveport for the 7.9 miles of work. The project begins at the Bayou Island bridge and runs north to the junction of State Route 925 north of Glade.

Plans call for grading, drainage structures, sand clay gravel base course and bituminous surface treatment 20 feet wide.

Work has already begun and one year will be required for completion with the contractor required to provide for through and local traffic at all times during construction.

This section of the road work will complete the blacktopping of the road from the Jonesville junction to Larto. The section from Mayna to Larto was begun earlier. Fred M. Hill of Monroe is the member of the State Board of Highways from the Fifth Congressional District, in which the project is located.

H. D. Champlin of Ferriday has been assigned as project engineer, under supervision of Wayne H. Huckaby, district engineer for the department at Monroe.

This project has been badly needed for some time and is met with very favorable reaction by residents of the vicinity.

Conference Set On Special Education

Parishes participating in the special education program at Northeast Louisiana State College will be represented Monday at a campus conference to plan the coming school year's offerings.

The meeting will open in the faculty lounge of the Administration Building at 10:30 a.m. and continue through noon when visitors will be guests at luncheon.

Dr. Levelle Haynes, director of Special Education at Northeast, will be in charge of the conference. Other college personnel who will assist are Ralph George, psychologist, and Dr. T. Eugene Holtzclaw, dean of education.

Specialists in this department have visited schools in the participating parishes to assist teachers in diagnosing difficulties whch have arisen in students' achievements. Northeast also provides the use of equipment for handicaps such as poor hearing and sight impairment.

The program includes a visitation schedule so that Northeast instructors work in each parish system every two weeks. Emergency cases may be handled at the college, and during the summer children often are brought to the campus for testing.

Since the middle of November of last year the department has evaluted 773 children in the schools of the six systems which are cooperating in the plan, Dr. Haynes said.

Supervisors from the following school systems will take part in Monday's conference: Mrs. Tina Clark, Ouachita Parish; Miss Marjorie Oliver, Monroe City Schools; Mrs. Blanche Calhoun, Richland; Mrs. Bertha Nelson, Franklin; K. R. Russell, Caldwell, and a representative of Morehouse.

Catahoula Board Rejects Bids On 2 New Schools

JONESVILLE (Special) — The Catahoula parish school board rejected all bids for the construction of a Negro high school building at Sicily Island.

All bids opened by the board at their meeting this week were termed too high. The board has called for new bids to be opened on July 21.

Money for the buildings to be constructed in Consolidated School District No. 2 was derived from the sale of $300,000 in school bonds authorized by a special election of the tax payers.

Flying Doctor, 46, Covers Vast Area

FRIDAY HARBOR, Wash. (AP) —Dr. Malcolm G. Heath is the kind of doctor who, when his patients call, goes to treat them.

Sometimes this takes some doing, since Dr. Heath's possible patients are scattered over more than 100 islands in wild and watery northern Puget Sound.

Dr. Heath, now 46, is an ex-paratrooper. So far he hasn't parachuted to a bedside, but he does spend considerable time in the air.

"It's a flying job mostly," he says. "Usually 10 to 40-minute hops. Honestly I couldn't figure my mileage but I logged about 250 flights this past year. Most were to the dozen or so bigger islands."

Dr. Heath disclaims anything heroic or unusual about his San Juan Island flying practice. He and a partner are the only regular physicians in all San Juan County

"You could call me a country doctor, yes," he said. "Only my partner and I think we're quite modern and up-to-date.

"Things are modernized a lot now. We're not as isolated as we used to be. Transportation, everything else, is improved."

TEN YEARS OF PRACTICE

Dr. Heath and his wife, daughter of a Cornwall, England, physician he met overseas in World War II, came to this area in the winter of 1950.

Up to then, retired physicians occasionally saw patients on the San Juans. Vacationing or a few full - time doctors would stay a few months and make calls, usually only on their own islands. There was no hospital.

This past year and through the winter Dr. Heath and his partner, Dr. John M. Bell, were usually always able to fly to answer calls for medical help when needed, because of favorable weather. But it's not infrequent that winter gales, or blinding fog, stop flying.

Dr. Heath flies his own light plane. For night calls or tough assignments, he has flying service friends who take him in a larger plane.

He also makes trips on the Coast Guard's 83-foot patrol boat or smaller craft, or in his own outboard cruiser. Mrs. Heath on occasion pilots their small boat to land him in an isolated spot.

The practice runs the whole list of a Northwest physician's work: logging or fishing injuries, pregnancies, automobile accidents, childrens' hurts.

Dr. Heath has been summoned from Vancouver, B. C., symphony concerts and from medical meetings as far away as Los Angeles. A vacation? The word is hardly in his vocabulary.

The San Juans have a year-round population of about 3,400. Their beauties as a vacation area and such nationally-popular books as "Till Fish Us Do Part" have helped bring summer visitors in great numbers.

POPULAR CITIZEN

Dr. Heath, who was born in North Carolina, is a member of the National Flying Physicians Assn. He and Mrs. Heath have two children, Paula, 11, and Andrew, 8. The family's popularity and well-earned admiration is undoubted.

As one evidence, two modest medical centers have been built, one here at Friday Harbor, and the other at Eastsound on Orcas Island, in large part a tribute to Dr. Heath.

An acquaintance, Dr. Robert F. Kaiser of Bellingham, puts it this way:

"The people of the islands almost worship Dr. Heath. He is a most intelligent man. He would be a success in any large city, yet he chooses to live in this out-of-the-way area because he has the missionary spirit of serving others."

AUTOMOTIVE ACROBAT

Nose Big Help In Beating Summer Heat

FAMILY REUNION SET

Century Of History Centers At Homesite

The year: 1859 — twenty-four months before a national eruption called the War Between the States. But in the dwindling months of "peace", Charles A. Killgore and his bride, Susan Sssa Curry Kilgore, saw completion of their new home.

The beautiful colonial - style residence, located in Lisbon, Claiborne parish, was to house their family.

A century has passed, and this July 5, 260 descendants of the coupple will converge at the historic site from 14 states, including Alaska, for the 100th anniversary celebration.

Hosting the event will be the present owners, Mrs. Tom M. Killgore and her children, Mrs. Jack Reed, Natchez, Miss.; Mrs. Claude Kirkpatrick, Jennings; Tholas Henry Jr., Monroe; and Thomas Maxwell Killgore, New Orleans.

FIREPLACES

The many descendents will tour the huge old home with it's eight wood-burning fireplaces, it's hand planed boards, hand cut, square nails, huge supporting beams, and 100-year-old original wall paper.

Only the grandfather clock and a marble top side board are original furnishings. Everything else was distributed among relatives and faithful slaves after the Civil War.

The present furnishings represent antiques collected by five generations of Killgore's.

Family pictures, the family Bible, the family coat of arms brought from Scotland, and the clan plaid will be on display in the hall of the Colonial Home.

The Killgore family, which dates back to pre-Revolutionary War days, and before then to Scotland, has contributed significantly to the American way of life.

FIRST

Judge R. L. Killgore, brother to the builder of the home, was the first state representative from Claiborne parish. A brother-in-law to Charles, J. Lamar Curry, was a U. S. Congressman from Georgia, U. S. ambassador to Spain, and president of Howard College in Alabama.

Among the direct descendants of Charles and Susan Killgore are farmers, merchants, engineers, college professors, a medical doctor, graduate nurses, lawyers, a former lieutenant governor of Louisiana, a former parish superintendent of education, school principals and teachers, and veterans of every American war from Civil War to the Korean.

The Killgore's were the first Louisiana family to be chosen by the Book of Knowledge as an All American Family.

U.N. Assails North Korea Fortificaton

SEOUL, Korea (UPI)—The United Nations High Command charged today that North Korean Communists have been building military fortifications in the demilitarized zone west of battle-scarred "pork chop hill" since late April.

"Fortification of the demilitarized zone is clearly a violation of the armistice agreement," U.S. Army Col. R. B. Firehock told a meeting of secretaries of the Military Armistice Commission near Panmunjon.

After the Communists denied the charge and accused the U.N. of "slander," Firehock retorted: "Your side has denied this violation without even the most cursory investigation. It is evident that you are afraid of the results of an investigation."

Firehock, secretary of the U.N. panel of the truce body, made the charge amid reports by American intelligence sources that the North Koreans were frantically building a 151 - mile "Maginot Line" across Korea, just north of the demilitarized zone. The line is intended to be capable of withstanding atomic attack.

Firehock said the Communists had employed more than 500 military personnel, at least 50 horses and large quantities of explosives on the project in their part of the neutral zone.

U.S. personnel had "seen with their own eyes" the fortifications being constructed, Firehock said.

The "Maginot Line" project, which puzzled U.S. Army officers, was described as an intricate system of trenches, underground bunkers, and subterranean installations. Communist defectors confirmed reports that tunnels were being blasted in mountains to provide underground artillery positions, hospitals and command posts.

Lt. Gen. Charles, Beauchamp, commander of the First Cavalry Division, admitted, "We are frankly puzzled by their ambitious defense installations."

"They are going to great pains and working under the most difficult conditions to build an interlocking system of underground defenses," he said. "The Communists are levelling mountain tops, pouring tons of concrete and utilizing an immense labor force to do the job."

U.S. Army engineers said the basic idea of the project seemed to be construction of an impenetrable line of fortifications capable of holding up against nuclear attack.

Let Contract For Paving In Catahoula

JONESVILLE, — A contract for the blacktopping of the Mayna to Jonesville Junction in Catahoula parish on Route 124 has been let according to State Representative W. S. Peck Jr. and Senator R. E. King.

The Louisiana Department of Highways awarded the $264,772 contract to Cunningham and McCullen of Shreveport for the 7.9 miles of work. The project begins at the Bayou Island bridge and runs north to the junction of State Route 925 north of Glade.

Plans call for grading, drainage structures, sand clay gravel base course and bituminous surface treatment 20 feet wide.

Work has already begun and one year will be required for completion with the contractor required to provide for through and local traffic at all times during construction.

This section of the road work will complete the blacktopping of the road from the Jonesville junction to Larto. The section from Mayna to Larto was begun earlier. Fred M. Hill of Monroe is the member of the State Board of Highways from the Fifth Congressional District, in which the project is located.

H. D. Champlin of Ferriday has been assigned as project engineer, under supervision of Wayne H. Huckaby, district engineer for the department at Monroe.

This project has been badly needed for some time and is met with very favorable reaction by residents of the vicinity.

Conference Set On Special Education

Parishes participating in the special education program at Northeast Louisiana State College will be represented Monday at a campus conference to plan the coming school year's offerings.

The meeting will open in the faculty lounge of the Administration Building at 10:30 a.m. and continue through noon when visitors will be guests at luncheon.

Dr. Levelle Haynes, director of Special Education at Northeast, will be in charge of the conference. Other college personnel who will assist are Ralph George, psychologist, and Dr. T. Eugene Holtzclaw, dean of education.

Specialists in this department have visited schools in the participating parishes to assist teachers in diagnosing diffculties whch have arisen in students' achievements. Northeast also provides the use of equipment for handicaps such as poor hearing and sight impairment.

The program includes a visitation schedule so that Northeast instructors work in each parish system every two weeks. Emergency cases may be handled at the college, and during the summer children often are brought to the campus for testing.

Since the middle of November of last year the department has evaluted 773 children in the schools of the six systems which are cooperating in the plan, Dr. Haynes said.

Supervisors from the following school systems will take part in Monday's conference: Mrs. Tina Clark, Ouachita Parish; Miss Marjorie Oliver, Monroe City Schools; Mrs. Blanche Calhoun, Richland; Mrs. Bertha Nelson, Franklin; K. R. Russell, Caldwell, and a representative of Morehouse.

Catahoula Board Rejects Bids On 2 New Schools

JONESVILLE (Special) — The Catahoula parish school board rejected all bids for the construction of a Negro high school building at Sicily Island.

All bids opened by the board at their meeting this week were termed too high. The board has called for new bids to be opened on July 21.

Money for the buildings to be constructed in Consolidated School District No. 2 was derived from the sale of $300,000 in school bonds authorized by a special election of the tax payers.

SEN. STENNIS SAYS

Master Defense Plan Misnomer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's new master plan for air defense was described by Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss) Saturday as "just a slight revision of the old systems."

"It does not come to grips with the real problems," Stennis told a reporter, adding: "The efffort to sell this as a master defense plan is a misnomer. It's not a master defense plan."

Stennis is chairman of two Senate subcommittees that must take initial action on the proposals presented by Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy and other top Pentagon officials.

The senator said first decisions probably will be made early this week by the Senate Armed Services Military Construction submittee which has been taking secret testimony the past week.

"The deeper you get into these new weapons programs the more you realize how far offense is ahead of defense," Stennis said, apparently referring to the increasing threats of ocean-spanning ballistic missiles.

Both Stennis and Sen. Francis Case (R-SD), ranking GOP member of the group that passes upon authorizations for missiles installations, said a cutback in the anti-aircraft missiles programs of both the Army and Air Force should save $1,400,000,000 over the next five or six years.

Case, in a separate interview, said that even deeper slashes in air defense spending could be made if Congress accepts the central premise of the revised programs.

This is a general acceptance of the theory that the main Soviet threat is not from manned bombers or slow missiled but from long-range missiles armed with nuclear warheads.

McElroy asked cutbacks in both the Army's Nike-Hercules, a ground-to-air missile for knocking down bombers at a range of 25 to 80 miles, and the Air Force's Bomarc, planned to do the same thing at a range of 400 to 500 miles.

He also proposed a 137-million-dollar addition to the 875 millions previously asked to push the Army's Nike-Zeus, being developed as a weapon against incoming ballistic missiles.

Case said the new air defense program fails to carry out recommendations of a secret missile evaluation study made for the Pentagon this year by a panel of nongoverment experts headed by Dr. C. C. Furnas, former assistant secretary of defense for research and development.

Furnas, chancellor of the University of Buffalo, gave closed-door testimony before the Senate group last week along with Dr. Herbert York, scientist, who now holds the new post of Pentagon director of research and engineering.

Pening before the subcommittee is an authorization bill for more than a billion dollars on military projects which must be cleared before some 40 billion dollars in two defense money bills can be completed.

TWO KILLED, 13 HURT

3 Youths Fleeing Police Crash Car

LELAND, Miss. (AP) — Three teenagers fleeing police crashed head-on into a car carrying 13 Negroes, the Highway Patrol reported Saturday. The crash killed two persons and injured 13.

Highway patrolman Clarence Jenkins said the dead were Robert Buckner, about 30, of (3621 West Roosevelt Drive) Chicago and Carrie May Curtis, two months old of Natchez, Miss.

Jenkins said a car driven by Lawrence Fisher, 16 - year - old Greenville youth, was fleeing Leland policeman Tommy Hitchcock at speeds up to 100 miles an hour when he hit the car driven by Sally Buckner, wife of the dead man.

Jenkins said Hitchcock began chasing Fisher's car when it passed through Leland at a speed estimated at 80 miles an hour. The accident occurred two miles south of Leland on U.S. Highway 61 about 10:30 Friday night.

The patrol said Saturday charges were withheld pending further investigation.

Fisher received a lacerated face and his companions suffered cuts and bruises and possible fractures. The patrol said those with Fisher were George Callicutt and Robert Panni, both 16-year-old Greenville youths.

The patrol said the injured in the car driven by Buckner's 30-year-old wife were:

Jerry Buckner, 3; Earnestine Buckner, 7; Ruby Lee Buckner, 10; Catherine Buckner, 12; Rosetta Buckner, 2 months; Betty Jean Buckner, 6; Robert Buckner Jr., 4; Peggy Denise Buckner, 1 year; Ellaine Curtis, 20, mother of the dead infant; and Roosevelt Curtis, 1 years.

Jerry Buckner, Earnestine Buckner, and Ruby Lee Buckner suffered broken bones and the others cuts and bruises.

CLAREMONT, N.H. (AP) — A 15-year-old girl who said she fired a "warning shot" that killed a 14-year-old schoolboy was declared a juvenile delinquent Saturday.

At the same time a juvenile court judge disclosed the girl's name—Hope Fadden of Meriden. She is accused of shooting Loring Spalding during an argument at a Woodland swimming hole.

Judge Albert D. Leahy said he had certified her case to Superior Court under the state's juvenile delinquency statute. The law will permit a superior court judge to treat the case either as an act of juvenile delinquency or as a felony involving a manslaughter charge.

French Seek Equal Voice In Decisions

GENEVA (AP)—A high French official said Saturday the United States could have missiles bases and atomic stockpiles on French territory if France was given a voice in the decision on use of nuclear weapons anywhere in the world.

This official, who asked not to be further identified, said France has clarified its position on decisive issues within the North Atlantic Alliance involving France, Britain and the United States.

President Charles de Gaulle made a bid last fall for full participation in Western decisions on a global scale along with President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain.

More recently reports from Paris and elsewhere, some emanating from Premier Michel Debre, have linked Allied support for France in Algeria to a solution of the NATO nuclear missiles problem. It has also been reported that France was insisting on being supplied with nuclear weapons by the United States and Britain.

The highly placed informant who discussed this critical problem said access to atomic arms and the Algerian problem are not involved in the new understanding which France would like to make with its chief allies.

The French government recognizes, he said, that Congress has forbidden the U.S. President to turn over nuclear weapons to other countries and this is a reality with which France will have to live, although France does not like it.

The heart of the present problem, according to this informant, is the French government's belief that it should have an equal voice with Britain and the United States in military and political decisions.

Particularly, he said, France wants to participate with the United States in any decision on use of nuclear weapons in war anywhere in the world. It would except a decision by the United States to use nuclear weapons in self-defense.

If this French requirement were met, he said, the United States would find no difficulty in arranging for missile bases and the stockpiling of atomic weapons on French territory.

Highway patrolman Clarence Jenkins said the dead were Robert Buckner, about 30, of (3621 West Roosevelt Drive) Chicago and Carrie May Curtis, two months old of Natchez, Miss.

Jenkins said a car driven by Lawrence Fisher, 16 - year - old Greenville youth, was fleeing Leland policeman Tommy Hitchcock at speeds up to 100 miles an hour when he hit the car driven by Sally Buckner, wife of the dead man.

Jenkins said Hitchcock began chasing Fisher's car when it passed through Leland at a speed estimated at 80 miles an hour. The accident occurred two miles south of Leland on U.S. Highway 61 about 10:30 Friday night.

The patrol said Saturday charges were withheld pending further investigation.

Fisher received a lacerated face and his companions suffered cuts and bruises and possible fractures. The patrol said those with Fisher were George Callicutt and Robert Panni, both 16-year-old Greenville youths.

The patrol said the injured in the car driven by Buckner's 30-year-old wife were:

Jerry Buckner, 3; Earnestine Buckner, 7; Ruby Lee Buckner, 10; Catherine Buckner, 12; Rosetta Buckner, 2 months; Betty Jean Buckner, 6; Robert Buckner Jr., 4; Peggy Denise Buckner, 1 year; Ellaine Curtis, 20, mother of the dead infant; and Roosevelt Curtis, 1 years.

Jerry Buckner, Earnestine Buckner, and Ruby Lee Buckner suffered broken bones and the others cuts and bruises.

Judge Declares Slayer Of Boy Is Delinquent

CLAREMONT, N.H. (AP) — A 15-year-old girl who said she fired a "warning shot" that killed a 14-year-old schoolboy was declared a juvenile delinquent Saturday.

At the same time a juvenile court judge disclosed the girl's name—Hope Fadden of Meriden. She is accused of shooting Loring Spalding during an argument at a Woodland swimming hole.

Judge Albert D. Leahy said he had certified her case to Superior Court under the state's juvenile delinquency statute. The law will permit a superior court judge to treat the case either as an act of juvenile delinquency or as a felony involving a manslaughter charge.

French Seek Equal Voice In Decisions

GENEVA (AP)—A high French official said Saturday the United States could have missiles bases and atomic stockpiles on French territory if France was given a voice in the decision on use of nuclear weapons anywhere in the world.

This official, who asked not to be further identified, said France has clarified its position on decisive issues within the North Atlantic Alliance involving France, Britain and the United States.

President Charles de Gaulle made a bid last fall for full participation in Western decisions on a global scale along with President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain.

More recently reports from Paris and elsewhere, some emanating from Premier Michel Debre, have linked Allied support for France in Algeria to a solution of the NATO nuclear missiles problem. It has also been reported that France was insisting on being supplied with nuclear weapons by the United States and Britain.

The highly placed informant who discussed this critical problem said access to atomic arms and the Algerian problem are not involved in the new understanding which France would like to make with its chief allies.

The French government recognizes, he said, that Congress has forbidden the U.S. President to turn over nuclear weapons to other countries and this is a reality with which France will have to live, although France does not like it.

The heart of the present problem, according to this informant, is the French government's belief that it should have an equal voice with Britain and the United States in military and political decisions.

Particularly, he said, France wants to participate with the United States in any decision on use of nuclear weapons in war anywhere in the world. It would except a decision by the United States to use nuclear weapons in self-defense.

If this French requirement were met, he said, the United States would find no difficulty in arranging for missile bases and the stockpiling of atomic weapons on French territory.

Liberia is the independent country which the United States established on the west coast of Africa for freed slaves. It now has a population of 2½ million.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THIS PICTURE?

This man is looking for a diamond "bargain"...but shopping for "price" alone isn't the way to find it. For if you don't know diamonds, you have no way of telling if you are getting a true value or just an inferior diamond. You'll make a wiser diamond purchase if you first choose a jeweler with a record of reliability and proven experience. Then, select the diamond of your choice for whatever sum you have to spend.

South Africa Riots Fatal To Four End

DURBAN, South Africa (AP)—Berr halls in Cato Manor and Cehsterville, nonwhite slum areas, were closed Saturday and security forces stood by to guard against rioting which has taken four lives.

S. Bourquin, director of Bantu —Negro — administration, toured the riot and fire-scarred areas and said life appeared to be returning to normal.

However, 51 African women arrested in rioting Thursday and demonstrations Friday, were held without bail in Magistrates Court. Prosecutor G. R. Wilkinson declared they should not be turned loose because the situation "is not yet completely peaceful."

One African gang tried Saturday to burn down a social center at Lamontville, a nonwhite area six miles from Cato Manor, by throwing an inflammable fluid inside. Police quickly put out the fire.

Authorities estimated $700,000 to $840,000 damage was done when 25 buildings, including churches, shops and many municipal and government offices were burned previously this week. Twenty-four persons were injured.

The trouble started from raids to close up home brew establishments. Mayor W. E. Shaw said swarms of flies from the brewing vats were causing a typhoid epidemic.

Crowds of African women then attacked municipal beer halls, claiming that the halls drew their menfolk away from home. Charles Swart, justice minister of the Union of South Africa, charged however, that the women who ran the speakeasies were annoyed at what they regarded as unfair competition. Blacks are forbidden alcoholic drinks, except the low per centage beer provided in the municipal beer halls.

South Germany Train-Bus Crash Is Fatal For 33

LAUFFEN, Germany (AP) — Thirty-three Germans, most of them refugees from behind the Iron Curtain, died Saturday night in a train-bus collision near this south German town.

Police said about 20 others were injured, several critically.

The accident, one of the worst in Germany since World War II, occurred when the crowded bus drove over a guarded level crossing, police said. The Stuttgart-Wuerzburg express train hit the side of the bus and dragged the vehicle about 300 yards.

Many people were hurled from the bus by the impact. Others were trapped and had to be freed with torches cutting through the twisted heap of metal.

Police arrested the gateman after a preliminary investigation established that the gate was only half lowered.

The trouble started from raids to close up home brew establishments. Mayor W. E. Shaw said swarms of flies from the brewing vats were causing a typhoid epidemic.

Crowds of African women then attacked municipal beer halls, claiming that the halls drew their menfolk away from home. Charles Swart, justice minister of the Union of South Africa, charged however, that the women who ran the speakeasies were annoyed at what they regarded as unfair competition. Blacks are forbidden alcoholic drinks, except the low per centage beer provided in the municipal beer halls.

South Germany Train-Bus Crash Is Fatal For 33

LAUFFEN, Germany (AP) — Thirty-three Germans, most of them refugees from behind the Iron Curtain, died Saturday night in a train-bus collision near this south German town.

Police said about 20 others were injured, several critically.

The accident, one of the worst in Germany since World War II, occurred when the crowded bus drove over a guarded level crossing, police said. The Stuttgart-Wuerzburg express train hit the side of the bus and dragged the vehicle about 300 yards.

Many people were hurled from the bus by the impact. Others were trapped and had to be freed with torches cutting through the twisted heap of metal.

Police arrested the gateman after a preliminary investigation established that the gate was only half lowered.

Long's Power In Politics Still Big State Question

By KEN DAVIS

NEW ORLEANS, La., (AP)—In a quiet hospital room across Lake Pontchartrain from New Orleans, a political bomb with a short fuse frets under treatment for delusions of persecution.

He isa rumpled bear of a man named Earl Kemp Long. He is governor of Louisiana still, even though he is an unwilling patient of Southeast Louisiana Mental Hospital at Mandeville.

His ashen face, his slow and uncertain gait reflect the health collapse that brought him successively to a Texas psychiatric clinic, to famed Ochsner Foundation Hospital in New Orleans and, now, to Mandeville, where attendants watch him around the clock.

With all this, the big question in Louisiana still remains: Have these explosive and weird events deactivated the explosive power of Gov. Long in politics?

The path Gov. Long followed to arrive at this odd point in his career has few—if any—parellels. It began weeks ago, probably about the time he decided to seek a fourth term as governor.

He announced he would skirt the Louisiana constitution, which prohibits a governor from succeeding himself, by resigning and running again.

With that announcement, Gov. Long drove himself night and day. He took up chain cigarette smoking after a three-year layoff. He began to drink heavily.

About this time, Long startled just about everyone, even Louisiana citizens accustomed to his vagaries. He disclosed voluntarily that agents of the Internal Revenue Service were investigating his income. A day or so later, he disclosed he had asked the agents to lay off until after election.

A bit later, he used a National Guard airplane to fly to Atlanta, Ga., to pick up some entertainers for a party he gave for legislators. The Air Force was asked for an investigation to find out by what authority Long used an Air Force plane for this errand.

Gov. Long grunted and said: "Why, I'm the authorizer of the authorizers."

Tired and 63, Long outdid himself during the biennial fiscal session of the Legislature—even for a life filled with political and personal strife. The bomb blew when the Legislature rebuffed Long's bill to block a voter purge by segregation leaders. Earl Long doesn't take kindly to rebuffs, has.

So, on Monday, May 25, he called a midnight news conference. Among other things during a three-hour session, the governor flayed his enemies hide and hoof in the free-wheeling profanity Louisiana had come to expect from "Ole Earl." He also called a servant from the mansion to shine a reporter's shoes.

He freely predicted his re-election in the first Democratic primary. Gov. Long said: "I'll win in a breeze."

The next day, Tuesday, May 26, Long showed up in a packed committee room hearing voter registration bills. He heckled witnesses unmercifully and profanely.

Finally, he grabbed a microphone and shouted: "About 1908 or 1906, I had an uncle killed. He got drunk one night and went down to the colored quarters in Winnfield. He knocked a nigger man out of bed and got in with his woman. The nigger man came back and shot him."

That was a sample. Curses flowed. Finally, at the urging of aides, he stepped up to apologize to school children at the hearing.

"I sent for my Bible," he said, "and I'm going to swear off cussing. Let's you and I and the good nuns keep from cussing as long as possible."

The next day, Long told legislative leaders he wanted to apologize publicly. The apology turned into a tirade, leaving two legislators in tears. The Legislature banned cameras but the governor bought radio time for a statewide broadcast.

He hoarsely yelled to one legislator, "You've got a little Dago in you." He called a parish official "a Dillinger in disguise." He accused another legislator of being "in league with the wineheads."

The speech lasted an hour and a half, punctuated frequently by sips of grape juice and something stronger.

Long supporters were sick at heart. One Friday, Mrs. Long announced her husband was retiring to the mansion for a rest. On Saturday, May 30, the Long family decided the governor had to be forced to take treatment.

A cousin, Dr. Arthur Long, drugged the governor. Mental hospital orderlies from a state hospital, a state labor leader, and a couple of state officials held the governor on a stretcher and Maj. Gen. Raymond Hufft, Louisiana adjutant general, flew the party to John Sealy Hospital in Galveston, Tex.

Mrs. Long asked commitment of her husband for his own protection and the safety of others. Probate Judge Hugh Gibson signed the 90-day order, scheduled a sanity hearing for 14 days later, Tuesday, June 16.

Long and his court-appointed attorneys started a habeas corpus action. Its hearing Monday, June 15, offered Gov. Long a chance to show Texas a quiet Long performance of interruption and heckling, often with good humor.

Dist. Judge L. D. Godard postponed both the habeas corpus decision and the sanity hearing for a week. Hurried conferences among attorneys and the family set the stage at midweek for Long's return home for rest and treatment at Ochsner Foundation Hospital, clearly a victory for the governor.

But, the governor, although he had promised to stay there at least two weeks, grew restless on Thursday of last week. He held rock-firm under three and one-half hours of persuasive talk from doctors at Ochsner. Then, he took off for Baton Rouge to resume his powers as governor.

But, the arguments had given Mrs. Long time to set up the governor's capture in East Baton Rouge, his examination in the front seat of a car from which he refused to budge and his commitment for an indefinite period at Mandeville.

Physicians there are taking care of medical and mental questions. What the politicians would like to know is: Who is going to take care of political problems?

Mother Of Four Children Chosen As Mrs. America

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Tall, slender Margaret Priebe, Des Moines, Iowa, mother of four children, Saturday night was chosen Mrs. America of 1959.

Mrs. Priebe, 36, with black hair and blue eyes, gasped when judges announced her selection as the nation's foremost homemaker after a week of competition.

She was crowned on the stage of War Memorial Auditorium by Helen Giesse of Cleveland, Ohio, Mrs. America of 1958.

Mrs. Michigan — Elizabeth Stokes of Traverse City — was named runnerup and Mrs. Wisconsin—Vernell Jones of Milwaukee—won third place in the 51-contestant field.

Other semifinalists were Ellen Purnell (Pennsylvania), Mary Ann Doswett (Hawaii), and Billie Jean Simpson (North Carolina).

As Mrs. America, the 1959 winner receives a vacation tour of South America with her husband, a two weeks Fort Lauderdale vacation during next year's Mrs. America pageant, a complete kitchen, a swimming pool, a sterling silver service for 12, an organ, a set of kitchen utensils, water softening equipment and home building products.

She also will be given a 40-horsepower outboard motor, a $1,000 savings bond, a complete wardrobe, a year's supply of meat products and various food, household and beauty items.

The new Mrs. America is married to Clarke Priebe, a Des Moines purchasing agent. They have two girls and two boys.

Mrs. Priebe stands 5 feet 8 inches and weighs 135 pounds.

The world's longest cog-railway tuunel is in Switzerland. The two mile tunnel took more than 4½ years to make.

His ashen face, his slow and uncertain gait reflect the health collapse that brought him successively to a Texas psychiatric clinic, to famed Ochsner Foundation Hospital in New Orleans and, now, to Mandeville, where attendants watch him around the clock.

With all this, the big question in Louisiana still remains: Have these explosive and weird events deactivated the explosive power of Gov. Long in politics?

The path Gov. Long followed to arrive at this odd point in his career has few—if any—parellels. It began weeks ago, probably about the time he decided to seek a fourth term as governor.

He announced he would skirt the Louisiana constitution, which prohibits a governor from succeeding himself, by resigning and running again.

With that announcement, Gov. Long drove himself night and day. He took up chain cigarette smoking after a three-year layoff. He began to drink heavily.

About this time, Long startled just about everyone, even Louisiana citizens accustomed to his vagaries. He disclosed voluntarily that agents of the Internal Revenue Service were investigating his income. A day or so later, he disclosed he had asked the agents to lay off until after election.

A bit later, he used a National Guard airplane to fly to Atlanta, Ga., to pick up some entertainers for a party he gave for legislators. The Air Force was asked for an investigation to find out by what authority Long used an Air Force plane for this errand.

Gov. Long grunted and said: "Why, I'm the authorizer of the authorizers."

Tired and 63, Long outdid himself during the biennial fiscal session of the Legislature—even for a life filled with political and personal strife. The bomb blew when the Legislature rebuffed Long's bill to block a voter purge by segregation leaders. Earl Long doesn't take kindly to rebuffs, has.

So, on Monday, May 25, he called a midnight news conference. Among other things during a three-hour session, the governor flayed his enemies hide and hoof in the free-wheeling profanity Louisiana had come to expect from "Ole Earl." He also called a servant from the mansion to shine a reporter's shoes.

He freely predicted his re-election in the first Democratic primary. Gov. Long said: "I'll win in a breeze."

The next day, Tuesday, May 26, Long showed up in a packed committee room hearing voter registration bills. He heckled witnesses unmercifully and profanely.

Finally, he grabbed a microphone and shouted: "About 1908 or 1906, I had an uncle killed. He got drunk one night and went down to the colored quarters in Winnfield. He knocked a nigger man out of bed and got in with his woman. The nigger man came back and shot him."

That was a sample. Curses flowed. Finally, at the urging of aides, he stepped up to apologize to school children at the hearing.

"I sent for my Bible," he said, "and I'm going to swear off cussing. Let's you and I and the good nuns keep from cussing as long as possible."

The next day, Long told legislative leaders he wanted to apologize publicly. The apology turned into a tirade, leaving two legislators in tears. The Legislature banned cameras but the governor bought radio time for a statewide broadcast.

He hoarsely yelled to one legislator, "You've got a little Dago in you." He called a parish official "a Dillinger in disguise." He accused another legislator of being "in league with the wineheads."

The speech lasted an hour and a half, punctuated frequently by sips of grape juice and something stronger.

Long supporters were sick at heart. One Friday, Mrs. Long announced her husband was retiring to the mansion for a rest. On Saturday, May 30, the Long family decided the governor had to be forced to take treatment.

A cousin, Dr. Arthur Long, drugged the governor. Mental hospital orderlies from a state hospital, a state labor leader, and a couple of state officials held the governor on a stretcher and Maj. Gen. Raymond Hufft, Louisiana adjutant general, flew the party to John Sealy Hospital in Galveston, Tex.

Mrs. Long asked commitment of her husband for his own protection and the safety of others. Probate Judge Hugh Gibson signed the 90-day order, scheduled a sanity hearing for 14 days later, Tuesday, June 16.

Long and his court-appointed attorneys started a habeas corpus action. Its hearing Monday, June 15, offered Gov. Long a chance to show Texas a quiet Long performance of interruption and heckling, often with good humor.

Dist. Judge L. D. Godard postponed both the habeas corpus decision and the sanity hearing for a week. Hurried conferences among attorneys and the family set the stage at midweek for Long's return home for rest and treatment at Ochsner Foundation Hospital, clearly a victory for the governor.

But, the governor, although he had promised to stay there at least two weeks, grew restless on Thursday of last week. He held rock-firm under three and one-half hours of persuasive talk from doctors at Ochsner. Then, he took off for Baton Rouge to resume his powers as governor.

But, the arguments had given Mrs. Long time to set up the governor's capture in East Baton Rouge, his examination in the front seat of a car from which he refused to budge and his commitment for an indefinite period at Mandeville.

Physicians there are taking care of medical and mental questions. What the politicians would like to know is: Who is going to take care of political problems?

Mother Of Four Children Chosen As Mrs. America

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Tall, slender Margaret Priebe, Des Moines, Iowa, mother of four children, Saturday night was chosen Mrs. America of 1959.

Mrs. Priebe, 36, with black hair and blue eyes, gasped when judges announced her selection as the nation's foremost homemaker after a week of competition.

She was crowned on the stage of War Memorial Auditorium by Helen Giesse of Cleveland, Ohio, Mrs. America of 1958.

Mrs. Michigan — Elizabeth Stokes of Traverse City — was named runnerup and Mrs. Wisconsin—Vernell Jones of Milwaukee—won third place in the 51-contestant field.

Other semifinalists were Ellen Purnell (Pennsylvania), Mary Ann Doswett (Hawaii), and Billie Jean Simpson (North Carolina).

As Mrs. America, the 1959 winner receives a vacation tour of South America with her husband, a two weeks Fort Lauderdale vacation during next year's Mrs. America pageant, a complete kitchen, a swimming pool, a sterling silver service for 12, an organ, a set of kitchen utensils, water softening equipment and home building products.

She also will be given a 40-horsepower outboard motor a $1,000 savings bond, a complete wardrobe, a year's supply of meat products and various food, household and beauty items.

The new Mrs. America is married to Clarke Priebe, a Des Moines purchasing agent. They have two girls and two boys.

Mrs. Priebe stands 5 feet 8 inches and weighs 135 pounds.

The world's longest cog-railway tuunel is in Switzerland. The two mile tunnel took more than 4½ years to make.

Annual Session To Be Conducted In New Orleans

The twenty-second annual meeting of the Louisiana College Conference will be held at Loyola University in New Orleans, announced Dr. William F. Beyer, conference president.

Tentative dates for the session are March 4-5.

General and sectional meetings of the organization will be planned to emphasize the theme, "The Effect of Expanding Enrollment on the College Curricula." Information concerning the conference was determined by the executive committee at its recent session.

Serving the conference as liaison officer at Northeast State will be Dr. James F. Monroe, assistant professor of music, who was appointed by Northeast's President George T. Walker. Each member college has been requested by Dr. Beyer to select a liaison officer for the 1959-60 school year.

The last meeting of the Louisiana College Conference was held in March at Northeast State. Officers elected at that time include President Beyer of Northwestern State College, who was holding the vice-president post; Dean John R. Timmerman of Louisiana College, vice president; Dean W. M. Lowrey, Francis T. Nicholls State College, secretary - treasurer; Dr. Mary Frances Fletcher, Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. Dean Helen Gordon, Louisiana State University, and C. J. Hyde, Southeastern Louisiana College, all directors.

Hyde was conference president during the 1958-59 year.

Civic Sorority Expansion Seen Underway Here

The two Monroe chapters of Beta Sigma Phi, international sorority, are conducting an expansion program with aid from Mrs. Ann Bagby, international representative.

Mrs. Bagby was sent here from Sorority headquarters in Kansas City, Mo.

A cultural, social and civic group, Beta Sigma Phi is the largest non-academic sorority in the world, with more than 145,000 active members in 6,000 chapters.

Mrs. G. M. Smale is president of Beta Pi, the senior chapter in the Twin Cities, while Jonnie Avery heads Phi Kappa chapter for girls 18 to 22.

The group's most recent major activity was sponsoring the April Fantasy Ball, with proceeds donated to the Monroe Cancer Drive.

Other BSP projects include Community Chest, Easter Seals, Heart Fund, rolling bandages for the local charity hospital, adopting needy families, and donations to cancer and heart research.

Founded 28 years ago, the sorority is open by invitation only, officials state.

AFTER SERIES OF WEIRD EVENTS

Long's Power In Politics Still Big State Question

By KEN DAVIS

NEW ORLEANS, La., (AP)—In a quiet hospital room across Lake Pontchartrain from New Orleans, a political bomb with a short fuse frets under treatment for delusions of persecution.

He isa rumpled bear of a man named Earl Kemp Long. He is governor of Louisiana still, even though he is an unwilling patient of Southeast Louisiana Mental Hospital at Mandeville.

His ashen face, his slow and uncertain gait reflect the health collapse that brought him successively to a Texas psychiatric clinic, to famed Ochsner Foundation Hospital in New Orleans and, now, to Mandeville, where attendants watch him around the clock.

With all this, the big question in Louisiana still remains: Have these explosive and weird events deactivated the explosive power of Gov. Long in politics?

The path Gov. Long followed to arrive at this odd point in his career has few—if any—parellels. It began weeks ago, probably about the time he decided to seek a fourth term as governor.

He announced he would skirt the Louisiana constitution, which prohibits a governor from succeeding himself, by resigning and running again.

With that announcement, Gov. Long drove himself night and day. He took up chain cigarette smoking after a three-year layoff. He began to drink heavily.

About this time, Long startled just about everyone, even Louisiana citizens accustomed to his vagaries. He disclosed voluntarily that agents of the Internal Revenue Service were investigating his income. A day or so later, he disclosed he had asked the agents to lay off until after election.

A bit later, he used a National Guard airplane to fly to Atlanta, Ga., to pick up some entertainers for a party he gave for legislators. The Air Force was asked for an investigation to find out by what authority Long used an Air Force plane for this errand.

Gov. Long grunted and said: "Why, I'm the authorizer of the authorizers."

Tired and 63, Long outdid himself during the biennial fiscal session of the Legislature—even for a life filled with political and personal strife. The bomb blew when the Legislature rebuffed Long's bill to block a voter purge by segregation leaders. Earl Long doesn't take kindly to rebuffs, has.

So, on Monday, May 25, he called a midnight news conference. Among other things during a three-hour session, the governor flayed his enemies hide and hoof in the free-wheeling profanity Louisiana had come to expect from "Ole Earl." He also called a servant from the mansion to shine a reporter's shoes.

He freely predicted his re-election in the first Democratic primary. Gov. Long said: "I'll win in a breeze."

The next day, Tuesday, May 26, Long showed up in a packed committee room hearing voter registration bills. He heckled witnesses unmercifully and profanely.

Finally, he grabbed a microphone and shouted: "About 1908 or 1906, I had an uncle killed. He got drunk one night and went down to the colored quarters in Winnfield. He knocked a nigger man out of bed and got in with his woman. The nigger man came back and shot him."

That was a sample. Curses flowed. Finally, at the urging of aides, he stepped up to apologize to school children at the hearing.

"I sent for my Bible," he said, "and I'm going to swear off cussing. Let's you and I and the good nuns keep from cussing as long as possible."

The next day, Long told legislative leaders he wanted to apologize publicly. The apology turned into a tirade, leaving two legislators in tears. The Legislature banned cameras but the governor bought radio time for a statewide broadcast.

He hoarsely yelled to one legislator, "You've got a little Dago in you." He called a parish official "a Dillinger in disguise." He accused another legislator of being "in league with the wineheads."

The speech lasted an hour and a half, punctuated frequently by sips of grape juice and something stronger.

Long supporters were sick at heart. One Friday, Mrs. Long announced her husband was retiring to the mansion for a rest. On Saturday, May 30, the Long family decided the governor had to be forced to take treatment.

A cousin, Dr. Arthur Long, drugged the governor. Mental hospital orderlies from a state hospital, a state labor leader, and a couple of state officials held the governor on a stretcher and Maj. Gen. Raymond Hufft, Louisiana adjutant general, flew the party to John Sealy Hospital in Galveston, Tex.

Mrs. Long asked commitment of her husband for his own protection and the safety of others. Probate Judge Hugh Gibson signed the 90-day order, scheduled a sanity hearing for 14 days later, Tuesday, June 16.

Long and his court-appointed attorneys started a habeas corpus action. Its hearing Monday, June 15, offered Gov. Long a chance to show Texas a quiet Long performance of interruption and heckling, often with good humor.

Dist. Judge L. D. Godard postponed both the habeas corpus decision and the sanity hearing for a week. Hurried conferences among attorneys and the family set the stage at midweek for Long's return home for rest and treatment at Ochsner Foundation Hospital, clearly a victory for the governor.

But, the governor, although he had promised to stay there at least two weeks, grew restless on Thursday of last week. He held rock-firm under three and one-half hours of persuasive talk from doctors at Ochsner. Then, he took off for Baton Rouge to resume his powers as governor.

But, the arguments had given Mrs. Long time to set up the governor's capture in East Baton Rouge, his examination in the front seat of a car from which he refused to budge and his commitment for an indefinite period at Mandeville.

Physicians there are taking care of medical and mental questions. What the politicians would like to know is: Who is going to take care of political problems?

Mother Of Four Children Chosen As Mrs. America

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Tall, slender Margaret Priebe, Des Moines, Iowa, mother of four children, Saturday night was chosen Mrs. America of 1959.

Mrs. Priebe, 36, with black hair and blue eyes, gasped when judges announced her selection as the nation's foremost homemaker after a week of competition.

She was crowned on the stage of War Memorial Auditorium by Helen Giesse of Cleveland, Ohio, Mrs. America of 1958.

Mrs. Michigan — Elizabeth Stokes of Traverse City — was named runnerup and Mrs. Wisconsin—Vernell Jones of Milwaukee—won third place in the 51-contestant field.

Other semifinalists were Ellen Purnell (Pennsylvania), Mary Ann Doswett (Hawaii), and Billie Jean Simpson (North Carolina).

As Mrs. America, the 1959 winner receives a vacation tour of South America with her husband, a two weeks Fort Lauderdale vacation during next year's Mrs. America pageant, a complete kitchen, a swimming pool, a sterling silver service for 12, an organ, a set of kitchen utensils, water softening equipment and home building products.

She also will be given a 40-horsepower outboard motor, a $1,000 savings bond, a complete wardrobe, a year's supply of meat products and various food, household and beauty items.

The new Mrs. America is married to Clarke Priebe, a Des Moines purchasing agent. They have two girls and two boys.

Mrs. Priebe stands 5 feet 8 inches and weighs 135 pounds.

The world's longest cog-railway tuunel is in Switzerland. The two mile tunnel took more than 4½ years to make.

To Be Ordained

The Rev. Paul A. Voney, at left, Harvey Marcoux and Albertus Lee De Loach III, will be ordained as Episcopal ministers in special services at Grace Episcopal Church here Wednesday. Rev. Voney will assume the post as priest in charge of the Grace Church in Lake Providence; Rev. Marcoux will remain in Monroe as curate of the Grace Church in Monroe and Rev. De Loach will be minister of St. Francis Church in Denham Springs. The Rt. Rev. Iverson B. Noland, Suffragan Bishop of the Diocese of Louisiana will officiate at the ceremonies.

State Meeting Scheduled At Local Church

Delegates from 50 Churches of God in Louisiana will attend the four-day religious convention to be held this week in the Crosley Elementary School in West Monroe, it was announced today.

The Rev. E. L. Joplin, pastor of the Church of God in West Monroe, said the state meeting would begin at 9:30 a.m. Monday and continue through the evening service Thursday.

The schedule for each day of the meeting will include a morning devotion at 9:30 a.m.: a Bible hour at 9:45 a.m.; morning worship, 11:00 a.m.; afternoon service, 2:30 p.m., and evangelistic service at 7:30 p.m.

Rev. Joplin pointed out Monroe was the state headquarters for the Churches of God in Louisiana. The convention will be patterned after the camp meetings in that schedules will include lunches and intermission periods in the four days of fellowship.

Day speaker and Bible lecturer for the convention will be Rev. R. H. Gause, Jr., registrar of Lee College. Serving as night speaker for the occasion will be Rev. C. R. Spain, mission department representative.

Missionaries Lose Ground In S. Sudan

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — Christian missionaries are losing ground in their bid to convert the three million pagans of the South Sudan to Christianity.

After the Sudan became independent in 1956, its predominantly Moslem government quickly curtailed the work of foreign missions in the pagan South. Moslem proselytizing was intensified. It appears almost certain now that the next generation will see these pagans embrace Islam. Their conversion may have a vital impact on the future religious makeup of Africa as a whole.

The South Sudan plunges like a dagger into the heart of pagan Africa. In Nigeria, on the West coast; and the Somalilands, on the east coast, there already are strong Moslem concentrations. A Moslem South Sudan would give Islam a third prong in its penetration into Africa.

Education is the big weapon used by both sides in trying to win the South Sudan. For nearly half a century, foreign missionaries had a monopoly on education. Two years ago, the newly independent Moslem government took over mission schools. Christian mission work in the South now is confined to agricultural, medical, and preaching activities. Christian mission schools still may operate in the North Sudan, which already is solidly Moslem.

The South Sudan always has been culturally distinct. The pagan people there still live in a Stone Age culture. They speak hundreds of local dialects, go naked, and generally subsist in the most primitive way imaginable. Northerners—who represent three-quarters of the population—are Moslem and Arabic-speaking.

When the British administered the Sunda—from 1899 to 1955—they tended to keep the South separate. They handed education over entirely to Christian missions and subsidised their work. A strong Roman Catholic mission and five active Protestant groups moved into the area.

But now that the government has taken over schools in the South, pagan students are being pressed to identify themselves as Moslem or Christian.

Summer Days Will Benefit All Children

RELIGION IN AMERICA
By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

Gone are the days when the beginning of summer marked the end of organized church programs for children.

Today the situation is just the reverse. Instead of lapsing into vacation doldrums after Memorial Day, churches now regard the summer months as their greatest opportunity for Christian teaching.

This summer, about three-fourths of the nation's Protestant churches will conduct vacation church schools. The total enrollment probably will exceed 8 million children.

Most vacation church schools begin in June, soon after the public schools close. The typical school operates from 9 a.m. until noon, Monday through Friday, for a two week period. But the program has proved so popular with children and parents that some churches have lengthened the term to four weeks.

APPEALS TO YOUNGSTERS

A good vacation church school is designed to appeal to young people of every age bracket from pre-kindergarten to high school. Bible study and worship are interspersed with play periods, handicrafts, and group activities. Each class has its own special project. A kindergarten group, for example, may build and furnish a model church of cardboard, while a junior high group rehearses and stages a play.

Ridge Avenue Church Slates Youth Rally

A staff of teachers and youth leaders will direct a youth rally at Ridge Avenue Baptist Church in West Monroe at the evening worship period today, according to A. T. Mitchell, pastor.

Approximately 250 persons, including children, older youth and the leaders will take part in the various programs.

Miss Irene Depkin, a leader of child evangelism in North Louisiana, will be director of the rally. She is a graduate of two child evangelism institutions and has dedicated her life to this Christian service.

A special program of songs, talks and short plays will be presented at the rally.

Area Church To Receive New Minister

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) —The Rev. John Davis Fretwell, Jr., who was assistant pastor for two years at the Claiborne Avenue Presbyterian Church in New Orleans, will be installed as pastor of the local Presbyterian Church today. The installation services were set for 7:30 p.m.

Rev. Fretwell will be the second resident minister to serve the Lake Providence church since it was founded in October, 1956.

Preceding the installation, at 7:15 p. m. there is a "ground breaking," ceremony scheduled to be held directly behind the church on the proposed site of the Manse which will be under construction in the near future. Immediately following the installation and worship services, the congregation will participate in a fellowship social hour.

The Reverend Mr. Fretwell is a graduate of LSU and also of the Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary at Austin, Texas - class of 1957. He brings with him to reside at Lake Providence, his wife and two young sons, Mark Davis and David Lee.

Hear Speaker Via Special Hookup Here

A direct telephone hookup to Gordon Avenue Church in Monroe today will enable those attending a special afternoon service to hear speakers at Brogden Hall, Wilmington, North Carolina.

In announcing the service, which will be held at 2 j. m. Rev. W. M. Allen, minister at the church, said the main speaker would be Dr. Harry Denman of the General Board of the Methodist Church in Nashville Tennessee. He said R. G. LeTourneau, manufacturer and evangelist, will also give a talk on the hookup, which has been arranged through the courtesy of Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Dr. Denman is a traveler and evangelist. He will be leaving soon for an evangelistic mission through southeast Asia.

The program at Wilmington is part of a mass meeting of Christian businessmen of the city. There will be a several hundred voice choir and a congregation of approximately 4,000 assembled at the meeting.

Rev. Allen invited the public to attended the local meeting which will feature the speakers from Wilmington by way of the special hookup. He said loud speakers would be set up in the sanctuary for the occasion and the building is air conditioned.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I was one of the "converts" who came forward in the New York Crusade meeting. My life since then has been entirely different, but I'm discouraged because I still can't get over my sharp temper and some of my old ways of doing things. Must I go on living such a defeated kind of living? M. H.

ANSWER: No, for God has made provision for a victorious kind of Christian living. It is all taught in the Bible, and for the new Christian it is most important that you become familiar with its teachings. Let me suggest something that will help you.

First, victory in the Christian life is not faultlessness. The impact of sin makes deep impressions upon all of us, and they do not disappear in a moment. You received new directions when you were born again, but now you must grow.

Second, new - born infants need food regularly and in increasing need the food of God's Word. We are told to "Desire the sincere milk of the Word that ye may grow thereby." (I Peter 2:2).

Third, we will be happy to send you Bible helps if you write for them to our Minneapolis office.

Be assured that God can give you victory over your temper. The Scripture promises, "Sin shall not have dominion over you." This means that sin shall not rule or dominate you. Claim the victory by faith.

MUNICH BUTCHER

Turns Communist Spy Overnight

BONN, Germany (AP)—A Munich butcher hankering for a bigger apartment received a surprising letter one morning.

"Send us a map of Munich and we'll pay you handsomely," the letter writer proposed.

A man of hope, the butcher dug into his pocket for the German equivalent of 50 cents, bought a map and mailed it off.

A few days later a man drove up to the butcher's shop and handed over 100 dollars in German marks.

That was how he became a Communist spy.

The story was related by Siegfried Dombrowski, 43, until recently deputy chief of espionage in Communist East Germany. An old-line Communist, Dombrowsk is known in the West as the "man of eight aliases." No one knows his real name.

Dombrowski said the Communists have used methods such as that employed on the Munich butcher to recruit 12,000 agents in Western Europe.

The gambit used was a simple one. The middleman who paid him off got a receipt for the 100 dollars. Not long afterwards, the butcher was informed this receipt was proof of his work as a Communist spy.

There were other chores for him to do, the middleman said, such as passing along what he was told by the friendly American Air Force sergeant who patronized his shop.

If he refused, the mmiddleman said, word would get around to the courts.

Dombrowski told this story in an interview in a nearby West German city that may not be named. He was brought there from his hideout in the south to identify suspects.

The slightly built Dombrowski, a tough, wiry fellow with large horned-rim glasses, is regarded as one of the biggest prizes captured by the West in the never-ending espionage maneuvering in Germany.

Reports from Dombrowski have led to the breaking of a spy ring in the West German navy. American and German counter-intelligence people who have talked with him say they are working on other cases.

The ex-spy, once a lieutenant colonel in the East German army, said he was convinced his flight would make it necessary for the Communists to reorganize their East Berlin spy network.

He said East Berlin is "one of the world's greatest spy centers."

Dombrowski said there are about 48,000 persons operating inside East Germany as agents. These spies work within the border police and inside factories and apartment blocks to keep an eye out for possible resistance to the Communist regime.

Dombrowski said he is ready to give up espionage, hoping to take up again his prewar trade of a mechanic under yet another name in the United States.

Before his defection last January, Dombrowski was deputor of the "Administration for Co-ordination" in East Berlin.

"The whole show," he said, "is run by the Russians. They know the identity of every agent operating in Western Europe."

The chief weapons in the Communist hands when it comes to recruiting agents are pressure and blackmail, Dombrowski said.

The Soviets, he went on, keep a checklist of relatives of East Germans who have fled across the border into West Germany. Sometimes the fugitives themselves are recruited after they are told their relatives will suffer.

Sometimes friends or relatives of the persons remaining in East Germany get invitations to visit and are promptly pressured into becoming spies.

Sometimes jail sentences imposed on East German lawbreakers are forgotten when they take up espionage. Law violators in West Germany are invited to visit the East and are drafted as spies. Agents are recruited as well at the big Leipzig Fair in East Germany.

The agents, Dombrowski said, are put to work under the three separate departments of the "Administration for Co-ordination."

Those in Department A are detailed to provide information on the military forces of the Western powers in West Germany as well as on the West German army, the border police and civil defense agencies.

Those in Department C examine NATO forces in France, Britain, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Denmark, Norway and Italy, and U.S. Air Force bases in Spain. Information is generally relayed by couriers operating through neutral Switzerland and Austria.

Those in Department T seek to filter information of a technical and scientific nature.

These departments, Dombrowski said, operate under the general supervision of four so-called "advisers" supplied by the Red army. All four, he added, are colonels and operate under assumed names.

Held In Hammer Death

VICTIM'S MOTHER CRITICAL

Suspect Admits Slaying Woman

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—A muscular 29-year-old rubber worker admitted Saturday that he used a claw hammer and an exercise dumbbell to beat Nina Reese to death Friday night.

The victim's 73-year-old mother, Ann Myrtle Allbritten, also was struck as Floyd Hyde chased the two women through a West Side neighborhood, police said. Mrs. Allbritten suffered a fractured skull and was in critical condition at Akron General Hospital.

Detectives said Hyde, who is held without charge, apparently became enraged when Mrs. Reese, 32, refused to permit him in the house.

Hyde lived there and did odd jobs around the place, detectives said. He also is employed at an Akron rubber plant.

Officers said they were informed Mrs. Reese had been threatened by Hyde earlier in the evening and she had called her brother, Tom Albritten, to her home, saying that she expected trouble. Albritten said he and the women were drinking coffee in the kitchen when Hyde showed up at about midnight.

Upstairs, Mrs. Reese's two sons, Gregory, 8, and Jeffery, 7, were sleeping. They did not awaken during the attack. Their father is Carl Reese, a Cleveland disc jockey. He and Mrs. Reese were divorced three years ago.

Police said after Hyde was denied entrance to the house he forced his way in and seized a hammer.

They gave this account of what followed: Hyde started striking Mrs. Reese and her mother with the hammer, but Albritten took the hammer away from him in a brief scuffle as the women fled.

Hyde followed the women outside, apparently picking up the dumbbell on the way, but Albritten did not go after him. Albritten explained later that he thought Hyde had been quieted down after the hammer was taken from him.

The women were attacked again in the back yard. The mother crawled back into the house and collapsed.

Mrs. Reese, who was hit several times on the head with the hammer and dumbbell, died on a neighbor's porch.

Hyde, blood-spattered and incoherent, was picked up by police a short distance away.

Heiress Is Whisked Off On Eve Of Her Marriage

MASON CITY, Iowa (AP)— A young Minneapolis society girl, whisked away by a former suitor on the eve of her marriage to another man, says she went along with him for fear of her life.

That was the story pretty Jean Broward Shevlin, 21, an heiress, debutante of two continents and Vassar graduate, told Mason City police Friday.

Miss Shevlin said she fled Langdon P. Marvin Jr., 40, a Washington, D.C., legislative consultant, at Park Hospital here where blood tests needed for marriage licenses can be obtained.

In a signed statement, police said Saturday, Miss Shevlin told of going to Marvin's Minneapolis hotel room to tell him she intended to go through with her marriage to Lt. Col. James Watson Gerard, 45, of Paris, France, Saturday night.

The wedding was scheduled for 8 p.m. at Westminster Presbyterian church in Minneapolis.

"After arriving at his hotel room," she said, "we had a couple of cocktails and much conversation. I fell asleep and awoke at 4:30 a.m."

She said Marvin, who recently figured in the news for occupying rent-free office space in the Library of Congress for 11½ years, offered to take her home.

"When I observed he was not taking me home, I pleaded and begged and cried, but he didn't pay any attention.

"On the way to Mason City I attempted to stop the car by punching buttons that said neutral and reverse and stepped on the brake. I attempted to get the keys which I did once but he took them back from me," her statement continued.

"I struck him with my hands but all this was to no avail. He definitely knew he was bringing me to Mason City against my will."

Upon their arrival here, she said, Marvin allowed her to make a telephone call to a Dr. Ching, a marriage counselor in Minneapolis.

"I was unable to reach Dr. Ching and tried to put a phone call through to my fiance who is on leave at Crystal Bay, Minn. Mr. Marvin immediately put the receiver down and I was unable to make the call," she said.

"A short time later he allowed me to attempt to make another call to Dr. Ching. I was unable to reach him but I did make a successful call to my fiance.

"Then Mr. Marvin took me to Park Hospital for a blood test, which I had. He insisted we go to Northwood (Iowa, 20 miles north of here) to get married by a justice of the peace.

"At this time I told him again I did not wish to marry him but I went along with his whims temporarily, fearing for my own personal safety."

While in Park Hospital, she said, she told a doctor of her plight and he helped her escape through a back door of the building. At the same time she was on her way to the police station, police said they were acting on a tip from William Tenney of Crystal Bay, a friend of the groom, to pick up Marvin because he had made off with Miss Shevlin.

After being detained for several hours, police released Marvin when no charge was brought by Miss Shevlin.

The car Marvin had rented in Minneapolis was reclaimed here by the agency and he took a taxi cab back to Minnesota. On the way through Owatonna, Minn., he was arrested by police and charged with having an open bottle of liquor in the cab. He posted $30 bond Saturday and was released.

Miss Shevlin, who was graduated this year from Vassar College, said she dated Marvin several times since last October but changed her affections to Gerard whom she met while making her debut at colorful ceremonies at Versailles, France, last July.

"A' no time while dating Mr. Marvin did I mention marrying him," she said.

Marvin, whose father was a one-time law partner of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, was not immediately available for comment.

Miss Shevlin is the daughter of the late Edwin Leonard Shevlin, a lumber baron, and the granddaughter of the late Gov. Napoleon Bonaparte Broward of Florida.

Gerard, great-grandson of Benjamin Angel, former U.S. minister to Norway and Sweden, has been stationed with the Seine area command of the U.S. Army. He was educated at Groton, Salisbury School and the University of Grenoble, France.

Boy, 11, Charged In Stabbing Of Dad With Arrow

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — An 11-year-old boy was charged Saturday with fatally stabbing his father with an arrow.

Louis Charles Becker, 42-year-old steelworker, hit his wife, Odell, 38, with his fist, police said, after she refused to turn out a hall light. Their son, Louis Charles Jr., an only child, watched.

Suddenly, the father grabbed at his stomach and staggered down to the basement. Mrs. Becker went down and found her husband, pierced by a two-foot, metal-tipped arrow, lying on a couch. He died at 7:35 a.m. after an emergency operation.

The son, a slightly built, blue-eyed youth, was charged with "assaulting and stabbing" and "thereby causing the death" of his father.

Police said the arrow came from a toy set owned by the boy.

To Be Ordained

The Rev. Paul A. Voney, at left, Harvey Marcoux and Albertus Lee De Loach III, will be ordained as Episcopal ministers in special services at Grace Episcopal Church here Wednesday. Rev. Voney will assume the post as priest in charge of the Grace Church in Lake Providence; Rev. Marcoux will remain in Monroe as curate of the Grace Church in Monroe and Rev. De Loach will be minister of St. Francis Church in Denham Springs. The Rt. Rev. Iverson B. Noland, Suffragan Bishop of the Diocese of Louisiana will officiate at the ceremonies.

State Meeting Scheduled At Local Church

Delegates from 50 Churches of God in Louisiana will attend the four-day religious convention to be held this week in the Crosley Elementary School in West Monroe, it was announced today.

The Rev. E. L. Joplin, pastor of the Church of God in West Monroe, said the state meeting would begin at 9:30 a.m. Monday and continue through the evening service Thursday.

The schedule for each day of the meeting will include a morning devotion at 9:30 a.m.; a Bible hour at 9:45 a.m.; morning worship, 11:00 a.m.; afternoon service, 2:30 p.m., and evangelistic service at 7:30 p.m.

Rev. Joplin pointed out Monroe was the state headquarters for the Churches of God in Louisiana. The convention will be patterned after the camp meetings in that schedules will include lunches and intermission periods in the four days of fellowship.

Day speaker and Bible lecturer for the convention will be Rev. R. H. Gause, Jr., registrar of Lee College. Serving as night speaker for the occasion will be Rev. C. R. Spain, mission department representative.

Missionaries Lose Ground In S. Sudan

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — Christian missionaries are losing ground in their bid to convert the three million pagans of the South Sudan to Christianity.

After the Sudan became independent in 1956, its predominantly Moslem government quickly curtailed the work of foreign missions in the pagan South. Moslem proselytizing was intensified. It appears almost certain now that the next generation will see these pagans embrace Islam. Their conversion may have a vital impact on the future religious makeup of Africa as a whole.

The South Sudan plunges like a dagger into the heart of pagan Africa. In Nigeria, on the West coast; and the Somalilands, on the east coast, there already are strong Moslem concentrations. A Moslem South Sudan would give Islam a third prong in its penetration into Africa.

Education is the big weapon used by both sides in trying to win the South Sudan. For nearly half a century, foreign missionaries had a monopoly on education. Two years ago, the newly independent Moslem government took over mission schools. Christian mission work in the South now is confined to agricultural, medical, and preaching activities. Christian mission schools still may operate in the North Sudan, which already is solidly Moslem.

The South Sudan always has been culturally distinct. The pagan people there still live in a Stone Age culture. They speak hundreds of local dialects, go naked, and generally subsist in the most primitive way imaginable. Northerners—who represent three-quarters of the population—are Moslem and Arabic-speaking.

When the British administered the Sunda—from 1899 to 1955—they tended to keep the South separate. They handed education over entirely to Christian missions and subsidised their work. A strong Roman Catholic mission and five active Protestant groups moved into the area.

But now that the government has taken over schools in the South, pagan students are being pressed to identify themselves as Moslem or Christian.

Summer Days Will Benefit All Children

RELIGION IN AMERICA
By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

Gone are the days when the beginning of summer marked the end of organized church programs for children.

Today the situation is just the reverse. Instead of lapsing into vacation doldrums after Memorial Day, churches now regard the summer months as their greatest opportunity for Christian teaching.

This summer, about three-fourths of the nation's Protestant churches will conduct vacation church schools. The total enrollment probably will exceed 8 million children.

Most vacation church schools begin in June, soon after the public schools close. The typical school operates from 9 a.m. until noon, Monday through Friday, for a two week period. But the program has proved so popular with children and parents that some churches have lengthened the term to four weeks.

APPEALS TO YOUNGSTERS

A good vacation church school is designed to appeal to young people of every age bracket from pre-kindergarten to high school. Bible study and worship are interspersed with play periods, handicrafts, and group activities. Each class has its own special project. A kindergarten group, for example, may build and furnish a model church of cardboard, while a junior high group rehearses and stages a play.

Ridge Avenue Church Slates Youth Rally

A staff of teachers and youth leaders will direct a youth rally at Ridge Avenue Baptist Church in West Monroe at the evening worship period today, according to A. T. Mitchell, pastor.

Approximately 250 persons, including children, older youth and the leaders will take part in the various programs.

Miss Irene Depkin, a leader of child evangelism in North Louisiana, will be director of the rally. She is a graduate of two child evangelism institutions and has dedicated her life to this Christian service.

A special program of songs, talks and short plays will be presented at the rally.

Area Church To Receive New Minister

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) —The Rev. John Davis Fretwell, Jr., who was assistant pastor for two years at the Claiborne Avenue Presbyterian Church in New Orleans, will be installed as pastor of the local Presbyterian Church today. The installation services were set for 7:30 p.m.

Rev. Fretwell will be the second resident minister to serve the Lake Providence church since it was founded in October, 1956.

Preceding the installation, at 7:15 p. m. there is a "ground breaking," ceremony scheduled to be held directly behind the church on the proposed site of the Manse which will be under construction in the near future. Immediately following the installation and worship services, the congregation will participate in a fellowship social hour.

The Reverend Mr. Fretwell is a graduate of LSU and also of the Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary at Austin, Texas - class of 1957. He brings with him to reside at Lake Providence, his wife and two young sons, Mark Davis and David Lee.

Hear Speaker Via Special Hookup Here

A direct telephone hookup to Gordon Avenue Church in Monroe today will enable those attending a special afternoon service to hear speakers at Brogden Hall, Wilmington, North Carolina.

In announcing the service, which will be held at 2 j. m. Rev. W. M. Allen, minister at the church, said the main speaker would be Dr. Harry Denman of the General Board of the Methodist Church in Nashville Tennessee. He said R. G. LeTourneau, manufacturer and evangelist, will also give a talk on the hookup, which has been arranged through the courtesy of Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Dr. Denman is a traveler and evangelist. He will be leaving soon for an evangelistic mission through southeast Asia.

The program at Wilmington is part of a mass meeting of Christian businessmen of the city. There will be a several hundred voice choir and a congregation of approximately 4,000 assembled at the meeting.

Rev. Allen invited the public to attended the local meeting which will feature the speakers from Wilmington by way of the special hookup. He said loud speakers would be set up in the sanctuary for the occasion and the building is air conditioned.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I was one of the "converts" who came forward in the New York Crusade meeting. My life since then has been entirely different, but I'm discouraged because I still can't get over my sharp temper and some of my old ways of doing things. Must I go on living such a defeated kind of living? M. H.

ANSWER: No, for God has made provision for a victorious kind of Christian living. It is all taught in the Bible, and for the new Christian it is most important that you become familiar with its teachings. Let me suggest something that will help you.

First, victory in the Christian life is not faultlessness. The impact of sin makes deep impressions upon all of us, and they do not disappear in a moment. You received new directions when you were born again, but now you must grow.

Second, new - born infants need food regularly and in increasing need the food of God's Word. We are told to "Desire the sincere milk of the Word that ye may grow thereby." (I Peter 2:2).

Third, we will be happy to send you Bible helps if you write for them to our Minneapolis office.

Be assured that God can give you victory over your temper. The Scripture promises, "Sin shall not have dominion over you." This means that sin shall not rule or dominate you. Claim the victory by faith.

MUNICH BUTCHER

Turns Communist Spy Overnight

BONN, Germany (AP)—A Munich butcher hankering for a bigger apartment received a surprising letter one morning.

"Send us a map of Munich and we'll pay you handsomely," the letter writer proposed.

A man of hope, the butcher dug into his pocket for the German equivalent of 50 cents, bought a map and mailed it off.

A few days later a man drove up to the butcher's shop and handed over 100 dollars in German marks.

That was how he became a Communist spy.

The story was related by Siegfried Dombrowski, 43, until recently deputy chief of espionage in Communist East Germany. An old-line Communist, Dombrowsk is known in the West as the "man of eight aliases." No one knows his real name.

Dombrowski said the Communists have used methods such as that employed on the Munich butcher to recruit 12,000 agents in Western Europe.

The gambit used was a simple one. The middleman who paid him off got a receipt for the 100 dollars. Not long afterwards, the butcher was informed this receipt was proof of his work as a Communist spy.

There were other chores for him to do, the middleman said, such as passing along what he was told by the friendly American Air Force sergeant who patronized his shop.

If he refused, the mmiddleman said, word would get around to the courts.

Dombrowski told this story in an interview in a nearby West German city that may not be named. He was brought there from his hideout in the south to identify suspects.

The slightly built Dombrowski, a tough, wiry fellow with large horned-rim glasses, is regarded as one of the biggest prizes captured by the West in the never-ending espionage maneuvering in Germany.

Reports from Dombrowski have led to the breaking of a spy ring in the West German navy. American and German counter-intelligence people who have talked with him say they are working on other cases.

The ex-spy, once a lieutenant colonel in the East German army, said he was convinced his flight would make it necessary for the Communists to reorganize their East Berlin spy network.

He said East Berlin is "one of the world's greatest spy centers."

Dombrowski said there are about 48,000 persons operating inside East Germany as agents. These spies work within the border police and inside factories and apartment blocks to keep an eye out for possible resistance to the Communist regime.

Dombrowski said he is ready to give up espionage, hoping to take up again his prewar trade of a mechanic under yet another name in the United States.

Before his defection last January, Dombrowski was deputor of the "Administration for Coordination" in East Berlin.

"The whole show," he said, "is run by the Russians. They know the identity of every agent operating in Western Europe."

The chief weapons in the Communist hands when it comes to recruiting agents are pressure and blackmail, Dombrowski said.

The Soviets, he went on, keep a checklist of relatives of East Germans who have fled across the border into West Germany. Sometimes the fugitives themselves are recruited after they are told their relatives will suffer.

Sometimes friends or relatives of the persons remaining in East Germany get invitations to visit and are promptly pressured into becoming spies.

Sometimes jail sentences imposed on East German lawbreakers are forgotten when they take up espionage. Law violators in West Germany are invited to visit the East and are drafted as spies. Agents are recruited as well at the big Leipzig Fair in East Germany.

The agents, Dombrowski said, are put to work under the three separate departments of the "Administration for Co-ordination."

Those in Department A are detailed to provide information on the military forces of the Western powers in West Germany as well as on the West German army, the border police and civil defense agencies.

Those in Department C examine NATO forces in France, Britain, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Denmark, Norway and Italy, and U.S. Air Force bases in Spain. Information is generally relayed by couriers operating through neutral Switzerland and Austria.

Those in Department T seek to filter information of a technical and scientific nature.

These departments, Dombrowski said, operate under the general supervision of four so-called "advisers" supplied by the Red army. All four, he added, are colonels and operate under assumed names.

Held In Hammer Death

VICTIM'S MOTHER CRITICAL

Suspect Admits Slaying Woman

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—A muscular 29-year-old rubber worker admitted Saturday that he used a claw hammer and an exercise dumbbell to beat Nina Reese to death Friday night.

The victim's 73-year-old mother, Ann Myrtle Allbritten, also was struck as Floyd Hyde chased the two women through a West Side neighborhood, police said. Mrs. Allbritten suffered a fractured skull and was in critical condition at Akron General Hospital.

Detectives said Hyde, who is held without charge, apparently became enraged when Mrs. Reese, 32, refused to permit him in the house.

Hyde lived there and did odd jobs around the place, detectives said. He also is employed at an Akron rubber plant.

Officers said they were informed Mrs. Reese had been threatened by Hyde earlier in the evening and she had called her brother, Tom Albritten, to her home, saying that she expected trouble. Albritten said he and the women were drinking coffee in the kitchen when Hyde showed up at about midnight.

Upstairs, Mrs. Reese's two sons, Gregory, 8, and Jeffery, 7, were sleeping. They did not awaken during the attack. Their father is Carl Reese, a Cleveland disc jockey. He and Mrs. Reese were divorced three years ago.

Police said after Hyde was denied entrance to the house he forced his way in and seized a hammer.

They gave this account of what followed: Hyde started striking Mrs. Reese and her mother with the hammer, but Albritten took the hammer away from him in a brief scuffle as the women fled.

Hyde followed the women outside, apparently picking up the dumbbell on the way, but Albritten did not go after him. Albritten explained later that he thought Hyde had been quieted down after the hammer was taken from him.

The women were attacked again in the back yard. The mother crawled back into the house and collapsed.

Mrs. Reese, who was hit several times on the head with the hammer and dumbbell, died on a neighbor's porch.

Hyde, blood-spattered and incoherent, was picked up by police a short distance away.

POLICE ARE INFORMED

Heiress Is Whisked Off On Eve Of Her Marriage

MASON CITY, Iowa (AP)— A young Minneapolis society girl, whisked away by a former suitor on the eve of her marriage to another man, says she went along with him for fear of her life.

That was the story pretty Jean Broward Shevlin, 21, an heiress, debutante of two continents and Vassar graduate, told Mason City police Friday.

Miss Shevlin said she fled Langdon P. Marvin Jr., 40, a Washington, D.C., legislative consultant, at Park Hospital here where blood tests needed for marriage licenses can be obtained.

In a signed statement, police said Saturday, Miss Shevlin told of going to Marvin's Minneapolis hotel room to tell him she intended to go through with her marriage to Lt. Col. James Watson Gerard, 45, of Paris, France, Saturday night.

The wedding was scheduled for 8 p.m. at Westminster Presbyterian church in Minneapolis.

"After arriving at his hotel room," she said, "we had a couple of cocktails and much conversation. I fell asleep and awoke at 4:30 a.m."

She said Marvin, who recently figured in the news for occupying rent-free office space in the Library of Congress for 11½ years, offered to take her home.

"When I observed he was not taking me home, I pleaded and begged and cried, but he didn't pay any attention.

"On the way to Mason City I attempted to stop the car by punching buttons that said neutral and reverse and stepped on the brake. I attempted to get the keys which I did once but he took them back from me," her statement continued.

"I struck him with my hands but all this was to no avail. He definitely knew he was bringing me to Mason City against my will."

Upon their arrival here, she said, Marvin allowed her to make a telephone call to a Dr. Ching, a marriage counselor in Minneapolis.

"I was unable to reach Dr. Ching and tried to put a phone call through to my fiance who is on leave at Crystal Bay, Minn. Mr. Marvin immediately put the receiver down and I was unable to make the call," she said.

"A short time later he allowed me to attempt to make another call to Dr. Ching. I was unable to reach him but I did make a successful call to my fiance.

"Then Mr. Marvin took me to Park Hospital for a blood test, which I had. He insisted we go to Northwood (Iowa, 20 miles north of here) to get married by a justice of the peace.

"At this time I told him again I did not wish to marry him but I went along with his whims temporarily, fearing for my own personal safety."

While in Park Hospital, she said, she told a doctor of her plight and he helped her escape through a back door of the building. At the same time she was on her way to the police station, police said they were acting on a tip from William Tenney of Crystal Bay, a friend of the groom, to pick up Marvin because he had made off with Miss Shevlin.

After being detained for several hours, police released Marvin when no charge was brought by Miss Shevlin.

The car Marvin had rented in Minneapolis was reclaimed here by the agency and he took a taxi cab back to Minnesota. On the way through Owatonna, Minn., he was arrested by police and charged with having an open bottle of liquor in the cab. He posted $30 bond Saturday and was released.

Miss Shevlin, who was graduated this year from Vassar College, said she dated Marvin several times since last October but changed her affections to Gerard whom she met while making her debut at colorful ceremonies at Versailles, France, last July.

"At no time while dating Mr. Marvin did I mention marrying him," she said.

Marvin, whose father was a one-time law partner of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, was not immediately available for comment.

Miss Shevlin is the daughter of the late Edwin Leonard Shevlin, a lumber baron, and the granddaughter of the late Gov. Napoleon Bonaparte Broward of Florida.

Gerard, great-grandson of Benjamin Angel, former U.S. minister to Norway and Sweden, has been stationed with the Seine area command of the U.S. Army. He was educated at Groton, Salisbury School and the University of Grenoble, France.

At the police station, Hyde smashed a third-floor window with his hands and attempted to jump, police said. His hands and arms were cut. Bars on the window prevented his jumping.

Reese arrived in Akron Saturday and said he would take the children back to Cleveland.

Boy, 11, Charged In Stabbing Of Dad With Arrow

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — An 11-year-old boy was charged Saturday with fatally stabbing his father with an arrow.

Louis Charles Becker, 42-year-old steelworker, hit his wife, Odell, 38, with his fist, police said, after she refused to turn out a hall light. Their son, Louis Charles Jr., an only child, watched.

Suddenly, the father grabbed at his stomach and staggered down to the basement. Mrs. Becker went down and found her husband, pierced by a two-foot, metal-tipped arrow, lying on a couch. He died at 7:35 a.m. after an emergency operation.

The son, a slightly built, blue-eyed youth, was charged with "assaulting and stabbing" and "thereby causing the death" of his father.

Police said the arrow came from a toy set owned by the boy.

VETERANS RECALL BATTLING

Blazes In Monroe

By TOMMY PARKS
Staff Writer

"I doubt if there's a city block in Monroe that I haven't had to fight a fire on during the past 33 years."

Speaking was Captain R. L. Frantom, of 309 Bell Avenue, one of the city Fire Department's oldest veterans. He and several other firemen were sitting on the station steps in the mellowing evening sunlight and exchanging recollections of the Big Fires in the past.

"I joined the force in 1920, and Roberts came on four years before I did," said Captain J. C. Liles. He was talking about Deputy Chief H. E. Roberts, who joined the Monroe Fire Department in 1916.

As the sun set and the evening became cooler, their stories became longer.

FEWER STATIONS

"When I first came on the force, we had half as many stations as we have now," Frantom said. "And the firetrucks had a chain drive like a bicycle. The steering wheel was on the right hand side and the tires were solid rubber — no tubes or anything."

One of the department's first trucks is still being kept today in fire station No. 4. It's still in good condition, and according to firemen, would still be used if it had more than its regular two-wheel brakes, which could easily prove a hazard in today's traffic.

In all, the Monroe department today has 13 trucks, three chiefs' cars, and a wide assortment of other up-to-date firefighting equipment, reported fireman P. V. Cutrer, who is in charge of the bureau of fire records.

"There sure is a lot of difference in today's trucks and the ones we used to have," commented Capt. Robert Wunch, another long-time fire fighting veteran. "When we park both models side by side, the contrast is something like amazing."

AMAZING

As a matter of fact, Capt. Wunch might have added, the entire fire department is amazing in itself. The records bureau alone is a treasure of historical facts on Monroe.

Since 1935, for instance, there have been somewhere around 15,000 different fires in the Monroe area. To date, the hottest year for Monroe where fires are concerned was 1956, when a total 1271 fires were reported.

The following year, riding on the crest of an emphatic fire prevention campaign by local officials, the number of fires dropped to an all-time low of 795.

"Our fire prevention program is just beginning to mature on the mind of the public, and the number of fires can possibly become even smaller in the years to come," Cutrer said.

All sorts of interesting little items can be unearthed in the walls of files at the records bureau. For a sample, how near could you come to guessing the number of fire hydrants within the city limits of Monroe? Most people don't come anywhere near the correct answer of 797.

Secret Of Getting Early Start On Fire Is Important

As a general rule, the firemen said, more fires are reported during the fall and winter months than any other time of the year. "I guess people are too busy working during the spring and summer to start fires," Cutrer said. He added that most fires are grass or trash fires started by careless hands.

GENERAL RULE

"As a general rule, we can pretty well size up a fire during the first five minutes that we arrive on the scene," Captain Liles commented. "We go all out to hold down the fire and keep it from spreading. Then, after we get it under control, we station a man to keep watch for flareups if there looks like a possibility of more trouble."

When a fireman says a fire is "under control," he means it can be prevented from spreading. A lot of work is yet to be done, however. Each shred of material must be thoroughly quenched with the hoses before it can be left.

"That smouldering material most people overlook is the cause of many a fire when it bursts into flame and starts the fire all over again," said H. L. Hales, chief of the city fire department.

This principle of firefighting must be coupled with a multitude of others in the mind of a fireman. In this business, mistakes can be costly and dangerous.

At present, there are 121 men on the Monroe Fire Department. "What most people don't understand is that many of these men are not meant to fight fires." Cutrer said. Actually, the fire department contains a detailed system of several different divisions of fire work, including such things as the arsons division, the public relations division, the fire prevention bureau, and the training bureau.

The latter division is one of the most important parts of an up-to-date fire department, officials said. Each man is required to attend training at the Monroe drill tower for firemen. This tower is the same height as a five-story house. It is used to teach and train firemen the tricks of the trade, such as ladder climbing, combatting heat waves, smoke screens, etc.

The training at this tower is a continuous process for firemen; they train regularly to keep in shape for actual "combat" at the next fire alarm.

An important phase of the city department is the American Legion Emergency Truck, provided by the local American Legion and manned by regular firemen. This one unit of the fire department alone has recovered 386 drowned bodies and answered 413 miscellaneous emergency calls since its addition to the department.

The modern building housing today's fire staff is built on the same site as the original, which was erected back in 1910. Parts of the original building are still being used.

GRADED

Like most other public services, the fire department is graded and classed regularly according to equipment used, efficiency, and all other aspects of its operations.

"Our department was just recently elevated from a low 5th class rating to a 3rd place. This improvement resulted directly from the extensive work of Chief Hale and the city council," Cutrer reported.

He added that Monroe's fire insurance rates were considerable lowered because of this promotion in class.

The life of a fireman is not like any other. Each man is on duty during regular 8-hour periods, but all members must be available for call at any time.

Every call means trouble. It may be a simple grass fire, or it could be an entire school, as was the case a few years ago when Sherrouse School was destroyed by fire.

Yet, not one fireman would skip a call, regardless of its size or strength. To them, it is a definite and a rewarding way of life.

To Frantom, who had both ears burned off fighting fires during his career as a Monroe fireman, firefighting is "the best job in the world." He seemed to speak for the entire 121 men on the Monroe staff.

HOUSING DEVELOPMENTS GAIN

Built-In Community Spirit

By MARY PRIME

NEW YORK (UPI) — Something new has been added to housing developments — built-in community spirit.

If you move into some projects in Florida and Maryland, you will get a central civic organization, clean - up campaigns, kaffee klatches, fashion shows, a local newspaper, shopping centers and baby-sitting facilities. Houses are painted in coordinating colors to start you off in good taste.

If you should slip up and forget to mow your lawn, the building company's mower does the job—then calls up afterward to "shame" you into doing it yourself next time.

For $1 a month, you get a "security service" providing extra police protection. Patrol guards are on duty 24 hours a day and carry extra light fuses and first aid kits for housewives in need. Prowl cars are available to take expectant mothers and sick children to hospitals in emergencies. Patrolmen pick up children wandering the streets at night and deposit them at home. They also work with teen-agers to prevent juvenile delinquency.

Christmas parties with prizes, and big-name entertainment are staged for townspeople, church and civic groups.

TURNED BUILDER

The man who doles out this community spirit with the mortgage is Arthur Dresser, 52, a lawyer-turned builder who hails from Los Angeles. Dresser now lives in Washington, D. C. With his wife and family. He has four children and one grandchild and maintains a law office, although he is not active in it.

"We try to keep the men in the communities tired," said Desser in an interview during a trip to New York. "If they're kept busy tending the lawn, raising the family, going to church and attending civic meetings, they won't beat their wives. And we'll sure have a community of family and friendship."

Dresser starts with raw land near metropolitan areas and builds complete communities. His newest development is Carol City, Fla., which eventually will have 10,000 residents. Houses are sold on the basis of $300 to $500 down. Similar projects planned are Linda City, an 8,000-acre tract in Charles County Md.; Royal Palm Beach, Fla.; Boca Raton, Fla.; and a luxury development with homes from $35,000 to $25,000 at Biscayne Bay, Fla.

Dresser has additional developments in Beverly Hills, Palm Springs and San Diego, Calif. By 1960, he will have built 50,000 homes.

Why did Dresser inaugurate this program?

"I believe it's inherent in all of us to want to own a little bit of land—at a price we can afford. And I think it's important for newcomers to have things to do with the people around them," he said.

"I provide the facilities, and encourage activity, but I like to give the people a feeling of independence," he added. "I don't interfere with the way they run things. I went to the first civic meeting and told them my plans and what I hoped they would do. Then I let them carry on."

He owns local newspapers in his projects, "but I don't direct editorial policy."

How do residents like his scheme?

One woman wrote a letter to the Kremlin, inviting the Russians to come to Carol City and daring them to "just try to make the citizens Communists."

Pentagonese Gets New Prominence

By EDMOND LE BRETON

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pentagonese, a dialect of English, has burst the boundaries of the Pentagon.

Members of Congress may snort at uniformed witnesses who lapse into this strange tongue, with its cadences of an engineering manual, its verbs fabricated out of nouns, its phrases riveted together with plenty of extra words to insure rigidity. But Pentagonese expressions crop up in the speech of the members themselves and are heard at White House news conferences.

Obviously it is only a question of time before Americans who wish to communicate freely with an important segment of their countrymen will have to master the dialect for general use.

PENDING

How will it sound? For a sample, here is the biography of a (purely mythical) inhabitant of Pentagon, as it might be written in Pentagonese.

"The marriage 13 May 1911 of Angus Inbasket and Penelope Scruggs may be considered to the activation of Gen. Marcus T. Inbasket.

"Production was finalized 13 February 1912.

After appropriate lead time, emphasis was shifted to a phased training program, during which a wide spectrum of possible career configurations was evaluated.

POTENTIAL

"The program was definitized with an appointment to the military academy in August 1929. Growth potential was apparent at an early date and typically confirmed by standing in the upper 15.72 per cent of the class of 1933.

"Implementation of the Inbasket potential was maximized by the entrance of the United States into World War II, with attendant timewise compression of the officer promotion structure and the initial deployment of Capt. Inbasket into the upper staff echelons.

"It was during the period under consideration also that utilization with Miss Honeysuckle Picketline, daughter of Lt. Gen. Shiloh Picketline, was accomplished.

"Satellization of the new establishment was initially inhibited by problems of distance and logistics. When these were solved by the termination of hostilities, increments were annualied in the following order: Marcus T. Inbasket Jr.; Penelope S. Inbasket; Shiloh P. Inbasket. A domestic facility was established on the suburban perimeter of Washington, D.C., when Brig. Gen. Inbasket was redeployed to the Department of Defense.

"A period of steady transitioning to cognizance of matters of higher administrative responsibility followed. Outstanding accomplishments were a study of systems control of management tools, direction of a task force on paperclip procurement in its relationship to unobligated balances, and the chairing of a study group on continious refinement of functional criteria for stenographic pools.

"Gen. Inbasket was deactivated yesterday by a random encounter with a civilian-type vehicle in the approaches to the Pentagon north parking lot.

"Funeral plans have not yet been formalized."

Burdette Rips Giants

Milwaukee pitcher Lew Burdette (33), who cut down the Giants by a 4-1 count, tears into second base and Daryl Spencer of San Francisco in the fourth inning of yesterday's game in the California city. Burdette was forced at second and tore Spencer's trousers with his spikes although he was otherwise uninjured. The game was delayed while Spencer retired to the dressing room (right) for another pair of pants. (AP Wirephoto)

BURDETTE TAKES 11TH

Braves Regain Loop Lead With 4-1 Win Over 'Frisco

By JACK STEVENSON

SAN FRANCISC (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves regained the National League lead from San Francisco Saturday witha 4-1 victory behind Giant-killer Lew Burdette's five-hitter.

The Giants had first place only 17 hours.

The Braves began pecking away against 20-year-old left - hander Mike McCormick with a run in the second and never were headed.

First baseman Joe Adcock, taped securely to protect pulled rib muscles, returned to the Braves' line - up and belted his fifth homer, a 380-foot solo clout into the left field pavilion in the fifth inning.

It was Burdette's 11th victory, tying him with Pittsburgh's Elroy Face for the major league lead.

A capacity crowd of 22,905 watched under sunny skies as Burdette notched his 14th victory over the Giants in his last 15 tries.

The Giants escaped a shutout when Willie Mays doubled home Willie Kirkland, who had walked in the eighth.

The triumph put the Braves' season mark at 37-28 and the Giants a half game behind at 37-29 with the finale of the three-game series coming up Sunday.

Ace left-handers Warren Spahn for the Braves and John Antonelli for the Giants drew the pitching assignments.

Burdette became the object of boos and jeers from the fourth inning after sliding into second baseman Daryl Spencer and ripping the infielder's britches.

Spencer last year knocked down Milwaukee's second baseman Mel Roach with a hard slide and San Francisco's fans took Burdette's maneuver as retaliation.

The Braves scored in the second on Del Crandall's double and Johnny Logan s single.

They added another in the fourth when Giant shortstop Andre Rodgers threw the ball away and Logan reached second. After an infield grounder Burdette's single brought in the run.

Adcock's homer in the fifth gave the Braves a 3-0 edge.

McCormick's error on Eddie Mathews seventh inning grounder led to the Braves' second unearned run. Mathews stole third and scored on Adcock's sacrifice fly.

San Francisco left three runners stranded in the second and two in the third before Burdette settled down.

In the second, the threat ended when McCormick hit into a force play with two out. In the third, Mathews made a great stop of leadoff man Jimmy Davenport's grounder to third and threw him out.

Then Kirkland singled and reached third when Mays bounced a hit to right. But Orlando Cepeda fouled out and Spencer forced Mays.

McCormick, taken out for a pinch hitter in the seventh, was charged with his seventh loss against four victories. Burdette has lost five.

Bowen Wins Three Events At Speedbowl

Jack Bowen, driving V-8, captured three first places and one second place event at the Monroe Speedbowl last night.

Driving the entry owned by J. L. Ham Bowen, Bowen came in first in the sportsman's trophy dash, the sportsman's heat race and the sportsman's feature race, and finished second in the feature bug race.

Billy Bayles, steering No. 10, owned by Johnny Wilson, was first in the bug feature. He also finished second to Red Futch in the bug heat event.

Winner of the bug trophy dash race was H. L. Hale, driving No. 39, owned by Joe Mallard. Second place in the sportsman's heat race went to H. L. Russell in 40-plus, followed by Jimmy Wilson in No. 11.

Wilson also took second in the bug feature and Russell finished second in the sportsman's feature.

Harlon Hill Thrown For 6-Charge Loss

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Harlon Hill of the Chicago Bears ran into a hard hitting line of policemen here Saturday.

Hill, one of the pro football's top pass-catching ends, is free on bond after he was arrested on six charges, including drunken driving.

Police traced Hill to his home after obtaining his license number from Mark Paris, 16, driver of the other auto involved.

C. E. Hawkins, one of three policemen who made the arrest at Hill's home, quoted him as saying "You're too little to put those handcuffs on me."

Hill was taken into custody after what the officers described as a hard struggle.

Specific charges against Hill were: Drunk driving, running a red light, leaving the scene, resisting arrest, driving without a license and driving after his license was revoked. Police said he lost his license after being arrested in Arkansas recently on a drunk driving charge.

The veteran player from Florence, Ala., Teachers was out of action most of last season with an injured ankle.

Big Seventh Puts Detroit Over Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Detroit scored five runs in the seventh inning Saturday and whipped the Washington Senators 7-4 .

Held to one hit for the first five innings by Washington starter Hal Griggs, the Tigers scored two in the sixth to tie it at 2-2 and then ripped the game wide open in the seventh.

Lou Berberet walked and beat Griggs' throw to second on Johnny Groth's bunt. Rocky Bridges, in a sacrifice attempt, beat out his bunt to fill the bases. After Griggs retired two batters without an advance, ex-Senator Eddie Yost singled across two runs and Larry Osborne doubled home two more. The fifth came in on second baseman Reno Bertoia's throwing error on Harvey Kuenn's infield single.

The Senators were held homerless for the first time in eight games. Rookie Bob Allison, with two singles and a two-run double was the big gun. Frank Lary, working the first six innings, got his eighth victory, with the help of a three-inning relief job by Dave Sisler.

Drysdale Hits, Pitches Bums Past Redlegs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Don Drysdale drove in three runs with a homer and triple and pitched the first complete game of his career against Cincinnati Saturday night as Los Angeles belted the Reds 9-2.

Gil Hodges hit his ninth and 10th homers for the Dodgers.

Wally Moon also homered for Los Angeles and extended his hitting streak to 13 games. Frank Thomas hit his fifth homer this season for the Reds.

Drysdale, now 7-5, allowed six hits, struck out seven and walked two. He laads the majors in strikeouts with 110.

He drove in the first Los Angeles run with his triple in the fifth and produced two more with his second homer of the year in the sixth. Drysdale last season tied a National League record for pitchers by hitting seven home runs.

Hodges got his first homer off loser Bob Purkeyy in the sixth and connected again off Orlando Pena in the seventh. The bases were empty both times. This is the to Los Angeles that Hodges has first time since the Dodgers came hit two home runs in one game at home.

Moon got his fourth homer off Pena in the seventh.

Purkey, tagged for six runs in 5 2-3 innings, now is 6-8.

The Reds got both their runs in the fifth. Frank Thomas led off with his homer and Eddie Kasko scored on Johnny Temple's single after singling himself.

Don Equals Old Mark--But Loses

By FRANK PITMAN

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—Oregon freshman miler Dyrol Burleson and Kansas University hurdler Charlie Tidwell raced to sensational record-breaking victories Saturday in the rain-dampened National AAU Track and Field Championships.

Burleson, unmindful of the mile-high altitude or the soggy cinders, beat teammate Jim Grelle, the NCAA mile champion, in the 1,500-meter race. Burleson's time of 3 minutes, 47.5 seconds cracked the AAU mark of 3:47.9 set in 1940 by Wisconsin's Walter Mehl.

Tidwell, NCAA 100-yard dash champion, blazed to a U.S. record in the 200-meters low hurdles. His time around one curve of :22.6 seconds broke his 1958 mark of :22.7. Tidwell also erased the AAU mark of :23.3 by Harrison Dillard in 1946.

San Jose State sprinter Ray Norton sped to victory in the 200 meters in :20.8 to become the only double champion in the two-day meet. Norton copped the 100 meters in :10.5.

Norton took over the crowns held last year by Bobby Morrow, Abilene Christian's star who failed to qualify in either event. Morrow has been unable to get in top condition since suffering a muscle spasm in his left thigh at Houston June 6.

The Southern California Striders, featuring record - breaking shot putter Parry O'Brien, repeated as team champions.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon was on hand to present the team trophy.

O'Brien set the only record in Friday's eight events when he pushed the 16-pound iron ball 62 feet, 2¼ inches to erase his AAU meet record of 61-11¼ set last year. His world record is 63-2.

Al Oerter of the New York Athletic Club set an AAU meet record in the discus with a toss of 186 feet, 5 inches. Fortune Gordon set the old mark of 183-9½ in 1953.

Burleson's sensational 1,500-meter run—the equivalent of about a 4:05 mile—punctured the myth that the mile altitude is a handicap for distance runners.

"I was exhausted as I always am after a race," Burleson said, "but I wasn't bothered by the altitude."

Gail Hodgson, South African running for Oklahoma University, set the pace on the first three laps but faded in the middle of the back stretch and finished fourth.

Penn State's Ed Moran trailed Hodgson by a yard in the early stages before Burleson and Grelle made their drive.

Grelle was third on the second lap. He overhauled Moran in the stretch, but couldn't match the blistering finish by Burleson, who won going away by 6 yards.

Burleson, as a freshman, is ineligible for NCAA competition.

Olympic sprint champion Bobby Morrow of Abilene, Tex., Christian College failed for the second straight day to qualify in defense of his AAU championchampionships.

Running in an eight-man 200-meter field Morrow finished sixth in a qualifying heat won by Mel Barnwell of the University of Pittsburgh in :21.2 seconds. Morrow, hampered by a sore thigh for the past two weeks, finished last in a nine - man qualifying heat for the 100 meters Friday.

Morrow won both the 100-yard and 220-yard titles at the AAU last year. The running events this year are in metric distances.

Eddie Southern of the University of Texas won the 400-meter race in 46.1 seconds, considerably off his AAU record of :45.8 for 440 yards. Southern wrapped up his second straight AAU crown at that distance by easily outrunning Dave Mills of Purdue in :46.4 and Jack Yearman of the San Francisco Olympic Club in :46.6.

Bob Backus of the New York Athletic Club repeated as 56-pound weight champion with a throw of 44 feet, 3½ inches, short of his AAU record by 5 inches.

Bill Dellinger, University of Oregon star now in the Air Force, spurted on the final lap to win the 5,000-meter run in 14 minutes, 47.6 seconds. Dellinger trailed trailed Lewis Stieglitz, of the U.S. Navy, for the first 2 miles and was a yard back at the start of the final lap. Dellinger grabbed the lead on the back stretch and won going away by 10 yards.

DON EQUALS OLD RECORD

BOULDER, Colo. (Special) — Don Styron of Northeast equalled Harrison Dillard's old AAU record of 23.3 in the 200-meter low hurdles in the semi-finals of the National AAU Championships here yesterday yet finished fourth and failed to qualify for the finals.

Running around a curve, Don came in behind Hayes Jones of Eastern Michigan, Warren Cawley (unattached), and Walter Arlt of Washington State. Jones won the heat with a 22.9. Charlie Tidwell of Kansas later set a new AAU and American record of 22.6 in the finals.

Don finished third in one of the quarter-final heats behind Jones and Arlt with a 23.6 time.

Dave Styron ran sixth in the third heat of the 220 meter semi-finals with a fine 21.5 around the curve and failed to qualify. Alex Plummer of the Air Force won the heat with a 21.0 clocking. Ray Norton of Santa Clara Youth Village later won the finals with a 20.8 time.

FIFTH DEFENSE

Floyd Favored To Whip Swede

NEW YORK (AP) — Speedy Floyd Patterson is a heavy 3½ to 1 favorite to whip Sweden's Ingemar Johnsson Thursday night at Yankee Stadium in his fifth defense of the world heavyweight title.

With no free home television and the New York area blacked out on the closed circuit theater TV promoter Bill Rosensohn hopefully talks about a crowd of 45,000 and a gate of $700,000 with a $100 top.

Some think he is about $200,000 too optimistic. There will be a radio broadcast by ABC of the 15-round-match, scheduled for 9:30 p.m., EST.

The show will be seen in about 170 locations in 135 cities on Tele-PrompTer theater TV which has about 550,000 seats at its disposal. The Ray Robinson-Carmen Basilio rematch in 1958 drew 364,876 fans paying $1,400,000 in theaters.

Boomed as a million dollar fight when it was announced last winter, the show has run into many difficulties. The promoter and the champion's manager, Cus D'Amato, had an argument that almost led to the bout's removal to another city. A law suit over an alleged contract by Johansson for a rematch with Eddie Machen slowed things down. A "warmup" fight for Patterson with Brian London in Indianapolis, May 1 did not help.

Johansson remains a question mark. As the European champion he is unbeaten in 21 fights with 13 knockouts to his credit. Still, there is the black mark against him of being disqualified for not fighting in the 1952 Olympic finals at Helsinki.

Instead of the challenger flattening sparring partners in the old buildup routine, the favored champ has been doing the heavy bombing. One day he scored six knockdowns to the head and body.

Patterson has won 22 straight, knocking out 16 of his last 17 opponents, since he lost his only pro fight to Joey Maxim in an eight-round bout in 1954. His record is 35-1 with 26 knockouts. No challenger has gone the route against him.

Johansson's vaunted right that finished Machen in the first round has been kept under cover at his Grossinger, N. Y. camp. The handsome 26-year-old boxer from Goteborg has displayed a jolting left jab and little else except condition and a fine, strong body.

Perhaps Johansson really has been saving his right for the champ. Perhaps the thunderbolt right is overrated. Only the visiting Swedes who swarm around his camp seem to have real confidence in his chances.

Patterson has been training as though he were going to fight a composite of Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney and Joe Louis. Down to 182 pounds—about 15 less than the challenger—he has been working like a man out for a quickie. Perhaps he dreams of convincing skeptics by beating Louis' time against Max Schmeling in another memorable international bout. That one lasted 2 minutes, 4 seconds.

Johansson is a stand up boxer who flicks a jab, backs off and looks for a chance to throw the right. At least, that is what they say he did in Europe. He won the European title by stopping Franco Cavicchi in 1956 and stopped Henry Cooper (conqueror of London) and Joe Erskine in defenses. Except for Machen, the only American he fought was Archie McBride who lasted the entire 10 rounds in 1957. The Machen fight, Sept. 14, was his last.

D'Amato's careful selection of opponents for Patterson has drawn considerable criticism. After he won the title by knocking out Archie Moore in 1956, Patterson stopped Hurricane Jackson. Then he went against an amateur, Pete Rademacher, and knocked him out after getting off the floor.

Roy Harris, the pride of Cut and Shoot, Tex. also floored Patterson last August before Patterson stopped him in 12 rounds. The London fight May 1 last 11 rounds before the Britisher retired for the night.

Johansson's training camp has been unique in many ways. He has his father, mother, sister, two brothers, his fiance and his brother's finance at a mansion near the training ring. From time to time he dropped down to New York (about 120 miles) to appear on television or testify in court.

The finances of the show are a bit complicated. Patterson is supposed to get a $300,000 guarantee and Johansson $100,000. However, they also are working on percentages against the guarantee. Patterson gets 30 per cent of the gate. Johansson 20 per cent and the promoter 50 per cent. However, the promoter has no share of the extra from theater TV-radio-movies which is owned jointly by TelePrompTer and Patterson. Johansson gets 20 per cent of that cash.

Ramblers Edge Minden, 4 To 3

RUSTON, La. (Special) — The Ruston Ramblers, paced by Wade Scott's home run in the third inning, edged past Minden, 4-3, in a Big Eight contest last night.

Butch Mixon started on the hill for Ruston and went all the way to register the win. He was touched for only three hits.

Wayne Thrash and Charley Francis clouted home runs for Minden.

Score by innings:

Minden	000 200 001—3	3	2
Ruston	004 000 00x—4	7	3

Jesse Hickman, Dick Dyer (3) Wayne Thrash (3) and Wayne Thrash, Love; Butch Mixon and Butler Howell.

Colbert's and Farmer-Heard triumphed in Southside League action last night.

Behind the pitching of Hart and the 3-4 effort at the plate by Rutledge, Colbert's turned back Central Bank, 8-7. Painich, who went 2-4 at the plate, was the losing pitcher.

Farmer-Heard nipped Pan Am, 6-5, as Shepard, the loser, limited them to only three hits. Venable and Preddy formed the winning combination. Beasely and J. Tayor had 2-3 each for Pan Am, while Mitchel, Venable and Benson accounted for the three hits for Farmer-Heard.

VETERANS RECALL BATTLING

Blazes In Monroe

By TOMMY PARKS
Staff Writer

"I doubt if there's a city block in Monroe that I haven't had to fight a fire on during the past 33 years."

Speaking was Captain R. L. Frantom, of 309 Bell Avenue, one of the city Fire Department's oldest veterans. He and several other firemen were sitting on the station steps in the mellowing evening sunlight and exchanging recollections of the Big Fires in the past.

"I joined the force in 1920, and Roberts came on four years before I did," said Captain J. C. Liles. He was talking about Deputy Chief H. E. Roberts, who joined the Monroe Fire Department in 1916.

As the sun set and the evening became cooler, their stories became longer.

FEWER STATIONS

"When I first came on the force, we had half as many stations as we have now," Frantom said. "And the firetrucks had a chain drive like a bicycle. The steering wheel was on the right hand side and the tires were solid rubber — no tubes or anything."

One of the department's first trucks is still being kept today in fire station No. 4. It's still in good condition, and according to firemen, would still be used if it had more than its regular two-wheel brakes, which could easily prove a hazard in today's traffic.

In all, the Monroe department today has 13 trucks, three chiefs' cars, and a wide assortment of other up-to-date firefighting equipment, reported fireman P. V. Cutrer, who is in charge of the bureau of fire records.

"There sure is a lot of difference in today's trucks and the ones we used to have," commented Capt. Robert Wunch, another long-time fire fighting veteran. "When we park both models side by side, the contrast is something like amazing."

AMAZING

As a matter of fact, Capt. Wunch might have added, the entire fire department is amazing in itself. The records bureau alone is a treasure of historical facts on Monroe.

Since 1935, for instance, there have been somewhere around 15,000 different fires in the Monroe area. To date, the hottest year for Monroe where fires are concerned was 1956, when a total 1271 fires were reported.

The following year, riding on the crest of an emphatic fire prevention campaign by local officials, the number of fires dropped to an all-time low of 795.

"Our fire prevention program is just beginning to mature on the mind of the public, and the number of fires can possibly become even smaller in the years to come," Cutrer said.

All sorts of interesting little items can be unearthed in the walls of files at the records bureau. For a sample, how near could you come to guessing the number of fire hydrants within the city limits of Monroe? Most people don't come anywhere near the correct answer of 797.

As a general rule, the firemen said, more fires are reported during the fall and winter months than any other time of the year. "I guess people are too busy working during the spring and summer to start fires," Cutrer said. He added that most fires are grass or trash fires started by careless hands.

GENERAL RULE

"As a general rule, we can pretty well size up a fire during the first five minutes that we arrive on the scene," Captain Liles commented. "We go all out to hold down the fire and keep it from spreading. Then, after we get it under control, we station a man to keep watch for flareups if there looks like a possibility of more trouble."

When a fireman says a fire is "under control," he means it can be prevented from spreading. A lot of work is yet to be done, however. Each shred of material must be thoroughly quenched with the hoses before it can be left.

"That smouldering material most people overlook is the cause of many a fire when it bursts into flame and starts the fire all over again," said H. L. Hales, chief of the city fire department.

This principle of firefighting must be coupled with a multitude of others in the mind of a fireman. In this business, mistakes can be costly and dangerous.

At present, there are 121 men on the Monroe Fire Department. "What most people don't understand is that many of these men are not meant to fight fires." Cutrer said. Actually, the fire department contains a detailed system of several different divisions of fire work, including such things as the arsons division, the public relations division, the fire prevention bureau, and the training bureau.

The latter division is one of the most important parts of an up-to-date fire department, officials said. Each man is required to attend training at the Monroe drill tower for firemen. This tower is the same height as a five-story house. It is used to teach and train firemen the tricks of the trade, such as ladder climbing, combatting heat waves, smoke screens, etc.

The training at this tower is a continuous process for firemen; they train regularly to keep in shape for actual "combat" at the next fire alarm.

An important phase of the city department is the American Legion Emergency Truck, provided by the local American Legion and manned by regular firemen. This one unit of the fire department alone has recovered 386 drowned bodies and answered 413 miscellaneous emergency calls since its addition to the department.

The modern building housing today's fire staff is built on the same site as the original, which was erected back in 1910. Parts of the original building are still being used.

GRADED

Like most other public services, the fire department is graded and classed regularly according to equipment used, efficiency, and all other aspects of its operations.

"Our department was just recently elevated from a low 5th class rating to a 3rd place. This improvement resulted directly from the extensive work of Chief Hale and the city council," Cutrer reported.

He added that Monroe's fire insurance rates were considerable lowered because of this promotion in class.

The life of a fireman is not like any other. Each man is on duty during regular 8-hour periods, but all members must be available for call at any time.

Every call means trouble. It may be a simple grass fire, or it could be an entire school, as was the case a few years ago when Sherrouse School was destroyed by fire.

Yet, not one fireman would skip a call, regardless of its size or strength. To them, it is a definite and a rewarding way of life.

To Frantom, who had both ears burned off fighting fires during his career as a Monroe fireman, firefighting is "the best job in the world." He seemed to speak for the entire 121 men on the Monroe staff.

HOUSING DEVELOPMENTS GAIN

Built-In Community Spirit

By MARY PRIME

NEW YORK (UPI) — Something new has been added to housing developments — built-in community spirit.

If you move into some projects in Florida and Maryland, you will get a central civic organization, clean - up campaigns, kaffee klatches, fashion shows, a local newspaper, shopping centers and baby-sitting facilities. Houses are painted in coordinating colors to start you off in good taste.

If you should slip up and forget to mow your lawn, the building company's mower does the job—then calls up afterward to "shame" you into doing it yourself next time.

For $1 a month, you get a "security service" providing extra police protection. Patrol guards are on duty 24 hours a day and carry extra light fuses and first aid kits for housewives in need. Prowl cars are available to take expectant mothers and sick children to hospitals in emergencies. Patrolmen pick up children wandering the streets at night and deposit them at home. They also work with teen-agers to prevent juvenile delinquency.

Christmas parties with prizes, and big-name entertainment are staged for townspeople, church and civic groups.

TURNED BUILDER

The man who doles out this community spirit with the mortgage is Arthur Dresser, 52, a lawyer-turned builder who hails from Los Angeles. Dresser now lives in Washington, D. C. With his wife and family. He has four children and one grandchild and maintains a law office, although he is not active in it.

"We try to keep the men in the communities tired," said Desser in an interview during a trip to New York. "If they're kept busy tending the lawn, raising the family, going to church and attending civic meetings, they won't beat their wives. And we'll sure have a community of family and friendship."

Dresser starts with raw land near metropolitan areas and builds complete communities. His newest development is Carol City, Fla., which eventually will have 10,000 residents. Houses are sold on the basis of $300 to $500 down. Similar projects planned are Linda City, an 8,000-acre tract in Charles County Md.; Royal Palm Beach, Fla.; Boca Raton, Fla.; and a luxury development with homes from $35,000 to $25,000 at Biscayne Bay, Fla.

Dresser has additional developments in Beverly Hills, Palm Springs and San Diego, Calif. By 1960, he will have built 50,000 homes.

Why did Dresser inaugurate this program?

"I believe it's inherent in all of us to want to own a little bit of land—at a price we can afford. And I think it's important for newcomers to have things to do with the people around them," he said.

"I provide the facilities, and encourage activity, but I like to give the people a feeling of independence," he added. "I don't interfere with the way they run things. I went to the first civic meeting and told them my plans and what I hoped they would do. Then I let them carry on."

He owns local newspapers in his projects, "but I don't direct editorial policy."

How do residents like his scheme?

One woman wrote a letter to the Kremlin, inviting the Russians to come to Carol City and daring them to "just try to make the citizens Communists."

Pentagonese Gets New Prominence

By EDMOND LE BRETON

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pentagonese, a dialect of English, has burst the boundaries of the Pentagon.

Members of Congress may snort at uniformed witnesses who lapse into this strange tongue, with its cadences of an engineering manual, its verbs fabricated out of nouns, its phrases riveted together with plenty of extra words to insure rigidity. But Pentagonese expressions crop up in the speech of the members themselves and are heard at White House news conferences.

Obviously it is only a question of time before Americans who wish to communicate freely with an important segment of their countrymen will have to master the dialect for general use.

PENDING

How will it sound? For a sample, here is the biography of a (purely mythical) inhabitant of Pentagon, as it might be written in Pentagonese.

"The marriage 13 May 1911 of Angus Inbasket and Penelope Scruggs may be considered to the activation of Gen. Marcus T. Inbasket.

"Production was finalized 13 February 1912.

After appropriate lead time, emphasis was shifted to a phased training program, during which a wide spectrum of possible career configurations was evaluated.

POTENTIAL

"The program was definitized with an appointment to the military academy in August 1929. Growth potential was apparent at an early date and typically confirmed by standing in the upper 15.72 per cent of the class of 1933.

"Implementation of the Inbasket potential was maximized by the entrance of the United States into World War II, with attendant timewise compression of the officer promotion structure and the initial deployment of Capt. Inbasket into the upper staff echelons.

"It was during the period under consideration also that utilization with Miss Honeysuckle Picketline, daughter of Lt. Gen. Shiloh Picketline, was accomplished.

"Satellization of the new establishment was initially inhibited by problems of distance and logistics. When these were solved by the termination of hostilities, increments were annualied in the following order: Marcus T. Inbasket Jr.; Penelope S. Inbasket; Shiloh P. Inbasket. A domestic facility was established on the suburban perimeter of Washington, D.C., when Brig. Gen. Inbasket was redeployed to the Department of Defense.

"A period of steady transitioning to cognizance of matters of higher administrative responsibility followed. Outstanding accomplishments were a study of systems control of management tools, direction of a task force on paperclip procurement in its relationship to unobligated balances, and the chairing of a study group on continious refinement of functional criteria for stenographic pools.

"Gen. Inbasket was deactivated yesterday by a random encounter with a civilian-type vehicle in the approaches to the Pentagon north parking lot.

"Funeral plans have not yet been formalized."

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—Police said Howard C. Green Jr., 25, a University of California business administration student, admitted stealing an adding machine and a computer to help with his homework.

WHITE STARS IN 5-2 WIN

Mizell Notches 9th As Bucs Fall

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Wilmer Mizell needed help from Lindy McDaniel to gain his ninth victory Saturday as the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-2.

Bill White, boosting his season average to .357 with three hits, and Joe Cunningham each drove in two runs to lead the attack on Bob Friend. The Pirates' 1958 ace dropped his ninth decision against three victories.

The Cardinals, notching their 10th victory in their last 13 games, staked Mizell to a 5-0 lead going into the seventh inning. The lefthander, who has lost three games this season, was shaky but effective in the clutch up to that point as the Pirates stranded nine runners.

In the seventh, Dick Schofield's double and singles by Dick Groat and Roman Mejias, plus Dick Stuart's sacrifice fly, produced the two Buc tallies.

McDaniel took over, he allowed an infield hit to Bill Virdon, but got Don Hoak to bounce into a double play. McDaniel then set down the last six men in order.

The Cardinals, cheered by 10,698 paying fans, scored twice in the first inning on a walk, White's single and Cunningham's double. White doubled and scored on Ray Jablonski's single in the third.

In the fifth, White again delivered with a two - run single, kayoing Friend.

Pirate catcher Hank Foiles was ejected by Umpire Bill Jackowski in the second inning for arguing over a ball-and-strike call.

Something's Got To Give In La-Ark League Today

Something's got to give in the La-Ark League today.

The amateur circuit presents its most attractive slate of the season today as the two leaders, unbeaten West Monroe and once-defeated Monroe, finally get together at Monroe's Legion Stadium at 2:30, two winless teams, Crossett and Oak Grove, meet at Oak Grove and Bastrop and Dubach, sharing third place with .500 records, clash at Dubach.

Monroe and West Monroe meet again Tuesday night in a make-up game. A Monroe sweep of the two games will put Bob Carter's Sports in first place by a game. Two wins by Dave McKenzie's Vols will leave them in front by three games, an almost unsurmountable lead barring a near-complete collapse by the leaders. A split will leave the standings as they are now, West Monroe on top by a game.

McKenzie will throw either his ace, Wayne Hendricks, or newcomer Robert Bennett, a 6-6 former Northeast hurler. Both are righthanders. Monroe's Carter is expected to pitch Carroll George, another ex-Indian righty who has no record in the La-Ark but hurled a sparkling two-hit shutout against Ruston of the Big Eight in an exhibition game.

Today's game is a home contest for West Monroe.

Either Crossett or Oak Grove will see the light of day this afternoon after sharing the cellar all season. Home-standing Oak Grove has lost seven in a row and Crossett six.

Wisconsin Wins Rowing Crown

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Wisconsin's tall, darkhorse Badgers swept to the front with a mile and a quarter to go and whipped Syracuse's favored Orange by two lengths for the Intercollegiate Rowing Assn. championship on Onondaga Lake Saturday.

The Big Ten rowers, tallest crew in the 11-shell varsity final, won their second IRA title and their first since the 1951 race at Marietta, Ohio.

The Badgers not only broke Cornell's victory streak at four but ended Eastern domination of the rowing classic ever since it was shifted to Onondaga in 1952.

MISSES NO-HITTER

Roberts Defeats Chicago, 6 To 3

CHICAGO (AP) — Robin Roberts, one of baseball's great righthanders, lost his bid for a no-hitter with one out in the eighth inning Saturday and then hung on to pitch Philadelphia to a 6-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Roberts, gaining his sixth triumph in 11 decisions, limited the Cubs to four hits and lost his shutout in the eighth inning when the Cubs scored a pair of runs on two hits, and two errors.

With one out in the eighth inning, Lee Walls hit a ground ball to shortstop Joe Koppe who threw wildly for a two base error. Roberts' no - hitter went down the drain when Randy Jackson bounced a slow roller to third. Third baseman Gene Freese threw the ball in desperation but it bounced away from Ed Bouchee and Walls scored.

Pinch batter Irv Noren the lined a clean single to left, sending home the second unearned run.

Until the eighth, the 32-year-old Roberts — who gained the 212th victory of his 12-year career — had baffled the Cubs on a diet of slow curves and changeups. With one out in the sixth, Jackson drew a walk to become Chicago's first base runner. Tony Taylor also walked in the sixth but Roberts got out of trouble when George Altman bounced out.

The Phillies staked Roberts to a 4-0 lead in the fourth inning and then added a pair of insurance runs in the ninth.

Philadelphia's four runs came on four hits and three walks sending starter Dick Drott to the showers after he forced in a run by walking Joe Koppe with the bases full.

An error, a sacrifice, Joe Koppe's single, another error and a sacrifice fly by Richie Ashburn added two more runs in the ninth.

Jim Marshall picked up a run for Chicago in the ninth when he led off with his sixth homer and after Ernie Banks singled, Roberts bore down to get the next three men and ended the game by fanning Walls.

Resaca Beats Quill In Stunning Upset

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK (AP) — The King Ranch's Resaca took the lead at almost the exact place where the ill-fated Black Hills fell a week ago, and went on to score a stunning upset over Quill in the $91,250 Coaching Club American Oaks at Belmont Park.

Last Saturday in a spill-thrill Belmont Stakes, Black Hills broke a leg and threw Eddie Arcaro in a wild pileup as Sword Dancer went on to win the big race for 3-year-old colts. The King Ranch colt was destroyed.

Panamanian jockey Manuel Ycaza held Resaca just off the pace in the Oaks, often termed the "fillies' Belmont." Then, as they started coming off the last turn with about five-sixteenths of a mile to travel, Resaca surged up on the outside, went past Reginald N. Webster's Quill, and headed for the finish line.

Quill, the 1958 champion 2-year-old filly, was a 1 to 4 choice of a crowd of 31,182 to grab the Oaks, longest, hardest and richest race in the country for 3-year-old fillies. Quill gave it a good try, however. With an eighth of a mile to travel, Resaca had a two-length lead, and at the wire, Quill had cut the margin to half a length.

The Happy Hill Farm's Czarina was 14 lengths further behind in third place, and it was another five lengths to Mrs. Louis Schwitzer's Addie Belle in the field of eight. Jimsen Weed, Fiji and Pracla were scratched.

Resaca is a daughter of Middleground, who won the 1950 Kentucky Derby and Belmont Stakes for the King Ranch of Robert J. Kleberg, Kingsville, Tex. She went off as the third choice and paid $19.30, $3.90 and $2.80. Quill, who had won the Acorn and the Mother Goose Stakes with ease in recent weeks, returned $2.30 and $2.10, while Czarina was $2.70 to show.

The start was delayed eight minutes when Hal Price Headley's Aesthetic tossed jockey Conn McCreary and bolted through the starting gate. The outriders brought her back after getting a new bridle.

Resaca's time for the mile and one quarter was 2:02 2-5 on a fast track.

This was the first stakes victory for Resaca, who had been beaten only half a length by Quill last fall in the rich Gardenia Stakes.

Resaca picked up a net purse of $58,512.50 in winning this richest of all Oaks.

Ycaza said Resaca got a good start and he was able to rate her just where he wanted to. "At the half mile pole she showed me that she wanted to run, so I let her go to it."

IOC Blasted By National AAU Group

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — The Executive Committee of the National Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) Saturday condemned the International Olympic Committee (IOC) for withdrawing recognition of Nationalist China. Without recognition, Nationalist China cannot compete in the Olympic Games.

A resolution, which AAU officials said was approved unanimously, demanded that the IOC "rescind immediately its unjustified action against Nationalist China."

The IOC in a meeting at Munich May 29 ordered the National Chinese group to withdraw. Red China representatives on the IOC withdrew Aug. 19, 1958, in a dispute over the presence of the Nationalists on the same committee.

Kellum Johnson of Dallas, president of the AAU, said he interpreted the IOC's action in Munics as a move to give both Chinese groups representation on the committee. He said he understood the IOC intended to invite the Nationalists to reapply for admission under another name.

The AAU committee's action was announced at a news conference in conjunction with the National AAU Track and Field Championships here.

Johnson said the decision was taken after Douglas Roby of Detroit, a member of the IOC and the AAU Executive Committee, had reported on the Munich meeting.

Roby and Jack Garland of Los Angeles, also a member of the IOC, voted against the expulsion. Avery Brundage of Chicago, president of the IOC, did not vote on the issue as presiding officer. There were about 50 IOC committee members present at Munich and it was announced 28 favored withdrawing recognition of Nationalist China.

The negative vote was not announced.

On-And-On In Ohio Derby Win

CLEVELAND (AP) — Calumet Farm's On-and-On led all the way to a seven-length victory Saturday in the 25th Ohio Derby at Thistledown.

The Nasrullah - sired colt, with jockey Steve Brooks aboard, ran the mile and one-eighth in 1:49 2-5 to haul down the $20,010 winner's share of the $32,510 purse. He carried top wight of 120 pounds.

It was the colt's first time to run the distance and his time was 1 2-5 seconds off the track record.

Mrs. L. E. Vanier's Sir Hawley finished second, a neck in front of Marless, in the race which drew 10 three-year-olds.

On-and-On, scratched from the Kentucky Derby at Louisville May 2, went to the post as the overwhelming favorite at 1-2 odds. He paid $3.00, $3.00 and $2.40. Sir Hawley paid $10.00 and $5.40 and Marless returned $4.60.

Bella Released From Hospital

BALTIMORE (AP)—Zeke Bella, Kansas City outfielder who suffered a concussion when he ran into a concrete abutment over a Memorial Stadium dugout Friday, has been released from Union Memorial Hospital.

The freak accident occurred as Bella returned to the bench after flying out to start the second inning of the first game of a doubleheader. The big outfielder was knocked unconscious.

Lew Denies Malice After Spiking Giant

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Milwaukee's winning pitcher, Lew Burdette, declared he did not purposely slide into San Francisco second baseman Daryl Spencer in the fourth inning of Saturday's game won by the Braves 4-1.

Burdette drew jeers of the crowd after his spikes ripped Spencer's pants. The San Francisco infielder wasn't scratched.

Last year, Spencer crashed into the Braves' Mel Roach who suffered a knee injury from which he hasn't fully recovered.

"Naturally, the fans are excited here," Burdette said after the game. "And you have good fans here. In that play, I wasn't going to slide. But when Andre Rodgers bobbled the ball at short, I had to, so I started the slide late. That was all.

"Spencer shouldn't complain. He goes in high and hard all the time."

Spencer didn't protest and Giant Manager Bill Rigney merely shrugged when asked if he thought Burdette's slide was intentional.

Asked if the boos and jeers bothered him, Burdette replied: "I don't mind. Sometimes I kind of like it."

It's a fact! Rebuilts deliver more power and better performance than new engines . . . if . . . all parts are new or rebuilt . . . if . . . they are rebuilt by experts. That's why it's smart to get a Ward rebuilt. All parts are new or rebuilt—all work is done by experts in a factory designed exclusively to rebuild engines. Wards rebuilts have higher compression, more piston displacement than original motors . . . you get more power, better performance.

Burdette Rips Giants

Milwaukee pitcher Lew Burdette (33), who cut down the Giants by a 4-1 count, tears into second base and Daryl Spencer of San Francisco in the fourth inning of yesterday's game in the California city. Burdette was forced at second and tore Spencer's trousers with his spikes although he was otherwise uninjured. The game was delayed while Spencer retired to the dressing room (right) for another pair of pants. (AP Wirephoto)

BURDETTE TAKES 11TH

Braves Regain Loop Lead With 4-1 Win Over 'Frisco

By JACK STEVENSON

SAN FRANCISC (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves regained the National League lead from San Francisco Saturday witha 4-1 victory behind Giant-killer Lew Burdette's five-hitter.

The Giants had first place only 17 hours.

The Braves began pecking away against 20-year-old left - hander Mike McCormick with a run in the second and never were headed.

First baseman Joe Adcock, taped securely to protect pulled rib muscles, returned to the Braves' line - up and belted his fifth homer, a 380-foot solo clout into the left field pavilion in the fifth inning.

It was Burdette's 11th victory, tying him with Pittsburgh's Elroy Face for the major league lead.

A capacity crowd of 22,905 watched under sunny skies as Burdette notched his 14th victory over the Giants in his last 15 tries.

The Giants escaped a shutout when Willie Mays doubled home Willie Kirkland, who had walked in the eighth.

The triumph put the Braves' season mark at 37-28 and the Giants a half game behind at 37-29 with the finale of the three-game series coming up Sunday.

Ace left-handers Warren Spahn for the Braves and John Antonelli for the Giants drew the pitching assignments.

Burdette became the object of boos and jeers from the fourth inning after sliding into second baseman Daryl Spencer and ripping the infielder's britches.

Spencer last year knocked down Milwaukee's second baseman Mel Roach with a hard slide and San Francisco's fans took Burdette's maneuver as retaliation.

The Braves scored in the second on Del Crandall's double and Johnny Logan s single.

They added another in the fourth when Giant shortstop Andre Rodgers threw the ball away and Logan reached second. After an infield grounder Burdette's single brought in the run.

Adcock's homer in the fifth gave the Braves a 3-0 edge.

McCormick's error on Eddie Mathews seventh inning grounder led to the Braves' second unearned run. Mathews stole third and scored on Adcock's sacrifice fly.

San Francisco left three runners stranded in the second and two in the third before Burdette settled down.

In the second, the threat ended when McCormick hit into a force play with two out. In the third, Mathews made a great stop of leadoff man Jimmy Davenport's grounder to third and threw him out.

Then Kirkland singled and reached third when Mays bounced a hit to right. But Orlando Cepeda fouled out and Spencer forced Mays.

McCormick, taken out for a pinch hitter in the seventh, was charged with his seventh loss against four victories. Burdette has lost five.

Bowen Wins Three Events At Speedbowl

Jack Bowen, driving V-8, captured three first places and one second place event at the Monroe Speedbowl last night.

Driving the entry owned by J. L. Ham Bowen, Bowen came in first in the sportsman's trophy dash, the sportsman's heat race and the sportsman's feature race, and finished second in the feature bug race.

Billy Bayles, steering No. 10, owned by Johnny Wilson, was first in the bug feature. He also finished second to Red Futch in the bug heat event.

Winner of the bug trophy dash race was H. L. Hale, driving No. 39, owned by Joe Mallard. Second place in the sportsman's heat race went to H. L. Russell in 40-plus, followed by Jimmy Wilson in No. 11.

Wilson also took second in the bug feature and Russell finished second in the sportsman's feature.

Harlon Hill Thrown For 6-Charge Loss

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Harlon Hill of the Chicago Bears ran into a hard hitting line of policemen here Saturday.

Hill, one of the pro football's top pass-catching ends, is free on bond after he was arrested on six charges, including drunken driving.

Police traced Hill to his home after obtaining his license number from Mark Paris, 16, driver of the other auto involved.

C. E. Hawkins, one of three policemen who made the arrest at Hill's home, quoted him as saying "You're too little to put those handcuffs on me."

Hill was taken into custody after what the officers described as a hard struggle.

Specific charges against Hill were: Drunk driving, running a red light, leaving the scene, resisting arrest, driving without a license and driving after his license was revoked. Police said he lost his license after being arrested in Arkansas recently on a drunk driving charge.

The veteran player from Florence, Ala., Teachers was out of action most of last season with an injured ankle.

He is back in the Bears' line-up this fall.

Drysdale Hits, Pitches Bums Past Redlegs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Don Drysdale drove in three runs with a homer and triple and pitched the first complete game of his career against Cincinnati Saturday night as Los Angeles belted the Reds 9-2.

Gil Hodges hit his ninth and 10th homers for the Dodgers.

Wally Moon also homered for Los Angeles and extended his hitting streak to 13 games. Frank Thomas hit his fifth homer this season for the Reds.

Drysdale, now 7-5, allowed six hits, struck out seven and walked two. He laads the majors in strikeouts with 110.

He drove in the first Los Angeles run with his triple in the fifth and produced two more with his second homer of the year in the sixth. Drysdale last season tied a National League record for pitchers by hitting seven home runs.

Hodges got his first homer off loser Bob Purkeyy in the sixth and connected again off Orlando Pena in the seventh. The bases were empty both times. This is the to Los Angeles that Hodges has first time since the Dodgers came hit two home runs in one game at home.

Moon got his fourth homer off Pena in the seventh.

Purkey, tagged for six runs in 5 2-3 innings, now is 6-8.

The Reds got both their runs in the fifth. Frank Thomas led off with his homer and Eddie Kasko scored on Johnny Temple's single after singling himself.

Big Seventh Puts Detroit Over Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Detroit scored five runs in the seventh inning Saturday and whipped the Washington Senators 7-4 .

Held to one hit for the first five innings by Washington starter Hal Griggs, the Tigers scored two in the sixth to tie it at 2-2 and then ripped the game wide open in the seventh.

Lou Berberet walked and beat Griggs' throw to second on Johnny Groth's bunt. Rocky Bridges, in a sacrifice attempt, beat out his bunt to fill the bases. After Griggs retired two batters without an advance, ex-Senator Eddie Yost singled across two runs and Larry Osborne doubled home two more. The fifth came in on second baseman Reno Bertoia's throwing error on Harvey Kuenn's infield single.

The Senators were held homerless for the first time in eight games. Rookie Bob Allison, with two singles and a two-run double was the big gun. Frank Lary, working the first six innings, got his eighth victory, with the help of a three-inning relief job by Dave Sisler.

Don Equals Old Mark--But Loses

By FRANK PITMAN

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—Oregon freshman miler Dyrol Burleson and Kansas University hurdler Charlie Tidwell raced to sensational record-breaking victories Saturday in the rain-dampened National AAU Track and Field Championships.

Burleson, unmindful of the mile-high altitude or the soggy cinders, beat teammate Jim Grelle, the NCAA mile champion, in the 1,500-meter race. Burleson's time of 3 minutes, 47.5 seconds cracked the AAU mark of 3:47.9 set in 1940 by Wisconsin's Walter Mehl.

Tidwell, NCAA 100-yard dash champion, blazed to a U.S. record in the 200-meters low hurdles. His time around one curve of :22.6 seconds broke his 1958 mark of :22.7. Tidwell also erased the AAU mark of :23.3 by Harrison Dillard in 1946.

San Jose State sprinter Ray Norton sped to victory in the 200 meters in :20.8 to become the only double champion in the two-day meet. Norton copped the 100 meters in :10.5.

Norton took over the crowns held last year by Bobby Morrow, Abilene Christian's star who failed to qualify in either event. Morrow has been unable to get in top condition since suffering a muscle spasm in his left thigh at Houston June 6.

The Southern California Striders, featuring record - breaking shot putter Parry O'Brien, repeated as team champions.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon was on hand to present the team trophy.

O'Brien set the only record in Friday's eight events when he pushed the 16-pound iron ball 62 feet, 2¼ inches to erase his AAU meet record of 61-11¼ set last year. His world record is 63-2.

Al Oerter of the New York Athletic Club set an AAU meet record in the discus with a toss of 186 feet, 5 inches. Fortune Gorden set the old mark of 183-9½ in 1953.

Burleson's sensational 1,500-meter run—the equivalent of about a 4:05 mile—punctured the myth that the mile altitude is a handicap for distance runners.

"I was exhausted as I always am after a race," Burleson said, "but I wasn't bothered by the altitude."

Gail Hodgson, South African running for Oklahoma University, set the pace on the first three laps but faded in the middle of the back stretch and finished fourth.

Penn State's Ed Moran trailed Hodgson by a yard in the early stages before Burleson and Grelle made their drive.

Grelle was third on the second lap. He overhauled Moran in the stretch, but couldn't match the blistering finish by Burleson, who won going away by 6 yards.

Burleson, as a freshman, is ineligible for NCAA competition.

Olympic sprint champion Bobby Morrow of Abilene, Tex., Christian College failed for the second straight day to qualify in defense of his AAU championchampionships.

Running in an eight-man 200-meter field Morrow finished sixth in a qualifying heat won by Mel Barnwell of the University of Pittsburgh in :21.2 seconds. Morrow, hampered by a sore thigh for the past two weeks, finished last in a nine - man qualifying heat for the 100 meters Friday.

Morrow won both the 100-yard and 220-yard titles at the AAU last year. The running events this year are in metric distances.

Eddie Southern of the University of Texas won the 400-meter race in 46.1 seconds, considerably off his AAU record of :45.8 for 440 yards. Southern wrapped up his second straight AAU crown at that distance by easily outrunning Dave Mills of Purdue in :46.4 and Jack Yearman of the San Francisco Olympic Club in :46.6.

Bob Backus of the New York Athletic Club repeated as 56-pound weight champion with a throw of 44 feet, 3½ inches, short of his AAU record by 5 inches.

Bill Dellinger, University of Oregon star now in the Air Force, spurted on the final lap to win the 5,000-meter run in 14 minutes, 47.6 seconds. Dellinger trailed trailed Lewis Stieglitz, of the U.S. Navy, for the first 2 miles and was a yard back at the start of the final lap. Dellinger grabbed the lead on the back stretch and won going away by 10 yards.

DON EQUALS OLD RECORD

BOULDER, Colo. (Special) — Don Styron of Northeast equalled Harrison Dillard's old AAU record of 23.3 in the 200-meter low hurdles in the semi-finals of the National AAU Championships here yesterday yet finished fourth and failed to qualify for the finals.

Running around a curve, Don came in behind Hayes Jones of Eastern Michigan, Warren Cawley (unattached), and Walter Arlt of Washington State. Jones won the heat with a 22.9. Charlie Tidwell of Kansas later set a new AAU and American record of 22.6 in the finals.

Don finished third in one of the quarter-final heats behind Jones and Arlt with a 23.6 time.

Dave Styron ran sixth in the third heat of the 220 meter semi-finals with a fine 21.5 around the curve and failed to qualify. Alex Plummer of the Air Force won the heat with a 21.0 clocking. Ray Norton of Santa Clara Youth Village later won the finals with a 20.8 time.

FIFTH DEFENSE

Floyd Favored To Whip Swede

NEW YORK (AP) — Speedy Floyd Patterson is a heavy 3½ to 1 favorite to whip Sweden's Ingemar Johnsson Thursday night at Yankee Stadium in his fifth defense of the world heavyweight title.

With no free home television and the New York area blacked out on the closed circuit theater TV promoter Bill Rosensohn hopefully talks about a crowd of 45,000 and a gate of $700,000 with a $100 top.

Some think he is about $200,000 too optimistic. There will be a radio broadcast by ABC of the 15-round-match, scheduled for 9:30 p.m., EST.

The show will be seen in about 170 locations in 135 cities on Tele-PrompTer theater TV which has about 550,000 seats at its disposal. The Ray Robinson-Carmen Basilio rematch in 1958 drew 364,876 fans paying $1,400,000 in theaters.

Boomed as a million dollar fight when it was announced last winter, the show has run into many difficulties. The promoter and the champion's manager, Cus D'Amato, had an argument that almost led to the bout's removal to another city. A law suit over an alleged contract by Johansson for a rematch with Eddie Machen slowed things down. A "warmup" fight for Patterson with Brian London in Indianapolis, May 1 did not help.

Johansson remains a question mark. As the European champion he is unbeaten in 21 fights with 13 knockouts to his credit. Still, there is the black mark against him of being disqualified for not fighting in the 1952 Olympic finals at Helsinki.

Instead of the challenger flattening sparring partners in the old buildup routine, the favored champ has been doing the heavy bombing. One day he scored six knockdowns to the head and body.

Patterson has won 22 straight, knocking out 16 of his last 17 opponents, since he lost his only pro fight to Joey Maxim in an eight-round bout in 1954. His record is 35-1 with 26 knockouts. No challenger has gone the route against him.

Johansson's vaunted right that finished Machen in the first round has been kept under cover at his Grossinger, N. Y. camp. The handsome 26-year-old boxer from Goteborg has displayed a jolting left jab and little else except condition and a fine, strong body.

Perhaps Johansson really has been saving his right for the champ. Perhaps the thunderbolt right is overrated. Only the visiting Swedes who swarm around his camp seem to have real confidence in his chances.

Patterson has been training as though he were going to fight a composite of Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney and Joe Louis. Down to 182 pounds—about 15 less than the challenger—he has been working like a man out for a quickie. Perhaps he dreams of convincing skeptics by beating Louis' time against Max Schmeling in another memorable international bout. That one lasted 2 minutes, 4 seconds.

Johansson is a stand up boxer who flicks a jab, backs off and looks for a chance to throw the right. At least, that is what they say he did in Europe. He won the European title by stopping Franco Cavicchi in 1956 and stopped Henry Cooper (conqueror of London) and Joe Erskine in defenses. Except for Machen, the only American he fought was Archie McBride who lasted the entire 10 rounds in 1957. The Machen fight, Sept. 14, was his last.

D'Amato's careful selection of opponents for Patterson has drawn considerable criticism. After he won the title by knocking out Archie Moore in 1956, Patterson stopped Hurricane Jackson. Then he went against an amateur, Pete Rademacher, and knocked him out after getting off the floor.

Roy Harris, the pride of Cut and Shoot, Tex. also floored Patterson last August before Patterson stopped him in 12 rounds. The London fight May 1 last 11 rounds before the Britisher retired for the night.

Johansson's training camp has been unique in many ways. He has his father, mother, sister, two brothers, his fiance and his brother's finance at a mansion near the training ring. From time to time he dropped down to New York (about 120 miles) to appear on television or testify in court.

The finances of the show are a bit complicated. Patterson is supposed to get a $300,000 guarantee and Johansson $100,000. However, they also are working on percentages against the guarantee. Patterson gets 30 per cent of the gate. Johansson 20 per cent and the promoter 50 per cent. However, the promoter has no share of the extra from theater TV-radio-movies which is owned jointly by TelePrompTer and Patterson. Johansson gets 20 per cent of that cash.

Ramblers Edge Minden, 4 To 3

RUSTON, La. (Special) — The Ruston Ramblers, paced by Wade Scott's home run in the third inning, edged past Minden, 4-3, in a Big Eight contest last night.

Butch Mixon started on the hill for Ruston and went all the way to register the win. He was touched for only three hits.

Wayne Thrash and Charley Francis clouted home runs for Minden.

Colbert's and Farmer-Heard triumphed in Southside League action last night.

Behind the pitching of Hart and the 3-4 effort at the plate by Rutledge, Colbert's turned back Central Bank, 8-7. Painich, who went 2-4 at the plate, was the losing pitcher.

Farmer-Heard nipped Pan Am, 6-5, as Shepard, the loser, limited them to only three hits. Venable and Preddy formed the winning combination. Beasely and J. Tayor had 2-3 each for Pan Am, while Mitchel, Venable and Benson accounted for the three hits for Farmer-Heard.

Yankees Humble Indians Behind Maas' Eight-Hitter

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees parlayed Herb Score's five walks and two throwing errors into seven runs in the first two innings Saturday and romped to a 10-2 victory over Cleveland behind the eight-hit pitching of Duke Maas.

Bill Skowron hammered his 11th and 12th homers and a triple and drove in five runs for the Yanks, who won their fifth straight and pulled within 1½ games of the first-place Indians.

Maas, now 5-4 survived bases-loaded jams in the first and third innings to record his secod complete game, first since April 26.

Woody Held hit his 11th homer for both Cleveland runs in the ninth.

Score, losing only his second in seven lifetime decisions with New York, walked two and threw wild on an attempted pickoff in the first inning when the Yankees scored twice. He walked three, two with the bases loaded, and threw wild after fielding a bunt in the second when the Yanks added five more runs.

George Strickland also contributed a throwing error to make five of the seven runs off Score unearned. Score allowed only two hits—an RBI triple by Skowron in the first, and a bunt single by Bobby Richardson leading off the second.

Skowron hit his 11th homer off reliever Al Cicotte after Mickey Mantle singled in the fifth, and hit No. 12 in the seventh with the bases empty against Jim Perry, Cleveland's third pitcher. Score now is 7-4 this season, 2-1 against New York.

Score walked Hank Bauer and Mantle in the first and Bauer score and Mantle raced to third when the left-hander threw past third as Bauer broke off second on his stretch. Skowron's triple to right scored mantle.

Gil McDougald walking following Richardson's safe bunt in the second and the bases were loaded with none out when Score threw high to first after fielding Maas' sacrifice bunt. After Bauer fouled out, Jim Pisoni and Mantle walked to force in two runs. Cicotte took over and Maas scored as Skowron bounced into a force at second. Pisoni scored when Strickland's relay to first was wild, and Skowron scored on Elston Howard's 440 - foot triple to center.

Maas, who nailed Russ Nixon on a fly to left with the bases full and two out in the first, waded into trouble on consecutive singles by Strickland, Vic Power and Tito Francona that loaded the bases with none out in the third.

HOYT LOSES SECOND IN ROW

Daley Outshines Wilhelm, 6 To 2

BALTIMORE (AP)—Bud Daley, with help from reliever Bob Grim, outshone Hoyt Wilhelm in a battle of knuckleballs Saturday night as the Kansas City Athletics snapped a seven-game losing streak with a 6-2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Daley, who got credit for his sixth triumph in 11 decisions, and Grim were supported by a 17-hit attack including two home runs by Bob Cerv and one by Kent Hadley before 26,402.

Wilhelm, suffering his second straight defeat after nine consecutive victories, had allowed only one other home run all year. Before being lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth, he gave up 13 hits, six of them for extra bases.

Besides the homers in the second and eighth innings by Cerv and by Hadley in the third, the hits off Wilhelm included Jerry Lumpe's run-scoring triple in the seventh.

Grim came on in the eighth after Daley, touched for only two singles until then, ran into trouble. The starting left-hander gave up four more singles and a run in this frame.

With one run in, two on and two out, Grim gave up a run-registering single to Bob Nieman, then fanned Gus Triandos to end the threat with the A's still ahead 4-2.

They got two insurance runs off reliever Billy Loes in the ninth on four singles, including RBI blows by Hadley and Dick Williams.

The loss, coming after four straight victories, dropped the Orioles out of a tie with Detroit for second place in the American League standings and left them a full game behind the leading Cleveland Indians.

Finsterwald, Crampton Tie For Canadian Open Lead

MONTREAL (AP) — Bruce Crampton, a straight-shooting son of a Sydney, Australia, policeman, and Dow Finsterwald. the U.S. PGA champion, tied for the lead Saturday after the third round of the Canadian Open Golf Championship.

Finishing in a steady rain at the Islesmere Course, Crampton, leader at the halfway point, posted a 70 for his 205 total and Finsterwald shot a 69 to tie him for the lead.

It still was anybody's tournament going into Sunday's final round as the weather failed to make the 6,695-yard, par 36-36—72 Islesmere Course tough for the top professionals of four countries.

Although their 54-hole totals of 205 were 11 under Islesmere's par, Crampton and Finsterwald had only a one-stroke lead over two very tough campaigners, Art Wall of Pocono Manor, Pa., winner of three tournaments and nearly $35,000 on the pro circuit this year, and bulldog Doug Ford, former Masters and PGA winner. Wall had a third round 70 and Ford a 69.

Two strokes behind the leaders at 207 came Jay Hebert of Sanford, Fla., two under par with a 70. Bob Rosburg of Palo Alto, Calif., second to Bill Casper in last week's U.S. Open, had a par 72 for 208 and Tommy Bolt, last year's U.S. Open champion, had a 70 for 209.

Although sub-par scores were numerous, Casper couldn't make it. He had a 74 and dropped back to 217—out of contention.

Finsterwald caught up with this Australian rival on the back nine after trailing by two strokes at the 45-hole turn—the ninth—and by three at the 11th.

Crampton birdied the 11th with a 6-foot putt. But he had a bogey 6 at the 12th and Finsterwald made his par. At the 14th, Bruce was trapped off the tee, overshot the green and took a 5. Finsterwald made his par 3 and they were even.

Instead of cracking then, Crampton ran in an uphill 6-foot putt for a birdie at the 15th and went ahead again. They both birdied the 16th and parred the 17th, then Finsterwald holed a 15-foot birdie putt in the 18th green to draw even again.

Firpo, Massey Meet Once Again

Unwilling Firpo Zybysko has been forced back into the B&B Arena ring but he won't bring along his belt.

The bald Pole, who beat Al Massey last week in a Louisiana heavyweight title match, will take on Al again Monday evening but the championship belt won't be at stake.

Zybysko at first refused to meet Massey again but district athletic commissioner Dave Silverstein told him to get back into the ring with Al and Firpo reluctantly consented.

Ex-champ Bill Barney has also been clamoring for a return with Zybysko but that bout has been shelved for the time being.

Monday night's affair, billed as the main event, will go 60 minutes or less with two falls to win.

Two other bouts will be presented. In a semi-final, Treach Phillips, now claiming Salt Lake City, Utah, as home, will trade grunt and groans with popular Jerry Miller of Rockford, Ill., over the 45-minute or less route with two falls to win.

Frankie Kovac, formerly of Poland, and Omar Kyam, formerly of exotic Persia, meet in the night's first bout, an international struggle billed for 20 minutes and one fall to win.

The veterans Massey and Zybysko have a history of rowdy matches. Two weeks ago, Massey was accused of bringing a pair of brass knuckles into the ring. Turned out Firpo brought the weapon into the fight and hid them in Massey's trunks.

Next thing you know, that dirty dog Zybysko will sneak in a machine gun.

Red Holley spun a nifty three-hitter as fifth-place Monroe Auto Mart dropped cellar-dwelling Marion, 7-2, last night.

Scalia had a 2-4 to pace the Auto boys and Calson, Smith and Allen hit safely for Marion. Schon was the losing twirler.

Gannaway had two hits, including a round-tripper to boost C&F over Samporgnaro's, 8-4. Red Campbell outdueled L. V. Norris to register the win. Head's 3-4 was tops for the losers.

A sparkling one-hit performance by Danny Sullivan gave First Baptist a 1-0 decision over the Independents. Bryant led the winners with 2-3 and Carl Inzina collected the lone safetly off Sullivan.

Red Sox Down Chicago In Two

BOSTON (AP)—Boston swept a day-night doubleheader from Chicago Saturday, 8-2 and 9-0, dumping the reeling White Sox from second to fifth place in the American League standings.

The losses were the fourth and fifth straight for the White Sox who led the league only five days ago. They now trail fourth-place New York by one percentage point—.525 and .524.

Boston used a six-run burst in the third inning and the sharp, three-hit pitching of Jerry Casale for the nightcap victory.

A four-run first inning off Early Wynn put the Red Sox off and running to their afternoon decision.

Frank Malzone drove in five runs for the Red Sox. He got three in the first game, two of them on a homer, and two more in the second at Boston jumped from the cellar to sixth place.

Casale, a rookie right-hander, now has a 6-4 record.

Pete Runnels, who extended his hitting streak to 17 straight games, singled to start things against loser Dick Donovan in the third inning of the nightcap.

That was followed by two bases on balls. Malzone singled in two runs. Singles by Dick Gernert and Marty Keough each produced a run. Another scored on an error by Nellie Fox, and Don Buddin singled in the last one of the inning.

Boston added a single run in the seventh and Marty Keough doubled in two more in the eighth.

Vic Wertz singled in two runs and Malzone's ninth homer of the year accounted for two more in the first inning of the opener.

WHITE STARS IN 5-2 WIN

Mizell Notches 9th As Bucs Fall

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Wilmer Mizell needed help from Lindy McDaniel to gain his ninth victory Saturday as the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-2.

Bill White, boosting his season average to .357 with three hits, and Joe Cunningham each drove in two runs to lead the attack on Bob Friend. The Pirates' 1958 ace dropped his ninth decision against three victories.

The Cardinals, notching their 10th victory in their last 13 games, staked Mizell to a 5-0 lead going into the seventh inning. The lefthander, who has lost three games this season, was shaky but effective in the clutch up to that point as the Pirates stranded nine runners.

In the seventh, Dick Schofield's double and singles by Dick Groat and Roman Mejias, plus Dick Stuart's sacrifice fly, produced the two Buc tallies.

McDaniel took over, he allowed an infield hit to Bill Virdon, but got Don Hoak to bounce into a double play. McDaniel then set down the last six men in order.

The Cardinals, cheered by 10,698 paying fans, scored twice in the first inning on a walk, White's single and Cunningham's double. White doubled and scored on Ray Jablonski's single in the third.

In the fifth, White again delivered with a two - run single, kayoing Friend.

Pirate catcher Hank Foiles was ejected by Umpire Bill Jackowski in the second inning for arguing over a ball-and-strike call.

ATTRACTIVE SCHEDULE

Something's Got To Give In La-Ark League Today

Something's got to give in the La-Ark League today.

The amateur circuit presents its most attractive slate of the season today as the two leaders, unbeaten West Monroe and once-defeated Monroe, finally get together at Monroe's Legion Stadium at 2:30, two winless teams, Crossett and Oak Grove, meet at Oak Grove and Bastrop and Dubach, sharing third place with .500 records, clash at Dubach.

Monroe and West Monroe meet again Tuesday night in a make-up game. A Monroe sweep of the two games will put Bob Carter's Sports in first place by a game. Two wins by Dave McKenzie's Vols will leave them in front by three games, an almost unsurmountable lead barring a near-complete collapse by the leaders. A split will leave the standings as they are now, West Monroe on top by a game.

McKenzie will throw either his ace, Wayne Hendricks, or newcomer Robert Bennett, a 6-6 former Northeast hurler. Both are righthanders. Monroe's Carter is expected to pitch Carroll George, another ex-Indian righty who has no record in the La-Ark but hurled a sparkling two-hit shutout against Ruston of the Big Eight in an exhibition game.

Today's game is a home contest for West Monroe.

Either Crossett or Oak Grove will see the light of day this afternoon after sharing the cellar all season. Home-standing Oak Grove has lost seven in a row and Crossett six.

Wisconsin Wins Rowing Crown

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Wisconsin's tall, darkhorse Badgers swept to the front with a mile and a quarter to go and whipped Syracuse's favored Orange by two lengths for the Intercollegiate Rowing Assn. championship on ... swept Onondaga Lake Saturday.

The Big Ten rowers, tallest crew in the 11-shell varsity final, won their second IRA title and their first since the 1951 race at Marietta, Ohio.

The Badgers not only broke Cornell's victory streak at four but ended Eastern domination of this rowing classic ever since it was shifted to Onondaga in 1952.

MISSES NO-HITTER

Roberts Defeats Chicago, 6 To 3

CHICAGO (AP) — Robin Roberts, one of baseball's great righthanders, lost his bid for a no-hitter with one out in the eighth inning Saturday and then hung on to pitch Philadelphia to a 6-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Roberts, gaining his sixth triumph in 11 decisions, limited the Cubs to four hits and lost his shutout in the eighth inning when the Cubs scored a pair of runs on two hits, and two errors.

With one out in the eighth inning, Lee Walls hit a ground ball to shortstop Joe Koppe who threw wildly for a two base error. Roberts' no - hitter went down the drain when Randy Jackson bounced a slow roller to third. Third baseman Gene Freese threw the ball in desperation but it bounced away from Ed Bouchee and Walls scored.

Pinch batter Irv Noren the lined a clean single to left, sending home the second unearned run.

Until the eighth, the 32-year-old Roberts — who gained the 212th victory of his 12-year career — had baffled the Cubs on a diet of slow curves and changeups. With one out in the sixth, Jackson drew a walk to become Chicago's first base runner. Tony Taylor also walked in the sixth but Roberts got out of trouble when George Altman bounced out.

The Phillies staked Roberts to a 4-0 lead in the fourth inning and then added a pair of insurance runs in the ninth.

Philadelphia's four runs came on four hits and three walks sending starter Dick Drott to the showers after he forced in a run by walking Joe Koppe with the bases full.

An error, a sacrifice, Joe Koppe's single, another error and a sacrifice fly by Richie Ashburn added two more runs in the ninth.

Jim Marshall picked up a run for Chicago in the ninth when he led off with his sixth homer and after Ernie Banks singled, Roberts bore down to get the next three men and ended the game by fanning Walls.

Resaca Beats Quill In Stunning Upset

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK (AP) — The King Ranch's Resaca took the lead at almost the exact place where the ill-fated Black Hills fell a week ago, and went on to score a stunning upset over Quill in the $91,250 Coaching Club American Oaks at Belmont Park.

Last Saturday in a spill-thrill Belmont Stakes, Black Hills broke a leg and threw Eddie Arcaro in a wild pileup as Sword Dancer went on to win the big race for 3-year-old colts. The King Ranch colt was destroyed.

Panamanian jockey Manuel Ycaza held Resaca just off the pace in the Oaks, often termed the "fillies' Belmont." Then, as they started coming off the last turn with about five-sixteenths of a mile to travel, Resaca surged up on the outside, went past Reginald N. Webster's Quill, and headed for the finish line.

Quill, the 1958 champion 2-year-old filly, was a 1 to 4 choice of a crowd of 31,182 to grab the Oaks, longest, hardest and richest race in the country for 3-year-old fillies. Quill gave it a good try, however. With an eighth of a mile to travel, Resaca had a two-length lead, and at the wire, Quill had cut the margin to half a length.

The Happy Hill Farm's Czarina was 14 lengths further behind in third place, and it was another five lengths to Mrs. Louis Schwitzer's Addie Belle in the field of eight. Jimsen Weed, Fiji and Pracla were scratched.

Resaca is a daughter of Middleground, who won the 1950 Kentucky Derby and Belmont Stakes for the King Ranch of Robert J. Kleberg, Kingsville, Tex. She went off as the third choice and paid $19.30, $3.90 and $2.80. Quill, who had won the Acorn and the Mother Goose Stakes with ease in recent weeks, returned $2.30 and $2.10, while Czarina was $2.70 to show.

The start was delayed eight minutes when Hal Price Headley's Aesthetic tossed jockey Conn McCreary and bolted through the starting gate. The outriders brought her back after getting a new bridle.

Resaca's time for the mile and one quarter was 2:02 2-5 on a fast track.

This was the first stakes victory for Resaca, who had been beaten only half a length by Quill last fall in the rich Gardenia Stakes.

Resaca picked up a net purse of $58,512.50 in winning this richest of all Oaks.

Ycaza said Resaca got a good start and he was able to rate her just where he wanted to. "At the half mile pole she showed me that she wanted to run, so I let her go to it."

Swede Winds Up Training For Title Bout

GROSSINGER, N. Y. (AP) — Still using his right hand sparingly, heavyweight challenger Ingemar Johansson of Sweden wound up training Saturday for his title bout with champion Floyd Patterson at Yankee Stadium Thursday night.

Johansson, who says he'll spend the next four days loafing and building up his strength, worked six rounds in the outdoor ring, put in two rounds on the punching bag and said:

"I know I am in very good condition. It isn't necessary for me to win by a knockout. I'm in condition to go 15 rounds."

Was he still confident of winning?

"Certainly," he said, "every fighter is—or ought to be."

Former heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano watched part of the workout as Johansson went two rounds each with Bill Johnson, Artie Towne and Clarence Floyd.

Observers called it only a "fair" workout and Marciano said:

"He's a big fellow and in good shape but I'd like to see him throw more of that right hand."

On-And-On In Ohio Derby Win

CLEVELAND (AP) — Calumet Farm's On-and-On led all the way to a seven-length victory Saturday in the 25th Ohio Derby at Thistledown.

The Nasrullah - sired colt, with jockey Steve Brooks aboard, ran the mile and one-eighth in 1:49 2-5 to haul down the $20,010 winner's share of the $32,510 purse. He carried top wight of 120 pounds.

It was the colt's first time to run the distance and his time was 1 2-5 seconds off the track record.

Mrs. L. E. Vanier's Sir Hawley finished second, a neck in front of Marless, in the race which drew 10 three-year-olds.

On-and-On, scratched from the Kentucky Derby at Louisville May 2, went to the post as the overwhelming favorite at 1-2 odds. He paid $3.00, $3.00 and $2.40. Sir Hawley paid $10.00 and $5.40 and Marless returned $4.60.

IOC Blasted By National AAU Group

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — The Executive Committee of the National Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) Saturday condemned the International Olympic Committee (IOC) for withdrawing recognition of Nationalist China. Without recognition, Nationalist China cannot compete in the Olympic Games.

A resolution, which AAU officials said was approved unanimously, demanded that the IOC "rescind immediately its unjustified action against Nationalist China."

The IOC in a meeting at Munich May 29 ordered the "National Chinese group to withdraw. Red China representatives on the IOC withdrew Aug. 19, 1958, in a dispute over the presence of the Nationalists on the same committee.

Kellum Johnson of Dallas, president of the AAU, said he interpreted the IOC's action in Munics as a move to give both Chinese groups representation on the committee. He said he understood the IOC intended to invite the Nationalists to reapply for admission under another name.

The AAU committee's action was announced at a news conference in conjunction with the National AAU Track and Field Championships here.

Johnson said the decision was taken after Douglas Roby of Detroit, a member of the IOC and the AAU Executive Committee, had reported on the Munich meeting.

Roby and Jack Garland of Los Angeles, also a member of the IOC, voted against the expulsion. Avery Brundage of Chicago, president of the IOC, did not vote on the issue as presiding officer. There were about 50 IOC committee members present at Munich and it was announced 28 favored withdrawing recognition of Nationalist China.

The negative vote was not announced.

Bella Released From Hospital

BALTIMORE (AP)—Zeke Bella Kansas City outfielder who suffered a concussion when he ran into a concrete abutment over a Memorial Stadium dugout Friday, has been released from Union Memorial Hospital.

The freak accident occurred as Bella returned to the bench after flying out to start the second inning of the first game of a doubleheader. The big outfielder was knocked unconscious.

Lew Denies Malice After Spiking Giant

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Milwaukee's winning pitcher, Lew Burdette, declared he did not purposely slide into San Francisco second baseman Daryl Spencer in the fourth inning of Saturday's game won by the Braves 4-1.

Burdette drew jeers of the crowd after his spikes ripped Spencer's pants. The San Francisco infielder wasn't scratched.

Last year, Spencer crashed into the Braves' Mel Roach who suffered a knee injury from which he hasn't fully recovered.

"Naturally, the fans are excited here," Burdette said after the game. "And you have good fans here. In that play, I wasn't going to slide. But when Andre Rodgers bobbled the ball at short, I had to, so I started the slide late. That was all.

"Spencer shouldn't complain. He goes in high and hard all the time."

Spencer didn't protest and Giant Manager Bill Rigney merely shrugged when asked if he thought Burdette's slide was intentional.

Asked if the boos and jeers bothered him, Burdette replied: "I don't mind. Sometimes I kind of like it."

Honeys Gem Beats Indian Maid By Head

CHICAGO (AP)— Honeys Gem, a 4-year old brown filly, led almost all the way to capture the $58,150 Beverly Handicap for fillies and mares at Washington Park Saturday.

Bornastar, the 4-5 favorite, never was in contention in the one mile feature, but managed to finish fourth.

Honeys Gem, ridden by Johnny Longden, staved off a strong stretch drive by Indian Maid, the only 3-year-old in the field of 13, winning by a head.

Honeys Gem, owned by Conejo Ranch of Thousand Oaks, Calif., had failed to place only once in eight previous starts and finished second to vaunted Bug Brush in the Sequoia Handicap June 2 at Hollywood Park.

Milly K. edged out Bornastar for third money.

Moneys Gem returned $15.40, $6.60 and $5.00. Indian Maid paid $6.60 and $4.80.

Milly K.'s price was $12.40.

Honeys Gem's time over a fast track for the mile was 1:34. This broke the stakes record of 1:34 2-5 set by Bewitch.

Bornastar, carrying top weight of 126 pounds against 115 on Honeys Gem, moved up to third on the stretch bend but failed to challenge.

Bornastar was the 1958 national champion handicap mare and had won her last seven straight races.

Honeys Gem took the lead shortly after the start, lost it momentarily to Betty Linn in the early stretch, and then grabbed it again. Honeys Gem just lasted to hold off Indian Maid by a head. A Glitter, the Calumet Farm's filly, made a brief bid on the far turn, but failed to get anywhere close to the leader, finishing 13th.

Bug Brush Easy Winner At Inglewood

By BOB MYERS

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — C. V. Whitney's Bug Brush, the lone filly in the field, captured the $54,050 Inglewood Handicap Saturday to stamp herself as a definite threat for major handicap honors at the Hollywood Park meeting.

Turned loose by jockey Angel Valenzuela as she rounded the turn into the head of the stretch, the 4-year-old filly queen quickly drew out and won by more than 2 lengths over Amerigo.

How Now was third in the mile and one - sixteenth feature, unreeled before an estimated 46,000 fans.

Bug Brush thus becomes a solid threat to win the $100,000-added Hollywood Gold Cup Handicap July 11.

The time was 1:40 4-5.

Bug Brush made this her second stakes victory of the meeting and her seventh win of the year. It boosted her earnings for 1959 to $149,800 with the net of $31,000.

Bug Brush, the heavily bet favorite, returned $4.60, $3 and $2.50; The English-bred Amerigo paid $4.10 and $3.50, and How Now $4.30.

Henry Upsets Favorite In SLTA Meet

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Crawford Henry of Atlanta staged a major upset in the Southern Lawn Tennis Assn. Tournament Saturday, ousting top seeded Donald Dell of Bethesda, Md.

Henry, a junior at Tulane University, slammed home the clincher with an ace. The score was 2-6, 9-7, 6-4.

Ranked sixth for this tournament, Henry will meet fourth-seeded John Powless, Florida State University tennis coach from Flora, Ill., for the title Sunday.

Powless got home in straight sets, 6-2, 6-4, against second-ranked Jerry Moss, Miami University entry from Coral Gables, Fla.

Women's singles saw fourth-seeded Jean Clarke and teen-ager Justina Bricka of St. Louis move into the final.

Miss Clarke won over Mari Martin of Australia, 5-7, 6-4, 8-6, after the left-handed Miss Bricka had beaten Roberta Alison of Alexander City, Ala., 6-3, 6-3.

Floyd Begins Tapering Off

CHATHAM N.J. (AP) — Floyd Patterson began tapering off Saturday in his preparation for the defense of his world heavyweight boxing title against Ingemar Johansson of Sweden in New York's Yankee Stadium Thursday night.

He ran the usual four miles before breakfast but cut the boxing to three rounds, one with Bill Tate of Chicago and two with Lou Jones of Rockford, Ill.

Archie McBride, heavyweight from Trenton, N. J., watched the ring workout but would not comment on the approaching bout.

Finals Slated Today In Club Four-Ball Meet

Ed Harper and H. W. McSherry tee off against Sonny and Jim Harper this afternoon at Bayou DeSiard Country Club in the final round of the club four-ball golf tournament.

Ed Harper, father of Sonny and Jim, teamed up with McSherry to beat Ivy Jordan and Bob Carson 3 and 2 yesterday in semi-final play. The finalists drew a bye in their first match and defeated twosomes composed of Bobby Garrett and Dickie Guerriero 1 up to gain the finals.

Sonny and Jim edged past Foster Wallace and Curtis Nichols 1 up yesterday to move into the final round. They downed Jim Fortner and Brenton Kellogg 5 and 4, Al Gallagher and Dr. Frank Rizzo 4 and 2, and Stan Bagwell and H. L. Woods Jr., 2 and 1 in earlier tourney matches.

Howell Beats Andy Lloyd In Southeastern

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—Unseeded Speed Howell of Atlanta and top-ranked Jim Beste of Baton Rouge, La., captured singles titles Saturday in the finals of the fourth Southeastern Junior Invitational Tennis Tournament.

Howell fought off determined Andy Lloyd of Shreveport, La., the second ranked player in the junior (18 and under) division, 8-6, 7-5, to climax a march through favored opponents.

Earlier, the tall Atlanta youth had ousted defending champion Don Caton of Pensacola, Fla., and fourth-ranked Ernest Cox of Mobile.

Beste, favored in the boys (15 and under) division, was extended by Ham Magill of Athens, Ga. Beaten 6-3 in the first set, Beste snapped back to win the second set 6-3, and broke through for two straight games and an 8-6 victory in the third set.

Howell and Bob Hardcastle of Atlanta won the junior doubles competition while Magill and John Pickens of Tuscaloosa took the boys doubles title.

Howell and Hardcastle went three sets to defeat Doug Stewart of Anniston and Cox, 7-5, 4-6 and 8-6.

IN PRODUCTION, INCOME

Nation Enjoying Best Year Ever

NEW YORK (UPI) — America is rounding out its best first half year in history in production, income, and living standard.

And the outlook is for a second half that will lift the year's total to a record estimated gross national product of around 474 billion dollars.

Late in the fourth quarter we may be running at a rate of a half trillion dollars annually, the experts believe.

Standard & Poor's estimates that for the year personal income will amount to 374 billion dollars, a record, 5½ per cent higher than last year.

Out of that 374 billion will come taxes of 46 billion dollars. That will leave 328 billion of what the economists call disposable income.

Of that 328 billion dollars, the people—you and me—will spend 507 billion and save 21 billion.

Consumers are going to spend 42 billion dollars on what are called durable goods—autos, air conditioners, washing machines, and the like. That's a rise of 14.1 per cent over last year. They'll spend 148 billion dollars on non-durable goods and 117 billion dollars for services.

What the consumer is expected to do for this year is the biggest thing in the economy. His spending exceeds any other group, including the federal and state and local governments. It's far in excess of what industry will spend for new plant and equipment.

Last year when everybody else was crawling into a hole, the consumer spent nearly 291 billion dollars and his spending alone was sufficient to sustain the economy in a period when industry was going through a recession.

The experts look for a lull in the third quarter — the period from July 1 to September 30— and a sharp upturn in the last three months of the year. That rise is expected to carry over into 1960 when the economy should get a new lease of life from marriages of the World War II babies.

This year's rise in dollar value of goods produced is only affected slightly by inflation. Prices have been held in narrow limits, and the prospect is for further efforts to keep them down and to prevent inflationary erosion of the dollar.

This process will entail high interest rates which are nothing new to the economy. They've been in operation before. In fact they always accompany anything but an artificial recovery.

Rising production is bringing down the unemployment total and it is estimated it will soon be back to less than three million, perhaps by autumn.

Economists aren't too much worried over restrictions of tight money. What bothers them more than anything else is that a real boom might develop with a scramble to buy goods of all kinds. Such a boom could be followed by a bust.

And this could occur despite the safeguards that are in force to prevent busts, say the experts. So far there aren't too many excesses. The stock market appeared to be one of them until earnings increases of corporations and higher dividends came along to make the stock prices respectable.

One highly favorable indication for the future is the continued good sense of the consumers who weren't afraid to buy in a recession and who aren't buying indiscriminately now. They want value for their money and their determination to get it will help keep the economy in line.

Stock Mart Volume Sags On Trading

By ED MORSE

NEW YORK (AP)—A wait-and-see stock market milled unevenly this week as volume declined to the smallest since last August.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed the week unchanged at $223.70.

Volume sank to 13,125,302 shares from 15,468,114 a week ago and was the lightest since 12,270,245 shares changed hands in the week ended Aug. 23, 1958.

The drop in activity was perhaps the most significant thing about the week's market. Daily trading average aws 2,625,060 shares—a fall of more than a million shares below the 3,638,004 which was the daily average for the entire first five months of this year.

Brokers said this was a case of extreme caution, that many traders and investors had taken to the sidelines. They were waiting, first, to see whether they could buy stocks at appreciably lower prices and, second, to be ready to hop on the bandwagon if a new upward drive begins.

Such factors as the deadlocked Geneva conference and the steel labor negotiations were also cited as breeders of caution. Most, but not all economic signposts, seemed to be pointing upward. Industrial output climbed to another record last month. Auto dealers' new car sales in the first third of June were at the highest rate for such a period in any month since April 1956. Personal income moved to another peak in May, as did the cost of living.

On the other hand, prices for copper were under pressure and there was a contra-seasonal slackening in home building in May.

The stock market, which has had a habit of ignoring news of various kinds during the past year, seemed to pursue a course of its own. Prices declined sharply Tuesday, culminating three days of slow retreat. Wednesday the market rallied vigorously. The rally continued early Thursday but then ran afoul of profit taking.

The Friday session was a stalemate, relieved from boredom by excitement over the proposed merger of Texaco with Superior Oil of California. Superior Oil wound up the week with a net gain of 75 points, closing at 1,825, while Texaco advanced 2¼ to 79¾.

U.S. government bonds advanced for the second straight week but the gains were small and the market thin. Corporate securities continued to drift lower on smaller turnover.

Trading volume in the government bond market is far below what over-the-counter dealers consider normal. Much of the activity is professional they say, with retail interest conspicuously absent. This tends to create a weak tone in which slight gains of the past two weeks would quickly evaporate under any real pressure.

Trading declined to $26,205,000 par value on the New York Stock Exchange from $30,874,200 the previous week and $26,647,000 the corresponding week in 1958.

Grains Score Good Gains During Week

CHICAGO (AP)—Setbacks were few and small in grain futures trading this week and all but a few contracts on the Board of Trade racked up good gains for the second successive week.

The July soybean contract was the only loser. July corn came through with no net change and nearby oats months advanced only minor fractions. Several deliveries came out with gains of from one to two cents, some with three cents or more while 1960 crop wheat months moved ahead by five cents.

Volume of trading was one of the heaviest in several weeks with prices reacting to a variety of influences.

Throughout the week, most interest centered on the wheat harvest with the trade generally expressing surprise time after time at the different price levels in Oklahoma and Kansas and the virtual absence of hedge selling on the major grain exchanges.

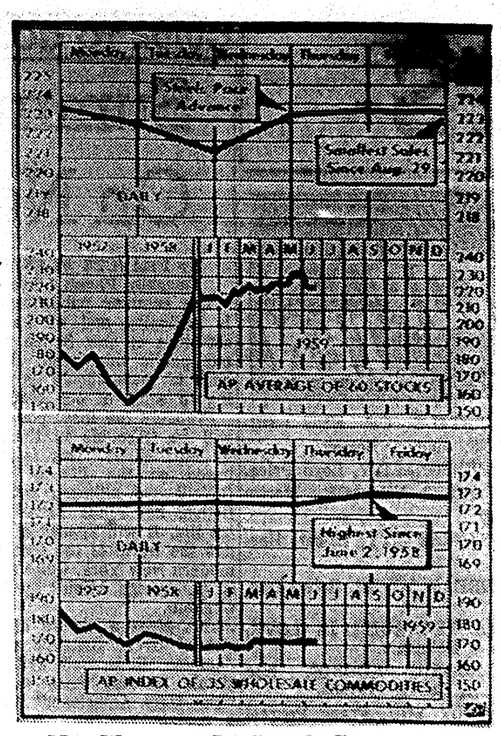
While new crop wheat in Oklahoma brought prices above the government's price support figure, Kansas producers were up against markets as much as 15 cents under the support and appeared determined to put the yield either in storage for higher prices or in the government loan.

The strongest single bullish influence came at the end of the week and affected feed grains mostly. It was a report by the Department of Agriculture that the total spring and fall pig crops this year will be 10 per cent larger than in 1958 and up 16 per cent from the 1948-57 average.

Despite the outlook so far for another bumper corn crop, dealers moved fast to buy the distant crop deliveries.

Oats also derived support from persistent reports of plant disease in the crop while soybeans were strengthened by higher soybean meal prices. However, July soybeans sagged in consequence of selling by the Commodity Credit Corp. of loan defaulted stocks on Midwest markets. The CCC has sold about 11 million bushels since June 1.

Wheat finished the week ⅝-3¼ cents a bushel higher for the 1959 crop deliveries, July $1.86¼-⅛, and 5-5⅛ cents higher for the 1960 crop months; corn unchanged to 2½ cents higher, July $1.26¼-⅜; oats ¼-1⅜ higher, July new type contract 66⅜; rye 3¼-4 cents higher, July $1.26¼-26; soybeans 1½ lower on July to 3⅜ higher on the new crop contracts, July $2.23¼-⅜.



No Change In Stock Average

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks held unchanged this week at 223.7 as compared with a week ago. The commodity index rose this week to 173.0 from 172.3 in the preceding period. Industrials and foods were good gainers. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

SPENDING SURGE CONTINUES

Business Swelling Into All-Out Boom

By WALTER BREEDE JR.
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The spring upkick in the nation's business showed signs of swelling into an all-out boom this week.

Personal incomes of most Americans were never higher; output of mines and factories held to a record pace.

Living costs crept to a new peak, too, but fatter paychecks for many consumers more than offset the rise.

The spring surge in consumer spending continued without a letup.

Auto dealers sold 182,100 new American-built cars in the first 10 days of June—the best for that period since 1955 and a whopping 46 per cent more than in the first 10 days of June last year. Detroit, which once thought the U.S. motor industry would do well if it sold 5½ million cars this year, set its sights on a bigger quota.

Sales of home appliances, recently considered laggards in the fast growing American consumer market, showed surprising bounce. Richard J. Sargent, vice president of Westinghouse Electric Corp., said manufacturers' sales of refrigerators, electric ranges, and automatic washers and dryers in the first five months this year racked up a gain of nearly 20 per cent over the same period of 1958.

Furniture manufacturers in Chicago for the industry's big summer show gleefully predicted record sales for 1959 and a 12 per cent increase over last year.

Most also predicted higher prices next fall, despite reductions by Kroehler Co. and a few other leaders. Gen. Lawrence Whiting, president of the American Furniture Mart, declared: "The boom in furniture sales is just bebinning."

Home builders leaned heavily toward optimism this week, apparently having taken in stride a slowdown in construction activity last month. The National Assn. of Home Builders announced after a poll of 500 members that builders generally expect the second half of 1959 to be as good or better than the first six months.

The building boom's biggest obstacle, in the opinion of some, is the trend toward higher interest rates and tighter money.

Henry C. Alexander, chairman of the newly merged Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., ventured a forecast on interest rates this month—and he said they could go only one way, up.

One result envisaged by Alexander: As corporations find it costlier to borrow, they'll be encouraged to raise money by issuing more stock. This would swell the supply of stocks available to investors. A scarcity of stocks for sale at a time of surging investor demand has been one of the main forces behind Wall Street's bull market.

Stock sales last week sand to 13,125,302 shares from 15,468,144 a week before. Last week's volume was the lightest since 12,270,245 shares changed hands in the week ended Aug. 23, 1958.

Bond sales on the New York Stock Exchange declined to $20,205,000 from $30,874,200 the previous week and $26,647,000 for the corresponding week in 1958.

The latest government figures on living costs came out this week — and they showed that it takes about $1.24 to buy what your dollar would have bought 11 years ago.

The consumer price index—the government's yardstick of what it costs you to live — inches up in May to a new high of 124 per cent of the 1947-49 average. Expressed another way, this means it now costs you about 20 per cent more to maintain the same standard of living you enjoyed between World War II and Korea.

Chances are, though, that your income has increased a lot more than 20 per cent in the past 11 years, and that your standard of living is higher, too. Personal income of Americans climbed last month to an annual rate of $376,200,000,000. That's a record.

Cotton Futures Contracts Close On Firmer Note

NEW YORK (AP)—Most cotton futures contracts closed in firmer ground this week after several days of uneventful dealings.

Active contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange finished at prices ranging from 75 cents a bale lower for nearby July to $1.35 higher for distant October. All deliveries except nearby July advanced.

For most of the week the market backed and filled. There were no developments of sufficient weight to pull it up or down.

Selling for the most part reflected profit taking and light hedging. On the final day of trading, nearby July weakened on an influx of pre-notice day selling, while new crop months firmed on rising demand.

The government report showed that mills used 702,000 bales last month, against 717,000 in April. The total for May 1958 was 600,000 bales.

Trade sources noted that if consumption in June and July follows the average trend of the past five years, the full season total should reach 8,600,000 bales. That would compare with 8 million bales in the crop year ended last July 31.

Exports for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange at 50,000 bales, compared with 46,000 the previous week and 100,000 in the like year-ago week.

The total for the season through Tuesday was estimated at 2,467,000 bales vs. 5,051,000 at the same time last year.

Rubber plantations in Ceylon and Malaya were started when Henry Wickham, an Englishman, smuggled some rubber seeds out of Brazil in 1876.

MONROE DISTRICT

3 Wells Finaled During The Week

Three oil completions and seven new locations highlighted petroleum exploration activities in the 14-parish Monroe District last week, according to Duncan S. Cook, local manager of the Louisiana Department of Conservation.

A wildcat producer was reported in Sec. 36-7-7E of Concordia parish. It is R. A. Campbell's Dale No. 1 and was completed to flow 55 barrels per day through a 12-64 in. choke from perforations at 5245½-47 ft. Gravity was measured at 36.5 and tubing pressure at 100 lbs.

In West Catahoula Lake Field of LaSalle parish E. C. Wentworth, et al's Alexander, et al No. 1 was completed to flow 28 barrels through a 12-64 in. choke from perforations at 4090-92 ft. A tubing pressure of 80 lbs. was resorded on this well which is in Sec. 34-7-3E.

Another LaSalle parish producer is the Harwood Oil and Mineral Co.'s State Lease 1912 No. 4 in Sec. 26-10-1E in Tullos Urania Field. It was pumping an estimated 4 barrels from 1486-96 ft.

Twenty-four active rigs were reported by Cook along with five holes plugged and abandoned.

Oral Vaccine Polio Developed

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A new vaccine to prevent paralytic polio —containing live virus and so easy to use it can be given in a glass of milk or fruit juice—has been developed by an independent research organization here.

Dr. Hilary Koprowski, director of the Wistar Institute, told a news conference Friday the vaccine has already been used to immunize 75,000 children in the Belgian Congo, where polio incidence is high.

Dr. Koprowski said the vaccine will be given to Polish children beginning this month in a full scale immunization program. The vaccine is given to children from six months to seven years of age who have not had a third injection of the conventional Salk type vaccine.

Yankees Humble Indians Behind Maas' Eight-Hitter

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees parlayed Herb Score's five walks and two throwing errors into seven runs in the first two innings Saturday and romped to a 10-2 victory over Cleveland behind the eight-hit pitching of Duke Maas.

Bill Skowron hammered his 11th and 12th homers and a triple and drove in five runs for the Yanks, who won their fifth straight and pulled within 1½ games of the first-place Indians.

Maas, now 5-4 survived bases-loaded jams in the first and third innings to record his secod complete game, first since April 26.

Woody Held hit his 11th homer for both Cleveland runs in the ninth.

Score, losing only his second in seven lifetime decisions with New York, walked two and threw wild on an attempted pickoff in the first inning when the Yankees scored twice. He walked three, two with the bases loaded, and threw wild after fielding a bunt in the second when the Yanks added five more runs.

George Strickland also contributed a throwing error to make five of the seven runs off Score unearned. Score allowed only two hits—an RBI triple by Skowron in the first, and a bunt single by Bobby Richardson leading off the second.

Skowron hit his 11th homer off reliever Al Cicotte after Mickey Mantle singled in the fifth, and hit No. 12 in the seventh with the bases empty against Jim Perry, Cleveland's third pitcher. Score now is 7-4 this season, 2-1 against New York.

Score walked Hank Bauer and Mantle in the first and Bauer score and Mantle raced to third when the left-hander threw past third as Bauer broke off second on his stretch. Skowron's triple to right scored mantle.

Gil McDougald walking following Richardson's safe bunt in the second and the bases were loaded with none out when Score threw high to first after fielding Maas' sacrifice bunt. After Bauer fouled out, Jim Pisoni and Mantle walked to force in two runs. Cicotte took over and Maas scored as Skowron bounced into a force at second. Pisoni scored when Strickland's relay to first was wild, and Skowron scored on Elston Howard's 440 - foot triple to center.

Maas, who nailed Russ Nixon on a fly to left with the bases full and two out in the first, waded into trouble on consecutive singles by Strickland, Vic Power and Tito Francona that loaded the bases with none out in the third.

AT B&B ARENA

Firpo, Massey Meet Once Again

Unwilling Firpo Zybysko has been forced back into the B&B Arena ring but he won't bring along his belt.

The bald Pole, who beat Al Massey last week in a Louisiana heavyweight title match, will take on Al again Monday evening but the championship belt won't be at stake.

Zybysko at first refused to meet Massey again but district athletic commissioner Dave Silverstein told him to get back into the ring with Al and Firpo reluctantly consented.

Ex-champ Bill Barney has also been clamoring for a return with Zybysko but that bout has been shelved for the time being.

Monday night's affair, billed as the main event, will go 60 minutes or less with two falls to win.

Two other bouts will be presented. In a semi-final, Treach Phillips, now claiming Salt Lake City, Utah, as home, will trade grunt and groans with popular Jerry Miller of Rockford, Ill., over the 45-minute or less route with two falls to win.

Frankie Kovac, formerly of Poland, and Omar Kyam, formerly of exotic Persia, meet in the night's first bout, an international struggle billed for 20 minutes and one fall to win.

The veterans Massey and Zybysko have a history of rowdy matches. Two weeks ago, Massey was accused of bringing a pair of brass knuckles into the ring. Turned out Firpo brought the weapon into the fight and hid them in Massey's trunks.

Next thing you know, that dirty dog Zybysko will sneak in a machine gun.

Temple beat First Christian, 12-8, in the "A" loop as Foust won the pitching victory and hit 2-3 including a homer. Walker got 2-4 for the winners and J. Wroten 2-3 for the losers. McKeithen was the loser.

Finsterwald, Crampton Tie For Canadian Open Lead

MONTREAL (AP) — Bruce Crampton, a straight-shooting son of a Sydney, Australia, policeman, and Dow Finsterwald. the U.S. PGA champion, tied for the lead Saturday after the third round of the Canadian Open Golf Championship.

Finishing in a steady rain at the Islesmere Course, Crampton, leader at the halfway point, posted a 70 for his 205 total and Finsterwald shot a 69 to tie him for the lead.

It still was anybody's tournament going into Sunday's final round as the weather failed to make the 6,695-yard, par 36-36—72 Islesmere Course tough for the top professionals of four countries.

Although their 54-hole totals of 205 were 11 under Islesmere's par, Crampton and Finsterwald had only a one-stroke lead over two very tough campaigners, Art Wall of Pocono Manor, Pa., winner of three tournaments and nearly $35,000 on the pro circuit this year, and bulldog Doug Ford, former Masters and PGA winner. Wall had a third round 70 and Ford a 69.

Two strokes behind the leaders at 207 came Jay Hebert of Sanford, Fla., two under par with a 70. Bob Rosburg of Palo Alto, Calif., second to Bill Casper in last week's U.S. Open, had a par 72 for 208 and Tommy Bolt, last year's U.S. Open champion, had a 70 for 209.

Although sub-par scores were numerous, Casper couldn't make it. He had a 74 and dropped back to 217—out of contention.

Finsterwald caught up with this Australian rival on the back nine after trailing by two strokes at the 45-hole turn—the ninth—and by three at the 11th.

Crampton birdied the 11th with a 6-foot putt. But he had a bogey 6 at the 12th and Finsterwald made his par. At the 14th, Bruce was trapped off the tee, overshot the green and took a 5. Finsterwald made his par 3 and they were even.

Instead of cracking then, Crampton ran in an uphill 6-foot putt for a birdie at the 15th and went ahead again. They both birdied the 16th and parred the 17th, then Finsterwald holed a 15-foot birdie putt in the 18th green to draw even again.

CHISOX DROP TO 5TH

Red Sox Down Chicago In Two

BOSTON (AP)—Boston swept a day-night doubleheader from Chicago Saturday, 8-2 and 9-0, dumping the reeling White Sox from second to fifth place in the American League standings.

The losses were the fourth and fifth straight for the White Sox who led the league only five days ago. They now trail fourth-place New York by one percentage point—.525 and .524.

Boston used a six-run burst in the third inning and the sharp, three-hit pitching of Jerry Casale for the nightcap victory.

A four-run first inning off Early Wynn put the Red Sox off and running to their afternoon decision.

Frank Malzone drove in five runs for the Red Sox. He got three in the first game, two of them on a homer, and two more in the second at Boston jumped from the cellar to sixth place.

Casale, a rookie right-hander, now has a 6-4 record.

Pete Runnels, who extended his hitting streak to 17 straight games, singled to start things against loser Dick Donovan in the third inning of the nightcap.

That was followed by two bases on balls. Malzone singled in two runs. Singles by Dick Gernert and Marty Keough each produced a run. Another scored on an error by Nellie Fox, and Don Buddin singled in the last one of the inning.

Boston added a single run in the seventh and Marty Keough doubled in two more in the eighth.

Vic Wertz singled in two runs and Malzone's ninth homer of the year accounted for two more in the first inning of the opener.

HOYT LOSES SECOND IN ROW

Daley Outshines Wilhelm, 6 To 2

BALTIMORE (AP)—Bud Daley, with help from reliever Bob Grim, outshone Hoyt Wilhelm in a battle of knuckleballs Saturday night as the Kansas City Athletics snapped a seven-game losing streak with a 6-2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Daley, who got credit for his sixth triumph in 11 decisions, and Grim were supported by a 17-hit attack including two home runs by Bob Cerv and one by Kent Hadley before 26,402.

Wilhelm, suffering his second straight defeat after nine consecutive victories, had allowed only one other home run all year. Before being lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth, he gave up 13 hits, six of them for extra bases.

Besides the homers in the second and eighth innings by Cerv and by Hadley in the third, the hits off Wilhelm included Jerry Lumpe's run-scoring triple in the seventh.

Grim came on in the eighth after Daley, touched for only two singles until then, ran into trouble. The starting left-hander gave up four more singles and a run in this frame.

With one run in, two on and two out, Grim gave up a run-registering single to Bob Nieman, then fanned Gus Triandos to end the threat with the A's still ahead 4-2.

They got two insurance runs off reliever Billy Loes in the ninth on four singles, including RBI blows by Hadley and Dick Williams.

The loss, coming after four straight victories, dropped the Orioles out of a tie with Detroit for second place in the American League standings and left them a full game behind the leading Cleveland Indians.

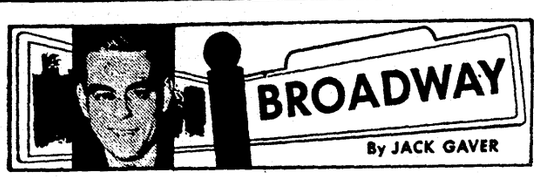
-THE ARTS-



NEW YORK (UPI) —While it is true that a show should stand or fall by itself, I heartily recommend a little reading homework in the case of "Gypsy," the new musical hit starring Ethel Merman.

This reading can be done either before or after seeing the musical. I don't know which is best, although I am sure that, contrary to the usual advice in such cases, no harm will come from doing the research before visiting the Broadway Theater.

There are two books involved —"Gypsy" by Gypsy Rose Lee, who first gained fame as the premier stripteaser of burlesque, and "Early Havoc" by June Havoc, stage, screen and TV star and younger sister of Gypsy. The first book was published about three years ago; "Early Havoc" is just off the presses.

Now, while the musical is based solely on Gypsy's memoirs of a rough vaudeville life with their indomitable mother, Rose, Miss Havoc's book covers some of the same ground, and it is fascinating to watch the various bits fall into place. Also to get the different slant of the two writers on the same subject, namely, Mother.

Gypsy, who was a great big nothing in the vaudeville days — couldn't learn a dance or a song — writes with a light touch even of the most melancholy events. The fact that some of this material ran, prior to book publication, in the New Yorker will give you an idea of the quality because that magazine's standards are very high.

Miss Havoc writes with a sterner touch and there is acid here and there. It is approximately half about the vaudeville days with Mother, when Baby June was the big star of the act for a decade, and half about what happened to her in the year or so after she ran away and got married at the age of 13.

The stage show and Gypsy's book do not touch on what happened to June in her post-vaudeville days, and she disappears completely from the musical after being so prominent in it during the first of the two acts.

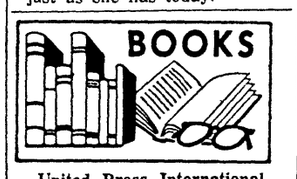
What happened was that Miss Havoc and her slightly older husband failed to make a go of it as a dancing team — vaudeville had just died — and she wound up as a marathon dancer for about three years. The marathon dance sections of her book are totally revealing of one of the most horrible entertainments (?) devised by man. They are revolting and fascinating.

Miss Havoc also tells how she failed to find any place in the life of her mother and Gypsy, who had just made it big in burlesque, and continued the weary marathon rounds for want of other employment in those Depression days.

Smartly enough, Miss Havoc's book stops with her first year as a marathoner. There is still plenty left to tell, and there will certainly be one and possibly two more volumes of memoirs.

Miss Havoc made this comment about the musical:

"It is good entertainment, but it isn't a true picture of Gypsy. In the show, as a child, she is represented as being neglected and rather pitiful. But no one ever had to feel sorry for Gypsy. She had spirit and strong character and a certain serenity, just as she has today."



United Press International

The Young Titan, by F. Van Wyck Mason (Doubleday): one spring day 214 years ago the flag over the French Canadian citadel of Louisbourgh fluttered down in defeat and the world gasped. A pickup army of American colonists, 700 miles from home base, had landed on a hostile shore and conquered one of the greatest fortresses in the new world. The lessons of Louisbourgh were remembered 30 years later when the colonies took up arms against England. Mason has achieved another skillful blend of fiction and fact in this novel based on the Louisbourg campaign.

The Delectable Mountains, by Berton Roueche (Little, Brown): A collection of stories about happy people, of all things. And they're happy about their jobs! In fact that's what makes them happy: they're doing the kind of work they like best. For instance, the mountains of the title are potato mountains grown by a Long Island farmer who makes a good living at work he considers fun. Then there are the successful business men who deserted the marts of trade to revive the famous old Hitchcock chair factory on a scale not much larger than the original. If these stories sound familiar probably you read them in the New Yorker where they appeared first.

A Voice That Fills the House, by Martin Mayer (Simon and Schuster): It's a far cry from "Madison Avenue, U. S. A." And its high-powered advertising people to this novel of the grand opera world. That they are by the same author is proof of his versatility. The reader is taken behind the scenes at San Carlo, La Scala and the Metropolitan. Mayer tells the story of an American baritone who pursues his career relentlessly. It is a novel about a way of life seldom explored, but one worth knowing.

The Stars Are Too High, by Agnew H. Bahnson, Jr. (Random House): In this tale a few Americans succeed in building a spaceship that can outspeed even missiles. Without letting the government in on their plans, they decide to settle the cold war by simulating an invasion from outer space. They reason that East and West will forget their differences and join hands against the common danger. Being human and earthbound they make mistakes and nearly precipitate World War III. This is an interesting and fast-reading story which doesn't strain credulity beyond joyment stage.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Summer Slump On New Books

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

The summer publishing slump is beginning and we have only six titles of new fiction to offer our public this week. However, each of these should be interesting to some of our readers.

Probably the most popular one will be "Trouble in the Flesh" by Max Wylie. This is a story based on the life of Eugene O'Neill and although written as fiction, has many parallels with his life. It will appeal to all who like the world of the theatre and modern New York. Quite different is "A Foreign Affair" by Andrew Graham.

This gives a picture of life in one of Great Britain's overseas domains. It is well written and should interest those who liked "The Ugly American." There is a certain contrast between the two which a subtle reader will enjoy. "The Carolinians" by Jane Barry is a historical novel at the period of the American Revolution and will find a group of devoted readers.

"The Rape of the Fair Country" by Alexander Cordell is a western, which devotees of this type of book will enjoy. For the readers of mystery stories there are two new books, "Prelude to Murder" by Anthony Gilbert and "Melora" by Mignon Eberhart.

NON-FICTION

In the field of non-fiction we have a number of interesting titles. "Things That Go Bump in the Night" is a discussion of ghosts written by Louis C. Jones. There are two excellent books of practical psychology, "Your Mind Can Make You Sick or Well" by Curt S. Wachtel and "Undiscovered Self" by Carl G. Jung. Both of these are practical and informative.

In the field of religion there are two very good books "A Private House of Prayer" by Leslie D. Weatherhead and "Adults at Worship" by Wallace Fridy. "And Four to Grow On" by Frances Palmer is an interesting account of experiences in adoption. Those interested in sports cars will want to read "The Complete Book of Hotrodding" by Robert E. Peterson. "Bride and Home" published by House Beautiful is a very attractive and useful book for the bride to see. "Wife-dressing" by Anna Fogerty contains an interesting account of the dress industry, as well as advice on how to dress. Another book of this type is "Dress Doctor" written by Edith Head.

A most valuable addition to our collection is the revised edition of "Art Through the Ages" which is considered the definitive work on the history of art. "The Swimming Pool Book" by Robert Scharff should be used by everyone who is planning to build a swimming pool. "General Crafts" by George Willougby is a book which will be useful to teachers and mothers. "Kangaroos in the Kitchen" by Lorrain D'assen is the account of a couple who made their profession that of animal talent scouts. "Fall of the Cards" by Donald Parson, should be interesting to card players. There are two new plays for the drama devotees, "Compulsion" by Meyer Levin and "Goldolocks" by Jean Anderson. Those who like humor will want to read "In and Out Book" by Robert Benton and "Don't Get Personel with a Chicken" by Harry Allen Smith.

RUNNING THE SCALES

With JOHN CALE

The heat of summer has pushed the scales into the cool tones of far away places, far from the arena of voicing opinions about happenings on local stages and musical performances.

It is easy enough to agree or disagree with what William Ewals has said about certain offerings on television or how Brooks Atkinson has judged certain plays in New York.

But no experience quite equals that of a cirtic in a city too large to accept all bouquets in the writeups but too small to dodge the actors and musicians the day after the performance.

HORSES IN TOWN

Reports from Shreveport—scene of the world premiere of the motion picture "The Horse Soldiers"—indicate the ceremonies went off in fine style and that the movie itself is up to par for a film of this type.

It is understood the same show was scheduled to open in Monroe this weekend.

A definite "plus" for the film is the fact that much of it was photographed in the best spot in the nation for such an undertaking—near Natchitoches. Someone has citicized the plot for deviating from historical fact and allowing the Yankees to appear victorious in the end. We may attribute this "adjustment" to a Hollywood effort to appeal to the northern movie-goer.

Ethel Barrymore, whose acting career took her from gas lights to television screens, died last week at her home in Beverly Hills. The 79-year-old actress was a star on the stage and in motion pictures for 58 years. Other famous members of the Barrymore family—brothers Lionel and John preceded the actress in death some years ago.

Seasoned in the art of the stage, Miss Barrymore was born to foot loose actor Maurice Barrymore and Georgie Drew in Philadelphia. Since her mother was the daughter of John Drew, the Irish actor of the late 1800's Ethel Barrymore received the inclination toward the stage from both sides of the household.

Aside from the summer seasons of light opera and musical comedy now playing in such places as, St. Louis, Dallas and Shreveport, local organizations are not letting the Johnson grass grow under their feet.

The Little Theatre has all but completed — but not quite — a fund raising effort for a badly needed new playhouse. With a few more donationa, this energetic group will be ready to start breaking ground. Some optimistic voices hold high hopes of seeing some of the local dramatic efforts take place in new quarters during the approaching 1959-60 season.

On the music front, some sources see a significant change regarding the arrangements for star or "name" talent here taking shape.

As this column has pointed out, there is plenty of competition in this field and ever so often a community will find service organizations, charity fund drives as well as concert groups involved in nearly simultaneous efforts to bring music, plays and other entertainment to town.

Though details are not complete on the latest organizational change, it is understood the movie is toward consolidation of two or possibly more drives to sell subscriptions to guest attractions. Good luck to all concerned!

724 Moslems Die On Pilgrimage To Sacred City

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Seven-hundred and twenty-four Moslems have died of infirmities old age and sunstroke during the first four days of this year's pilgrimage to Mecca, a Saudi Arabian Embassy spokesman said Sunday night.

A pilgrimage to Mecca, in Saudi Arabia and the foremost sacred city in the Moslem world, is supposed to be made at least once during the lifetime of every Moslem.

The pilgrimage, or hadj, is made by thousands of Moslems annually at the prescribed time of the Moslem year.

Mecca is the birthplace of Mohammed, the prophet.

Rita Streich does this extra - ordinarily well, her chill, high notes tinkling like ice in a glass. The record on which she does it is called "The Art of Coloratura" (Deutsche Grammophon-712004.)

George London unveils his claim to being a Wagnerian singer in a record of "Great Scenes for Bass - Baritone" from Wagner operas, specifically "The Flying Dutchman," The Mastersingers' "Die Walkure."

As excerpted pieces, London sings them quite well, assisted by the Vienna Philharmonic under that redoubtable Wagnerian, Hans Knappertsbusch, but they have the weakness of any except — no beginning or end (London-OS25044).

But the "operatic recital" record of Carlo Bergonzi is quite another matter because its purpose is to display Bergonzi's tenor techniques in relation to Bel Canto rather than to the stylized emotion of a very special composer. The collection is of the familiar "big" tenor arias, from "Celeste Aida" through "O Paradiso" to "E lucevan le stelle." Very close to Bel Canto ideals, this Bergonzi (London - OS 25075).

Turn now to music of more subtlety and finesse, namely the sinfonia concertante which Mozart composed when he was 22 and the horn quintet which he ran up six years later. Both have had fine new recordings, the former by the Philadelphia Orchestra under Ormandy, coupled with a sinfonia concertante of Haydn (Columbia - ML5374): the latter by Dennis Brain, horn, with skilled colleagues of his choosing, coupled with a diverting but inconsequential trio for horn, violin and piano by the English composer Lennon Berkeley (Capitol-G7175).

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ever since the tuba came into being as a music instrument it has occupied the role of a good - natured stooge of the orchestra or brass band.

But now the tuba is getting a chance to play a leading role. Two current jazz LP's show that more than oompahs can come from this massive piece of metal.

"A Tuba Jazz" (Jubilee JLP-1090) presents Ray Draper on the tuba with the backing of a small but powerful combo which includes such top musicians as John Coltrane on the tenor sax. Draper hides the clumsiness of the tuba easily and makes the concert of six numbers enjoyable and untiring.

Don Butterfield handles the tuba with authority, too, on "Top and Bottom Brass" by the Clark Terry Quintet (Riverside 12-295). Terry chips in occasionally with an instrument more rarely heard than the tuba, a fluegelhorn.

The flute is cast in a top role on "Machito—with Flute to Boot" (Roulette Birdland R-52026). This is exotic stuff by Machito and his band and gives Herbie many chances to display the fragile beauty of the flute.

SCENTED SHOES

Shoe polishes have become sweetly scented. A floral scent of jasmine and lilac may be found in a polish for suede, smooth leather gets a scent of bergamot from Italy and bois rose from Brazil. There is a French lavender scent for delicate shoe fabrics.

A Kitchen With A Delicate Air For A Bride

Pleasant to work in, delightful to dine in — this delicate room in pastels was designed as a bride's first kitchen. The space-giving semi-open plan is one which adapts well to the size limitations of a typical apartment or a small house.

In planning the kitchen for this small apartment, a major aim of specialist was to demonstrate that a confined kitchen-dining area can be designed with taste and even elegance.

First, to emphasize an impression of airiness and space, the conventional kitchen door was removed and the opening enlarged to almost the full width of the kitchen area. A bamboo curtain rolls up tightly, and can be dropped to close off the kitchen area when desired.

Wallpaper panels in garden pastels frame the kitchen, adding a planned three-dimensional effect. The diamond-pattern dado above the kitchen cabinets is carried all around the kitchen and out through the living-room area, in order to draw both rooms into a decorative whole.

Petal pink appliances and cabinets, accented by turquoise Textolite countertops, set the color scheme for the kitchen. These basic tints are picked up in accessores: turquoise chair cushions and place mats, pale pink glassware, fresh roses, and the faintly pink tone of the marble table.

ARCHITECTURE BY WRIGHT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Richare Egan's home in "A Summer Place" was designed by internationally famed architect Frank Lloyd Wright, who died at the age of 89 last April. The home, used in the film's exterior shots, faces the Pacific Ocean on the scenic Northern California coast.

DO-IT-YOURSELF TRAINING

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actor Jay Kuter, who hasn't seen the inside of a barber shop since 1949 when he began cutting his own hair, has been cast as a barber in "The FBI Story" for Warner Brothers.

Millions of Americans Still Need Polio Shots!
The 1959 polio season is just weeks away ... yet millions are unprotected.
Polio isn't licked yet. In fact, paralytic polio—especially children's cases—increased in 1958 over 1957 among those not vaccinated.
Have you and your family had all your polio shots? Your neighbor's shots will not protect you! Remember—polio strikes all ages. See your doctor or health department NOW!
DON'T TAKE A CHANCE—TAKE YOUR POLIO SHOTS!

SUMMER SNAPS... GET THEM WHILE IT'S HOT
Lots of folks who drop by our store are really interested in making good summertime pictures. Here's some of the questions and the answers traded over our counter.
There's a swarm of bees in our backyard. Can I get ultra-close-up snaps of their activities with a 35mm camera?
Technically, yes. A Kodak Porta Attachment over the lens will let you take close-ups from just inches away. Personally, I'd recommend a milder subject—but if you go ahead be sure to keep some baking soda handy in case the bees snap back.

The pictures on my last roll of film looked misty. I followed the instructions that came with the film. Is something wrong with my lens?
It's probably dirty. Try removing dust and moisture with Kodak Lens Cleaning Tissue. If that doesn't shine up your snapshots, bring the camera to us for a quick check-up.
How can I make the clouds stand out in black-and-white snapshots?
That's easy. Use a filter. A yellow cloud filter will make the clouds in your scenics look like froth on an ice cream soda. We have them (filters, that is) to fit most cameras.
How can I get speedy processing of the film we'll snap on a vacation trip next month?
Mail your rolls to our store—your prints will be ready when you return. As for you . . . drive slowly. Leave the fast work to us!

Honeys Gem Beats Indian Maid By Head

CHICAGO (AP)— Honeys Gem, a 4-year old brown filly, led almost all the way to capture the $58,150 Beverly Handicap for fillies and mares at Washington Park Saturday.

Bornastar, the 4-5 favorite, never was in contention in the one mile feature, but managed to finish fourth.

Honeys Gem, ridden by Johnny Longden, staved off a strong stretch drive by Indian Maid, the only 3-year-old in the field of 13, winning by a head.

Honeys Gem, owned by Conejo Ranch of Thousand Oaks, Calif., had failed to place only once in eight previous starts and finished second to vaunted Bug Brush in the Sequoia Handicap June 2 at Hollywood Park.

Milly K. edged out Bornastar for third money.

Moneys Gem returned $15.40, $6.60 and $5.00. Indian Maid paid $6.60 and $4.80.

Milly K.'s price was $12.40.

Honeys Gem's time over a fast track for the mile was 1:34. This broke the stakes record of 1:34 2-5 set by Bewitch.

Bornastar, carrying top weight of 126 pounds against 115 on Honeys Gem, moved up to third on the stretch bend but failed to challenge.

Bornastar was the 1958 national champion handicap mare and had won her last seven straight races.

Honeys Gem took the lead shortly after the start, lost it momentarily to Betty Linn in the early stretch, and then grabbed it again. Honeys Gem just lasted to hold off Indian Maid by a head. A Glitter, the Calumet Farm's filly, made a brief bid on the far turn, but failed to get anywhere close to the leader, finishing 13th.

Bug Brush Easy Winner At Inglewood

By BOB MYERS

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — C. V. Whitney's Bug Brush, the lone filly in the field, captured the $54,050 Inglewood Handicap Saturday to stamp herself as a definite threat for major handicap honors at the Hollywood Park meeting.

Turned loose by jockey Angel Valenzuela as she rounded the turn into the head of the stretch, the 4-year-old filly queen quickly drew out and won by more than 2 lengths over Amerigo.

How Now was third in the mile and one - sixteenth feature, unreeled before an estimated 46,000 fans.

Bug Brush thus becomes a solid threat to win the $100,000-added Hollywood Gold Cup Handicap July 11.

The time was 1:40 4-5.

B· Brush made this her second stakes victory of the meeting and her seventh win of the year. It boosted her earnings for 1959 to $149,800 with the net of $31,000.

Bug Brush, the heavily bet favorite, returned $4.60, $3 and $2.50; The English-bred Amerigo paid $4.10 and $3.50, and How Now $4.30.

Henry Upsets Favorite In SLTA Meet

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Crawford Henry of Atlanta staged a major upset in the Southern Lawn Tennis Assn. Tournament Saturday, ousting top seeded Donald Dell of Bethesda, Md.

Henry, a junior at Tulane University, slammed home the clincher with an ace. The score was 2-6, 9-7, 6-4.

Ranked sixth for this tournament, Henry will meet fourth-seeded John Powless, Florida State University tennis coach from Flora, Ill., for the title Sunday.

Powless got home in straight sets, 6-2, 6-4, against second-ranked Jerry Moss, Miami University entry from Coral Gables, Fla.

Women's singles saw fourth-seeded Jean Clarke and teen-ager Justina Bricka of St. Louis move into the final.

Miss Clarke won over Mari Martin of Australia, 5-7, 6-4, 8-6, after the left-handed Miss Bricka had beaten Roberta Alison of Alexander City, Ala., 6-3, 6-3.

Floyd Begins Tapering Off

CHATHAM N.J. (AP) — Floyd Patterson began tapering off Saturday in his preparation for the defense of his world heavyweight boxing title against Ingemar Johansson of Sweden in New York's Yankee Stadium Thursday night.

He ran the usual four miles before breakfast but cut the boxing to three rounds, one with Bill Tate of Chicago and two with Lou Jones of Rockford, Ill.

Archie McBride, heavyweight from Trenton, N. J., watched the ring workout but would not comment on the approaching bout.

Finals Slated Today In Club Four-Ball Meet

Ed Harper and H. W. McSherry tee off against Sonny and Jim Harper this afternoon at Bayou DeSiard Country Club in the final round of the club four-ball golf tournament.

Ed Harper, father of Sonny and Jim, teamed up with McSherry to beat Ivy Jordan and Bob Carson 3 and 2 yesterday in semi-final play. The finalists drew a bye in their first match and defeated twosomes composed of Bobby Garrett and Dickie Guerriero 1 up to gain the finals.

Sonny and Jim edged past Foster Wallace and Curtis Nichols 1 up yesterday to move into the final round. They downed Jim Fortner and Brenton Kellogg 5 and 4, Al Gallagher and Dr. Frank Rizzo 4 and 2, and Stan Bagwell and H. L. Woods Jr., 2 and 1 in earlier tourney matches.

Howell Beats Andy Lloyd In Southeastern

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—Unseeded Speed Howell of Atlanta and top-ranked Jim Beste of Baton Rouge, La., captured singles titles Saturday in the finals of the fourth Southeastern Junior Invitational Tennis Tournament.

Howell fought off determined Andy Lloyd of Shreveport, La., the second ranked player in the junior (18 and under) division, 8-6, 7-5, to climax a march through favored opponents.

Earlier, the tall Atlanta youth had ousted defending champion Don Caton of Pensacola, Fla., and fourth-ranked Ernest Cox of Mobile.

Beste, favored in the boys (15 and under) division, was extended by Ham Magill of Athens, Ga. Beaten 6-3 in the first set, Beste snapped back to win the second set 6-3, and broke through for two straight games and an 8-6 victory in the third set.

Howell and Bob Hardcastle of Atlanta won the junior doubles competition while Magill and John Pickens of Tuscaloosa took the boys doubles title.

Howell and Hardcastle went three sets to defeat Doug Stewart of Anniston and Cox, 7-5, 4-6 and 8-6.

Christy, Krisher Sign With Pitt

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Halfback Dick Christy and guard Bill Krisher, two sophomore prospects, Saturday signed 1959 contracts with the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League.

Christy, a former North Carolina State star, ledt he club in kickoff and punt returns last season. Krishner, an All - America guard at the University of Oklahoma in 1957 was used last season as an alternate.

The local office which is under the supervision of manager Jim Loker has a staff of three assistant managers, agents, and five clerks.

IN PRODUCTION, INCOME

Nation Enjoying Best Year Ever

NEW YORK (UPI) — America is rounding out its best first half year in history in production, income, and living standard.

And the outlook is for a second half that will lift the year's total to a record estimated gross national product of around 474 billion dollars.

Late in the fourth quarter we may be running at a rate of a half trillion dollars annually, the experts believe.

Standard & Poor's estimates that for the year personal income will amount to 374 billion dollars, a record, 5½ per cent higher than last year.

Out of that 374 billion will come taxes of 46 billion dollars. That will leave 328 billion of what the economists call disposable income.

Of that 328 billion dollars, the people—you and me—will spend 507 billion and save 21 billion.

Consumers are going to spend 42 billion dollars on what are called durable goods—autos, air conditioners, washing machines, and the like. That's a rise of 14.1 per cent over last year. They'll spend 148 billion dollars on nondurable goods and 117 billion dollars for services.

What the consumer is expected to do for this year is the biggest thing in the economy. His spending exceeds any other group, including the federal and state and local governments. It's far in excess of what industry will spend for new plant and equipment.

Last year when everybody else was crawling into a hole, the consumer spent nearly 291 billion dollars and his spending alone was sufficient to sustain the economy in a period when industry was going through a recession.

The experts look for a lull in the third quarter — the period from July 1 to September 30— and a sharp upturn in the last three months of the year. That rise is expected to carry over into 1960 when the economy should get a new lease of life from marriages of the World War II babies.

This year's rise in dollar value of goods produced is only affected slightly by inflation. Prices have been held in narrow limits, and the prospect is for further efforts to keep them down and to prevent inflationary erosion of the dollar.

This process will entail high interest rates which are nothing new to the economy. They've been in operation before. In fact they always accompany anything but an artificial recovery.

Rising production is bringing down the unemployment total and it is estimated it will soon be back to less than three million, perhaps by autumn.

Economists aren't too much worried over restrictions of tight money. What bothers them more than anything else is that a real boom might develop with a scramble to buy goods of all kinds. Such a boom could be followed by a bust.

And this could occur despite the safeguards that are in force to prevent busts, say the experts. So far there aren't too many excesses. The stock market appeared to be one of them until earnings increases of corporations and higher dividends came along to make the stock prices respectable.

One highly favorable indication for the future is the continued good sense of the consumers who weren't afraid to buy in a recession and who aren't buying indiscriminately now. They want value for their money and their determination to get it will help keep the economy in line.

Stock Mart Volume Sags On Trading

By ED MORSE

NEW YORK (AP)—A wait-and-see stock market milled unevenly this week as volume declined to the smallest since last August.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed the week unchanged at $223.70.

Volume sank to 13,125,302 shares from 15,468,114 a week ago and was the lightest since 12,270,245 shares changed hands in the week ended Aug. 23, 1958.

The drop in activity was perhaps the most significant thing about the week's market. Daily trading average aws 2,625,060 shares—a fall of more than a million shares below the 3,638,004 which was the daily average for the entire first five months of this year.

Brokers said this was a case of extreme caution, that many traders and investors had taken to the sidelines. They were waiting, first, to see whether they could buy stocks at appreciably lower prices and, second, to be ready to hop on the bandwagon if a new upward drive begins.

Such factors as the deadlocked Geneva conference and the steel labor negotiations were also cited as breeders of caution. Most, but not all economic signposts, seemed to be pointing upward. Industrial output climbed to another record last month. Auto dealers' new car sales in the first third of June were at the highest rate for such a period in any month since April 1956. Personal income moved to another peak in May, as did the cost of living.

On the other hand, prices for copper were under pressure and there was a contra-seasonal slackening in home building in May.

The stock market, which has had a habit of ignoring news of various kinds during the past year, seemed to pursue a course of its own. Prices declined sharply Tuesday, culminating three days of slow retreat. Wednesday the market rallied vigorously. The rally continued early Thursday but then ran afoul of profit taking.

The Friday session was a stalemate, relieved from boredom by excitement over the proposed merger of Texaco with Superior Oil of California. Superior Oil wound up the week with a net gain of 75 points, closing at 1,825, while Texaco advanced 2¼ to 79¾.

U.S. government bonds advanced for the second straight week but the gains were small and the market thin. Corporate securities continued to drift lower on smaller turnover.

Trading volume in the government bond market is far below what over-the-counter dealers consider normal. Much of the activity is professional they say, with retail interest conspicuously absent. This tends to create a weak tone in which slight gains of the past two weeks would quickly evaporate under any real pressure.

Trading declined to $26,205,000 par value on the New York Stock Exchange from $30,874,200 the previous week and $26,647,000 the corresponding week in 1958.

Grains Score Good Gains During Week

CHICAGO (AP)—Setbacks were few and small in grain futures trading this week and all but a few contracts on the Board of Trade racked up good gains for the second successive week.

The July soybean contract was the only loser. July corn came through with no net change and nearby oats months advanced only minor fractions. Several deliveries came out with gains of from one to two cents, some with three cents or more while 1960 crop wheat months moved ahead by five cents.

Volume of trading was one of the heaviest in several weeks with prices reacting to a variety of influences.

Throughout the week, most interest centered on the wheat harvest with the trade generally expressing surprise time after time at the different price levels in Oklahoma and Kansas and the virtual absence of hedge selling on the major grain exchanges.

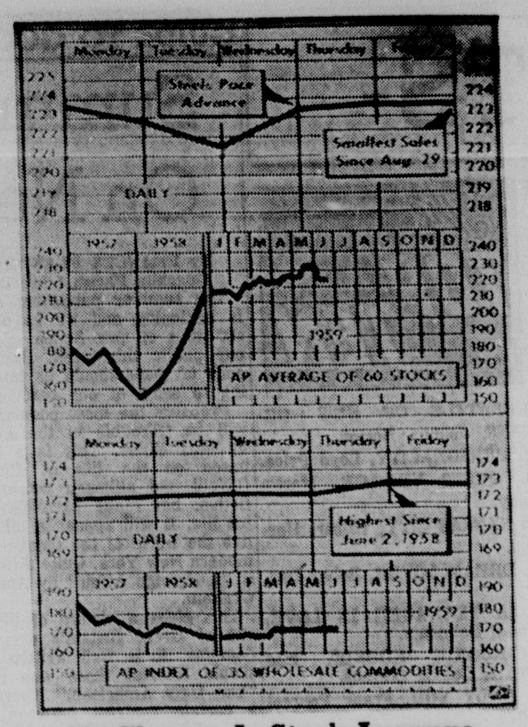
While new crop wheat in Oklahoma brought prices above the government's price support figure, Kansas producers were up against markets as much as 15 cents under the support and appeared determined to put the yield either in storage for higher prices or in the government loan.

The strongest single bullish influence came at the end of the week and affected feed grains mostly. It was a report by the Department of Agriculture that the total spring and fall pig crops this year will be 10 per cent larger than in 1958 and up 16 per cent from the 1948-57 average.

Despite the outlook so far for another bumper corn crop, dealers moved fast to buy the distant crop deliveries.

Oats also derived support from persistent reports of plant disease in the crop while soybeans were strengthened by higher soybean meal prices. However, July soybeans sagged in consequence of selling by the Commodity Credit Corp. of loan defaulted stocks on Midwest markets. The CCC has sold about 11 million bushels since June 1.

Wheat finished the week ⅝-3¼ cents a bushel higher for the 1959 crop deliveries, July $1.86¼-⅜, and 5-5⅛ cents higher for the 1960 crop months; corn unchanged to 2½ cents higher, July $1.26¼-⅜; oats ¼-1⅜ higher, July new type contract 66⅜; rye 3¼-4 cents higher, July $1.26¼-26; soybeans 1½ lower on July to 3⅜ higher on the new crop contracts, July $2.23¼-⅜.



No Change In Stock Average

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks held unchanged this week at 223.7 as compared with a week ago. The commodity index rose this week to 173.0 from 172.3 in the preceding period. Industrials and foods were good gainers. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

SPENDING SURGE CONTINUES

Business Swelling Into All-Out Boom

By WALTER BREEDE JR.
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The spring upkick in the nation's business showed signs of swelling into an all-out boom this week.

Personal incomes of most Americans were never higher; output of mines and factories held to a record pace.

Living costs crept to a new peak, too, but fatter paychecks for many consumers more than offset the rise.

The spring surge in consumer spending continued without a letup.

Auto dealers sold 182,100 new American-built cars in the first 10 days of June—the best for that period since 1955 and a whopping 46 per cent more than in the first 10 days of June last year. Detroit, which once thought the U.S. motor industry would do well if it sold 5½ million cars this year, set its sights on a bigger quota.

Sales of home appliances, recently considered laggards in the fast growing American consumer market, showed surprising bounce. Richard J. Sargent, vice president of Westinghouse Electric Corp., said manufacturers' sales of refrigerators, electric ranges, and automatic washers and dryers in the first five months this year racked up a gain of nearly 20 per cent over the same period of 1958.

Furniture manufacturers in Chicago for the industry's big summer show gleefully predcted record sales for 1959 and a 12 per cent increase over last year.

Most also predicted higher prices next fall, despite reductions by Kroehler Co. and a few other leaders. Gen. Lawrence Whiting, president of the American Furniture Mart, declared: "The boom in furniture sales is just bebinning."

Home builders leaned heavily toward optimism this week, apparently having taken in stride a slowdown in construction activity last month. The National Assn. of Home Builders announced after a poll of 500 members that builders generally expect the secon half of 1959 to be as good or better than the first six months.

The building boom's biggest obstacle, in the opinion of some, is the trend toward higher interest rates and tighter money.

Henry C. Alexander, chairman of the newly merged Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., ventured a forecast on interest rates this month—and he said they could go only one way, up.

One result envisaged by Alexander: As corporations find it costlier to borrow, they'll be encouraged to raise money by issuing more stock. This would swell the supply of stocks available to investors. A scarcity of stocks for sale at a time of surging investor demand has been one of the main forces behind Wall Street's bull market.

Stock sales last week sand to 13,125,302 shares from 15,468,144 a week before. Last week's volume was the lightest since 12,270,245 shares changed hands in the week ended Aug. 23, 1958.

Bond sales on the New York Stock Exchange declined to $20,205,000 from $30,874,200 the previous week and $26,647,000 for the corresponding week in 1958.

The latest government figures on living costs came out this week — and they showed that it takes about $1.24 to buy what your dollar would have bought 11 years ago.

The consumer price index—the government's yardstick of what it costs you to live — inches up in May to a new high of 124 per cent of the 1947-49 average. Expressed another way, this means it now costs you about 20 per cent more to maintain the same standard of living you enjoyed between World War II and Korea.

Chances are, though, that your income has increased a lot more than 20 per cent in the past 11 years, and that your standard of living is higher, too. Personal income of Americans climbed last month to an annual rate of $376,200,000,000. That's a record.

Cotton Futures Contracts Close On Firmer Note

NEW YORK (AP)—Most cotton futures contracts closed in firmer ground this week after several days of uneventful dealings.

Active contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange finished at prices ranging from 75 cents a bale lower for nearby July to $1.35 higher for distant October. All deliveries except nearby July advanced.

For most of the week the market backed and filled. There were no developments of sufficient weight to pull it up or down.

Selling for the most part reflected profit taking and light hedging. On the final day of trading, nearby July weakened on an influx of pre-notice day selling, while new crop months firmed on rising demand.

The government report showed that mills used 702,000 bales last month, against 717,000 in April. The total for May 1958 was 600,000 bales.

Trade sources noted that if consumption in June and July follows the average trend of the past five years, the full season total should reach 8,600,000 bales. That would compare with 8 million bales in the crop year ended last July 31.

Exports for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange at 50,000 bales, compared with 46,000 the previous week and 100,000 in the like year-ago week.

The total for the season through Tuesday was estimated at 2,467,000 bales vs. 5,051,000 at the same time last year.

Rubber plantations in Ceylon and Malaya were started when Henry Wickham, an Englishman, smuggled some rubber seeds out of Brazil in 1876.

Samuel Johnson observed that "morose men hate the cheerful."

Mark Twain liked to travel and he summed up his wanderings with, "Nothing helps scenery like ham and eggs."

MONROE DISTRICT

3 Wells Finaled During The Week

Three oil completions and seven new locations highlighted petroleum exploration activities in the 14-parish Monroe District last week, according to Duncan S. Cook, local manager of the Louisiana Department of Conservation.

A wildcat producer was reported in Sec. 36-7-7E of Concordia parish. It is R. A. Campbell's Dale No. 1 and was completed to flow 55 barrels per day through a 12-64 in. choke from perforations at 5245½-47 ft. Gravity was measured at 36.5 and tubing pressure at 100 lbs.

In West Catahoula Lake Field of LaSalle parish E. C. Wentworth, et al's Alexander, et al No. 1 was completed to flow 28 barrels through a 12-64 in. choke from perforations at 4090-92 ft. A tubing pressure of 80 lbs. was resorded on this well which is in Sec. 34-7-3E.

Another LaSalle parish producer is the Harwood Oil and Mineral Co.'s State Lease 1912 No. 4 in Sec. 26-10-1E in Tullos Urania Field. It was pumping an estimated 4 barrels from 1486-96 ft.

Twenty-four active rigs were reported by Cook along with five holes plugged and abandoned.

Following are the new locations:

Oral Vaccine Polio Developed

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A new vaccine to prevent paralytic polio —containing live virus and so easy to use it can be given in a glass of milk or fruit juice—has been developed by an independent research organization here.

Dr. Hilary Koprowski, director of the Wistar Institute, told a news conference Friday the vaccine has already been used to immunize 75,000 children in the Belgian Congo, where polio incidence is high.

Dr. Koprowski said the vaccine will be given to Polish children beginning this month in a full scale immunization program. The vaccine is given to children from six months to seven years of age who have not had a third injection of the conventional Salk type vaccine.

Oil Industry Is Honored In Stamp Issue

An oil derrick against a light background will highlight the design of the new 4-cent Petroleum Industry Centennial commemorative stamp. It will be issued at Titusville, Pa., on Aug. 27, and will mark the 100th anniversary of the completion of the first oil well at Titusville by Col. Edward L. Drake.

Lettering on the stamp is a hand-drawn calligraphic style in white against a dark background. The writing surrounds the design in U-shaped form.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations of the stamp may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Titusville, Pa., prior to Aug. 27. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers Petroleum Industry Stamp."

On June 22 Switzerland will issue two commemorative stamps honoring Europa, the organization working for a united Europe. The 30-centimes and 50-c stamps will depict rings and squares linked to form a chain.

This is a unique issue in that the period of sale will be limited to five weeks (June 22 through July 31). This will be one of the shortest periods of use for a Swiss stamp in a long time, says the Swiss Philatelic Agency in America.

San Marino announces that it will issue a set of six or seven values to honor Abraham Lincoln's 150th birthday. A souvenir sheet also may be issued. All of the Lincoln issues by foreign countries have already been issued so this one will be rather late in arriving on the philatelic scene.

Benson Shows Scope Of New Support Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson has told Congress that only 5,000 big farmers would be affected by the Senate's $50,000-per - farmer limit on direct price support benefits.

Benson disputed charges by some Democratic farm leaders that the restriction would result in "disorderly markets" and lower market prices for all farmers.

Publication Friday night of closed - door testimony given by Benson 10 days ago gave a boost to prospects for some form of a $50,000 limit on individual price support benefits for next year's crops.

The Senate attached its 1960-crop limitation to the agriculture appropriations bill after the House wrote into the bill a $50,000 ceiling that was full of loopholes.

Only three states — all of them in the Midwest—had an increasing number of tornado deaths in the latest five year period. They were Kansas, Missouri and Wisconsin.

The Wild And The Innocent

Sandra Dee requires the willing but inexperienced hands of Audie Murphy to help lace her into a corset. The scene is from "The Wild and the Innocent" which starts today at the Jim Theatre. Also starring in the movie are Joanne Dru, Gilbert Roland, and Jim Backus.

LITTLE THEATRE

That happy time of summer vacations is here according to all the reports we have from our Little Theatre workers who are entertaining out of town friends and relatives.

Frances McHenry, ex-president, is enjoying a visit from her daughter Cornelia and children, from Louisville, Kentucky.

Mary and Sidney Gill, deep in the work of the building fund drive, stopped to welcome home Lt. Colonel Hugh W. McCleary who has just returned from Korea. Hugh and his wife Maudie (Sidney's sister) will be here for about two months before leaving for Shreveport and their next tour of duty. Many of us met or renewed acquaintance with Maudie backstage during the run of Pajama Game. We'll miss her.

Sue Turner sends the word from Hendersonville, North Carolina that she's really loving the work at Camp Ton-a-wondah where she's acting as drama counselor. This is a marvelous opportunity for Sue to utilize her experience and talent which she displayed so well assisting Ivan in production this past season.

Best wishes and thoughts are with our Publicity Chairman, Lallage Feazel, who was called to New Orleans where her father is awaiting surgery.

Roz and Henry Haas (Roz was a board member last term and is one of the originators of and hard workers in the building program) report that their aunt "Miss Mat" Hirsch is unpacking from her pleasant trip to visit friends and relatives in Louisville, Kentucky and Atlanta, Georgia just in time to prepare for a delightful sailing on the Liberte to Europe. We all wish her a wonderful trip.

Myrtle Carter and Jean Hamilton our membership co-chairmen will be most happy to deliver your tickets for the next season if you haven't made arrangements yet. Be sure to be in the audience to attend a play in our new Theater.

Each day the Building Fund total is mounting so that this can be a reality during the next season. Let's hope that the next Curtain Call can bring the news that we've gone over our goal.

-THE ARTS-

NEW YORK (UPI) —While it is true that a show should stand or fall by itself, I heartily recommend a little reading homework in the case of "Gypsy," the new musical hit starring Ethel Merman.

This reading can be done either before or after seeing the musical. I don't know which is best, although I am sure that, contrary to the usual advice in such cases, no harm will come from doing the research before visiting the Broadway Theater.

There are two books involved —"Gypsy" by Gypsy Rose Lee, who first gained fame as the premier stripteaser of burlesque, and "Early Havoc" by June Havoc, stage, screen and TV star and younger sister of Gypsy. The first book was published about three years ago; "Early Havoc" is just off the presses.

Now, while the musical is based solely on Gypsy's memoirs of a rough vaudeville life with their indomitable mother, Rose, Miss Havoc's book covers some of the same ground, and it is fascinating to watch the various bits fall into place. Also to get the different slant of the two writers on the same subject, namely, Mother.

Gypsy, who was a great big nothing in the vaudeville days — couldn't learn a dance or a song — writes with a light touch even of the most melancholy events. The fact that some of this material ran, prior to book publication, in the New Yorker will give you an idea of the quality because that magazine's standards are very high.

Miss Havoc writes with a sterner touch and there is acid here and there. It is approximately half about the vaudeville days with Mother, when Baby June was the big star of the act for a decade, and half about what happened to her in the year or so after she ran away and got married at the age of 13.

The stage show and Gypsy's book do not touch on what happened to June in her post-vaudeville days, and she disappears completely from the musical after being so prominent in it during the first of the two acts.

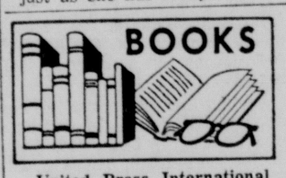
What happened was that Miss Havoc and her slightly older husband failed to make a go of it as a dancing team — vaudeville had just died — and she wound up as a marathon dancer for about three years. The marathon dance sections of her book are totally revealing of one of the most horrible entertainments (?) devised by man. They are revolting and fascinating.

Miss Havoc also tells how she failed to find any place in the life of her mother and Gypsy, who had just made it big in burlesque, and continued the weary marathon rounds for want of other employment in those Depression days.

Smartly enough, Miss Havoc's book stops with her first year as a marathoner. There is still plenty left to tell, and there will certainly be one and possibly two more volumes of memoirs.

Miss Havoc made this comment about the musical:

"It is good entertainment, but it isn't a true picture of Gypsy. In the show, as a child, she is represented as being neglected and rather pitiful. But no one ever had to feel sorry for Gypsy. She had spirit and strong character and a certain serenity, just as she has today."



United Press International

The Young Titan, by F. Van Wyck Mason (Doubleday): one spring day 214 years ago the flag over the French Canadian citadel of Louisbourgh fluttered down in defeat and the world gasped. A pickup army of American colonists, 700 miles from home base, had landed on a hostile shore and conquered one of the greatest fortresses in the new world. The lessons of Louisbourgh were remembered 30 years later when the colonies took up arms against England. Mason has achieved another skillful blend of fiction and fact in this novel based on the Louisbourg campaign.

The Delectable Mountains, by Berton Roueche (Little, Brown): A collection of stories about happy people, of all things. And they're happy about their jobs! In fact that's what makes them happy; they're doing the kind of work they like best. For instance, the mountains of the title are potato mountains grown by a Long Island farmer who makes a good living at work he considers fun. Then there are the successful business men who deserted the marts of trade to revive the famous old Hitchcock chair factory on a scale not much larger than the original. If these stories sound familiar probably you read them in the New Yorker where they appeared first.

A Voice That Fills the House, by Martin Mayer (Simon and Schuster): It's a far cry from "Madison Avenue, U. S. A." And its high-powered advertising people to this novel of the grand opera world. That they are by the same author is proof of his versatility. The reader is taken behind the scenes at San Carlo, La Scala and the Metropolitan. Mayer tells the story of an American baritone who pursues his career relentlessly. It is a novel about a way of life seldom explored, but one worth knowing.

The Stars Are Too High, by Agnew H. Bahnson, Jr. (Random House): In this tale a few Americans succeed in building a spaceship that can outspeed even missiles. Without letting the government in on their plans, they decide to settle the cold war by simulating an invasion from outer space. They reason that East and West will forget their differences and join hands against the common danger. Being human and earthbound they make mistakes and nearly precipitate World War III. This is an interesting and fast-reading story which doesn't strain credulity beyond joyment stage.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Summer Slump On New Books

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

The summer publishing slump is beginning and we have only six titles of new fiction to offer our public this week. However, each of these should be interesting to some of our readers.

Probably the most popular one will be "Trouble in the Flesh" by Max Wylie. This is a story based on the life of Eugene O'Neill and although written as fiction, has many parallels with his life. It will appeal to all who like the world of the theatre and modern New York. Quite different is "A Foreign Affair" by Andrew Graham.

This gives a picture of life in one of Great Britain's overseas domains. It is well written and should interest those who liked "The Ugly American." There is a certain contrast between the two which a subtle reader will enjoy. "The Carolinians" by Jane Barry is a historical novel at the period of the American Revolution and will find a group of devoted readers.

"The Rape of the Fair Country" by Alexander Cordell is a western, which devotees of this type of book will enjoy. For the readers of mystery stories there are two new books, "Prelude to Murder" by Anthony Gilbert and "Melora" by Mignon Eberhart.

NON-FICTION

In the field of non-fiction we have a number of interesting titles. "Things That Go Bump in the Night" is a discussion of ghosts written by Louis C. Jones. There are two excellent books of practical psychology, "Your Mind Can Make You Sick or Well" by Curt S. Wachtel and "Undiscovered Self" by Carl G. Jung. Both of these are practical and informative.

In the field of religion there are two very good books "A Private House of Prayer" by Leslie D. Weatherhead and "Adults at Worship" by Wallace Fridy. "And Four to Grow On" by Frances Palmer is an interesting account of experiences in adoption. Those interested in sports cars will want to read "The Complete Book of Hotrodding" by Robert E. Peterson. "Bride and Home" published by House Beautiful is a very attractive and useful book for the bride to see. "Wife-dressing" by Anna Fogerty contains an interesting account of the dress industry, as well as advice on how to dress. Another book of this type is "Dress Doctor" written by Edith Head.

A most valuable addition to our collection is the revised edition of "Art Through the Ages" which is considered the definitive work on the history of art. "The Swimming Pool Book" by Robert Scharff should be used by everyone who is planning to build a swimming pool. "General Crafts" by George Willougby is a book which will be useful to teachers and mothers. "Kangaroos in the Kitchen" by Lorrain D'assen is the account of a couple who made their profession that of animal talent scouts. "Fall of the Cards" by Donald Parson, should be interesting to card players. There are two new plays for the drama devotees, "Compulsion" by Meyer Levin and "Goldolocks" by Jean Anderson. Those who like humor will want to read "In and Out Book" by Robert Benton and "Don't Get Personel with a Chicken" by Harry Allen Smith.

RUNNING THE SCALES

With JOHN CALE

The heat of summer has pushed the scales into the cool tones of far away places, far from the arena of voicing opinions about happenings on local stages and musical performances.

It is easy enough to agree or disagree with what William Ewals has said about certain offerings on television or how Brooks Atkinson has judged certain plays in New York.

But no experience quite equals that of a cirtic in a city too large to accept all bouquets in the writeups but too small to dodge the actors and musicians the day after the performance.

HORSES IN TOWN

Reports from Shreveport—scene of the world premiere of the motion picture "The Horse Soldiers"—indicate the ceremonies went off in fine style and that the movie itself is up to par for a film of this type.

It is understood the same show was scheduled to open in Monroe this weekend.

A definite "plus" for the film is the fact that much of it was photographed in the best spot in the nation for such an undertaking—near Natchitoches. Someone has citicized the plot for deviating from historical fact and allowing the Yankees to appear victorious in the end. We may attribute this "adjustment" to a Hollywood effort to appeal to the northern movie-goer.

Ethel Barrymore, whose acting career took her from gas lights to television screens, died last week at her home in Beverly Hills. The 79-year-old actress was a star on the stage and in motion pictures for 58 years. Other famous members of the Barrymore family—brothers Lionel and John preceded the actress in death some years ago.

Seasoned in the art of the stage, Miss Barrymore was born to foot loose actor Maurice Barrymore and Georgie Drew in Philadelphia. Since her mother was the daughter of John Drew, the Irish actor of the late 1800's Ethel Barrymore received the inclination toward the stage from both sides of the household.

Aside from the summer seasons of light opera and musical comedy now playing in such places as, St. Louis, Dallas and Shreveport, local organizations are not letting the Johnson grass grow under their feet.

The Little Theatre has all but completed — but not quite — a fund raising effort for a badly needed new playhouse. With a few more donationa, this energetic group will be ready to start breaking ground. Some optimistic voices hold high hopes of seeing some of the local dramatic efforts take place in new quarters during the approaching 1959-60 season.

On the music front, some sources see a significant change regarding the arrangements for star or "name" talent here taking shape.

As this column has pointed out, there is plenty of competition in this field and ever so often a community will find service organizations, charity fund drives as well as concert groups involved in nearly simultaneous efforts to bring music, plays and other entertainment to town.

Though details are not complete on the latest organizational change, it is understood the movie is toward consolidation of two or possibly more drives to sell subscriptions to guest attractions. Good luck to all concerned!

724 Moslems Die On Pilgrimage To Sacred City

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Seven-hundred and twenty-four Moslems have died of infirmities old age and sunstroke during the first four days of this year's pilgrimage to Mecca, a Saudi Arabian Embassy spokesman said Sunday night.

A pilgrimage to Mecca, in Saudi Arabia and the foremost sacred city in the Moslem world, is supposed to be made at least once during the lifetime of every Moslem.

The pilgrimage, or hadj, is made by thousands of Moslems annually at the prescribed time of the Moslem year.

Mecca is the birthplace of Mohammed, the prophet.

RECORDS

CONCERT
By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI) — For cool summer listening, listen to a coloratura swinging by her vocal heels. Somehow, it takes your mind off anything else.

Rita Streich does this extra - ordinarily well, her chill, high notes tinkling like ice in a glass. The record on which she does it is called "The Art of Coloratura" (Deutsche Grammophon-712004.)

George London unveils his claim to being a Wagnerian singer in a record of "Great Scenes for Bass - Baritone" from Wagner operas, specifically "The Flying Dutchman," The Mastersingers' "Die Walkure."

As excerpted pieces, London sings them quite well, assisted by the Vienna Philharmonic under that redoubtable Wagnerian, Hans Knappertsbusch, but they have the weakness of any except — no beginning or end (London-OS25044).

But the "operatic recital" record of Carlo Bergonzi is quite another matter because its purpose is to display Bergonzi's tenor techniques in relation to Bel Canto rather than to the stylized emotion of a very special composer. The collection is of the familiar "big" tenor arias, from "Celeste Aida" through "O Paradiso" to "E lucevan le stelle." Very close to Bel Canto ideals, this Bergonzi (London - OS 25075).

Turn now to music of more subtlety and finesse, namely the sinfonia concertante which Mozart composed when he was 22 and the horn quintet which he ran up six years later. Both have had fine new recordings, the former by the Philadelphia Orchestra under Ormandy, coupled with a sinfonia concertante of Haydn (Columbia - ML5374): the latter by Dennis Brain, horn, with skilled colleagues of his choosing, coupled with a diverting but inconsequential trio for horn, violin and piano by the English composer Lennon Berkeley (Capitol-G7175).

POPULAR
By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ever since the tuba came into being as a music instrument it has occupied the role of a good - natured stooge of the orchestra or brass band.

But now the tuba is getting a chance to play a leading role. Two current jazz LP's show that more than oompahs can come from this massive piece of metal.

"A Tuba Jazz" (Jubilee JLP-1090) presents Ray Draper on the tuba with the backing of a small but powerful combo which includes such top musicians as John Coltrane on the tenor sax. Draper hides the clumsiness of the tuba easily and makes the concert of six numbers enjoyable and untiring.

Don Butterfield handles the tuba with authority, too, on "Top and Bottom Brass" by the Clark Terry Quintet (Riverside 12-295). Terry chips in occasionally with an instrument more rarely heard than the tuba, a fluegelhorn.

The flute is cast in a top role on "Machito—with Flute to Boot" (Roulette Birdland R-52026). This is exotic stuff by Machito and his band and gives Herbie many chances to display the fragile beauty of the flute.

SCENTED SHOES

Shoe polishes have become sweetly scented. A floral scent of jasmine and lilac may be found in a polish for suede, smooth leather gets a scent of bergamot from Italy and bois rose from Brazil. There is a French lavender scent for delicate shoe fabrics.

A Kitchen With A Delicate Air For A Bride

Pleasant to work in, delightful to dine in — this delicate room in pastels was designed as a bride's first kitchen. The space-giving semi-open plan is one which adapts well to the size limitations of a typical apartment or a small house.

In planning the kitchen for this small apartment, a major aim of specialist was to demonstrate that a confined kitchen-dining area can be designed with taste and even elegance.

First, to emphasize an impression of airiness and space, the conventional kitchen door was removed and the opening enlarged to almost the full width of the kitchen area. A bamboo curtain rolls up tightly, and can be dropped to close off the kitchen area when desired.

Wallpaper panels in garden pastels frame the kitchen, adding a planned three-dimensional effect. The diamond-pattern dado above the kitchen cabinets is carried all around the kitchen and out through the living-room area, in order to draw both rooms into a decorative whole.

Petal pink appliances and cabinets, accented by turquoise Textolite countertops, set the color scheme for the kitchen. These basic tints are picked up in accessores: turquoise chair cushions and place mats, pale pink glassware, fresh roses, and the faintly pink tone of the marble table.

ARCHITECTURE BY WRIGHT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Richare Egan's home in "A Summer Place" was designed by internationally famed architect Frank Lloyd Wright, who died at the age of 89 last April. The home, used in the film's exterior shots, faces the Pacific Ocean on the scenic Northern California coast.

DO-IT-YOURSELF TRAINING

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actor Jay Kuter, who hasn't seen the inside of a barber shop since 1949 when he began cutting his own hair, has been cast as a barber in "The FBI Story" for Warner Brothers.

Millions of Americans Still Need Polio Shots!
The 1959 polio season is just weeks away ... yet millions are unprotected.
Polio isn't licked yet. In fact, paralytic polio—especially children's cases—increased in 1958 over 1957 among those not vaccinated.
Have you and your family had all your polio shots? Your neighbor's shots will not protect you! Remember—polio strikes all ages. See your doctor or health department NOW!
DON'T TAKE A CHANCE—TAKE YOUR POLIO SHOTS!

SUMMER SNAPS... GET THEM WHILE IT'S HOT
Lots of folks who drop by our store are really interested in making good summertime pictures. Here's some of the questions and the answers traded over our counter.
There's a swarm of bees in our backyard. Can I get ultra-close-up snaps of their activities with a 35mm camera?
Technically, yes. A Kodak Porta Attachment over the lens will let you take close-ups from just inches away. Personally, I'd recommend a milder subject—but if you go ahead be sure to keep some baking soda handy in case the bees snap back.

The pictures on my last roll of film looked misty. I followed the instructions that came with the film. Is something wrong with my lens?
It's probably dirty. Try removing dust and moisture with Kodak Lens Cleaning Tissue. If that doesn't shine up your snapshots, bring the camera to us for a quick check-up.
How can I make the clouds stand out in black-and-white snapshots?
That's easy. Use a filter. A yellow cloud filter will make the clouds in your scenics look like froth on an ice cream soda. We have them (filters, that is) to fit most cameras.
How can I get speedy processing of the film we'll snap on a vacation trip next month?
Mail your rolls to our store—your prints will be ready when you return. As for you . . . drive slowly. Leave the fast work to us!

RALPH M. WILSON

Dean Wilson To Address Drug Groups

Northeast State's dean of pharmacy, Dean Ralph M. Wilson, will be a featured speaker today at a convention of the Louisiana Drug Travelers Association in Alexandria.

The Drug Travelers Association is holding a convention prior to the opening Monday of the annual Louisiana State Pharmaceutical Association meeting in Alexandria.

In addition to Dean Wilson, others attending the three-day convention activites from Northeast State will be Dr. Frank Martin and Dr. Joesph Kern of the Northeast pharmacy faculty.

Wilson will speak on the recent development of professional activity and some predictions of future events. He will also bring greetings from the college at the opening session of the LSPA.

Fred Tannehill of Pineville, convention chairman and incoming president of the Louisiana State Pharmaceutical Association, has arranged a program emphasizing state and nationally known speakers who will discuss problems pertinent to people in the pharmacy field. Additional features will include demonstrations, drug displays, films and various social affairs.

One of Monday's program specialties will be "Current Advances and Concepts in Virology," a film narrated by a district manager of Eli Lilly and Company.

"Merchandising for Moderns," will be discussed Tuesday by a trade relations director, Mead Johnson and Company. The agenda will include a talk by the LSPA president, Paul Bechet of Lafayette; an address "What's Cooking?" by the field sales manager of E. R. Squibbs and Sons, and an address by Louis Throgmorton, vice president of an insurance company, Dallas, who will speak at the president's banquet.

Wednesday morning's meeting will emphasize business, followed by a luncheon featuring an address by Camille F. Gravel, Jr., Louisiana national democratic committeeman, who is closely associated with the drug industry.

TIME TO RETIRE

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — When William J. Leonard's wife Florence came home with another man, Leonard greeted them with a shot from his deer rifle, police said. The bullet missed the couple but blew out a tire on Leonard's auto.

BY OIL COMPANIES

Judge To Decide Import Appeals

HOUSTON, June 20 (AP) — A federal judge is to take a close look next week at the oil imports controls program.

Hearings on two permanent injunctions are scheduled here Wednesday before Judge Joe Ingraham.

Two companies are seeking relief in federal court after losing battles before the imports appeals board.

Neither case is challenging the validity of the controls program. Neither involves large quantities of oil.

Both have drawn considerable attention, however, in that Ingraham's rulings could play a major role in resolving dissatisfaction on the part of some importers and some refiners who want to become importers. Inequities within the program are admitted even by many of its staunchest supporters.

Ingraham last month granted a temporary restraining order permitting Texas American Asphalt Co. to import 160,000 barrels of Venezuelan crude that had no imports quota.

Last week a similar order gave Eastern States Petroleum and Chemical Co. conditional authority to bring in 1,420,000 barrels not covered by its quota.

U.S. Atty. William Butler opposed both the temporary orders. He returns Wednesday in a similar role after a number of conferences with Justice Department officials.

Federal judges in Houston receive their cases by lot. A clerk drew Ingraham's name while assigning each of the imports cases.

Texas American is a new company which constructed an asphalt plant under an assumption it would obtain a quota to import a special grade of Venezuelan crude. It already had chartered a tanker to bring 160,000 barrels to Texas when it got word its application for a quota had been rejected. The company was not eligible because its refinery was not operating last year. Quotas are based on 1958 refinery operations.

Eastern States has been fighting an unsuccessful battle for a higher quota ever since the controls program began on a voluntary basis in July, 1957.

The company contends its quota should be 25,000 barrels a day instead of the authorized 12,400. The 1,420,000 barrels is the difference between the two figures for the period of March 11 through June 30.

Eastern States claims a clerical error in computing refinery runs knocked 3,040 barrels a day of its quota. The company also claims crude that is expected after being crcde that is exxported after being processed under a barter agreement with Great Britain.

Texas Asphalt claims lack of quota would force the company into bankruptcy. In addition to the new plant at LaCosta, Tex., asphalt plants also are planned at Ennis and Brownsville, Tex., and Tampa, Fla.

Eastern States claims it stands to lose $1,500,000 if its current March-June quota stands.

Eastern States suit challenging the validity of the old voluntary controls program is still pending in a District of Columbia court. The company lost early rounds but a hearing on merits had not been scheduled when the voluntary program was abandoned in favor of mandatory controls March 10.

There is some speculation Eastern States will return to the Washington court should Ingraham rule unfavorably Wednesday.

The current temporary order for Eastern States was a compromise suggested by Butler.

The Horse Soldiers

LITTLE THEATRE

That happy time of summer vacations is here according to all the reports we have from our Little Theatre workers who are entertaining out of town friends and relatives.

Frances McHenry, ex-president, is enjoying a visit from her daughter Cornelia and children, from Louisville, Kentucky.

Mary and Sidney Gill, deep in the work of the building fund drive, stopped to welcome home Lt. Colonel Hugh W. McCleary who has just returned from Korea. Hugh and his wife Maudie (Sidney's sister) will be here for about two months before leaving for Shreveport and their next tour of duty. Many of us met or renewed acquaintance with Maudie backstage during the run of Pajama Game. We'll miss her.

Sue Turner sends the word from Hendersonville, North Carolina that she's really loving the work at Camp Ton-a-wondah where she's acting as drama counselor. This is a marvelous opportunity for Sue to utilize her experience and talent which she displayed so well assisting Ivan in production this past season.

Best wishes and thoughts are with our Publicity Chairman, Lallage Feazel, who was called to New Orleans where her father is awaiting surgery.

Roz and Henry Haas (Roz was a board member last term and is one of the originators of and hard workers in the building program) report that their aunt "Miss Mat" Hirsch is unpacking from her pleasant trip to visit friends and relatives in Louisville, Kentucky and Atlanta, Georgia just in time to prepare for a delightful sailing on the Liberte to Europe. We all wish her a wonderful trip.

Myrtle Carter and Jean Hamilton our membership co-chairmen will be most happy to deliver your tickets for the next season if you haven't made arrangements yet. Be sure to be in the audience to attend a play in our new Theater.

Each day the Building Fund total is mounting so that this can be a reality during the next season. Let's hope that the next Curtain Call can bring the news that we've gone over our goal.

SOME LIKE IT HOT

Tony Curtis, pretending to be a millionaire playboy, makes a play for Marilyn Monroe in the new Billy Wilder comedy, "Some Like It Hot." The United Artists release will open today at the Joy Drive In Theater.

Oil Industry Is Honored In Stamp Issue

An oil derrick against a light background will highlight the design of the new 4-cent Petroleum Industry Centennial commemorative stamp. It will be issued at Titusville, Pa., on Aug. 27, and will mark the 100th anniversary of the completion of the first oil well at Titusville by Col. Edward L. Drake.

Lettering on the stamp is a hand-drawn calligraphic style in white against a dark background. The writing surrounds the design in U-shaped form.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations of the stamp may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Titusville, Pa., prior to Aug. 27. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers Petroleum Industry Stamp."

On June 22 Switzerland will issue two commemorative stamps honoring Europa, the organization working for a united Europe. The 30-centimes and 50-c stamps will depict rings and squares linked to form a chain.

This is a unique issue in that the period of sale will be limited to five weeks (June 22 through July 31). This will be one of the shortest periods of use for a Swiss stamp in a long time, says the Swiss Philatelic Agency in America.

San Marino announces that it will issue a set of six or seven values to honor Abraham Lincoln's 150th birthday. A souvenir sheet also may be issued. All of the Lincoln issues by foreign countries have already been issued so this one will be rather late in arriving on the philatelic scene.

The Wild And The Innocent

Sandra Dee requires the willing but inexperienced hands of Audie Murphy to help lace her into a corset. The scene is from "The Wild and the Innocent" which starts today at the Jim Theatre. Also starring in the movie are Joanne Dru, Gilbert Roland, and Jim Backus.

Benson Shows Scope Of New Support Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson has told Congress that only 5,000 big farmers would be affected by the Senate's $50,000-per - farmer limit on direct price support benefits.

Benson disputed charges by some Democratic farm leaders that the restriction would result in "disorderly markets" and lower market prices for all farmers.

Publication Friday night of closed - door testimony given by Benson 10 days ago gave a boost to prospects for some form of a $50,000 limit on individual price support benefits for next year's crops.

The Senate attached its 1960-crop limitation to the agriculture appropriations bill after the House wrote into the bill a $50,000 ceiling that was full of loopholes.

Only three states — all of them in the Midwest—had an increasing number of tornado deaths in the latest five year period. They were Kansas, Missouri and Wisconsin.

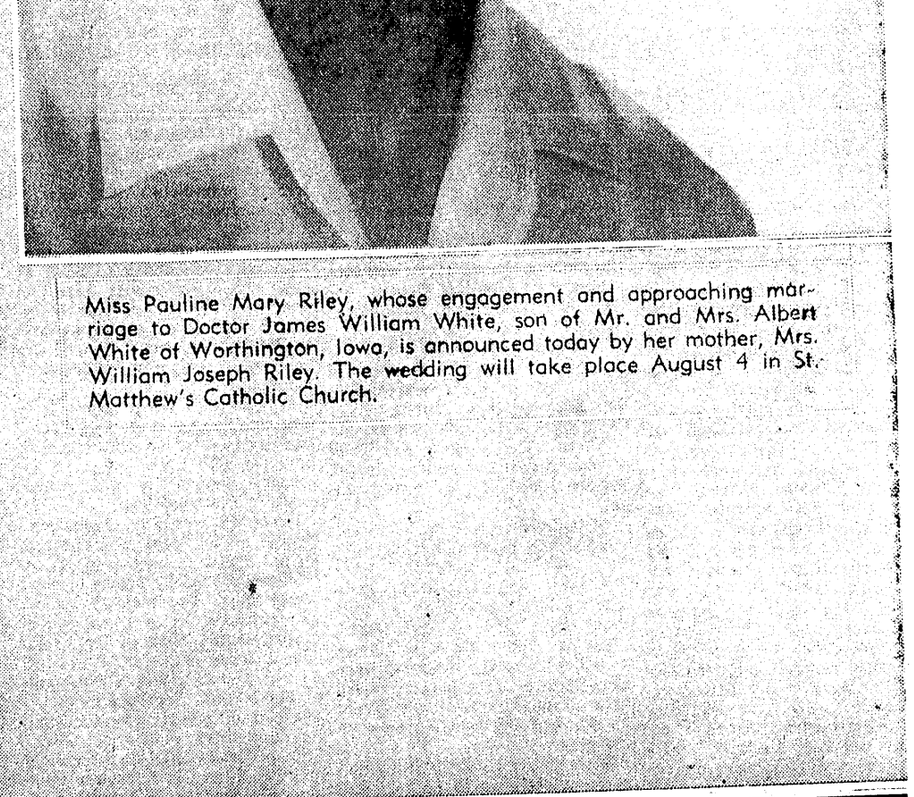
Last night in a setting of agapanthus and greenery, Miss Nancy Weaks Trousdale and Edmund Morris Schenecker exchanged wedding vows in Grace Episcopal Church. The formal ceremony took place at eight o'clock in the evening, with the Reverend A. Donald Davies officiating. The bride is the daughter of Brigadier General and Mrs. George Weaks Trousdale of this city and Mr. Schenecker the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Whitla Schenecker of Fort Worth, Texas. The couple will make their home in Fort Worth.



Miss Pauline Mary Riley, whose engagement and approaching marriage to Doctor James William White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert White of Worthington, Iowa, is announced today by her mother, Mrs. William Joseph Riley. The wedding will take place August 4 in St. Matthew's Catholic Church.

RALPH M. WILSON

Dean Wilson To Address Drug Groups

Northeast State's dean of pharmacy, Dean Ralph M. Wilson, will be a featured speaker today at a convention of the Louisiana Drug Travelers Association in Alexandria.

The Drug Travelers Association is holding a convention prior to the opening Monday of the annual Louisiana State Pharmaceutical Association meeting in Alexandria.

In addition to Dean Wilson, others attending the three-day convention activites from Northeast State will be Dr. Frank Martin and Dr. Joesph Kern of the Northeast pharmacy faculty.

Wilson will speak on the recent development of professional activity and some predictions of future events. He will also bring greetings from the college at the opening session of the LSPA.

Fred Tannehill of Pineville, convention chairman and incoming president of the Louisiana State Pharmaceutical Association, has arranged a program emphasizing state and nationally known speakers who will discuss problems pertinent to people in the pharmacy field. Additional features will include demonstrations, drug displays, films and various social affairs.

One of Monday's program specialties will be "Current Advances and Concepts in Virology," a film narrated by a district manager of Eli Lilly and Company.

"Merchandising for Moderns," will be discussed Tuesday by a trade relations director, Mead Johnson and Company. The agenda will include a talk by the LSPA president, Paul Bechet of Lafayette; an address "What's Cooking?" by the field sales manager of E. R. Squibbs and Sons, and an address by Louis Throgmorton, vice president of an insurance company, Dallas, who will speak at the president's banquet.

Wednesday morning's meeting will emphasize business, followed by a luncheon featuring an address by Camille F. Gravel, Jr., Louisiana national democratic committeeman, who is closely associated with the drug industry.

BY OIL COMPANIES

Judge To Decide Import Appeals

HOUSTON, June 20 (AP) — A federal judge is to take a close look next week at the oil imports controls program.

Hearings on two permanent injunctions are scheduled here Wednesday before Judge Joe Ingraham.

Two companies are seeking relief in federal court after losing battles before the imports appeals board.

Neither case is challenging the validity of the controls program. Neither involves large quantities of oil.

Both have drawn considerable attention, however, in that Ingraham's rulings could play a major role in resolving dissatisfaction on the part of some importers and some refiners who want to become importers. Inequities within the program are admitted even by many of its staunchest supporters.

Ingraham last month granted a temporary restraining order permitting Texas American Asphalt Co. to import 160,000 barrels of Venezuelan crude that had no imports quota.

Last week a similar order gave Eastern States Petroleum and Chemical Co. conditional authority to bring in 1,420,000 barrels not covered by its quota.

U.S. Atty. William Butler opposed both the temporary orders. He returns Wednesday in a similar role after a number of conferences with Justice Department officials.

Federal judges in Houston receive their cases by lot. A clerk drew Ingraham's name while assigning each of the imports cases.

Texas American is a new company which constructed an asphalt plant under an assumption it would obtain a quota to import a special grade of Venezuelan crude. It already had chartered a tanker to bring 160,000 barrels to Texas when it got word its application for a quota had been rejected. The company was not eligible because its refinery was not operating last year. Quotas are based on 1958 refinery operations.

Eastern States has been fighting an unsuccessful battle for a higher quota ever since the controls program began on a voluntary basis in July, 1957.

The company contends its quota should be 25,000 barrels a day instead of the authorized 12,400. The 1,420,000 barrels is the difference between the two figures for the period of March 11 through June 30.

Eastern States claims a clerical error in computing refinery runs knocked 3,040 barrels a day of its quota. The company also claims crude that is expected after being crcde that is exxported after being processed under a barter agreement with Great Britain.

Texas Asphalt claims lack of quota would force the company into bankruptcy. In addition to the new plant at LaCosta, Tex., asphalt plants also are planned at Ennis and Brownsville, Tex., and Tampa, Fla.

Eastern States claims it stands to lose $1,500,000 if its current March-June quota stands.

Eastern States suit challenging the validity of the old voluntary controls program is still pending in a District of Columbia court. The company lost early rounds but a hearing on merits had not been scheduled when the voluntary program was abandoned in favor of mandatory controls March 10.

There is some speculation Eastern States will return to the Washington court should Ingraham rule unfavorably Wednesday.

The current temporary order for Eastern States was a compromise suggested by Butler.

MRS. RONALD FOX WALTERS

Afternoon Ceremony Unites In Marriage Miss Burford-R. Walters

On June 14 at 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon Miss Mildred Louise Burford, daughter of Mrs. Lucien Napoleon Laroche of Monroe, became the bride of Ronald Fox Walters, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lindsey Walters of West Monroe.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Reverend E. Earl Ogg in the First Christian Church of this city.

Decorating the church for the wedding were large baskets of white gladioli in a setting of fern with white cathedral tapers in wrought iron candelabra on the altar.

The guests were escorted to their places by Earl Ingram of Baton Rouge and Joel Venable of West Monroe. Serving as candlelighters were Stephen Ketchell and Barry Odom.

The organist, Miss Pat Hudson, accompanied Glen Daniels as he sang Beethoven's "I Love Thee" and Bernard Hamblen's "O Day of Golden Promise."

Serving the bride as maid of honor was Miss Sandra Lynn Burford, sister of the bride. Miss Martha Foster, cousin of the bride, and Miss Rita Snider were bridesmaids. Their dresses were of soft yellow silk organza over yellow cotton satin. A cummerbund of cotton satin ending in a large bow lent interest to the back. Each wore head bands of cotton satin and carried a white lace fan with yellow tinted daisies. Little Miss Susan Stanley was the flower girl. She wore yellow organdy trimmed in white lace and yellow rosettes over yellow cotton satin. She carried a basket of white and yellow daisies.

The groom and Bennie Franklin, who served as best man, awaited the bride at the altar steps as she was escorted to the alter and given in marriage by her uncle, Emmett Jefferson Foster. The lines of her dress were fashioned in the princess silhouette with portrait neckline and short sleeves. A large ruffle which began in the front formed the short chapel train in the back. A small cuff of organdy formed the top of the ruffle and ended in a large bow in the back. The gown was of imported cut-organdy over cotton, and it was an original design of the bride. Her veil was fingertip length and of sheer organdy. She wore short cut-organdy gloves and carried a bouquet composed of a white orchid surrounded with fleur d'amour and stephenotis. The bride's only jewelry was an emerald drop, a gift of the groom. At the close of the ceremony, Mr. Daniels sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the alter.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the wedding, a reception was held in the church parlor. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Burford, grandparents of the bride, welcomed the guests who were then received by the bridal couple, their parents, and the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Foster. The bride's mother was becomingly attired in an ivory, beige sheath of lace and silk organza over cotton satin. Silk organza panels lent interest to the back. Short beige gloves and matching hat completed her ensemble. Her corsage was of white fleur d'amour. The groom's mother chose a gown of tan lace over taffeta, her beaded hat and shoes were of the same shade. Her corsage was of pink feathered carnations.

In the reception room, the wall behind the refreshment table was banked with white gladioli. A white lace cloth over yellow covered the table. The center piece was of white daisies in a crystal bowl. Placed on one end of the table was a crystal punch bowl and serving punch was Mrs. Clayton Hand assisted by Mrs. Fairell Ketchell. On the opposite end of the table, Mrs. Clyde Foster and Mrs. Claude Dillingham served the tiered double wedding ring cake. Miss Marilyn Gill invited the guests to sign the bride's book.

For her wedding trip, the bride chose a beige silk linen suit. Her accessories were white and she wore the orchid from her bouquet at her shoulder.

The couple will make their home in Virginia.

The bride is a graduate of Neville High School and received her B. A. degree from Northeast Louisiana State College. While attending college she was a member of Phi Mu social sorority, Delta Psi Omega, honorary dramatic fraternity, Sigma Tau Delta, honorary English fraternity, and The Senior Board which is an honorary women's organization. The groom is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and received his B. A. degree from Northeast Louisiana State College. He was a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon, social fraternity, while in college.

Out of town guests were: Miss Marilyn Ferguson and Miss Janice Ferguson of Ruston, Miss Marilyn Gill of Shreveport, Mr. and Mrs. James McNew, Mr. V. H. Burford, and Mr. Pete Gregory of Ferriday, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Odom, Barry, and Roddey Odom of Mer Rouge, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Sistrunk, Jennie and Donnie Sistrunk of Gueydan, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Gammell of Ruston, and Mr. and Mrs. Oran Rowland of Lake Charles.

REHEARSAL DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Burford were hosts at the rehearsal dinner honoring their granddaughter Miss Mickey Burford and Ronald Walters. The dinner was held Friday before the wedding in the Cameo Room of the Virginia Hotel.

Miss Burford wore a beige silk sheath with pearl white accessories.

A large arrangement of white and yellow daisies in a milk glass bowl formed the centerpiece. A wide white satin ribbon, lodged with green leaf ivy, ran the length of the table and ended with a miniature bride and groom on one end and wedding bells on the other.

Places were marked with small ceramic place cards of gold and white wedding bells with each guest's name enscribed in gold.

Those present at the dinner were the bride and bridegroom-to-be, Miss Burford and Mr. Walters, Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Lache, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Foster, Mr. and Mrs. John Walters, Reverend and Mrs. Earl Ogg, Miss Sandra Burford, Miss Martha Foster, Mis Rita Snider, Miss Pat Hudson, Miss Susan Stanley, Mr. Earl Ingram, Mr. Bonnie Franklin, Mr. Joe Venable, Mr. Glen Daniels, Stephen Ketchell, Barry Odom and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Burford.

Formal Ceremony Unites Nancy Weaks Trousdale Edmund M. Schenecker

Of interest here and elsewhere was the wedding of Miss Nancy Weaks Trousdale, daughter of Brigadier General and Mrs. George Weaks Trousdale, of Monroe to Edmund Morris Schenecker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Whitla Schenecker, of Fort Worth, Texas, Saturday, celebrated in Grace Church. The formal ceremony which took place at Eight o'clock in the evening, was performed by the Reverend A. Donald Davies. Decorating the altar of the church were clusters of white agapanthus and greenery.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of palest magnolia peau de soie. The tightly moulded basque bodice fashioned with a portrait neckline enhanced by a magnum cuff effect and brief sleeves complemented by long glace' kid gloves. The flare full skirt, accented with a deep back inset of handrun alencon lace, swept to a wide chapel length train. Her veil of heirloom rosepoint lace softly framed her face and extended the length of her train. She carried a single magnolia blossom.

Matron of honor to the bride was her sister, Mrs. Alfred Whitney Brown, Jr. of New Orleans, and the other attendants included Mrs. William Davis of Portsmouth, new Hampshire, sister of the groom; Miss Marietta Moyer, New Orleans; Miss Ella King Trousdale and Miss Ann Trousdale of Monroe, cousins of the bride. The attendants wore formal gowns of iced lilac faille. The modified bateau neckline complemented by brief sleeves and short white kid gloves. The basque bodice enhanced by a bell shaped floor length skirt, accented by a fringed butterfly chou and a soft faille rose in back. Their hats were moulded white veiling. Each attendant carried clusters of white agapanthus and greenery.

John Cannon Andrews attended the groom as best man. The groomsmen and ushers were: George Weaks Trousdale, Jr. of Monroe, brother of the bride; William Davis, Portsmouth, N. H., John Hogg, Ogden Kelly Shannon III, Thomas Palmer, E. Earl Baldridge, Jr., Ben Fortson of Fort Worth, Texas, and Mr. Alfred Whitney Brown, Jr. of New Orleans.

RECEPTION

The reception immediately following the ceremony was held at Bayou DeSiard Country Club. The foyer was resplendent with clusters of mammoth Padua candles and magnolia boughs. The bride and groom stood under two large sconces handsomely decorated with tuberoses and gardenias. At each end of the lounge were two espalier trees holding pots of lilies of the Nile, gardenias and smilax. These were flanked by two ceiling height ming trees of magnolia.

A table with ivory taffeta coylings complemented by deep swags was centered by the bride's graceful cake with tinted icing. In its crown - shaped top was placed a silver marriage cup.

Receiving was Mrs. Trousdale, mother of the bride, who chose a formal gown fashioned of white chiffon accented by panels of narcissus blue. The pleated bodice was accented by a swag which draped to the back of the neckline. A large cluster of white lilac was placed within a wide fold of the bodice. Her small double bandeau of velvet was accented by diminuitive crox knots. Mrs. Schenecker assisted in receiving and was attired in a gown of toile blue silk organza, re-embroidered with floral motifs of indigo and hyacinth, and matching accessories.

Following the reception, Mr. Schenecker and his bride departed for their wedding trip. The bride traveled in a bone and white checked suit, worn with a small faun stitched silk coif. Her accessories were of similar tone. They will make their home in Fort Worth, Texas.

The bride's mother is the former Miss Louisette Billeaud, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andre' Billeaud of Broussard. Her paternal grandparents are Mrs. James Harvey Trousdale and the late Mr. Trousdale, of Monroe. Mr. Schenecker's mother was before her marriage Miss Pauline Lewis of Beverly Hills, California, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lewis of Seattle, Washington. His paternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Moritz Schenecker of Fort Worth.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lionel J. Billeaud, Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Labbe', Mr. and Mrs. David S. Foster III of Lafayette; Mr. and Mrs. Curtis G. Breaux, Miss Juliette Breaux and Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Creed of Baton Rouge; Mrs. Frank W. Mouso of Oklahoma City, Okla.; Mrs. Herman von Kaas, Miswaukee, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. MRS. WERNER JOE PRATKA

Marriage Vows Pledged By Miss Irving - W. J. Pratka

A wedding ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Dolores Ann Irving, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Andrew Irving of this city, and Werner Joe Pratka, son of Mrs. John S. Pratka and the late Mr. Pratka of Houston, Texas, was held on Saturday, June 13, at 4:00 in the afternoon in the Trinity Lutheran Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Arthur Betz.

Miss Elaine Allen rendered the nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Estelle Sanders, whose selections were "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer". Tommy Emerson of Winnfield, accompanied the bride's brother, Ralph Edward Irving, also of Winnfield, who rendered a trumpet solo of the hymn "Green Sleeves". The traditional "Lohengrin" processional and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" were used.

The candle-lighted altar held standards of white ruffled gladioli and white pom pom chrysanthemums. On either side of the altar were tall stands with vases of the same flowers. Two graceful palms stood in front of these.

BRIDE

The bride walked down the white-carpeted aisle with her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a designers gown of white French organdy over taffeta. In Princess silhouette, it had a portrait neckline framed by delicate embroidery in floral motif. The design extended over the top of the brief sleeves and came into the back, where small buttons extended. From this detail, the Princess silhouette of white organdy draped into a deep band of the floral embroidered organdy and the back swept into a circular court train. To a plateau coif of organdy petals etched with bridal pearls, tiers of imported white silk illusion draped over the shoulder of the gown to fingertip length. The bride wore short white kid gloves and carried a Crescent cascade of white roses centered with a large white orchid. Her only jewelry was a single cultured pearl and diamond necklace, a gift of the groom.

Mrs. Ralph Edward Irving, sister-in-law of the bride, of Winnfield, served as matron of honor. The bridesmaid was Miss Mary Gertrude Bordelon, cousin of the bride, of Alexandria. They wore identical dresses of white organdy over taffeta, styled with circlet necklines and brief sleeves. The midriff was marked by an embroidered insert of periwinkle blue applique edged with narrow banding of grosgrain ribbon. The bell shaped skirt was accented by a wide hemline banding of the same floral detail. Matching ribbon bandeaux were worn on their heads and they each carried bouquets of crescent cascades of blue native Hydrangeas.

The flower girl was little Cynthia Lynn Irving, niece of the bride who wore a full-skirted dress of white organdy over taffeta fashioned with a round-neck and tiny puffed sleeves and complemented by a small flowered bandeaux, white shoes and gloves. She carried a white miniature basket from which she scattered pink rose petals down the aisle.

After the vows were exchanged a garden reception was held at the home of the bride, 1010 Civic Street. Hundreds of daylilies outlined the entire yard. Adding to the beauty of the garden setting was a large wrought-iron fountain overflowing with fragrant white gardenias. Receiving with the bridal couple were their mothers and the bride's attendants.

Mrs. Irving was becomingly gowned in a beige chantilly lace dress, with bone accessories and at her shoulder was worn a corsage of green cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Pratka was attired in a pure silk blue dress with all white accessories and at her shoulder was worn a corsage of white chymbidium orchids.

The Bride's Book placed on a small table with a memory candle enclosed in a large hurricane lamp as the decor imbedded in maiden-hair fern and gardenias which was presided over by Miss Dell Moore.

The tiered bride's cake was placed on an individual table. Alternating in serving were Mrs. William G. Haab and Mrs. Gram Breard. A lovely cut glass punch bowl graced the bride's table which was covered with an imported cut-work linen cloth and centered with a candelabra arrangement of white stock, gladioli. and gardenias. This was presided over by Mrs. David Carter, Mrs. John Strickler, Mrs. William Yerger and Mrs. James Russell, Junior.

WEDDING TRIP

For her wedding trip to Nassau in the Bahamas Islands, Mrs. Pratka chose a pure silk beige sheath dress with matching jacket and cloche. Bone shoes, purse and short kid gloves completed her costume. She wore the white orchid from the center of her bridal bouguet.

Following the honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Pratka will reside in Houston, Texas.

Electric Grill Ideal For Use In Summer

Hot weather menu planning is considerably easier for the housewife who makes liberal use of an electric grill.

Delicious dishes quickly prepared on this handy appliance will go far toward sparking sagging appetites. Home economists suggest serving a variety of grill sandwiches. Especially tasty when prepared this way are swiss cheese, ham salad, chicken salad, fruit jelly with peanut butter, and frankfurter sandwiches.

To prevent them from having that "'pressed" look that so often makes grilled sandwiches unappetizing, use the sandwich spacers with your grill. They hold the weight of the lid and prevent the sandwich from being crushed.

EXCLUSIVELY TEMPERED TO SUMMER WEAR —width at the outward curving neck and shoulder line with new "dust ruffle" sleeves. The fabric sparkle clean and refreshingly cool—is a white and blue floral print, satin finished cotton.

For a dessert the whole family will like, prepare lemon - flavored gelatin according to package directions, substituting apricot whole fruit nectar and a tablespoon of fresh lemon juice for part of the water. Chill until thick; then beat with rotary beater until foamy. Pile lightly into sherbet glasses. When firm, top with sliced fresh bananas and affect the flavor of roast lamb.

LEAVE THE FELL

Many good cooks remove the fell—the thin outer covering of lamb—before roasting because they believe it is detrimental to flavor; but recent research indicates that the fell does not affect the flavor of roast lamb.

OLD, BUT GOOD

Old-fashioned sink strainers are still a good idea if you do a lot of vegetable and fruit peeling.

Miss McDaniel H. Ray Gregory Pledge Vows

The First Baptist Church in Columbia was the setting on June 14 for the wedding of Mary Ann McDaniel and Hershal Ray Gregory of Monroe. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl McDaniel of Columbia. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Burl Gregory of Oak Grove. The double ring ceremony was held at high noon with the Rev. Jimmie Bolton officiating.

The church was decorated with magnolia blossoms, white gladioli and greenery in standard baskets among white tapers in candelabra.

Donald McGough presented the wedding music.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a street length gown of embroidered polished cotton, sheath design, and her shoulder length veil was attached to a tiara of seed pearls and sequins. She carried a white orchid in a nest of tulle with satin streamers.

Miss Carolyn McDonald served as maid of honor in a pale blue sheath of polished cotton. Her dress had a chiffon bow and panels the length of the dress. She carried a blue carnation bouquet.

Hugh Garcin of Monroe served as best man, Charles Thompson as candlelighter and Carl McDaniel Jr. as usher.

The bride's mother, Mrs. McDaniel chose a navy dress with white accessories for her daughter's wedding. Her corsage was of white carnations. The groom's mother, Mrs. Gregory was wearing a pink dress with white accessories, her corsage was also of white carnations.

The couple will make their home in Monroe.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Burl Gregory, Donald and Benny of Oak Grove. Mrs. Annie Ellerbee, Mrs. Edward Ellerbee, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Tyler, Miss Judy Tyler, Miss Bobbie Troha and Johnnie Troha.

MRS. RONALD FOX WALTERS

Afternoon Ceremony Unites In Marriage Miss Burford-R. Walters

On June 14 at 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon Miss Mildred Louise Burford, daughter of Mrs. Lucien Napoleon Larche of Monroe, became the bride of Ronald Fox Walters, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lindsey Walters of West Monroe.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Reverend F. Earl Ogg in the First Christian Church of this city.

Decorating the church for the wedding were large baskets of white gladioli in a setting of fern with white cathedral tapers in wrought iron candelabra on the altar.

The guests were escorted to their places by Earl Ingram of Baton Rouge and Joel Venable of West Monroe. Serving as candlelighters were Stephen Ketchell and Barry Odom.

The organist, Miss Pat Hudson, accompanied Glen Daniels as he sang Beethoven's "I Love Thee" and Bernard Hamblen's "O Day of Golden Promise."

Serving the bride as maid of honor was Miss Sandra Lynn Burford, sister of the bride. Miss Martha Foster, cousin of the bride, and Miss Rita Snider were bridesmaids. Their dresses were of soft yellow silk organza over yellow cotton satin. A cummerbund of cotton satin ending in a large bow lent interest to the back. Each wore head bands of cotton satin and carried a white lace fan with yellow tinted daisies. Little Miss Susan Stanley was the flower girl. She wore yellow organdy trimmed in white lace and yellow rosettes over yellow cotton satin. She carried a basket of white and yellow daisies.

The groom and Bennie Franklin, who served as best man, awaited the bride at the altar steps as she was escorted to the alter and given in marriage by her uncle, Emmett Jefferson Foster. The lines of her dress were fashioned in the princess silhouette with portrait neckline and short sleeves. A large ruffle which began in the front formed the short chapel train in the back. A small cuff of organdy formed the top of the ruffle and ended in a large bow in the back. The gown was of imported cut-organdy over cotton, and it was an original design of the bride. Her veil was fingertip length and of sheer organdy. She wore short cut-organdy gloves and carried a bouquet composed of a white orchid surrounded with fleur d'amour and stephenotis. The bride's only jewelry was an emerald drop, a gift of the groom. At the close of the ceremony, Mr. Daniels sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the alter.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the wedding, a reception was held in the church parlor. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Burford, grandparents of the bride, welcomed the guests who were then received by the bridal couple, their parents, and the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Foster. The bride's mother was becomingly attired in an ivory, beige sheath of lace and silk organza over cotton satin. Silk organza panels lent interest to the back. Short beige gloves and matching hat completed her ensemble. Her corsage was of white fleur d'amour. The groom's mother chose a gown of tan lace over taffeta, her beaded hat and shoes were of the same shade. Her corsage was of pink feathered carnations.

In the reception room, the wall behind the refreshment table was banked with white gladioli. A white lace cloth over yellow covered the table. The center piece was of white daisies in a crystal bowl. Placed on one end of the table was a crystal punch bowl and serving punch was Mrs. Clayton Hand assisted by Mrs. Farrell Ketchell. On the opposite end of the table, Mrs. Clyde Foster and Mrs. Claude Dillingham served the tiered double wedding ring cake. Miss Marilyn Gill invited the guests to sign the bride's book.

For her wedding trip, the bride chose a beige silk linen suit. Her accessories were white and she wore the orchid from her bouquet at her shoulder.

The couple will make their home in Virginia.

The bride is a graduate of Neville High School and received her B. A. degree from Northeast Louisiana State College. While attending college she was a member of Phi Mu social sorority, Delta Psi Omega, honorary dramatic fraternity, Sigma Tau Delta, honorary English fraternity, and The Senior Board which is an honorary women's organization. The groom is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and received his B. A. degree from Northeast Louisiana State College. He was a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon, social fraternity, while in college.

Out of town guests were: Miss Marilyn Ferguson and Miss Janice Ferguson of Ruston, Miss Marilyn Gill of Shreveport, Mr. and Mrs. James McNew, Mr. V. H. Burford, and Mr. Pete Gregory of Ferriday, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Odom, Barry, and Roddey Odom of Mer Rouge, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Sistrunk, Jennie and Donnie Sistrunk of Gueydan, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Gammell of Ruston, and Mr. and Mrs. Oran Rowland of Lake Charles.

REHEARSAL DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Burford were hosts at the rehearsal dinner honoring their granddaughter Miss Mickey Burford and Ronald Walters. The dinner was held Friday before the wedding in the Cameo Room of the Virginia Hotel.

Miss Burford wore a beige silk sheath with pearl white accessories.

A large arrangement of white and yellow daisies in a milk glass bowl formed the centerpiece. A wide white satin ribbon, edged with green leaf ivy, ran the length of the table and ended with a miniature bride and groom on one end and wedding bells on the other.

Places were marked with small ceramic place cards of gold and white wedding bells with each guest's name enscribed in gold.

Those present at the dinner were the bride and bridegroom-to-be, Miss Burford and Mr. Walters, Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Larche, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Foster, Mr. and Mrs. John Walters, Reverend and Mrs. Earl Ogg, Miss Sandra Burford, Miss Martha Foster, Mis Rita Snider, Miss Pat Hudson, Miss Susan Stanley, Mr. Earl Ingram, Mr. Bennie Franklin, Mr. Joe Venable, Mr. Glen Daniels, Stephen Ketchell, Barry Odom and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Burford.

Formal Ceremony Unites Nancy Weaks Trousdale Edmund M. Schenecker

Of interest here and elsewhere was the wedding of Miss Nancy Weaks Trousdale, daughter of Brigadier General and Mrs. George Weaks Trousdale, of Monroe to Edmund Morris Schenecker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Whitla Schenecker, of Fort Worth, Texas, Saturday, celebrated in Grace Church. The formal ceremony which took place at Eight o'clock in the evening, was performed by the Reverend A. Donald Davies. Decorating the altar of the church were clusters of white agapanthus and greenery.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of palest magnolia peau de soie. The tightly moulded basque bodice fashioned with a portrait neckline enhanced by a magnum cuff effect and brief sleeves complemented by long glace' kid gloves. The flare full skirt, accented with a deep back inset of handrun alencon lace, swept to a wide chapel length train. Her veil of heirloom rosepoint lace softly framed her face and extended the length of her train. She carried a single magnolia blossom.

Matron of honor to the bride was her sister, Mrs. Alfred Whitney Brown, Jr. of New Orleans, and the other attendants included Mrs. William Davis of Portsmouth, new Hampshire, sister of the groom; Miss Marietta Moyer, New Orleans; Miss Ella King Trousdale and Miss Ann Trousdale of Monroe, cousins of the bride. The attendants wore formal gowns of iced lilac faille. The modified bateau neckline complemented by brief sleeves and short white kid gloves. The basque bodice enhanced by a bell shaped floor length skirt, accented by a fringed butterfly chou and a soft faille rose in back. Their hats were moulded white veiling. Each attendant carried clusters of white agapanthus and greenery.

John Cannon Andrews attended the groom as best man. The groomsmen and ushers were: George Weaks Trousdale, Jr. of Monroe, brother of the bride; William Davis, Portsmouth, N. H., John Hogg, Ogden Kelly Shannon III, Thomas Palmer, E. Earl Baldridge, Jr., Ben Fortson of Fort Worth, Texas, and Mr. Alfred Whitney Brown, Jr. of New Orleans.

RECEPTION

The reception immediately following the ceremony was held at Bayou DeSiard Country Club. The foyer was resplendent with clusters of mammoth Padua candles and magnolia boughs. The bride and groom stood under two large sconces handsomely decorated with tuberoses and gardenias. At each end of the lounge were two espalier trees holding pots of lilies of the Nile, gardenias and smilax. These were flanked by two ceiling height ming trees of magnolia.

A table with ivory taffeta covings complemented by deep swags was centered by the bride's graceful cake with tinted icing. In its crown - shaped top was placed a silver marriage cup.

Receiving was Mrs. Trousdale, mother of the bride, who chose a formal gown fashioned of white chiffon accented by panels of narcissus blue. The pleated bodice was accented by a swag which draped to the back of the neckline. A large cluster of white lilac was placed within a wide fold of the bodice. Her small double bandeau of velvet was accented by diminuitive crax knots. Mrs. Schenecker assisted in receiving and was attired in a gown of toile blue silk organza, re-embroidered with floral motifs of indigo and hyacinth, and matching accessories.

Following the reception, Mr. Schenecker and his bride departed for their wedding trip. The bride traveled in a bone and white checked suit, worn with a small faun stitched silk coif. Her accessories were of similar tone. They will make their home in Fort Worth, Texas.

The bride's mother is the former Miss Louisette Billeaud, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andre' Billeaud of Broussard. Her paternal grandparents are Mrs. James Harvey Trousdale and the late Mr. Trousdale, of Monroe. Mr. Schenecker's mother was before her marriage Miss Pauline Lewis of Beverly Hills, California, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lewis of Seattle, Washington. His paternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Moritz Schenecker of Fort Worth.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lionel J. Billeaud, Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Labbe', Mr. and Mrs. David S. Foster III of Lafayette; Mr. and Mrs. Curtis G. Breaux, Miss Juliette Breaux and Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Creed of Baton Rouge; Mrs. Frank W. Mouso of Oklahoma City, Okla.; Mrs. Herman von Kaas, Miswaukee, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. MRS. RONALD FOX WALTERS

Afternoon Ceremony Unites In Marriage Miss Burford-R. Walters

On June 14 at 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon Miss Mildred Louise Burford, daughter of Mrs. Lucien Napoleon Larche of Monroe, became the bride of Ronald Fox Walters, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lindsey Walters of West Monroe.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Reverend F. Earl Ogg in the First Christian Church of this city.

Decorating the church for the wedding were large baskets of white gladioli in a setting of fern with white cathedral tapers in wrought iron candelabra on the altar.

The guests were escorted to their places by Earl Ingram of Baton Rouge and Joel Venable of West Monroe. Serving as candlelighters were Stephen Ketchell and Barry Odon.

The organist, Miss Pat Hudson, accompanied Glen Daniels as he sang Beethoven's "I Love Thee" and Bernard Hamblen's "O Day of Golden Promise."

Serving the bride as maid of honor was Miss Sandra Lynn Burford, sister of the bride. Miss Martha Foster, cousin of the bride, and Miss Rita Snider were bridesmaids. Their dresses were of soft yellow silk organza over yellow cotton satin. A cummerbund of cotton satin ending in a large bow lent interest to the back. Each wore head bands of cotton satin and carried a white lace fan with yellow tinted daisies. Little Miss Susan Stanley was the flower girl. She wore yellow organdy trimmed in white lace and yellow rosettes over yellow cotton satin. She carried a basket of white and yellow daisies.

The groom and Bennie Franklin, who served as best man, awaited the bride at the altar steps as she was escorted to the alter and given in marriage by her uncle, Emmett Jefferson Foster. The lines of her dress were fashioned in the princess silouette with portrait neckline and short sleeves. A large ruffle which began in the front formed the short chapel train in the back. A small cuff of organdy formed the top of the ruffle and ended in a large bow in the back. The gown was of imported cut-organdy over cotton, and it was an original design of the bride. Her veil was fingertip length and of sheer organdy. She wore short cut-organdy gloves and carried a bouquet composed of a white orchid surrounded with fleur d'amour and stephenotia. The bride's only jewelry was an emerald drop, a gift of the groom. At the close of the ceremony, Mr. Daniels sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the alter.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the wedding, a reception was held in the church parlor. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Burford, grandparents of the bride, welcomed the guests who were then received by the bridal couple, their parents, and the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Foster. The bride's mother was becomingly attired in an ivory, beige sheath of lace and silk organza over cotton satin. Silk organza panels lent interest to the back. Short beige gloves and matching hat completed her ensemble. Her corsage was of white fleur d'amour. The groom's mother chose a gown of tan lace over taffeta, her beaded hat and shoes were of the same shade. Her corsage was of pink feathered carnations.

In the reception room, the wall behind the refreshment table was banked with white gladioli. A white lace cloth over yellow covered the table. The center piece was of white daisies in a crystal bowl. Placed on one end of the table was a crystal punch bowl and serving punch was Mrs. Clayton Hand assisted by Mrs. Fairell Ketchell. On the opposite end of the table, Mrs. Clyde Foster and Mrs. Claude Dillingham served the tiered double wedding ring cake. Miss Marilyn Gill invited the guests to sign the bride's book.

For her wedding trip, the bride chose a beige silk linen suit. Her accessories were white and she wore the orchid from her bouquet at her shoulder.

The couple will make their home in Virginia.

The bride is a graduate of Neville High School and received her B. A. degree from Northeast Louisiana State College. While attending college she was a member of Phi Mu social sorority, Delta Psi Omega, honorary dramatic fraternity, Sigma Tau Delta, honorary English fraternity, and The Senior Board which is an honorary women's organization. The groom is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and received his B. A. degree from Northeast Louisiana State College. He was a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon, social fraternity, while in college.

Out of town guests were: Miss Marilyn Ferguson and Miss Janice Ferguson of Ruston, Miss Marilyn Gill of Shreveport, Mr. and Mrs. James McNew, Mr. V. H. Burford, and Mr. Pete Gregory of Ferriday, Mr.and Mrs. R. H. Odom, Barry, and Roddey Odom of Mer Rouge, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Sistrunk, Jennie and Donnie Sistrunk of Gueydan, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Gammell of Ruston, and Mr. and Mrs. Oran Rowland of Lake Charles.

REHEARSAL DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Burford were hosts at the rehearsal dinner honoring their granddaughter Miss Mickey Burford and Ronald Walters. The dinner was held Friday before the wedding in the Cameo Room of the Virginia Hotel.

Miss Burford wore a beige silk sheath with pearl white accessories.

A large arrangement of white and yellow daisies in a milk glass bowl formed the centerpiece. A wide white satin ribbon, edged with green leaf ivy, ran the length of the table and ended with a miniature bride and groom on one end and wedding bells on the other.

Places were marked with small ceramic place cards of gold and white wedding bells with each guest's name enscribed in gold.

Those present at the dinner were the bride and bridegroom-to-be, Miss Burford and Mr. Walters, Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Lache, Mr. and Mrs. Emmtt Foster, Mr. and Mrs. John Walters, Reverend and Mrs. Earl Ogg, Miss Sandra Burford, Miss Martha Foster, Mis Rita Snider, Miss Pat Hudson, Miss Susan Stanley, Mr. Earl Ingram, Mr. Bennie Franklin, Mr. Joe Venable, Mr. Glen Daniels, Stephen Ketchell, Barry Odom and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Burford.

Formal Ceremony Unites Nancy Weaks Trousdale Edmund M. Schenecker

Of interest here and elsewhere was the wedding of Miss Nancy Weaks Trousdale, daughter of Brigadier General and Mrs. George Weaks Trousdale, of Monroe to Edmund Morris Schenecker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Whitla Schenecker, of Fort Worth, Texas, Saturday, celebrated in Grace Church. The formal ceremony which took place at Eight o'clock in the evening, was performed by the Reverend A. Donald Davies. Decorating the altar of the church were clusters of white agapanthus and greenery.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of palest magnolia peau de soie. The tightly moulded basque bodice fashioned with a portrait neckline enhanced by a magnum cuff effect and brief sleeves complemented by long glace' kid gloves. The flare full skirt, accented with a deep back inset of handrun alencon lace, swept to a wide chapel length train. Her veil of heirloom rosepoint lace softly framed her face and extended the length of her train. She carried a single magnolia blossom.

Matron of honor to the bride was her sister, Mrs. Alfred Whitney Brown, Jr. of New Orleans, and the other attendants included Mrs. William Davis of Portsmonth, new Hampshire, sister of the groom; Miss Marietta Moyer, New Orleans; Miss Ella King Trousdale and Miss Ann Trousdale of Monroe, cousins of the bride. The attendants wore formal gowns of iced lilac faille. The modified bateau neckline complemented by brief sleeves and short white kid gloves. The basque bodice enhanced by a bell shaped floor length skirt, accented by a fringed butterfly chou and a soft faille rose in back. Their hats were moulded white veiling. Each attendant carried clusters of white agapanthus and greenery.

John Cannon Andrews attended the groom as best man. The groomsmen and ushers were: George Weaks Trousdale, Jr. of Monroe, brother of the bride; William Davis, Portsmouth, N. H., John Hogg, Ogden Kelly Shannon III, Thomas Palmer, E. Earl Baldridge, Jr., Ben Fortson of Fort Worth, Texas, and Mr. Alfred Whitney Brown, Jr. of New Orleans.

RECEPTION

The reception immediately following the ceremony was held at Bayou DeSiard Country Club. The foyer was resplendent with clusters of mammoth Padua candles and magnolia boughs. The bride and groom stood under two large sconces handsomely decorated with tuberoses and gardenias. At each end of the lounge were two espalier trees holding pots of lilies of the Nile, gardenias and smilax. These were flanked by two ceiling height ming trees of magnolia.

A table with ivory taffeta covings complemented by deep swags was centered by the bride's graceful cake with tinted icing. In its crown - shaped top was placed a silver marriage cup.

Receiving was Mrs. Trousdale, mother of the bride, who chose a formal gown fashioned of white chiffon accented by panels of narcissus blue. The pleated bodice was accented by a swag which draped to the back of the neckline. A large cluster of white lilac was placed within a wide fold of the bodice. Her small double bandeau of velvet was accented by diminuitive crox knots. Mrs. Schenecker assisted in receiving and was attired in a gown of toile blue silk organza, re-embroidered with floral motifs of indigo and hyacinth, and matching accessories.

Following the reception, Mr. Schenecker and his bride departed for their wedding trip. The bride traveled in a bone and white checked suit, worn with a small faun stitched silk coif. Her accessories were of similar tone. They will make their home in Fort Worth, Texas.

The bride's mother is the former Miss Louisette Billeaud, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andre' Billeaud of Broussard. Her paternal grandparents are Mrs. James Harvey Trousdale and the late Mr. Trousdale, of Monroe. Mr. Schenecker's mother was before her marriage Miss Pauline Lewis of Beverly Hills, California, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lewis of Seattle, Washington. His paternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Moritz Schenecker of Fort Worth.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lionel J. Billeaud, Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Labbe', Mr. and Mrs. David S. Foster III of Lafayette; Mr. and Mrs. Curtis G. Breaux, Miss Juliette Breaux and Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Creed of Baton Rouge; Mrs. Frank W. Mouso of Oklahoma City, Okla.; Mrs. Herman von Kaas, Miswaukee, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Matthew, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Alfred W. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Merrick Jones of New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Feiber, Miss Ann Feiber, Bogalusa; Walter McIlhenny, Avery Island; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel B. Cantey III, Ambler and Sammy IV, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Baldridge, Miss Martha Baldridge, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Windfohr, Miss Anne Windfohr, Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Kelly Shannon, Jr., Miss Glenn Shannon, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. McCurdy, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Armer, Mr. and Mrs. Neil P. Anderson, Bernie Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. John Hogg, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Fortson, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Ryan, Roy McDermott, Mr. and Mrs. Morton Potts, all of Fort Worth, Tex.; Mr. Paul Garfield of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Eugene Hill-Smith of New York, N. Y.; and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew P. Fuller of New York City and Fort Worth, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Meadows, Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Stewart of Dallas, Tex., and Mrs. William Johnston of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

Several bridal parties took place the week prior to their wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Slagle were hosts for barbeque supper. The young couple was also honored at a dinner following the rehearsal, given by Mr. and Mrs. Edmund W. Schenecker. Saturday morning, Mr. and Mrs. George Weaks entertained at a wedding breakfast, honoring the couple, members of the weddding party, and out of town guests.

Miss Stephens Dr. Ray Rhymes Pledge Vows

Miss Dorothy Anne Stephens and Dr. Raphel Ray Rhymes Jr. were united in marriage in Marietta, Georgia, on June 13 at 3:30 in the afternoon at St. James Episcopal Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edward Stephens of Marietta, and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raphael Ray Rhymes of this city.

The Reverend Joseph T. Walker performed this ceremony.

The original pre - nuptial plans were cancelled and a quiet ceremony was held with close personal friends present.

The couple vacationed along the Gulf Coast and are spending this weekend here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rhymes on Myrtle Street.

Dr. Rhymes reports to Shreveport Confederate Memorial Hospital on July 1.

Open House Fetes Mr.-Mrs. D. M. Griffith

MRS. WERNER JOE PRATKA

Marriage Vows Pledged By Miss Irving - W. J. Pratka

A wedding ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Dolores Ann Irving, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Andrew Irving of this city, and Werner Joe Pratka, son of Mrs. John S. Pratka and the late Mr. Pratka of Houston, Texas, was held on Saturday, June 13, at 4:00 in the afternoon in the Trinity Lutheran Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Arthur Betz.

Miss Elaine Allen rendered the nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Estelle Sanders, whose selections were "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer". Tommy Emerson of Winnfield, accompanied the bride's brother, Ralph Edward Irving, also of Winnfield, who rendered a trumpet solo of the hymn "Green Sleeves". The traditional "Lohengrin" processional and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" were used.

The candle-lighted altar held standards of white ruffled gladioli and white pom pom chrysanthemums. On either side of the altar were tall stands with vases of the same flowers. Two graceful palms stood in front of these.

BRIDE

The bride walked down the white-carpeted aisle with her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a designers gown of white French organdy over taffeta. In Princess silhouette, it had a portrait neckline framed by delicate embroidery in floral motif. The design extended over the top of the brief sleeves and came into the back, where small buttons extended. From this detail, the Princess silhouette of white organdy draped into a deep band of the floral embroidered organdy and the back swept into a circular court train. To a plateau coif of organdy petals etched with bridal pearls, tiers of imported white silk illusion draped over the shoulder of the gown to fingertip length. The bride wore short white kid gloves and carried a Crescent cascade of white roses centered with a large white orchid. Her only jewelry was a single cultured pearl and diamond necklace, a gift of the groom.

Mrs. Ralph Edward Irving, sister-in-law of the bride, of Winnfield, served as matron of honor. The bridesmaid was Miss Mary Gertrude Bordelon, cousin of the bride, of Alexandria. They wore identical dresses of white organdy over taffeta, styled with circlet necklines and brief sleeves. The midriff was marked by an embroidered insert of periwinkle blue applique edged with narrow banding of grosgrain ribbon. The bell shaped skirt was accented by a wide hemline banding of the same floral detail. Matching ribbon bandeaux were worn on their heads and they each carried bouquets of crescent cascades of blue native Hydrangeas.

The flower girl was little Cynthia Lynn Irving, niece of the bride who wore a full-skirted dress of white organdy over taffeta fashioned with a round-neck and tiny puffed sleeves and complemented by a small flowered bandeaux, white shoes and gloves. She carried a white miniature basket from which she scattered pink rose petals down the aisle.

After the vows were exchanged a garden reception was held at the home of the bride, 1010 Civic Street. Hundreds of daylilies outlined the entire yard. Adding to the beauty of the garden setting was a large wrought-iron fountain overflowing with fragrant white gardenias. Receiving with the bridal couple were their mothers and the bride's attendants.

Mrs. Irving was becomingly gowned in a beige chantilly lace dress, with bone accessories and at her shoulder was worn a corsage of green cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Pratka was attired in a pure silk blue dress with all white accessories and at her shoulder was worn a corsage of white chymbidium orchids.

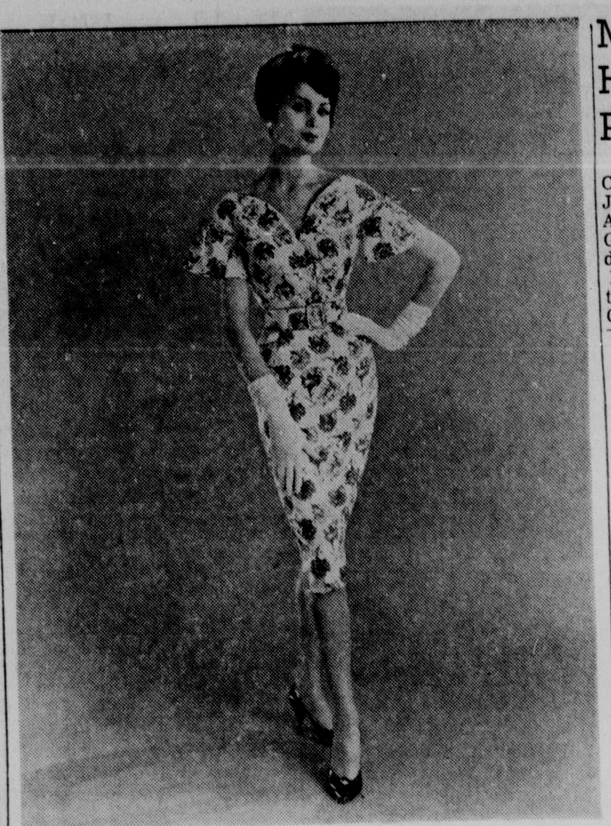
The Bride's Book placed on a small table with a memory candle enclosed in a large hurricane lamp as the decor imbedded in maiden-hair fern and gardenias which was presided over by Miss Dell Moore.

The tiered bride's cake was placed on an individual table. Alternating in serving were Mrs. William G. Haab and Mrs. Gram Breard. A lovely cut glass punch bowl graced the bride's table which was covered with an imported cut-work linen cloth and centered with a candelabra arrangement of white stock, gladioli. and gardenias. This was presided over by Mrs. David Carter, Mrs. John Strickler, Mrs. William Yerger and Mrs. James Russell, Junior.

WEDDING TRIP

For her wedding trip to Nassau in the Bahamas Islands, Mrs. Pratka chose a pure silk beige sheath dress with matching jacket and cloche. Bone shoes, purse and short kid gloves completed her costume. She wore the white orchid from the center of her bridal bouguet.

Following the honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Pratka will reside in Houston, Texas.



EXCLUSIVELY TEMPERED TO SUMMER WEAR —width at the outward curving neck and shoulder line with new "dust ruffle" sleeves. The fabric sparkle clean and refreshingly cool—is a white and blue floral print, satin finished cotton.

For a dessert the whole family will like, prepare lemon - flavored gelatin according to package directions, substituting apricot whole fruit nectar and a tablespoon of fresh lemon juice for part of the water. Chill until thick; then beat with rotary beater until foamy. Pile lightly into sherbet glasses. When firm, top with sliced fresh bananas and affect the flavor of roast lamb.

LEAVE THE FELL

Many good cooks remove the fell—the thin outer covering of lamb—before roasting because they believe it is detrimental to flavor; but recent research indicates that the fell does not affect the flavor of roast lamb.

OLD, BUT GOOD

Old-fashioned sink strainers are still a good idea if you do a lot of vegetable and fruit peeling.

Electric Grill Ideal For Use In Summer

Hot weather menu planning is considerably easier for the housewife who makes liberal use of an electric grill.

Delicious dishes quickly prepared on this handy appliance will go far toward sparking sagging appetites. Home economists suggest serving a variety of grill sandwiches. Especially tasty when prepared this way are swiss cheese, ham salad, chicken salad, fruit jelly with peanut butter, and frankfurter sandwiches.

To prevent them from having that "'pressed" look that so often makes grilled sandwiches unappetizing, use the sandwich spacers with your grill. They hold the weight of the lid and prevent the sandwich from being crushed.

Miss McDaniel H. Ray Gregory Pledge Vows

The First Baptist Church in Columbia was the setting on June 14 for the wedding of Mary Ann McDaniel and Hershal Ray Gregory of Monroe. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl McDaniel of Columbia. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Burl Gregory of Oak Grove. The double ring ceremony was held at high noon with the Rev. Jimmie Bolton officiating.

The church was decorated with magnolia blossoms, white gladioli and greenery in standard baskets among white tapers in candelabra.

Donald McGough presented the wedding music.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a street length gown of embroidered polished cotton, sheath design, and her shoulder length veil was attached to a tiara of seed pearls and sequins. She carried a white orchid in a nest of tulle with satin streamers.

Miss Carolyn McDonald served as maid of honor in a pale blue sheath of polished cotton. Her dress had a chiffon bow and panels the length of the dress. She carried a blue carnation bouquet.

Hugh Garcin of Monroe served as best man, Charles Thompson as candlelighter and Carl McDaniel Jr. as usher.

The bride's mother, Mrs. McDaniel chose a navy dress with white accessories for her daughter's wedding. Her corsage was of white carnations. The groom's mother, Mrs. Gregory was wearing a pink dress with white accessories, her corsage was also of white carnations.

The couple will make their home in Monroe.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Burl Gregory, Donald and Benny of Oak Grove. Mrs. Annie Ellerbee, Mrs. Edward Ellerbee, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Tyler, Miss Judy Tyler, Miss Bobbie Troha and Johnnie Troha.

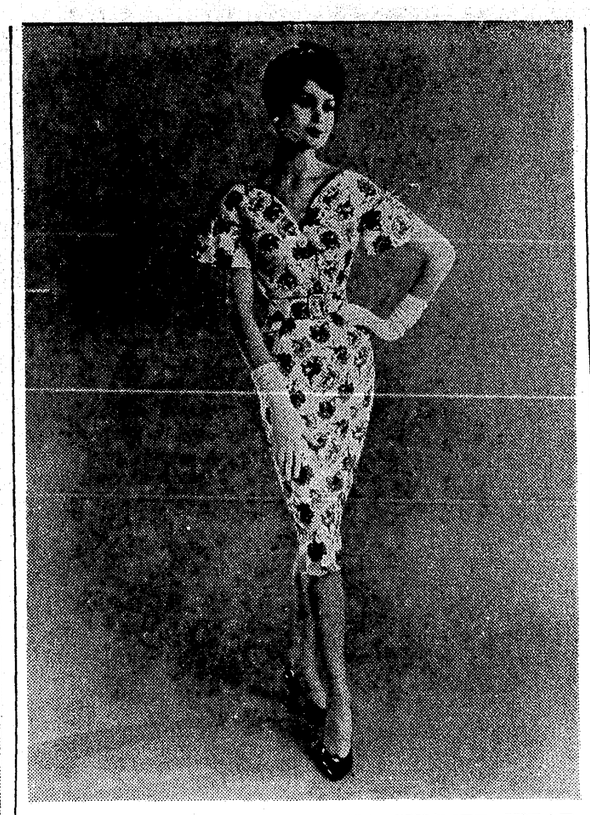
Electric Grill Ideal For Use In Summer

Hot weather menu planning is considerably easier for the housewife who makes liberal use of an electric grill.

Delicious dishes quickly prepared on this handy appliance will go far toward sparking sagging appetites. Home economists suggest serving a variety of grill sandwiches. Especially tasty when prepared this way are swiss cheese, ham salad, chicken salad, fruit jelly with peanut butter, and frankfurter sandwiches.

To prevent them from having that "'pressed" look that so often makes grilled sandwiches unappetizing, use the sandwich spacers with your grill. They hold the weight of the lid and prevent the sandwich from being crushed.



EXCLUSIVELY TEMPERED TO SUMMER WEAR —width at the outward curving neck and shoulder line with new "dust ruffle" sleeves. The fabric sparkle clean and refreshingly cool—is a white and blue floral print, satin finished cotton.

For a dessert the whole family will like, prepare lemon - flavored gelatin according to package directions, substituting apricot whole fruit nectar and a tablespoon of fresh lemon juice for part of the water. Chill until thick; then beat with rotary beater until foamy. Pile lightly into sherbet glasses. When firm, top with sliced fresh bananas and affect the flavor of roast lamb.

LEAVE THE FELL

Many good cooks remove the fell—the thin outer covering of lamb—before roasting because they believe it is detrimental to flavor; but recent research indicates that the fell does not affect the flavor of roast lamb.

OLD, BUT GOOD

Old-fashioned sink strainers are still a good idea if you do a lot of vegetable and fruit peeling.

Miss McDaniel H. Ray Gregory Pledge Vows

The First Baptist Church in Columbia was the setting on June 14 for the wedding of Mary Ann McDaniel and Hershal Ray Gregory of Monroe. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl McDaniel of Columbia. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Burl Gregory of Oak Grove. The double ring ceremony was held at high noon with the Rev. Jimmie Bolton officiating.

The church was decorated with magnolia blossoms, white gladioli and greenery in standard baskets among white tapers in candelabra.

Donald McGough presented the wedding music.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a street length gown of embroidered polished cotton, sheath design, and her shoulder length veil was attached to a tiara of seed pearls and sequins. She carried a white orchid in a nest of tulle with satin streamers.

Miss Carolyn McDonald served as maid of honor in a pale blue sheath of polished cotton. Her dress had a chiffon bow and panels the length of the dress. She carried a blue carnation bouquet.

Hugh Garcin of Monroe served as best man. Charles Thompson as candlelighter and Carl McDaniel Jr. as usher.

The bride's mother, Mrs. McDaniel chose a navy dress with white accessories for her daughter's wedding. Her corsage was of white carnations. The groom's mother, Mrs. Gregory was wearing a pink dress with white accessories, her corsage was also of white carnations.

The couple will make their home in Monroe.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Burl Gregory, Donald and Benny of Oak Grove. Mrs. Annie Ellerbee, Mrs. Edward Ellerbee, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Tyler, Miss Judy Tyler, Miss Bobbie Troha and Johnnie Troha.

MRS. RONALD FOX WALTERS

Afternoon Ceremony Unites In Marriage Miss Burford-R. Walters

On June 14 at 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon Miss Mildred Louise Burford, daughter of Mrs. Lucien Napoleon Larche of Monroe, became the bride of Ronald Fox Walters, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lindsey Walters of West Monroe.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Reverend F. Earl Ogg in the First Christian Church of this city.

Decorating the church for the wedding were large baskets of white gladioli in a setting of fern with white cathedral tapers in wrought iron candelabra on the altar.

The guests were escorted to their places by Earl Ingram of Baton Rouge and Joel Venable of West Monroe. Serving as candlelighters were Stephen Ketchell and Barry Odon.

The organist, Miss Pat Hudson, accompanied Glen Daniels as he sang Beethoven's "I Love Thee" and Bernard Hamblen's "O Day of Golden Promise."

Serving the bride as maid of honor was Miss Sandra Lynn Burford, sister of the bride. Miss Martha Foster, cousin of the bride, and Miss Rita Snider were bridesmaids. Their dresses were of soft yellow silk organza over yellow cotton satin. A cummerbund of cotton satin ending in a large bow lent interest to the back. Each wore head bands of cotton satin and carried a white lace fan with yellow tinted daisies. Little Miss Susan Stanley was the flower girl. She wore yellow organdy trimmed in white lace and yellow rosettes over yellow cotton satin. She carried a basket of white and yellow daisies.

The groom and Bennie Franklin, who served as best man, awaited the bride at the altar steps as she was escorted to the alter and given in marriage by her uncle, Emmett Jefferson Foster. The lines of her dress were fashioned in the princess silouette with portrait neckline and short sleeves. A large ruffle which began in the front formed the short chapel train in the back. A small cuff of organdy formed the top of the ruffle and ended in a large bow in the back. The gown was of imported cut-organdy over cotton, and it was an original design of the bride. Her veil was fingertip length and of sheer organdy. She wore short cut-organdy gloves and carried a bouquet composed of a white orchid surrounded with fleur d'amour and stephenotia. The bride's only jewelry was an emerald drop, a gift of the groom. At the close of the ceremony, Mr. Daniels sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the alter.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the wedding, a reception was held in the church parlor. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Burford, grandparents of the bride, welcomed the guests who were then received by the bridal couple, their parents, and the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Foster. The bride's mother was becomingly attired in an ivory, beige sheath of lace and silk organza over cotton satin. Silk organza panels lent interest to the back. Short beige gloves and matching hat completed her ensemble. Her corsage was of white fleur d'amour. The groom's mother chose a gown of tan lace over taffeta, her beaded hat and shoes were of the same shade. Her corsage was of pink feathered carnations.

In the reception room, the wall behind the refreshment table was banked with white gladioli. A white lace cloth over yellow covered the table. The center piece was of white daisies in a crystal bowl. Placed on one end of the table was a crystal punch bowl and serving punch was Mrs. Clayton Hand assisted by Mrs. Fairell Ketchell. On the opposite end of the table, Mrs. Clyde Foster and Mrs. Claude Dillingham served the tiered double wedding ring cake. Miss Marilyn Gill invited the guests to sign the bride's book.

For her wedding trip, the bride chose a beige silk linen suit. Her accessories were white and she wore the orchid from her bouquet at her shoulder.

The couple will make their home in Virginia.

The bride is a graduate of Neville High School and received her B. A. degree from Northeast Louisiana State College. While attending college she was a member of Phi Mu social sorority, Delta Psi Omega, honorary dramatic fraternity, Sigma Tau Delta, honorary English fraternity, and The Senior Board which is an honorary women's organization. The groom is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and received his B. A. degree from Northeast Louisiana State College. He was a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon, social fraternity, while in college.

Out of town guests were: Miss Marilyn Ferguson and Miss Janice Ferguson of Ruston, Miss Marilyn Gill of Shreveport, Mr. and Mrs. James McNew, Mr. V. H. Burford, and Mr. Pete Gregory of Ferriday, Mr.and Mrs. R. H. Odom, Barry, and Roddey Odom of Mer Rouge, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Sistrunk, Jennie and Donnie Sistrunk of Gueydan, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Gammell of Ruston, and Mr. and Mrs. Oran Rowland of Lake Charles.

REHEARSAL DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Burford were hosts at the rehearsal dinner honoring their granddaughter Miss Mickey Burford and Ronald Walters. The dinner was held Friday before the wedding in the Cameo Room of the Virginia Hotel.

Miss Burford wore a beige silk sheath with pearl white accessories.

A large arrangement of white and yellow daisies in a milk glass bowl formed the centerpiece. A wide white satin ribbon, edged with green leaf ivy, ran the length of the table and ended with a miniature bride and groom on one end and wedding bells on the other.

Places were marked with small ceramic place cards of gold and white wedding bells with each guest's name enscribed in gold.

Those present at the dinner were the bride and bridegroom-to-be, Miss Burford and Mr. Walters, Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Lache, Mr. and Mrs. Emmtt Foster, Mr. and Mrs. John Walters, Reverend and Mrs. Earl Ogg, Miss Sandra Burford, Miss Martha Foster, Mis Rita Snider, Miss Pat Hudson, Miss Susan Stanley, Mr. Earl Ingram, Mr. Bennie Franklin, Mr. Joe Venable, Mr. Glen Daniels, Stephen Ketchell, Barry Odom and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Burford.

Formal Ceremony Unites Nancy Weaks Trousdale Edmund M. Schenecker

Of interest here and elsewhere was the wedding of Miss Nancy Weaks Trousdale, daughter of Brigadier General and Mrs. George Weaks Trousdale, of Monroe to Edmund Morris Schenecker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Whitla Schenecker, of Fort Worth, Texas, Saturday, celebrated in Grace Church. The formal ceremony which took place at Eight o'clock in the evening, was performed by the Reverend A. Donald Davies. Decorating the altar of the church were clusters of white agapanthus and greenery.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of palest magnolia peau de soie. The tightly moulded basque bodice fashioned with a portrait neckline enhanced by a magnum cuff effect and brief sleeves complemented by long glace' kid gloves. The flare full skirt, accented with a deep back inset of handrun alencon lace, swept to a wide chapel length train. Her veil of heirloom rosepoint lace softly framed her face and extended the length of her train. She carried a single magnolia blossom.

Matron of honor to the bride was her sister, Mrs. Alfred Whitney Brown, Jr. of New Orleans, and the other attendants included Mrs. William Davis of Portsmonth, new Hampshire, sister of the groom; Miss Marietta Moyer, New Orleans; Miss Ella King Trousdale and Miss Ann Trousdale of Monroe, cousins of the bride. The attendants wore formal gowns of iced lilac faille. The modified bateau neckline complemented by brief sleeves and short white kid gloves. The basque bodice enhanced by a bell shaped floor length skirt, accented by a fringed butterfly chou and a soft faille rose in back. Their hats were moulded white veiling. Each attendant carried clusters of white agapanthus and greenery.

John Cannon Andrews attended the groom as best man. The groomsmen and ushers were: George Weaks Trousdale, Jr. of Monroe, brother of the bride; William Davis, Portsmouth, N. H., John Hogg, Ogden Kelly Shannon III, Thomas Palmer, E. Earl Baldridge, Jr., Ben Fortson of Fort Worth, Texas, and Mr. Alfred Whitney Brown, Jr. of New Orleans.

RECEPTION

The reception immediately following the ceremony was held at Bayou DeSiard Country Club. The foyer was resplendent with clusters of mammoth Padua candles and magnolia boughs. The bride and groom stood under two large sconces handsomely decorated with tuberoses and gardenias. At each end of the lounge were two espalier trees holding pots of lilies of the Nile, gardenias and smilax. These were flanked by two ceiling height ming trees of magnolia.

A table with ivory taffeta covings complemented by deep swags was centered by the bride's graceful cake with tinted icing. In its crown - shaped top was placed a silver marriage cup.

Receiving was Mrs. Trousdale, mother of the bride, who chose a formal gown fashioned of white chiffon accented by panels of narcissus blue. The pleated bodice was accented by a swag which draped to the back of the neckline. A large cluster of white lilac was placed within a wide fold of the bodice. Her small double bandeau of velvet was accented by diminuitive crox knots. Mrs. Schenecker assisted in receiving and was attired in a gown of toile blue silk organza, re-embroidered with floral motifs of indigo and hyacinth, and matching accessories.

Following the reception, Mr. Schenecker and his bride departed for their wedding trip. The bride traveled in a bone and white checked suit, worn with a small faun stitched silk coif. Her accessories were of similar tone. They will make their home in Fort Worth, Texas.

The bride's mother is the former Miss Louisette Billeaud, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andre' Billeaud of Broussard. Her paternal grandparents are Mrs. James Harvey Trousdale and the late Mr. Trousdale, of Monroe. Mr. Schenecker's mother was before her marriage Miss Pauline Lewis of Beverly Hills, California, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lewis of Seattle, Washington. His paternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Moritz Schenecker of Fort Worth.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lionel J. Billeaud, Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Labbe', Mr. and Mrs. David S. Foster III of Lafayette; Mr. and Mrs. Curtis G. Breaux, Miss Juliette Breaux and Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Creed of Baton Rouge; Mrs. Frank W. Mouso of Oklahoma City, Okla.; Mrs. Herman von Kaas, Miswaukee, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Matthew, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Alfred W. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Merrick Jones of New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Summer, the children's season, is in full roar. 'Tis the time of swimming, baseball, day camp, and visits from out-of-town cousins.

The very successful YMCA Day camp which has been in operation for several seasons is expanding this year, adding an "Outdoor Sports Camp" for boys of junior high age. This group meets in the Neville High gymnasium on weekday mornings. The day campers are using Forsythe Park.

Another annually scheduled activity, this for quieter times, is the reading club of the Ouachita Parish public library. Children are awarded certificates on completion of reading a prescribed number of books.

The Junior Charity League members present a Story Hour each Wednesday morning at the main library on Eighteenth street, and in the West Monroe branch. Children in the first through the fourth grades are invited. Movies are shown, records played, and stories read aloud by League members.

While the children attend the Story House, mothers may browse in the magazines temptingly available in the library reading room. There is an article by Ahbrey Menen in this month's Holiday describing his adventures in reading his way through what he calls Eng Lit. Mr. Menen is of the opinion that most authors considered great have written one or two great works and then rocked along on their reputations. He does have a kind word for a few: for example, Shakespeare, who he says never cheats and rarely bores. And who can quarrel with that? . . . Mr. Menen, incidentally, is the author of an English version of the "Ramayana", the great Hindu classic, which is available at the library.

And speaking of new versions of old epics, let us recommend "The Once and Future King", by T. H. White. This is a novel based on the Arthurian legends, a curious blend of fantasy, history, and philosophy of government. It is full of quiet satire, gentle irony, and sentences which mean more than they say, such as "Few people understood Arthur, for he was a truly decent man." . . . G. B. Stern calls it "the loveliest book I have read since "The Wind Willows'."

Guests of the JOSEPH BROWNS in their home on North Third street are Vera's great-nieces, KAGEE HAKENJOS and BETH HAKENJOS of New Orleans. The girls will be here two more weeks.

NELL FAUCETT and her children, JIMMY and LESLIE, have returned from Houston, Texas, where they visited Nell's sister, LESLIE GLASS.

The CYRIL YANCEYS and their daughter, CONNIE, are leaving this week for a trip to Europe. They will fly to Paris, where they will rent a car for a motor tour of the Continent. Their circle tour will include stops at Rome, Venice, Milan, Switzerland, Germany, and Amsterdam, and back to Paris for the flight home. They will be gone about five weeks.

A visitor from Shreveport here this week was MRS. JOHN RIEVES. She was a guest for several days in the home of her daughter and son-in-law, the D. C. BERNHARDTS.

CAPTAIN and MRS. DONALD WAGNER and their two children are guests of the CAVITT COOKSTONS this weekend. The two families were stationed together with the Air Force in England for two years. The Wagners are en route from San Antonio, Texas, to their new station in Tampa, Florida.

JA NELLE JONES of Catherine Plantation, Port Allen, Louisiana has spent this week here as the guest of SUSAN FERGUSON at her home on Beechwood drive. Susan entertained fourteen friends at a conversational hour Wednesday afternoon in honor of the visitor. Ja Nelle will be here several more days and then go to Ruston for a visit before returning home.

Here from Atlanta this week were MR. and MRS. LOCKE H. TRIGG. They were guests of the JOSEPH B. DAWKINS from Sunday until Wednesday.

The WALTER KELLOGGS left on Friday for a trip to Silver Beach, Florida. With them were their daughter, SUZANNE KELLOGG, and LANDREA DUCOTE.

Leaving yesterday after a week's visit with the F. L. SMITHS, JR., were MRS. S. S. HOLLAN and her daughter LYNN. Former Monroyans, the Hollans are now making their home in San Antonio.

LYDIA NICHOLS is leaving this week to fly to San Francisco for a visit with her brother, CLAUDE OAKLAND. He has recently built a new home in suburban San Raphael. Lydia will be gone about ten days.

BURT SPERRY celebrated his tenth birthday with a swimming party last weekend. Ten little friends were invited to Bayou DeSiard country club to swim and have a hamburger supper.

Also ten years old was NANCY HAMMONS, who also had a swimming party. Nancy invited fifteen little friends to Highland Park country club Friday afternoon. After the swim, the group was served supper of hamburgers, crab-burgers, and birthday cake.

Here are some seasonal lines by John Masefield:

Roses are beauty, but I never see
Those blood drops from the burning heart of June
Glowing like thought upon the living tree,
Without a pity that they die so soon,
Die into petals, like those roses old,
Those women who were summer in men's hearts
Before the smile upon the Sphinx was cold,
Or sand had hid the Syrian and his arts.
I never see the red rose crown the year,
Nor feel the young grass underneath my tread,
Without the thought, "This living beauty here
Is earth's remembrance of a beauty dead.
Surely where all this glory is displayed
Love has been quick, like fire, to high end,
Here in this grass, an altar has been made
For some white joy, some sacrifice of friends;
Here, where I stand, some leap of human brain
Has touched immortal things and left its trace,
The earth is happy here, the gleam remains;
Beauty is here, the spirit of the place,
I touch the faith which nothing can destroy,
The earth, the living church of ancient joy."

Frazer - Gore Vows Said In Church Rites

The Methodist Church of Kelly was the scene Sunday, June 14th at six o'clock for the wedding of Miss Margaret Lynn Gore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luna C. Gore of Kelly, and Lieutenant Robert Bruce Frazer, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Frazer of Grayson. The double ring ceremony was performed by Reverend C. Edd Hinkle of Athens.

The couple exchanged their vows in a setting of white daisies and woodwardia fern with white cathedral tapers in floor length wrought iron candelabra. The family pews were marked with white satin bows.

Mrs. David Grafton Long of Ruston at the piano presented a program of nuptial music and accompanied Reverend Hinkle as he sang.

The tapers were lighted and the guests escorted to their seats by Billy Frazer of Grayson, brother of the groom and Wilbur McGrew of Lake Charles.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in a gown fashioned of Chantilly lace. The molded bodice featured a portrait neckline embroidered in seed pearls forming a point in the back where a bow of silk chiffon was attached with panels extending the full ballerina length. The shoulder length veil of French illusion was held in place by a tiara of matching seed pearls and sequins. She carried a small white Bible surmounted with a white orchid, nested in fleur de noir and tulle, from which satin streamers cascaded. For something new, she wore a string of pearls. Little Misses Jane Tingle and Maurine Simmons of Kelly, flower girls, wore identical frocks. Their head bands were of carnations and they carried woven baskets filled with rose petals, which they scattered in the path of the bride.

Mr. Frazer chose as his best man, his cousin, Bill Dickerson of Shreveport.

Mrs. Gore, mother of the bride, chose for her daughter's wedding, a dress of ice blue lace. Her hat was of pink and blue flowers. Mrs. Frazer wore a silver blue sheath dress with harmonizing accessories. Completing their outfits were pink feathered carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parent's.

In charge of the guest book was Mrs. Wilbur McGrew of Lake Charles.

In the reception rooms arrangements of blue and white hydrangeas and greenery were placed at vantage points. In the dining room, the bride's table, covered with a linen cloth with nosegays of blue flowers in deep pleats at each corner. The traditional wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom was served by Miss Mary Ann Gore of Grayson.

Miss Gore is a graduate of Kelly High, attended Northeast State College in Monroe and was employed at the Caldwell Bank. Mr. Frazer was a graduate of Grayson High School and L. S. U. He taught school to Winnfield before entering the service. They will make their home at White Hall Air Force Base.

For her wedding trip, Mrs. Frazer chose a beige silk suit, bone accessories and a brown feathered hat.

Fingers of cantaloupe and fresh pineapple marinated in sauterne or rose wine with a sprig or two of fresh mint make a refreshing summer dessert. Add slices of delicate avocado and a few whole berries just before serving; add sour cream for those who enjoy additional tang to their fruits. You'll need no sugar if all fruits are ripe.

MR. AND MRS. JO HENRY MANNING

Miss Anderson Joe H. Manning Pledge Vows

Miss Delores Faye Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Anderson of Ruston, and Joe Henry Manning, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Manning of Ruston, were united in marriage on Monday evening at Temple Baptist Church in Ruston. Dr. Rel Gray officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The alter of the church was centered with an arch adorned with white carnations and greenery, and on each side of this were baskets of bridal white gladioli and white tapers.

Miss Grace Reno provided a program of nupital music as the guests were being seated. She accompanied the soloist, Mrs. R. C. Ellis as she sang "Because," and "One Alone."

Miss Shirley Anderson, sister of the bride, and only attendant, wore a dress of blue lace. Her bouquet was white carnations surrounded with white lace and tiny blue bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white lace gown with a veil of illusion which fell from a white satin tiara embellished with seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of feathered carnations and lilies of the valley centered with two white orchids.

Calvin Manning of Thibodeaux served the groom as best man. Ushers were Bobby Harrison and Billy Don Napper of Ruston.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson were hosts for the reception in their home following the wedding. The bride's table was covered with white lace over pink taffeta and was centered with an arrangement of white flowers and white candles in silver holders. The tiered wedding cake, topped with the traditional miniature bride and groom, was placed at one end of the table and the crystal punch bowl was at the opposite end.

Assisting in the serving courtesies were Mrs. R. E. Mooney, Mrs. Don Brown, and Mrs. Jess Lomax.

For their wedding trip to Colorado, the bride was wearing a white linen dress with lime green accessories and a white orchid corsage. Upon their return, they will make their home in Shreveport.

Out of town guests were Mrs. Roy Osbon, Miss Rosa Lee Manning and Mrs. Don Manning all of Shreveport; Mrs. S. J. Lomax of Monroe, Mr. Don Williams of Jonesboro, and Mr. Bruce Clemmons of Hammond.

Mr. and Mrs. Manning are graduates of Ruston High School and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. Mrs. Manning received her degree in Medical Technology and is a member of Beta Sigma Omicron. The groom graduated with a degree in Business Management.

The summer avocados are beginning to come into the markets now. Word comes from the growers that the new summer crop is expected to be very large; so avocados will still be plentiful as they have been all winter. The summer variety, you know, is the fruit that has the pebbly black skin, round and melon-like shape in contrast to the bright green color and pear-like shape of the winter avocados. The quality and flavor is the same of both — only the color and shape is different.

Problems With Colored Kitchen

By BETTY PEPIS

Colored kitchen equipment, pretty as it is, is also problematical. Up until about three years ago pastel ranges and refrigerators and the like were available only on special order. Today blue, pink and yellow major and minor appliances and houseware accessories are being offered by every leading manufacturer.

The problems they present in creating a harmonious whole have caught the interest of the professional decorator, and, as was remarked at a recent conference of these designers, the "decorator" kitchen is common today although it would have been a rarity even five years ago.

In the days of sterilized all-white appliances, kitchen decorating was a simple matter for the homemaker. Counter tops and flooring usually provided the clue for a color scheme. White or chrome tones predominated in mixers, blenders, cannisters and the like. By carrying the color tone of floors or counter up on the wall and accenting the color in the window treatemnt, a simple and satisfactory scheme naturally evolved.

Today, however, the amateur decorator who finds herself with a turquoise blue stove must be careful how she proceeds from there. If she is willing to concentrate on appliances from one manufacturer the matter is fairly uncomplicated although when she tries to match mixers, for example, she may find that turquoise means different colors to different manufacturers. Two tones of the same color may be used successfully together, but in that case no other color (except white) should be added.

If, however, it seems desirable to use a stove from one manufacturer and a refrigerator from another, a safer policy would be to mix rather than to match and to build a two-color scheme on that basis. With a turquoise stove, for example, one might use a pale yellow refrigerator. If so, the experts warn, confine yourself to those two colors for walls, windows, floors, cabinets and counter tops.

The Better Homemakers HDC Meets

The Better Homemakers HDC held its June meeting in the home of Mrs. H. T. Everritt on the Arkansas Road.

Mrs. Frank Buce, president, gave the thought of the day. Members of the club recited the club collect followed by the pledge to the flag. Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. A letter of appreciation, thanking the members who took part in 4H Day, was read. Mrs. Buster Crowley was appointed chairman of the annual summer picnic. Mrs. H. T. Everritt gave an interesting talk and demonstration entitled, Give Your Kitchen a Facial."

Following the close of the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed by: Mrs. Ray Wright, Mrs. B. Crowely, Mrs. J. C. Coon, Mrs. Ernest Grubbs, Mrs. Guy Gannaway, Mrs. H. T. Everritt, and Mrs. Frank Buce.

MRS. WERNER JOE PRATKA

Marriage Vows Pledged By Miss Irving - W. J. Pratka

A wedding ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Dolores Ann Irving, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Andrew Irving of this city, and Werner Joe Pratka, son of Mrs. John S. Pratka and the late Mr. Pratka of Houston, Texas, was held on Saturday, June 13, at 4:00 in the afternoon in the Trinity Lutheran Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Arthur Betz.

Miss Elaine Allen rendered the nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Estelle Sanders, whose selections were "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer". Tommy Emerson of Winnfield, accompanied the bride's brother, Ralph Edward Irving, also of Winnfield, who rendered a trumpet solo of the hymn "Green Sleeves". The traditional "Lohengrin" processional and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" were used.

The candle-lighted altar held standards of white ruffled gladioli and white pom pom chrysanthemums. On either side of the altar were tall stands with vases of the same flowers. Two graceful palms stood in front of these.

BRIDE

The bride walked down the white-carpeted aisle with her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a designers gown of white French organdy over taffeta. In Princess silhouette, it had a portrait neckline framed by delicate embroidery in floral motif. The design extended over the top of the brief sleeves and came into the back, where small buttons extended. From this detail, the Princess silhouette of white organdy draped into a deep band of the floral embroidered organdy and the back swept into a circular court train. To a plateau coif of organdy petals etched with bridal pearls, tiers of imported white silk illusion draped over the shoulder of the gown to fingertip length. The bride wore short white kid gloves and carried a Crescent cascade of white roses centered with a large white orchid. Her only jewelry was a single cultured pearl and diamond necklace, a gift of the groom.

Mrs. Ralph Edward Irving, sister-in-law of the bride, of Winnfield, served as matron of honor. The bridesmaid was Miss Mary Gertrude Bordelon, cousin of the bride, of Alexandria. They wore identical dresses of white organdy over taffeta, styled with circlet necklines and brief sleeves. The midriff was marked by an embroidered insert of periwinkle blue applique edged with narrow banding of grosgrain ribbon. The bell shaped skirt was accented by a wide hemline banding of the same floral detail. Matching ribbon bandeaux were worn on their heads and they each carried bouquets of crescent cascades of blue native Hydrangeas.

The flower girl was little Cynthia Lynn Irving, niece of the bride who wore a full-skirted dress of white organdy over taffeta fashioned with a round-neck and tiny puffed sleeves and complemented by a small flowered bandeaux, white shoes and gloves. She carried a white miniature basket from which she scattered pink rose petals down the aisle.

After the vows were exchanged a garden reception was held at the home of the bride, 1010 Civic Street. Hundreds of daylilies outlined the entire yard. Adding to the beauty of the garden setting was a large wrought-iron fountain overflowing with fragrant white gardenias. Receiving with the bridal couple were their mothers and the bride's attendants.

Mrs. Irving was becomingly gowned in a beige chantilly lace dress, with bone accessories and at her shoulder was worn a corsage of green cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Pratka was attired in a pure silk blue dress with all white accessories and at her shoulder was worn a corsage of white chymbidium orchids.

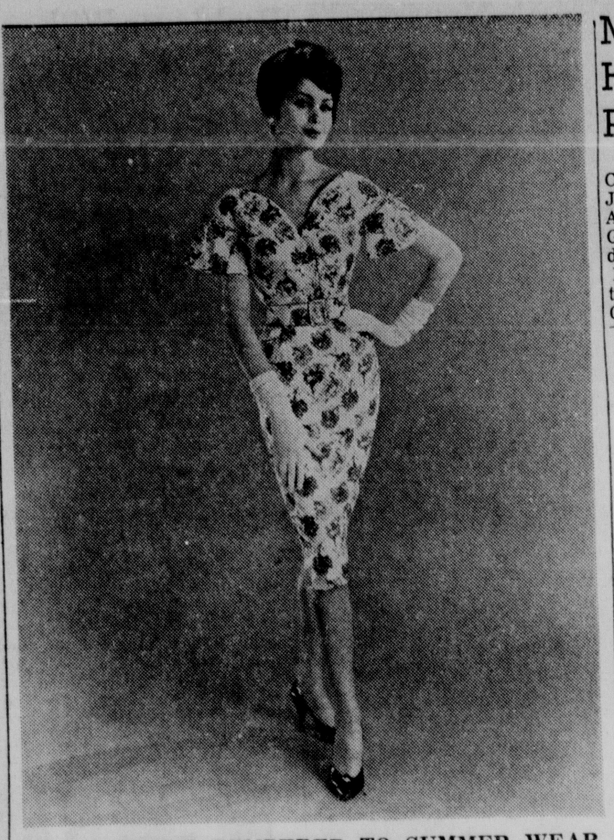
The Bride's Book placed on a small table with a memory candle enclosed in a large hurricane lamp as the decor imbedded in maiden-hair fern and gardenias which was presided over by Miss Dell Moore.

The tiered bride's cake was placed on an individual table. Alternating in serving were Mrs. William G. Haab and Mrs. Gram Breard. A lovely cut glass punch bowl graced the bride's table which was covered with an imported cut-work linen cloth and centered with a candelabra arrangement of white stock, gladioli. and gardenias. This was presided over by Mrs. David Carter, Mrs. John Strickler, Mrs. William Yerger and Mrs. James Russell, Junior.

WEDDING TRIP

For her wedding trip to Nassau in the Bahamas Islands, Mrs. Pratka chose a pure silk beige sheath dress with matching jacket and cloche. Bone shoes, purse and short kid gloves completed her costume. She wore the white orchid from the center of her bridal bouguet.

Following the honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Pratka will reside in Houston, Texas.



EXCLUSIVELY TEMPERED TO SUMMER WEAR —width at the outward curving neck and shoulder line with new "dust ruffle" sleeves. The fabric sparkle clean and refreshingly cool—is a white and blue floral print, satin finished cotton.

For a dessert the whole family will like, prepare lemon - flavored gelatin according to package directions, substituting apricot whole fruit nectar and a tablespoon of fresh lemon juice for part of the water. Chill until thick; then beat with rotary beater until foamy. Pile lightly into sherbet glasses. When firm, top with sliced fresh bananas and affect the flavor of roast lamb.

LEAVE THE FELL

Many good cooks remove the fell—the thin outer covering of lamb—before roasting because they believe it is detrimental to flavor; but recent research indicates that the fell does not affect the flavor of roast lamb.

OLD, BUT GOOD

Old-fashioned sink strainers are still a good idea if you do a lot of vegetable and fruit peeling.

Electric Grill Ideal For Use In Summer

Hot weather menu planning is considerably easier for the housewife who makes liberal use of an electric grill.

Delicious dishes quickly prepared on this handy appliance will go far toward sparking sagging appetites. Home economists suggest serving a variety of grill sandwiches. Especially tasty when prepared this way are swiss cheese, ham salad, chicken salad, fruit jelly with peanut butter, and frankfurter sandwiches.

To prevent them from having that "'pressed" look that so often makes grilled sandwiches unappetizing, use the sandwich spacers with your grill. They hold the weight of the lid and prevent the sandwich from being crushed.

Miss McDaniel H. Ray Gregory Pledge Vows

The First Baptist Church in Columbia was the setting on June 14 for the wedding of Mary Ann McDaniel and Hershal Ray Gregory of Monroe. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl McDaniel of Columbia. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Burl Gregory of Oak Grove. The double ring ceremony was held at high noon with the Rev. Jimmie Bolton officiating.

The church was decorated with magnolia blossoms, white gladioli and greenery in standard baskets among white tapers in candelabra.

Donald McGough presented the wedding music.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a street length gown of embroidered polished cotton, sheath design, and her shoulder length veil was attached to a tiara of seed pearls and sequins. She carried a white orchid in a nest of tulle with satin streamers.

Miss Carolyn McDonald served as maid of honor in a pale blue sheath of polished cotton. Her dress had a chiffon bow and panels the length of the dress. She carried a blue carnation bouquet.

Hugh Garcin of Monroe served as best man. Charles Thompson as candlelighter and Carl McDaniel Jr. as usher.

The bride's mother, Mrs. McDaniel chose a navy dress with white accessories for her daughter's wedding. Her corsage was of white carnations. The groom's mother, Mrs. Gregory was wearing a pink dress with white accessories, her corsage was also of white carnations.

The couple will make their home in Monroe.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Burl Gregory, Donald and Benny of Oak Grove. Mrs. Annie Ellerbee, Mrs. Edward Ellerbee, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Tyler, Miss Judy Tyler, Miss Bobbie Troha and Johnnie Troha.

MRS. CHARLES THOMAS MCBRIDE

Wedding Vows Are Pledged In Shreveport

On Tuesday evening, June 9th, at 7:30, Miss Carolyn Elizabeth McClanahan became the bride of Charles Thomas McBride. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. McClanahan of Shreveport and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. McBride of this city.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Dr. James T. Harris at the Broadmoor Methodist Church in Shreveport. White gladioli and palms formed a background and the candles, held aloft in tall candelabras, were lighted by Miss Carolyn Sue McBride and Gary Bush.

Organ music, provided by Miss Madeleine Trichel, heralded the approach of the bridal party. Miss Adelaide McClanahan was her sister's maid of honor. Her gown of light green silk organza was princess style with a full skirts and she carried a bouquet of yellow daisies. Miss Jane Adams of Jena and Miss Charlyne Smith of Vivian, bridesmaids, wore yellow organza dresses identical to the maid of honor's and their flowers were white daisies.

Wearing a white satin, full skirted gown with a deep V neckline in back and a tunic of white lace finished with delicate scallops, the bride ascended the aisle escorted by her father. A tiara of seed pearls held in place her veil of silk illusion and she carried a white carnation nosegay centered with a white orchid.

The bridegroom stood at the altar with his best man, his father, W. W. McBride. Jimmy McBride, Tommy Caldwell and James Elder of Shreveport were his groomsmen.

Mrs. McClanahan chose a rose lace sheath dress with matching accessories for her daughter's wedding. Her corsage was white carnations. Mrs. McBride was wearing a blue lace sheath with matching accessories. Her corsage was pink carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. McClanahan entertained in the church parlor at the reception following the wedding.

Lighted candles shed a soft glow over the reception room. Centering the refreshment table were the bridesmaid's bouquets and at either end were the punch service and wedding confection. Serving the cake were Miss Lucy Windham and Miss Joan Blondin, and Miss Billie Claire Dalrymple dispensed punch. They were assisted by Miss Gaye Carroll and Miss Mary Ann Caldwell.

The couple will make their home in Lake Charles.

The bride graduated from C. E. Byrd High School in Shreveport and Louisiana Tech. She is a member of Beta Sigma Omicron sorority and Alpha Tau Delta Fraternity.

The groom is a graduate of Neville High School and Louisiana Tech. His fraternities are Phi Kappa Phi, Tau Beta Pi and Pi Tau Sigma.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. W. W. McBride, Jimmy McBride, Carolyn Sue McBride, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Caldwell, Tommy Caldwell, Miss Mary Ann Caldwell all of Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Guidroz, Mrs. Ann Kennedy and Miss Jan Kennedy of Pine Bluff; Rev. Vernon Fairly of Opelousas; Mr. and Mrs. John T. Noles, Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Noles, Mrs. Mae Shehee, Dan Shehee, Mrs. Jack Collingsworth of Ringgold; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. McClanahan, Mrs. Gladys McKinney, Miss Jo Ann McDonald of Minden; Miss Joan Blondin, Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Cawthon, Miss Elizabeth Cawthon of Ruston; Miss Martha Ann Yeats of Homer; Miss Lucy Windham of Alexandria and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. McClanahan of Pioneer.

On June 8th at 8 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. McBride, parents of the groom, were hosts for the rehearsal supper in Shreveport. Guests were the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. McClanahan, parents of the bride, Dr. and Mrs. James T. Harris, Rev. and Mrs. Jolly Harper, Mrs. Adelaide Tooke McClanahan, grandmother of the bride, Miss Adelaide McClanahan, Miss Charlyne Smith, Miss Janie Adams, Miss Madeline Trichel, Mr. Tommy Caldwell, Mr. James Elder, Mr. Jimmy McBride, Mr. Gary Bush, and Miss Carolyn Sue McBride.

Communication Big Problem In Marriage

One of the biggest problems in marriage today is a lack of communication between husband and wife.

Husbands cannot speak of financial worries. They tend to hide their insecurity behind 'manly, silence. Wives conceal spur-of-the-moment purchases or veil convictions they are no longer loved or found attractive.

People with communication problems are so busy putting up barriers they don't listen to what is said. Instead of trying to understand, they attach their own and frequently wrong meaning.

Couples, once excellent companions, have learned to rope off areas of their lives into a kind of marital no-man's land. Trespassing into it ends up in a quarrel. Conversation declines to 'truce, subjects such as weather, television, latest gossip. Problems go unsolved and magnify. A new, 'sympathetic' person is found to talk to. The marriage dissolves into misery and sometimes into divorce.

This inability to converse—it might even be called a conspiracy of silence—shows up in 85 out of every 100 couples visiting marriage counselors. Frequently it is their only problem. Thousands of others go directly to divorce courts without counseling.

There is probably not a marriage in America entirely free of 'communication problems. Yet it is one of the easiest problems to solve. Husbands and wives can be taught how to talk to each other; learning is enjoyable and results are quickly observable. The article lists three simple rules:

1. Be sure you understand what is said. Know what is meant. Do not color the words with your own meanings.

2. Discover 'safe, topics you can retreat to. If talk about money begins to turn into an argument, switch quickly and deliberately to discussion of bowling scores or Aunt Fanny's idiosyncrasies.

3. Learn to laugh at your failures. Expect them to happen, and if they do, don't take them to heart.

With children home during summer vacation, keep the refrigerator well - supplied with snacks. For wholesome nibbling between meals, why not make up a batch of energy - rich raisin sandwich spreads? One combination that's sure to please — coarsely-chopped raisins, peanut butter and a little apricot jam.

Summer, the children's season, is in full roar. 'Tis the time of swimming, baseball, day camp, and visits from out-of-town cousins.

The very successful YMCA Day camp which has been in operation for several seasons is expanding this year, adding an "Outdoor Sports Camp" for boys of junior high age. This group meets in the Neville High gymnasium on weekday mornings. The day campers are using Forsythe Park.

Another annually scheduled activity, this for quieter times, is the reading club of the Ouachita Parish public library. Children are awarded certificates on completion of reading a prescribed number of books.

The Junior Charity League members present a Story Hour each Wednesday morning at the main library on Eighteenth street, and in the West Monroe branch. Children in the first through the fourth grades are invited. Movies are shown, records played, and stories read aloud by League members.

While the children attend the Story House, mothers may browse in the magazines temptingly available in the library reading room. There is an article by Ahbrey Menen in this month's Holiday describing his adventures in reading his way through what he calls Eng Lit. Mr. Menen is of the opinion that most authors considered great have written one or two great works and then rocked along on their reputations. He does have a kind word for a few: for example, Shakespeare, who he says never cheats and rarely bores. And who can quarrel with that? . . . Mr. Menen, incidentally, is the author of an English version of the "Ramayana", the great Hindu classic, which i s available at the library.

And speaking of new versions of old epics, let us recommend "The Once and Future King", by T. H. White. This is a novel based on the Arthurian legends, a curious blend of fantasy, history, and philosophy of government. It is full of quiet satire, gentle irony, and sentences which mean more than they say, such as "Few people understood Arthur, for he was a truly decent man." . . . G. B. Stern calls it "the loveliest book I have read since "The Wind Willows'."

Guests of the JOSEPH BROWNS in their home on North Third street are Vera's great-nieces, KAGEE HAKENJOS and BETH HAKENJOS of New Orleans. The girls will be here two more weeks.

NELL FAUCETT and her children, JIMMY and LESLIE, have returned from Houston, Texas, where they visited Nell's sister, LESLIE GLASS.

The CYRIL YANCEYS and their daughter, CONNIE, are leaving this week for a trip to Europe. They will fly to Paris, where they will rent a car for a motor tour of the Continent. Their circle tour will include stops at Rome, Venice, Milan, Switzerland, Germany, and Amsterdam, and back to Paris for the flight home. They will be gone about five weeks.

A visitor from Shreveport here this week was MRS. JOHN RIEVES. She was a guest for several days in the home of her daughter and son-in-law, the D. C. BERNHARDTS.

CAPTAIN and MRS. DONALD WAGNER and their two children are guests of the CAVITT COOKSTONS this weekend. The two families were stationed together with the Air Force in England for two years. The Wagners are en route from San Antonio, Texas, to their new station in Tampa, Florida.

JA NELLE JONES of Catherine Plantation, Port Allen, Louisiana has spent this week here as the guest of SUSAN FERGUSON at her home on Beechwood drive. Susan entertained fourteen friends at a conversational hour Wednesday afternoon in honor of the visitor. Ja Nelle will be here several more days and then go to Ruston for a visit before returning home.

Here from Atlanta this week were MR. and MRS. LOCKE H. TRIGG. They were guests of the JOSEPH B. DAWKINS from Sunday until Wednesday.

The WALTER KELLOGGS left on Friday for a trip to Silver Beach, Florida. With them were their daughter, SUZANNE KELLOGG, and LANDREA DUCOTE.

Leaving yesterday after a week's visit with the F. L. SMITHS, JR., were MRS. S. S. HOLLAN and her daughter LYNN. Former Monroyans, the Hollans are now making their home in San Antonio.

LYDIA NICHOLS is leaving this week to fly to San Francisco for a visit with her brother, CLAUDE OAKLAND. He has recently built a new home in suburban San Raphael. Lydia will be gone about ten days.

BURT SPERRY celebrated his tenth birthday with a swimming party last weekend. Ten little friends were invited to Bayou DeSiard country club to swim and have a hamburger supper.

Also ten years old was NANCY HAMMONS, who also had a swimming party. Nancy invited fifteen little friends to Highland Park country club Friday afternoon. After the swim, the group was served supper of hamburgers, crab-burgers, and birthday cake.

Here are some seasonal lines by John Masefield:

Roses are beauty, but I never see
Those blood drops from the burning heart of June
Glowing like thought upon the living tree,
Without a pity that they die so soon,
Die into petals, like those roses old,
Those women who were summer in men's hearts
Before the smile upon the Sphinx was cold,
Or sand had hid the Syrian and his arts.
I never see the red rose crown the year,
Nor feel the young grass underneath my tread,
Without the thought, "This living beauty here
Is earth's remembrance of a beauty dead.
Surely where all this glory is displayed
Love has been quick, like fire, to high end,
Here in this grass, an altar has been made
For some white joy, some sacrifice of friends;
Here, where I stand, some leap of human brain
Has touched immortal things and left its trace,
The earth is happy here, the gleam remains;
Beauty is here, the spirit of the place,
I touch the faith which nothing can destroy,
The earth, the living church of ancient joy."

MR. AND MRS. JO HENRY MANNING

Miss Anderson Joe H. Manning Pledge Vows

Miss Delores Faye Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Anderson of Ruston, and Joe Henry Manning, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Manning of Ruston, were united in marriage on Monday evening at Temple Baptist Church in Ruston. Dr. Rel Gray officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The alter of the church was centered with an arch adorned with white carnations and greenery, and on each side of this were baskets of bridal white gladioli and white tapers.

Miss Grace Reno provided a program of nupital music as the guests were being seated. She accompanied the soloist, Mrs. R. C. Ellis as she sang "Because," and "One Alone."

Miss Shirley Anderson, sister of the bride, and only attendant, wore a dress of blue lace. Her bouquet was white carnations surrounded with white lace and tiny blue bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white lace gown with a veil of illusion which fell from a white satin tiara embellished with seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of feathered carnations and lilies of the valley centered with two white orchids.

Calvin Manning of Thibodeaux served the groom as best man. Ushers were Bobby Harrison and Billy Don Napper of Ruston.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson were hosts for the reception in their home following the wedding. The bride's table was covered with white lace over pink taffeta and was centered with an arrangement of white flowers and white candles in silver holders. The tiered wedding cake, topped with the traditional miniature bride and groom, was placed at one end of the table and the crystal punch bowl was at the opposite end.

Assisting in the serving courtesies were Mrs. R. E. Mooney, Mrs. Don Brown, and Mrs. Jess Lomax.

For their wedding trip to Colorado, the bride was wearing a white linen dress with lime green accessories and a white orchid corsage. Upon their return, they will make their home in Shreveport.

Out of town guests were Mrs. Roy Osbon, Miss Rosa Lee Manning and Mrs. Don Manning all of Shreveport; Mrs. S. J. Lomax of Monroe, Mr. Don Williams of Jonesboro, and Mr. Bruce Clemmons of Hammond.

Mr. and Mrs. Manning are graduates of Ruston High School and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. Mrs. Manning received her degree in Medical Technology and is a member of Beta Sigma Omicron. The groom graduated with a degree in Business Management.

Frazer - Gore Vows Said In Church Rites

The Methodist Church of Kelly was the scene Sunday, June 14th at six o'clock for the wedding of Miss Margaret Lynn Gore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luna C. Gore of Kelly, and Lieutenant Robert Bruce Frazer, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Frazer of Grayson. The double ring ceremony was performed by Reverend C. Edd Hinkle of Athens.

The couple exchanged their vows in a setting of white daisies and woodwardia fern with white cathedral tapers in floor length wrought iron candelabra. The family pews were marked with white satin bows.

Mrs. David Grafton Long of Ruston at the piano presented a program of nuptial music and accompanied Reverend Hinkle as he sang.

The tapers were lighted and the guests escorted to their seats by Billy Frazer of Grayson, brother of the groom and Wilbur McGrew of Lake Charles.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in a gown fashioned of Chantilly lace. The molded bodice featured a portrait neckline embroidered in seed pearls forming a point in the back where a bow of silk chiffon was attached with panels extending the full ballerina length. The shoulder length veil of French illusion was held in place by a tiara of matching seed pearls and sequins. She carried a small white Bible surmounted with a white orchid, nested in fleur de noir and tulle, from which satin streamers cascaded. For something new, she wore a string of pearls. Little Misses Jane Tingle and Maurine Simmons of Kelly, flower girls, wore identical frocks. Their head bands were of carnations and they carried woven baskets filled with rose petals, which they scattered in the path of the bride.

Mr. Frazer chose as his best man, his cousin, Bill Dickerson of Shreveport.

Mrs. Gore, mother of the bride, chose for her daughter's wedding, a dress of ice blue lace. Her hat was of pink and blue flowers. Mrs. Frazer wore a silver blue sheath dress with harmonizing accessories. Completing their outfits were pink feathered carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parent's.

In charge of the guest book was Mrs. Wilbur McGrew of Lake Charles.

In the reception rooms arrangements of blue and white hydrangeas and greenery were placed at vantage points. In the dining room, the bride's table, covered with a linen cloth with nosegays of blue flowers in deep pleats at each corner. The traditional wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom was served by Miss Mary Ann Gore of Grayson.

Miss Gore is a graduate of Kelly High, attended Northeast State College in Monroe and was employed at the Caldwell Bank. Mr. Frazer was a graduate of Grayson High School and L. S. U. He taught school to Winnfield before entering the service. They will make their home at White Hall Air Force Base.

For her wedding trip, Mrs. Frazer chose a beige silk suit, bone accessories and a brown feathered hat.

Fingers of cantaloupe and fresh pineapple marinated in sauterne or rose wine with a sprig or two of fresh mint make a refreshing summer dessert. Add slices of delicate avocado and a few whole berries just before serving; add sour cream for those who enjoy additional tang to their fruits. You'll need no sugar if all fruits are ripe.

The summer avocados are beginning to come into the markets now. Word comes from the growers that the new summer crop is expected to be very large; so avocados will still be plentiful as they have been all winter. The summer variety, you know, is the fruit that has the pebbly black skin, round and melon-like shape in contrast to the bright green color and pear-like shape of the winter avocados. The quality and flavor is the same of both — only the color and shape is different.

Problems With Colored Kitchen

By BETTY PEPIS

Colored kitchen equipment, pretty as it is, is also problematical. Up until about three years ago pastel ranges and refrigerators and the like were available only on special order. Today blue, pink and yellow major and minor appliances and houseware accessories are being offered by every leading manufacturer.

The problems they present in creating a harmonious whole have caught the interest of the professional decorator, and, as was remarked at a recent conference of these designers, the "decorator" kitchen is common today although it would have been a rarity even five years ago.

In the days of sterilized all-white appliances, kitchen decorating was a simple matter for the homemaker. Counter tops and flooring usually provided the clue for a color scheme. White or chrome tones predominated in mixers, blenders, cannisters and the like. By carrying the color tone of floors or counter up on the wall and accenting the color in the window treatemnt, a simple and satisfactory scheme naturally evolved.

Today, however, the amateur decorator who finds herself with a turquoise blue stove must be careful how she proceeds from there. If she is willing to concentrate on appliances from one manufacturer the matter is fairly uncomplicated although when she tries to match mixers, for example, she may find that turquoise means different colors to different manufacturers. Two tones of the same color may be used successfully together, but in that case no other color (except white) should be added.

If, however, it seems desirable to use a stove from one manufacturer and a refrigerator from another, a safer policy would be to mix rather than to match and to build a two-color scheme on that basis. With a turquoise stove, for example, one might use a pale yellow refrigerator. If so, the experts warn, confine yourself to those two colors for walls, windows, floors, cabinets and counter tops.

The Better Homemakers HDC Meets

The Better Homemakers HDC held its June meeting in the home of Mrs. H. T. Everritt on the Arkansas Road.

Mrs. Frank Buce, president, gave the thought of the day. Members of the club recited the club collect followed by the pledge to the flag. Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. A letter of appreciation, thanking the members who took part in 4H Day, was read. Mrs. Buster Crowley was appointed chairman of the annual summer picnic. Mrs. H. T. Everritt gave an interesting talk and demonstration entitled, Give Your Kitchen a Facial."

Following the close of the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed by: Mrs. Ray Wright, Mrs. B. Crowely, Mrs. J. C. Coon, Mrs. Ernest Grubbs, Mrs. Guy Gannaway, Mrs. H. T. Everritt, and Mrs. Frank Buce.

MRS. JOSEPH P. MARSALA

Morning Ceremony Unites Miss Bruscato-J. Marsala

Saint Matthews Catholic Church with its magnificent stained glass windows held two large arrangements of white gladioli and pink carnations on its main altar and white gladioli were used on the side altar when Miss Beatrice Barbara Bruscato and Joseph P. Marsala exchanged wedding vows at 9:30 a.m. June 15. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bruscato and he the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Marsala.

The Reverend Richard Fale performed the double ring ceremony. Altar boys were Frank Bruscato and Bradley Biggar.

Mrs. Sam Lasuzzo at the organ played the traditional wedding music and accompanied Jim McDonald, soloist.

Pews for the family were marked by white satin ribbons.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of Chantilly lace with a scoop neckline. In the back were three rows of ruffles of silk organza forming the chapel train. Her fingertip veil of illusion was fastened to a queen's crown of lace. Her gloves were of matching chantilly lace and she carried white carnations and stephanotis and this was centered with an orchid.

Miss Phyllis Jean Bruscato, sister of the bride served as maid of honor. She wore a darker shade of pink from that of the bridesmaids. Their dresses were of imported lace and silk organza over taffeta, they were styled on princess lines and were ballerina length with a bateau neckline and set-in sleeves. Panels of imported lace were set in the full flowing skirt. A bow of silk organza adorned the back of each dress. Matron of honor, Mrs. Virgil Bivens, wore a still darker shade of pink. The bridesmaids were Miss Betty Jenkins, Miss Sally Moore, Miss Carmela Danna and Miss Phyllis Jo Monaco, a cousin of the bride. They each wore shell hats to match their dresses.

The groom's sister, Marie Marsala, the flower girl, carried a basket of pink carnations.

Mr. Marsala chose his brother, Sam Marsala, as his best man. John Guerriero Jr., Julian Fontana, Frank Varino as groomsmen and the ushers were Paul Bruscato, Virgil Bivens and Joe A. Marsala and J. C. Zagone. The ring bearer was Downey Black.

Mrs. Bruscato chose a pink lace for her daughter's wedding, her accessories were of pink also. She wore an orchid corsage. The groom's mother wore a blue lace dress with white accessories and an orchid corsage.

RECEPTION

The reception was held in the Mirror Room of the Frances Hotel. The centerpiece on the bride's table was of white asters, white gladioli and white candles with greenery down the center of the table. The bride's cake, a tiered confection, of white and shades of pink held a bride and groom atop it. Serving this were Miss Kathryn Monaco and Mrs. John Trapea. Miss Linda Guitheau and Miss Marlene Landry served punch. Guests were registered by Mrs. Leonard Russo at a table which held a memory candle.

A wedding trip to the Ozark Mountains was taken. The bride changed to a pink linen suit and white accessories for traveling. She wore the orchid from her bouquet.

The couple will be at home in Monroe.

Miss Linda Ann Garrett Osborne Cason Fentress Are United In Marriage

A double ring ceremony was held in the First Baptist Church in West Monroe on June 13 uniting in marriage Miss Linda Ann Garrett and Osborne Cason Fertress Jr. of Huntington, West Virginia. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Garrett of West Monore and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Fentress of Memphis, Tennessee.

Dr. Jaroy Weber officiated at the 7:00 p.m. service in a setting of standards of white stock against a background of candlelight.

Bob Oldenburg at the organ and Sandy Lawn at the piano presented the nuptial music and accompanied Jack Day, soloist, who sang "O Perfect Love" and "Bless This Day". Miss Rita Snider read 1st Corinthians 13.

The bride given in marriage by her father, Edward Garrett, wore a bridal gown with a bodice of chantilly lace featuring a sabrina neckline and scalloped sleeves with seed pearls and irridescent sequins. Panels of white lace extended far down the white nylon tulle skirt into points. The headdress was an Egyptian type studded with rhinestones and pearls which held a fingertip veil of white illusion. Her cascade bouquet held five white philanopsis orchids and lilies of the valley with natural foliage. She carried a lace handkerchief belonging to the groom's grandmother 50 years ago.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Eletha Prior, is an aunt of the bride from Houston, Texas. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Carole Kilpatrick and Miss Faye Parker. They were dressed in smoke blue silk organza dresses over a darker blue. The bodices featured a rounded neckline detailed with soft pleats at the front. The waistline was slightly raised. The skirts were pleated soft silk organza embroidered with roses of the same shade as the taffeta. The cummerbund featured a large bow in the back - centered with a rose of self material. Completing their ensembles were white feather hats, white kid shoes and wrist length shortie white gloves. They carried white magnolias accented with natural foliage and white satin bows.

Rose Ann Garrett, sister of the bride, was flower girl. Her dress of white organdy featured a bodice of softly gathered front and puffed sleeves, the skirt was embroidered organdy and a baby blue cummerbund and a blue feather in her hair completed her ensemble.

Serving as candlelighters were Miss Dianne Garrett and Miss Judy Aulds, they were dressed identically to the flower girls, they each wore white wrist corsages.

Ansel Smith served Mr. Fentress as his best man and the groomsmen were James Park Parkerson, Bill Hatten; Jimmy Craft and Henry Cole served as ushers; the ring bearer was Phillip Fentress.

Mrs. Garrett, the bride's mother, chose a pink lace sheath dress with white accessories and a pink satin hat. Her corsage was of white glamelia. The groom's mother, Mrs. Fentress wore a kelly green chiffon, her hat was white with clustered flowers accented with green velvet. She wore a white glamelia corsage.

The reception was held at 1902 Myrtle Street. The reception area held arrangements of gardenias, dahlias, and shasta daisies. The bride's table was covered in white taffeta with a net overskirt with blue ribbon trimming. The punch was blue with floating daisies frozen in ice. Silver cake trays held wedding cakes. Members of the house party were Mrs. Walter Silmon, Mrs. Malcolm Le Feure, Mrs. Julia Colmer, Mrs. James Parkerson, Mrs. W. E. Bennett, Mrs. Richard Cook, Mrs. Johnny Parker, Miss Joann Gaster and Miss Mickey Buford.

For their wedding trip to the East coast the bride chose a periwinkle blue linen suit featuring a large white collar, her hat was of clustered daisies and white pearlized shoes and bag completed her ensemble.

The couple will make their home in Huntington, West Virginia. The bride is a graduate of West Monroe High School and Northeast State College. She is a member of Phi Beta, national speech and music fraternity. The groom graduated from Carlisle Military School, attended Georgia Tech and is a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Hodge Garrett of Duncan, Oklahoma; Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Hollingshead of Baytown, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Fentress and children, Bobby and Phillip of Memphis, Tennessee and Mrs. Eleta Moore Prior and son of Houston, Texas.

MENU IDEA

Careful family menu planners avoid serving the same food twice at one meal — also, whenever practical, twice in one day.

TABLE ADVICE

Table etiquette! Eating a thick chowder? Then dip the spoon toward you. When eating thin cream soups or broths the spoon should be dipped away from you.

EASY TO CARVE

Note to carvers: insert the carving fork in the meat or poultry you are slicing so that its position need not be changed frequently.

A refreshing first course gets dinner off to a good start in warm weather. Turn syrup from a can of fruit cocktail into a refrigerator tray, add a squeeze of lemon juice and a drop of almond extract. Freeze until icy, stirring occasionally with a fork, meanwhile chilling the fruit cocktail thoroughly. Mix fruit lightly with the icy syrup, and serve at once in chilled glasses.

MRS. CHARLES THOMAS MCBRIDE

Wedding Vows Are Pledged In Shreveport

On Tuesday evening, June 9th, at 7:30, Miss Carolyn Elizabeth McClanahan became the bride of Charles Thomas McBride. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. McClanahan of Shreveport and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. McBride of this city.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Dr. James T. Harris at the Broadmoor Methodist Church in Shreveport. White gladioli and palms formed a background and the candles, held aloft in tall candelabras, were lighted by Miss Carolyn Sue McBride and Gary Bush.

Organ music, provided by Miss Madeleine Trichel, heralded the approach of the bridal party. Miss Adelaide McClanahan was her sister's maid of honor. Her gown of light green silk organza was princess style with a full skirts and she carried a bouquet of yellow daisies. Miss Jane Adams of Jena and Miss Charlyne Smith of Vivian, bridesmaids, wore yellow organza dresses identical to the maid of honor's and their flowers were white daisies.

Wearing a white satin, full skirted gown with a deep V neckline in back and a tunic of white lace finished with delicate scallops, the bride ascended the aisle escorted by her father. A tiara of seed pearls held in place her veil of silk illusion and she carried a white carnation nosegay centered with a white orchid.

The bridegroom stood at the altar with his best man, his father, W. W. McBride. Jimmy McBride, Tommy Caldwell and James Elder of Shreveport were his groomsmen.

Mrs. McClanahan chose a rose lace sheath dress with matching accessories for her daughter's wedding. Her corsage was white carnations. Mrs. McBride was wearing a blue lace sheath with matching accessories. Her corsage was pink carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. McClanahan entertained in the church parlor at the reception following the wedding.

Lighted candles shed a soft glow over the reception room. Centering the refreshment table were the bridesmaid's bouquets and at either end were the punch service and wedding confection. Serving the cake were Miss Lucy Windham and Miss Joan Blondin, and Miss Billie Claire Dalrymple dispensed punch. They were assisted by Miss Gaye Carroll and Miss Mary Ann Caldwell.

The couple will make their home in Lake Charles.

The bride graduated from C. E. Byrd High School in Shreveport and Louisiana Tech. She is a member of Beta Sigma Omicron sorority and Alpha Tau Delta Fraternity.

The groom is a graduate of Neville High School and Louisiana Tech. His fraternities are Phi Kappa Phi, Tau Beta Pi and Pi Tau Sigma.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. W. W. McBride, Jimmy McBride, Carolyn Sue McBride, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Caldwell, Tommy Caldwell, Miss Mary Ann Caldwell all of Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Guidroz, Mrs. Ann Kennedy and Miss Jan Kennedy of Pine Bluff; Rev. Vernon Fairly of Opelousas; Mr. and Mrs. John T. Noles, Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Noles, Mrs. Mae Shehee, Dan Shehee, Mrs. Jack Collingsworth of Ringgold; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. McClanahan, Mrs. Gladys McKinney, Miss Jo Ann McDonald of Minden; Miss Joan Blondin, Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Cawthon, Miss Elizabeth Cawthon of Ruston; Miss Martha Ann Yeats of Homer; Miss Lucy Windham of Alexandria and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. McClanahan of Pioneer.

On June 8th at 8 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. McBride, parents of the groom, were hosts for the rehearsal supper in Shreveport. Guests were the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. McClanahan, parents of the bride, Dr. and Mrs. James T. Harris, Rev. and Mrs. Jolly Harper, Mrs. Adelaide Tooke McClanahan, grandmother of the bride, Miss Adelaide McClanahan, Miss Charlyne Smith, Miss Janie Adams, Miss Madeline Trichel, Mr. Tommy Caldwell, Mr. James Elder, Mr. Jimmy McBride, Mr. Gary Bush, and Miss Carolyn Sue McBride.

Communication Big Problem In Marriage

One of the biggest problems in marriage today is a lack of communication between husband and wife.

Husbands cannot speak of financial worries. They tend to hide their insecurity behind 'manly, silence. Wives conceal spur-of-the-moment purchases or veil convictions they are no longer loved or found attractive.

People with communication problems are so busy putting up barriers they don't listen to what is said. Instead of trying to understand, they attach their own and frequently wrong meaning.

Couples, once excellent companions, have learned to rope off areas of their lives into a kind of marital no-man's land. Trespassing into it ends up in a quarrel. Conversation declines to 'truce, subjects such as weather, television, latest gossip. Problems go unsolved and magnify. A new, 'sympathetic' person is found to talk to. The marriage dissolves into misery and sometimes into divorce.

This inability to converse—it might even be called a conspiracy of silence—shows up in 85 out of every 100 couples visiting marriage counselors. Frequently it is their only problem. Thousands of others go directly to divorce courts without counseling.

There is probably not a marriage in America entirely free of 'communication. problems. Yet it is one of the easiest problems to solve. Husbands and wives can be taught how to talk to each other; learning is enjoyable and results are quickly observable. The article lists three simple rules:

1. Be sure you understand what is said. Know what is meant. Do not color the words with your own meanings.

2. Discover 'safe, topics you can retreat to. If talk about money begins to turn into an argument, switch quickly and deliberately to discussion of bowling scores or Aunt Fanny's idiosyncrasies.

3. Learn to laugh at your failures. Expect them to happen, and if they do, don't take them to heart.

With children home during summer vacation, keep the refrigerator well - supplied with snacks. For wholesome nibbling between meals, why not make up a batch of energy - rich raisin sandwich spreads? One combination that's sure to please — coarsely-chopped raisins, peanut butter and a little apricot jam.

THE COMING MARRIAGE of Miss Muriel Carr to George Parker Jr. is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Carr of Newellton. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. George O. Parker of Winnsboro. The wedding will take place June 25.

Edwards-Mann Wedding Vows Are Pledged

The Cheniere Baptist Church formed the seeting June 5 for the wedding of Miss Glenda Mann and Billy Ray Edwards.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Mann of West Monroe. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Edwards of Lena.

The Rev. W. O. Cory officiated at the double ring ceremony. Traditional Nuptial selections were were rendered by Mrs. Gwen Clark. Vows were exchanged before an arch of greenery flanked by tall baskets of pink and white gladiolis. The tall cathedral tapers in the background were lighted by Fred Newton, cousin of the bride, and Roy Gene Woods, cousin of the groom.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white nylon tulle accented by a white lace bolero. Her veil fell from a white velvet headband. She carried a white Bible topped with an arrangement of pink and white glamelia and satin streamers.

Miss Rita Mann served her sister as maid of honor, wearing a gown of pink net over taffeta with white accessories. Miss Brenda Edwards, sister of the groom served as bridesmaid, wearing a gown of blue net over taffeta with white accessories. Miss Sandra Mann, younger sister of the bride, served as flower girl dressed in a floor length white gown with white accessories. Mr. Terry Owens served as best man. Ushers were Joe Kramberg and Larry Bruce Woods.

The mother of the bride wore a blue lace dress with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses. The mother of the groom wore a blue silk dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church dining room. The reception table was overlaid with a white lace table cloth over pink centered by a bowl of pink hydrangeas.

Mrs. Stanley Lewis and Mrs. Elaine Newton served the tierred wedding cake. Misses Shirley Parsons and Joan Stennet alternated at the punch bowl. Miss Andrea Oglesby was in charge of the guest book.

The couple will make their home in West Monroe.

Out of town guests for the wedding included Mrs. Roth Wilson, Miss Adale and Barbara Jo Edwards, Mrs. Edwards, all of Alexandria.

MRS. JAMES ROBERT SMITH

Smith-Hawkins Wedding Is Event Of June 9

On the evening of June 9 at 7:00 in the First Baptist Church of Oak Grove, Miss Cluadine Hawkins of Forest and James Robert Smith of Parkton, North Carolina exchanged marriage vows. The Reverend H. Hammonds officiated at the double ring ceremony. Miss Hawkins is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hawkins of Forest and Mr. Smith is the son of Mrs. D. C. Smith of Parkton, North Carolina.

The church was decorated in palm trees, baskets of white stock, and white tapers in iron candelabra. Heavy white silk roping reserved a place for the relatives. The altar held an arch entwined with smilax and centered with a white wedding bell with white satin streamers. Beneath it was a satin covered kneeling rail. Mrs. Ann Steadman presented the nuptial music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length bouffant gown of imported mooncloud tulle, with a full skirt of net and taffeta, which fell into a chapel train. There were designs of alecon lace flowers of seed pearls and sequins arrayed on the dress. The bodice was a sleeveless basque with a scoop neckline. The veil of illusion was of imported tulle topped with a rose design of tulle.

Her bouquet was of lily of the valley with white satin leaves, centered with a red throated orchid. White satin streamers fell from the bouquet tied in sweethearts knots.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Ross Cannon, served as matron. Other bridesmaids were Mrs. Bill Aydelette and Miss Faith Johnson of Alexandria, Miss Netta Neuschwanger of Corpus Christi, Texas and Miss Nita Thompson of Forest. Their dresses were pink waltz length, off-shoulder models of mooncloud tulle over layers of net and taffeta with matching headdress in shape of a rose with net. They carried bouquets of pink carnations set in blue lace. The flower girl, Becky Aydelette, wore a floor length dress identical to the bridesmaids.

Bill Aydelette of Alexandira served as best man. Ross Cannon, Sil Tucker and Bill Skipper served as ushers and groomsmen. Jim Cannon, nephew of the bride was the ring bearer.

Mrs. Hawkins, mother of the bride, was becomingly dressed in a pink linen sheath with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

RECEPTION

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Mattie Parkman, in Forest.

A lace cloth covered the bride's table. A crystal punch bowl was placed on each end of the table and the bride's cake was placed in the center. Her many gifts were displayed.

Mrs. Louise Choat of Mary Ester, Florida, cut and served the cake. Mrs. Christine Neuschwanger of Corpus Christi, Texas, and Mrs. Bill Skipper of Alexandria served the punch. Mrs. Sil Tucker presided over the bride's book.

For her wedding trip Mrs. Smith chose a pink and pink checked tunic sheath of irish linen with pink and white accessories. Her corsage was the white orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith will make their home in Charleston, South Carolina, where Mr. Smith is stationed in the Air Force.

Canned fruit cocktail makes an excellent ice cream topping for summer eating. Chill the fruit thoroughly, and spoon right from the can over vanilla or fruit-flavored ice cream or sherbets. For a spicy version, simmer a little of the syrup from the fruit cocktail with a few whole cloves and a stick of cinnamon. Add the spicy syrup to drained fruit cocktail and chill thoroughly to bring out all the delicate flavor of the five colorful fruits. For an easy banana split, use two or three small scoops of ice cream on split bananas, covering chocolate ice cream with marshmallow topping, other flavors with chilled fruit cocktail.

Give Flowers Growing Room

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — University of Illinois floriculture specialists say prepare the soil for flower planting at least one foot deep. Soil for prennals should be tilled at least two feet deep.

They say the deeper the soil is prepared, the greater the roots can penetrate. The deeper the penetration, the greater the soil volume from which the plant can draw water and nutrients.

Shallow preparation forces the roots to develop in the surface regions of the soil, where they are more subject to adverse summer weather and to gardener neglect.

Frequently people attribute it to the lack of a green thumb when plants become diseased and die when actually the root development was shallow and injury was caused by the drying of the soil around the roots.

The gardener pays for shallow cultivation not only during hot periods of the summer, but also during rainy periods in the late spring.

In wet periods, the water accumulates in the cultivated zone and does not seep through the uncultivated zone. This condition is called waterlogging, and many plants die in waterlogged soil.

Another point the floriculturists make is that is isn't enough to merely dig up the soil when you prepare it for planting. You must also incorporate some organtic matter.

Peat moss is one of the best forms because it is slow to decay and won't rob the soil of needed nitrogen. It keeps the soil from being compacted by the spring and summer rains.

MRS. JOSEPH P. MARSALA

Morning Ceremony Unites Miss Bruscato-J. Marsala

Saint Matthews Catholic Church with its magnificent stained glass windows held two large arrangements of white gladioli and pink carnations on its main altar and white gladioli were used on the side altar when Miss Beatrice Barbara Bruscato and Joseph P. Marsala exchanged wedding vows at 9:30 a.m. June 15. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bruscato and he the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Marsala.

The Reverend Richard Fale performed the double ring ceremony. Altar boys were Frank Bruscato and Bradley Biggar.

Mrs. Sam Lasuzzo at the organ played the traditional wedding music and accompanied Jim McDonald, soloist.

Pews for the family were marked by white satin ribbons.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of Chantilly lace with a scoop neckline. In the back were three rows of ruffles of silk organza forming the chapel train. Her fingertip veil of illusion was fastened to a queen's crown of lace. Her gloves were of matching chantilly lace and she carried white carnations and stephanotis and this was centered with an orchid.

Miss Phyllis Jean Bruscato, sister of the bride served as maid of honor. She wore a darker shade of pink from that of the bridesmaids. Their dresses were of imported lace and silk organza over taffeta, they were styled on princess lines and were ballerina length with a bateau neckline and set-in sleeves. Panels of imported lace were set in the full flowing skirt. A bow of silk organza adorned the back of each dress. Matron of honor, Mrs. Virgil Bivens, wore a still darker shade of pink. The bridesmaids were Miss Betty Jenkins, Miss Sally Moore, Miss Carmela Danna and Miss Phyllis Jo Monaco, a cousin of the bride. They each wore shell hats to match their dresses.

The groom's sister, Marie Marsala, the flower girl, carried a basket of pink carnations.

Mr. Marsala chose his brother, Sam Marsala, as his best man. John Guerriero Jr., Julian Fontana, Frank Varino as groomsmen and the ushers were Paul Bruscato, Virgil Bivens and Joe A. Marsala and J. C. Zagone. The ring bearer was Downey Black.

Mrs. Bruscato chose a pink lace for her daughter's wedding, her accessories were of pink also. She wore an orchid corsage. The groom's mother wore a blue lace dress with white accessories and an orchid corsage.

RECEPTION

The reception was held in the Mirror Room of the Frances Hotel. The centerpiece on the bride's table was of white asters, white gladioli and white candles with greenery down the center of the table. The bride's cake, a tiered confection, of white and shades of pink held a bride and groom atop it. Serving this were Miss Kathryn Monaco and Mrs. John Trapea. Miss Linda Guitheau and Miss Marlene Landry served punch. Guests were registered by Mrs. Leonard Russo at a table which held a memory candle.

A wedding trip to the Ozark Mountains was taken. The bride changed to a pink linen suit and white accessories for traveling. She wore the orchid from her bouquet.

The couple will be at home in Monroe.

Miss Linda Ann Garrett Osborne Cason Fentress Are United In Marriage

A double ring ceremony was held in the First Baptist Church in West Monroe on June 13 uniting in marriage Miss Linda Ann Garrett and Osborne Cason Fertress Jr. of Huntington, West Virginia. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Garrett of West Monore and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Fentress of Memphis, Tennessee.

Dr. Jaroy Weber officiated at the 7:00 p.m. service in a setting of standards of white stock against a background of candlelight.

Bob Oldenburg at the organ and Sandy Lawn at the piano presented the nuptial music and accompanied Jack Day, soloist, who sang "O Perfect Love" and "Bless This Day". Miss Rita Snider read 1st Corinthians 13.

The bride given in marriage by her father, Edward Garrett, wore a bridal gown with a bodice of chantilly lace featuring a sabrina neckline and scalloped sleeves with seed pearls and irridescent sequins. Panels of white lace extended far down the white nylon tulle skirt into points. The headdress was an Egyptian type studded with rhinestones and pearls which held a fingertip veil of white illusion. Her cascade bouquet held five white philanopsis orchids and lilies of the valley with natural foliage. She carried a lace handkerchief belonging to the groom's grandmother 50 years ago.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Eletha Prior, is an aunt of the bride from Houston, Texas. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Carole Kilpatrick and Miss Faye Parker. They were dressed in smoke blue silk organza dresses over a darker blue. The bodices featured a rounded neckline detailed with soft pleats at the front. The waistline was slightly raised. The skirts were pleated soft silk organza embroidered with roses of the same shade as the taffeta. The cummerbund featured a large bow in the back - centered with a rose of self material. Completing their ensembles were white feather hats, white kid shoes and wrist length shortie white gloves. They carried white magnolias accented with natural foliage and white satin bows.

Rose Ann Garrett, sister of the bride, was flower girl. Her dress of white organdy featured a bodice of softly gathered front and puffed sleeves, the skirt was embroidered organdy and a baby blue cummerbund and a blue feather in her hair completed her ensemble.

Serving as candlelighters were Miss Dianne Garrett and Miss Judy Aulds, they were dressed identically to the flower girls, they each wore white wrist corsages.

Ansel Smith served Mr. Fentress as his best man and the groomsmen were James Park Parkerson, Bill Hatten; Jimmy Craft and Henry Cole served as ushers; the ring bearer was Phillip Fentress.

Mrs. Garrett, the bride's mother, chose a pink lace sheath dress with white accessories and a pink satin hat. Her corsage was of white glamelia. The groom's mother, Mrs. Fentress wore a kelly green chiffon, her hat was white with clustered flowers accented with green velvet. She wore a white glamelia corsage.

The reception was held at 1902 Myrtle Street. The reception area held arrangements of gardenias, dahlias, and shasta daisies. The bride's table was covered in white taffeta with a net overskirt with blue ribbon trimming. The punch was blue with floating daisies frozen in ice. Silver cake trays held wedding cakes. Members of the house party were Mrs. Walter Silmon, Mrs. Malcolm Le Feure, Mrs. Julia Colmer, Mrs. James Parkerson, Mrs. W. E. Bennett, Mrs. Richard Cook, Mrs. Johnny Parker, Miss Joann Gaster and Miss Mickey Buford.

For their wedding trip to the East coast the bride chose a periwinkle blue linen suit featuring a large white collar, her hat was of clustered daisies and white pearlized shoes and bag completed her ensemble.

The couple will make their home in Huntington, West Virginia. The bride is a graduate of West Monroe High School and Northeast State College. She is a member of Phi Beta, national speech and music fraternity. The groom graduated from Carlisle Military School, attended Georgia Tech and is a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Hodge Garrett of Duncan, Oklahoma; Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Hollingshead of Baytown, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Fentress and children, Bobby and Phillip of Memphis, Tennessee and Mrs. Eleta Moore Prior and son of Houston, Texas.

Hefner - Dodd Wedding Date July Fourth

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Dodd announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Linda, to Hoyt Hefner, Jr., son of Rev. and Mrs. Hoyt Hefner of Beaumont, Texas.

Miss Dodd attended Arkansas A&M College, and was a member of Phi Sigma Chi Sorority. Mr. Hefner attends the Commonwealth College of Mortuary Science in Houston, Texas.

The wedding will be an event of July 4th.

MENU IDEA

Careful family menu planners avoid serving the same food twice at one meal — also, whenever practical, twice in one day.

TABLE ADVICE

Table etiquette! Eating a thick chowder? Then dip the spoon toward you. When eating thin cream soups or broths the spoon should be dipped away from you.

EASY TO CARVE

Note to carvers: insert the carving fork in the meat or poultry you are slicing so that its position need not be changed frequently.

A refreshing first course gets dinner off to a good start in warm weather. Turn syrup from a can of fruit cocktail into a refrigerator tray, add a squeeze of lemon juice and a drop of almond extract. Freeze until icy, stirring occasionally with a fork, meanwhile chilling the fruit cocktail thoroughly. Mix fruit lightly with the icy syrup, and serve at once in chilled glasses.

MRS. CLYNTON LEROY HAFNER

College Place Baptist Church - Setting For Hafner-Doane Wedding

The College Place Baptist Church was decorated last evening, June 20, with large arrangements of white ruffled gladioli, Southern Smilax and jade leaves with many cathedral tapers arranged artistically in wrought iron candelabra, for the wedding of Miss Patricia Eugenia Doane to Clynton Leroy Hafner, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hafner of Longview, Texas. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. L. G. Wilkinson of this city and F. T. Doane of Houghton, Michigan.

The Reverend T. Earl Ogg performed the double ring ceremony. Mrs. C. L. Dillingham played the nuptial music during the ceremony and accompanied soloist, Max Dillingham, who sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a chapel length gown fashioned of French Chantilly lace and silk tulle over taffeta. It was designed with figurine bodice and low rounded neckline accented with seed pearls and sequins. The long lace sleeves tapered to petal points over her hands. The bouffant skirt of lace and tulle fell in folds over a hoop sweeping into a graceful chapel train. Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion fell in misty fullness from a pearl and sequin calot. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, a gift of the groom. With this she wore white satin slippers and carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis with a white orchid corsage in the center.

Mrs. John E. Wilson of Baton Rouge served as matron of honor. Her white silk organza dress had a tucked bodice and round neckline with a full skirt. The bouquets were cascade arrangements of white glamelias accented with dark green satin loops and ivy leaves. The headdresses were fashioned into bandeaus of white satin leaves. Bridesmaids were Miss Marla Amrhein, Baton Rouge; Miss Lynn Wheatly, New Orleans; Miss Carol Futrell and Miss Faye Parker. They were dressed identically to the matron of honor.

Serving as flower girl was Karen Stevens, a niece of the bride. She wore a floor length white organdy with tiny puffed sleeves accented with lace scallops. The sash formed a bow in the back and hung the length of the skirt. She carried a small nosegay of white glamellias and ivy leaves.

J. H. Black of Marshall served as best man and the groomsmen and ushers were J. D. Dyal of Bernice; Allen Weyel of Longview, Joe Purvis, Ft. Worth and William Irwin of Longview.

Mrs. Wilkinson chose a glace blue peau de soie dress with a yoke of silk organza. Matching accessories were worn and a corsage of white roses. Mrs. Dyal, aunt of the groom, stood in for his mother in a rose faille crepe with matching accessories.

RECEPTION

A reception was held in the home of the bride's parents.

The bride's table was covered with a linen cutwork tablecloth. This featured the punch bowl at one end and the wedding cake at the other. The cake was placed on a mirror with an arrangement of flowers placed around it. Arrangements of white summer flowers were placed throughout the house. The bride placed her bouquet on the table for the single decoration of flowers on the table.

Mrs. M. E. Stevens, sister of the bride, cut the cake and was assisted by Mrs. Tom Monk. Mrs. W. D. Bates and Mrs. H. I. Hales presided at the punch bowl. Miss Barbara Hammond and Miss Nancy Price served as tea girls.

The guest book table featured a small arrangement of white roses which was presided over by Miss Caro Endel of Shreveport.

For their wedding trip to the Florida Gulf Coast the bride chose a light green dress with matching jacket, matching accessories, patent shoes and bag and she wore the white orchid from her bouquet.

The couple will make their home in Longview, Texas.

The bride is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and she received her degree in Elementary Education from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute.

The groom is a graduate of Longview High School and he received his degree in Mechanical Engineering from La. Polytechnic Institute.

Out - of - town guests were Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Amrhein of Baton Rouge; Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Brownlee, of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Williams, Farmerville; Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Cook and daughter, Charlotte, Longview, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Talley, Olla; Mr. and Mrs. Guy DuPriest, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Crump all of Houston, Texas; Dr. and Mrs. K. W. Irwin, Longview, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Moore Hammond, and daughter, Dorthy, Jonesboro; Jimmy Strahan, Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stevens, Alexandira; Miss Kata Rae Lusk, Plain Dealing; Mr. Curtis Allen, Farmerville.

MAKE IT SEPARATE

Like to serve salad with your main course? Then provide a separate salad plate or bowl and place it to the left of the luncheon or dinner plate. Cold salad should never be served on plates that have been warmed for a hot main course.

Young spring chickens and mellow, plump hens taste better when they're cooked with mild instant minced onion. This moisture-free onion has a flavor that's reliabley fresh and true — never hot or bitter as raw onion sometimes is. That's why it's the perfect seasoning for delicately-flavored food like chicken. In cooking young fryers, you might brown them first in butter; then add broth, water or wine and instant minced onion, chopped parsley or other fresh or dried herbs. Cover and steam until the chicken is tender. Or you might fry the chicken and serve it with a rich cream gravy lightly seasoned with instant minced onion, salt and pepper. In stewing chickens for chicken pie, add the onion to the cooking liquid along with whole peppercorns and seroles, add a tablespoon or two some fresh celery leaves for an especially flavorful broth.

Over a fireplace mantel framed mirror for an accent focal is a natural place to hang a point.

Chevy heavyweight takes all the meanness out of tough hauls!

L.C.F. model 9103 maneuvers long load over rough terrain with ease.

When a truck goes to work for Lester Brothers, Inc., of Martinsville, Virginia, it's in for a life of extra-hard labor. Loads are whoppers—whole sections of Lesco prefab homes. Runs are scheduled without let up. And at the job sites the going's always tough. That's why Lester Brothers specify Chevrolet; why they're adding new ones as soon as the older models need replacing. Chevies take the meanness out of the roughest jobs. And they cost less to maintain than any other trucks Lester Brothers have owned!

A going concern like Lester Brothers, with tight delivery dates to meet every day in the week, demands maximum truck dependability and performance. And, mister, they get it—with most of their Chevrolets going at least 100,000 miles (some of them 150,000) before the engine heads even come off! With big truck V8's that hum right along on hurry-up schedules. With Chevy trucks that are easier to handle, specialists at getting in and out of congested job sites.

This particular operation sure points up Chevrolet's natural ability to handle any kind of job that could come along. It illustrates what we've been saying for a long time—that once you put a Chevy on the payroll, that tough job loses its fight fast and settles down to a smooth-running routine. If your job demands even half as much as this one does, you've got good reason to visit your Chevrolet dealer. He's the man with specific information . . . the man to see before another good working day goes by.

No job's too tough for a Chevrolet truck! CHEVROLET

THE COMING MARRIAGE of Miss Muriel Carr to George Parker Jr. is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Carr of Newellton. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. George O. Parker of Winnsboro. The wedding will take place June 25.

MRS. JAMES ROBERT SMITH

Edwards-Mann Wedding Vows Are Pledged

The Cheniere Baptist Church formed the seeting June 5 for the wedding of Miss Glenda Mann and Billy Ray Edwards.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Mann of West Monroe. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Edwards of Lena.

The Rev. W. O. Cory officiated at the double ring ceremony. Traditional Nuptial selections were were rendered by Mrs. Gwen Clark. Vows were exchanged before an arch of greenery flanked by tall baskets of pink and white gladiolis. The tall cathedral tapers in the background were lighted by Fred Newton, cousin of the bride, and Roy Gene Woods, cousin of the groom.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white nylon tulle accented by a white lace bolero. Her veil fell from a white velvet headband. She carried a white Bible topped with an arrangement of pink and white glamelia and satin streamers.

Miss Rita Mann served her sister as maid of honor, wearing a gown of pink net over taffeta with white accessories. Miss Brenda Edwards, sister of the groom served as bridesmaid, wearing a gown of blue net over taffeta with white accessories. Miss Sandra Mann, younger sister of the bride, served as flower girl dressed in a floor length white gown with white accessories. Mr. Terry Owens served as best man. Ushers were Joe Kramberg and Larry Bruce Woods.

The mother of the bride wore a blue lace dress with white accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses. The mother of the groom wore a blue silk dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church dining room. The reception table was overlaid with a white lace table cloth over pink centered by a bowl of pink hydrangeas.

Mrs. Stanley Lewis and Mrs. Elaine Newton served the tierred wedding cake. Misses Shirley Parsons and Joan Stennet alternated at the punch bowl. Miss Andrea Oglesby was in charge of the guest book.

The couple will make their home in West Monroe.

Out of town guests for the wedding included Mrs. Roth Wilson, Miss Adale and Barbara Jo Edwards, Mrs. Edwards, all of Alexandria.

Smith-Hawkins Wedding Is Event Of June 9

On the evening of June 9 at 7:00 in the First Baptist Church of Oak Grove, Miss Cluadine Hawkins of Forest and James Robert Smith of Parkton, North Carolina exchanged marriage vows. The Reverend H. Hammonds officiated at the double ring ceremony. Miss Hawkins is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hawkins of Forest and Mr. Smith is the son of Mrs. D. C. Smith of Parkton, North Carolina.

The church was decorated in palm trees, baskets of white stock, and white tapers in iron candelabra. Heavy white silk roping reserved a place for the relatives. The altar held an arch entwined with smilax and centered with a white wedding bell with white satin streamers. Beneath it was a satin covered kneeling rail. Mrs. Ann Steadman presented the nuptial music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length bouffant gown of imported mooncloud tulle, with a full skirt of net and taffeta, which fell into a chapel train. There were designs of alecon lace flowers of seed pearls and sequins arrayed on the dress. The bodice was a sleeveless basque with a scoop neckline. The veil of illusion was of imported tulle topped with a rose design of tulle.

Her bouquet was of lily of the valley with white satin leaves, centered with a red throated orchid. White satin streamers fell from the bouquet tied in sweethearts knots.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Ross Cannon, served as matron. Other bridesmaids were Mrs. Bill Aydelette and Miss Faith Johnson of Alexandria, Miss Netta Neuschwanger of Corpus Christi, Texas and Miss Nita Thompson of Forest. Their dresses were pink waltz length, off-shoulder models of mooncloud tulle over layers of net and taffeta with matching headdress in shape of a rose with net. They carried bouquets of pink carnations set in blue lace. The flower girl, Becky Aydelette, wore a floor length dress identical to the bridesmaids.

Bill Aydelette of Alexandira served as best man. Ross Cannon, Sil Tucker and Bill Skipper served as ushers and groomsmen. Jim Cannon, nephew of the bride was the ring bearer.

Mrs. Hawkins, mother of the bride, was becomingly dressed in a pink linen sheath with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

RECEPTION

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Mattie Parkman, in Forest.

A lace cloth covered the bride's table. A crystal punch bowl was placed on each end of the table and the bride's cake was placed in the center. Her many gifts were displayed.

Mrs. Louise Choat of Mary Ester, Florida, cut and served the cake. Mrs. Christine Neuschwanger of Corpus Christi, Texas, and Mrs. Bill Skipper of Alexandria served the punch. Mrs. Sil Tucker presided over the bride's book.

For her wedding trip Mrs. Smith chose a pink and pink checked tunic sheath of irish linen with pink and white accessories. Her corsage was the white orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith will make their home in Charleston, South Carolina, where Mr. Smith is stationed in the Air Force.

Canned fruit cocktail makes an excellent ice cream topping for summer eating. Chill the fruit thoroughly, and spoon right from the can over vanilla or fruit-flavored ice cream or sherbets. For a spicy version, simmer a little of the syrup from the fruit cocktail with a few whole cloves and a stick of cinnamon. Add the spicy syrup to drained fruit cocktail and chill thoroughly to bring out all the delicate flavor of the five colorful fruits. For an easy banana split, use two or three small scoops of ice cream on split bananas, covering chocolate ice cream with marshmallow topping, other flavors with chilled fruit cocktail.

Give Flowers Growing Room

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — University of Illinois floriculture specialists say prepare the soil for flower planting at least one foot deep. Soil for prennals should be tilled at least two feet deep.

They say the deeper the soil is prepared, the greater the roots can penetrate. The deeper the penetration, the greater the soil volume from which the plant can draw water and nutrients.

Shallow preparation forces the roots to develop in the surface regions of the soil, where they are more subject to adverse summer weather and to gardener neglect.

Frequently people attribute it to the lack of a green thumb when plants become diseased and die when actually the root development was shallow and injury was caused by the drying of the soil around the roots.

The gardener pays for shallow cultivation not only during hot periods of the summer, but also during rainy periods in the late spring.

In wet periods, the water accumulates in the cultivated zone and does not seep through the uncultivated zone. This condition is called waterlogging, and many plants die in waterlogged soil.

Another point the floriculturists make is that is isn't enough to merely dig up the soil when you prepare it for planting. You must also incorporate some organic matter.

Peat moss is one of the best forms because it is slow to decay and won't rob the soil of needed nitrogen. It keeps the soil from being compacted by the spring and summer rains.

Mirror Gives Depth To A Shallow Room

"Mirror, mirror on the wall, who has the prettiest room of all?

The answer to that question easily may be yours if you plan to use framed mirrors in your decorating scheme.

The guiles and wiles of framed mirrors in playing optical illusion tricks are justly famous, for they can be used to open up whole new vistas of lightness and brightness when properly hung.

Here are a few ways to use framed mirrors in your home.

If you'd like another window in a room, you can make one by hanging several framed mirrors on a wall opposite an outdoor window scene. The movement of reflecting sunlight on the mirrors will give the effect of another window.

Another decorating hint is to use a framed mirror in a wall grouping of pictures. This can be doubly useful in a hall or foyer arrangement where the mirror takes on a utilitarian as well as decorative use.

Mirrors today are available in a variety of frame styles and finishes so they can be matched with the picture frames for a harmonious grouping. The trend towards period furniture is the inspiration for painted wood frames on mirrors. These framed mirrors come in subtle blues, grays, whites, and pinks, sometimes with gold highlights.

Mirrors can also be used to create alcoves and niches. Twin framed mirrors hung on either side of a fireplace, for example, will give an illusion of recessed niches and add depth to a shallow room.

Mirrors are so eye-catching that they can be used to create center interest in any portion of a room.

Same Color Carpeting Urged Through House

BETTY PEPIS ANSWERS

Q.—We are planning to redo some of the rooms in our home and would like your help. I am planning to use mauve wall-to-wall carpeting. I had thought of painting the living room walls mauve, too. Is this wise? If so, what colors would you use with it? Woodwork is natural and tables are walnut. Fireplace is brick. Should carpeting be the same throughout the house?

A.—There is no rule that says carpeting throughout the house should be the same but it does have an advantage, if you move, because you will have a great deal of yardage all in one color which can be recut for different shapes of rooms. If you paint your living room walls mauve be sure it is a very faint tint. Colors that go well with mauve are the reds, pinks and blues, like cornflower tones, that have a suggestion of violet in them.

Q.—In my master bedroom there is a wide window high up along one wall. I would like to put my very long triple dresser under the window and hang a long modern picture between the dresser and the window. There is a very large mirror that goes with the dresser. It is unframed. Is it possible to put such a mirror on the wall in back of the bed? The bed has night tables on each side that are the same height as the bed. I plan to use tall lamps on the tables. Is this a very unorthodox arrangement?

A.—The arrangement you suggest is unorthodox and I would not recommend it for two reasons, particularly if you read in bed. High lamps will shine right into your eyes. As an alternate, get more usual height lamps and use elongated shades on them. These are new and good looking. An unframed mirror over the bed also seems unwise for it could present a potential danger, if by some remote chance it fell from the wall.

Q.—What color shall I paper or paint my dining room? Also the ceiling? Furniture is antiqued ivory touched with gold. Rug is Oriental with beige ground, blue and maroon flowers. Draperies are ivory. The room has old-fashioned dutch shelving with natural oak trim.

A.—Because of the oak I feel you would do best to paint the walls ivory, but you might make the ceiling light blue.

MRS. CLYNTON LEROY HAFNER

College Place Baptist Church - Setting For Hafner-Doane Wedding

The College Place Baptist Church was decorated last evening, June 20, with large arrangements of white ruffled gladioli, Southern Smilax and jade leaves with many cathedral tapers arranged artistically in wrought iron candelabra, for the wedding of Miss Patricia Eugenia Doane to Clynton Leroy Hafner, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hafner of Longview, Texas. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. L. G. Wilkinson of this city and F. T. Doane of Houghton, Michigan.

The Reverend T. Earl Ogg performed the double ring ceremony. Mrs. C. L. Dillingham played the nuptial music during the ceremony and accompanied soloist, Max Dillingham, who sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a chapel length gown fashioned of French Chantilly lace and silk tulle over taffeta. It was designed with figurine bodice and low rounded neckline accented with seed pearls and sequins. The long lace sleeves tapered to petal points over her hands. The bouffant skirt of lace and tulle fell in folds over a hoop sweeping into a graceful chapel train. Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion fell in misty fullness from a pearl and sequin calot. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, a gift of the groom. With this she wore white satin slippers and carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis with a white orchid corsage in the center.

Mrs. John E. Wilson of Baton Rouge served as matron of honor. Her white silk organza dress had a tucked bodice and round neckline with a full skirt. The bouquets were cascade arrangements of white glamelias accented with dark green satin loops and ivy leaves. The headdresses were fashioned into bandeaus of white satin leaves. Bridesmaids were Miss Marla Amrhein, Baton Rouge; Miss Lynn Wheatly, New Orleans; Miss Carol Futrell and Miss Faye Parker. They were dressed identically to the matron of honor.

Serving as flower girl was Karen Stevens, a niece of the bride. She wore a floor length white organdy with tiny puffed sleeves accented with lace scallops. The sash formed a bow in the back and hung the length of the skirt. She carried a small nosegay of white glamellias and ivy leaves. J. H. Black of Marshall served as best man and the groomsmen and ushers were J. D. Dyal of Bernice; Allen Weyel of Longview, Joe Purvis, Ft. Worth and William Irwin of Longview.

Mrs. Wilkinson chose a glace blue peau de soie dress with a yoke of silk organza. Matching accessories were worn and a corsage of white roses. Mrs. Dyal, aunt of the groom, stood in for his mother in a rose faille crepe with matching accessories.

RECEPTION

A reception was held in the home of the bride's parents.

The bride's table was covered with a linen cutwork tablecloth. This featured the punch bowl at one end and the wedding cake at the other. The cake was placed on a mirror with an arrangement of flowers placed around it. Arrangements of white summer flowers were placed throughout the house. The bride placed her bouquet on the table for the single decoration of flowers on the table.

Mrs. M. E. Stevens, sister of the bride, cut the cake and was assisted by Mrs. Tom Monk. Mrs. W. D. Bates and Mrs. H. I. Hales presided at the punch bowl. Miss Barbara Hammond and Miss Nancy Price served as tea girls.

The guest book table featured a small arrangement of white roses which was presided over by Miss Caro Endel of Shreveport.

For their wedding trip to the Florida Gulf Coast the bride chose a light green dress with matching jacket, matching accessories, patent shoes and bag and she wore the white orchid from her bouquet.

The couple will make their home in Longview, Texas.

The bride is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and she received her degree in Elementary Education from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute.

The groom is a graduate of Longview High School and he received his degree in Mechanical Engineering from La. Polytechnic Institute.

Out - of - town guests were Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Amrhein of Baton Rouge; Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Brownlee, of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Williams, Farmerville; Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Cook and daughter, Charlotte, Longview, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Talley, Olla; Mr. and Mrs. Guy DuPriest, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Crump all of Houston, Texas; Dr. and Mrs. K. W. Irwin, Longview, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Moore Hammond, and daughter, Dorthy, Jonesboro; Jimmy Strahan, Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stevens, Alexandira; Miss Kata Rae Lusk, Plain Dealing; Mr. Curtis Allen, Farmerville.

MRS. RONALD GLEN GALLIEN

Barbara Sue Colvin Is Bride Of R. G. Gallien

On June 5 in a setting of gladioli with a blue pine background and numerous white cathedral tapers in wrought iron standards, Miss Barbara Sue Colvin and Ronald Glen Gallien were wed. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Colvin and he the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Gallien. They are all of West Monroe.

Vows were exchanged in the First Baptist Church in West Monroe at 7:30 in the evening with Dr. Jaroy Weber officiating. Sandy Lawn filled the church with the music of the organ. He also accompanied Irvin Zeidman who sang, "I Love You Truly," "Whither Thou Goest" and "Wedding Prayer. The guests were seated during this time by Robert Alexander and Kenneth Barkley.

BRIDESMAIDS

Miss Ann Colvin, sister of the bride was maid of honor and the bridesmaid wore identical copper blue silk organza dresses over matching taffeta. They each carried oval shaped white nylon baskets of white chrysanthemums with glitter leaves. Their headdress was of matching blue. The maids were Miss Patsy Colvin, Miss Janice Gallien and Mrs. Loy Byrd. Rhonda Colvin served as flower girl.

THE BRIDE

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown with its fitted bodice of hand clipped lace featured a scalloped neckline. The bouffant skirt of crystal taffeta featured wide bands of lace, with this she wore buttoned matching mitts. Her veil of illusion was attached to a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of feathered blue carnations and blue forget me nots in a cascade arrangement with a removable corsage of white orchids.

Mr. Gallien chose Mike Stone as his best man. Groomsmen were Johnny O'Shea, Charles Burkett, Doug Brewer, Jimmy Edminston. Candlelighters were Miss Carolyn McDevald and Miss Bobby Sue Frazier.

Mrs. Colvin chose for her daughter's wedding a blue lace sheath dress with white accessories. Mrs. Gallien wore a pink imported linen with matching Italian lace and pink accessories. They each carried cymbidium orchid corsages.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony, guests went to the First National Bank Building in West Monroe where Mr. and Mrs. Colvin were hosts at a reception.

The bride's table was centered with a large arrangement of white carnations, blue candytuft and valley lilies. This was flanked by candles in silver holders. A smaller table held a small arrangement around a bridal candle where the guest book was placed. Mrs. H. L. Colvin, Mrs. V. L. Colvin, Mrs. T. L. Colvin, Mrs. Garrett Rachel and Mrs. Ivey Albright served.

For traveling the bride chose a blue sheath with matching accessories and the corsage from her bouquet.

The couple will make their home in West Monroe. The bride is a graduate of West Monroe High School and Bish Mathis Institute. Her sorority is Delta Kappa Pi. The groom graduated from West Monroe High School and is attending Tech in Ruston where he belongs to Kappa Sigma fraternity.

MAKE IT SEPARATE

Like to serve salad with your main course? Then provide a separate salad plate or bowl and place it to the left of the luncheon or dinner plate. Cold salad should never be served on plates that have been warmed for a hot main course.

Young spring chickens and mellow, plump hens taste better when they're cooked with mild instant minced onion. This moisture-free onion has a flavor that's reliabley fresh and true — never hot or bitter as raw onion sometimes is. That's why it's the perfect seasoning for delicately-flavored food like chicken. In cooking young fryers, you might brown them first in butter; then add broth, water or wine and instant minced onion, chopped parsley or other fresh or dried herbs. Cover and steam until the chicken is tender. Or you might fry the chicken and serve it with a rich cream gravy lightly seasoned with instant minced onion, salt and pepper. In stewing chickens for chicken pie, add the onion to the cooking liquid along with whole peppercorns and seroles, add a tablespoon or two some fresh celery leaves for an especially flavorful broth.

Over a fireplace mantel is a natural place to hang a framed mirror for an accent focal point.

Chevy heavyweight takes all the meanness out of tough hauls!

L.C.F. model 9103 maneuvers long load over rough terrain with ease.

When a truck goes to work for Lester Brothers, Inc., of Martinsville, Virginia, it's in for a life of extra-hard labor. Loads are whoppers—whole sections of Lesco prefab homes. Runs are scheduled without let up. And at the job sites the going's always tough. That's why Lester Brothers specify Chevrolet; why they're adding new ones as soon as the older models need replacing. Chevies take the meanness out of the roughest jobs. And they cost less to maintain than any other trucks Lester Brothers have owned!

A going concern like Lester Brothers, with tight delivery dates to meet every day in the week, demands maximum truck dependability and performance. And, mister, they get it—with most of their Chevrolets going at least 100,000 miles (some of them 150,000) before the engine heads even come off! With big truck V8's that hum right along on hurry-up schedules. With Chevy trucks that are easier to handle, specialists at getting in and out of congested job sites.

This particular operation sure points up Chevrolet's natural ability to handle any kind of job that could come along. It illustrates what we've been saying for a long time—that once you put a Chevy on the payroll, that tough job loses its fight fast and settles down to a smooth-running routine. If your job demands even half as much as this one does, you've got good reason to visit your Chevrolet dealer. He's the man with specific information . . . the man to see before another good working day goes by.

A Tea Dance Is Held Honoring Janis Powell

Miss Janis Powell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Powell, was honoree on Sunday afternoon for a Tea Dance in the Green Room of the Penn Hotel. Hostesses for this delightful affair were Misses Brenda Crow, Peggy Marx and Janet Vanderpool.

In the receiving line with the girls were Mr. and Mrs. Lee Vanderpool, Dr. and Mrs. Fred Marx, Mr. and Mrs. Klien Crow and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Powell.

Janis was wearing a pink embroidered organdy and a split pink carnation corsage. Brenda's blue polished cotton dress had lace insets. Her corsage was of white carnations. Peggy wore a lace trimmed yellow polished cotton with a white carnation corsage, while Janet's white nylon had a green grosgrain sash. Her corsage was of white carnations.

The party table held a pink net cloth over pink taffeta in the center of which was a crystal bowl of pink carnations, this was flanked by matching crystal candleholders of pink candles. Pink fruit punch and a variety of cookies were served.

The Guest Book was "Autograph Hound" which all guests signed. Janis was presented with a Scrap Book and a silver engraved "Map of Louisiana" charm for her bracelet by her hostesses.

Guests present were Kathy Martin, Lynn Haddad, Lela Rowan, Carrie Brown, Lynn Allen, Kathryn Bird, Arah La Grange, Kay Adams, Susan Johns, Sandra Marshall, Susan McClary, Brenda Carso, Camiie Carso, Jo Anne Patterson, Elaine Hanna, Alice Smith, Kathy Stadler, Pam Burgess, Julia Hoodemaker, Nancy Gilliland, Merrie Jo Simonton, Mary Alice Pankey, Al McDuff, Buzz Redding, Charles Williams, Robert McSherry, Bob Rowan, Mike Williams, Branton Kellogg, Ken Brazzel, Randy Harding, Eddie Morrison, Kent Dean, Dee Strickland, Mike Strausser, Robbie Clay, Jay Harris, Jay Marx, David Fragala, Larry Mullens, Johnny Clay, Steve Hanson, Larry White, Don Gordon Hesdorffer, Joe Terrell, Jeff Turpin, Dick Pope, Lane Allen, Fredick Amman, Jerry Album, John Salisbury and Lee Albright.

The Mon Amie Newcomers' Club Meets

The Paragon Club was the scene of the June meeting of the Mon Amie Newcomers Club. Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Victor Marsh, Mrs. C. S. Edgar, and Mrs. Ed Daigle.

The dining area was beautifully decorated with blue hydrangeas and daises. Seated were guests Mesdames Hollis Lonsberry, B. H. Brown, R. D. Weilder, Coleman Rowland, Jerry Gregg, Bruce Gregg and Miss Helen Cook.

The door prize was won by Mrs. R. D. Wilder.

After lunch the guests and members adjourned to tables of bridge and canasta. High bridge prize was won by Mrs. Brue F. Gregg and low prize went to Mrs. John Summerfield. Canasta prize went to Mrs. B. H. Brown.

Girl Scout News

First Class Rank is indeed a milestone which a girl deserves much credit for reaching. Not many achieve this coveted position, largely because they don't have continuous leadership. After five years of Scouting under the leadership of Mrs. Edmund Middleton, three girls of Troop 24, Mickie Varnado, Barbara Suomi, and Becky Middleton, were awarded the rank at a recent court-of-awards at the home of their leader. The program consisted of singing, reciting the Promise and Laws, and talks by the three girls on what Scouting had meant to them, their future plans, and how Scouting helps in the community. In addition to First Class Rank, Miss Middleton presented the following badges earned by the girls: Musician, Reader, Dabbler, Hospitality, Insect, to Barbara; Cat and Dog, Child Care, Hospitality, Homemaker, Housekeeper to Mickie; Insect, Child Care, Hospitality, Homemaker, Housekeeper, to Becky.

These badges, together with others earned during the past years show that the girls have majored in the Homemaking Field, also earning a number of badges in the out of doors. The girls are veterans of day camping, looking forward to a real pioneer experience for their fifth year.

We are always glad to hear of inter - troop activities that promote friendship among girls. A recent example was the skating party planned by the Brownies of Troop 85, Mitchell School. The girls invited the three other troops at the school, 9, 12, 37 whose leaders are Mrs. Cleo Martin, Mrs. G. P. Jordan, and Mrs. Morris Chambless. According to all reports, the girls had a wonderful.

Troop 9 held its fly-up ceremony at Bernstein Park, where they used one of the little bridges to mark the passage from Brownie to Intermediate Scouting. Mrs. Martin pinned Girl Scout pins on the following: Charlotte Fleming, Helena Horne, Patricia Johnson, Charolette Martin, Belinda Mathis, Kathleen McCoy, Rita Wood, Rita Creech, Ann Works, Brenda Yates. A picnic supper followed, with the families taking part. It is interesting to learn that every girl in the troop is registered for day camp.

Training for day camp staff continues with a session at the office Tuesday at 9:00 a.m. and one at Pine Wood Thursday from 9:30 until 2:00. Deadline for completing registration for the first session of day camp, July 6-17, was Friday. We hope everybody who really wants to go to camp qualified by that time.

June's the season for parties. When you're entertaining and want to serve green beans as the vegetable, buy the handsome asparagus style pack. These are cut the length of the can and carefully packed so that they come from the can whole and straight. Heated in their own liquid, they make an attractive addition to any party luncheon menu. To avoid breaking the beans in cooking, it's a good idea to warm them in a skillet. Lift them onto serving plates with tongs or a slotted spatula. Serve the beans with hollandaise sauce topped with a little finely chopped fresh parsley or chives, or with commercial sour cream, lemon butter or your favorite cheese

VACATION SPECIAL. A suit that will travel and wear like a gentleman, and which can be washed and drip-dried overnight, is this Mr. Jeeves dacron and orlon fully tailored model that looks like fine worsted and feels like a light shirt.

Most Vacationing Hubbies Look Like Handy-Men

The great exodus has begun and thousands of vacationists are flocking to all parts of the nation and the globe Travel experts see a boom year, bright with record numbers of tourists.

But a leading men's clothing manufacturer sees it as a nightmarish parade of millions of American males putting their worst foot forward.

For some unaccountable reason the domestic male tends to dress at his worst when he leaves home. He drags out his oldest clothes in the mistaken thought that he is thus insuring comfort and economy. He emerges from trains and planes and cars rumpled, creased, dusty and drab.

He dresses for traveling the way he does for fishing in the Canadian North Woods. He stands in terminals and airports in badly fitting, outmoded jackets pulled further out of shape by cameras slung over the shoulder, in slacks that hang too long over his shoes. He creates a bewildering contradiction as a representative of the richest country in the world.

And American women, who travel in the company of these lads who look more like their handy-men than their husbands, must bear a share of the blame.

Today's husbands are either too busy or too removed from fashion to be as smart as they need to be about their apparel. They increasingly depend on the little woman for help and ideas ... and when it comes to helping her man travel comfortably and smartly, mama has goofed!

To enable her man to travel in comfort and still not look like a 'local yokel,' here are some special travel ideas. Travel in a suit . . . you'll be just as comfortable and look and feel far better than in a sports outfit. Try a feather-weight, dacron and worsted that won't crease, a light-weight, drip-dry, cotton shirt with a special vanishing neckband for comfort and wear it with a clip bow tie. If there are dressy occasions ahead short of black tie a mohair and worsted suit will make a man as elegant as a duke and still give him a suit that is famous for its tough resistance to wrinkling and wear.

If there's a lot of hot weather and fast travel, a fully tailored, wash-and-wear suit can perform wonders of comfort and provide good loooks. It can be washed completely in a hotel sink basin, hung up wet and emerge the next day fully pressed and completely fresh. They are light and comfortable, too, and the jacket serves extra duty as a sport jacket. Wash-and-wear fabrics in sheer summer weaves and special hot-weather styles also are available in shirts, underwear and pajamas to keep a man comfortable, smart and traveling light.

An important preparation for any vacation is dressing up father - so he can both look and feel like the 'head man' of the expedition.

Members Of Hancock Family Hold Reunion

Bernstein Park, was the setting Sunday, June 14, for the reunion of 48 members of the Hancock family, descendents of J. Alexander Hancock and Wilhelmina Jackson Hancock, who settled in Amite County, Mississippi, near Gloster, in 1896.

A pleasant period of fellowship was enjoyed and at noon a picnic lunch was served, arrangements being made by Mrs. Frank Ford. A business session followed with Mr. R. V. Mirror Gives Depth To A Shallow Room

"Mirror, mirror on the wall, who has the prettiest room of all?

The answer to that question easily may be yours if you plan to use framed mirrors in your decorating scheme.

The guiles and wiles of framed mirrors in playing optical illusion tricks are justly famous, for they can be used to open up whole new vistas of lightness and brightness when properly hung.

Here are a few ways to use framed mirrors in your home.

If you'd like another window in a room, you can make one by hanging several framed mirrors on a wall opposite an outdoor window scene. The movement of reflecting sunlight on the mirrors will give the effect of another window.

Another decorating hint is to use a framed mirror in a wall grouping of pictures. This can be doubly useful in a hall or foyer arrangement where the mirror takes on a utilitarian as well as decorative use.

Mirrors today are available in a variety of frame styles and finishes so they can be matched with the picture frames for a harmonious grouping. The trend towards period furniture is the inspiration for painted wood frames on mirrors. These framed mirrors come in subtle blues, grays, whites, and pinks, sometimes with gold highlights.

Mirrors can also be used to create alcoves and niches. Twin framed mirrors hung on either side of a fireplace, for example, will give an illusion of recessed niches and add depth to a shallow room.

Mirrors are so eye-catching that they can be used to create center interest in any portion of a room.

Same Color Carpeting Urged Through House

BETTY PEPIS ANSWERS

Q.—We are planning to redo some of the rooms in our home and would like your help. I am planning to use mauve wall-to-wall carpeting. I had thought of painting the living room walls mauve, too. Is this wise? If so, what colors would you use with it? Woodwork is natural and tables are walnut. Fireplace is brick. Should carpeting be the same throughout the house?

A.—There is no rule that says carpeting throughout the house should be the same but it does have an advantage, if you move, because you will have a great deal of yardage all in one color which can be recut for different shapes of rooms. If you paint your living room walls mauve be sure it is a very faint tint. Colors that go well with mauve are the reds, pinks and blues, like cornflower tones, that have a suggestion of violet in them.

Q.—In my master bedroom there is a wide window high up along one wall. I would like to put my very long triple dresser under the window and hang a long modern picture between the dresser and the window. There is a very large mirror that goes with the dresser. It is unframed. Is it possible to put such a mirror on the wall in back of the bed? The bed has night tables on each side that are the same height as the bed. I plan to use tall lamps on the tables. Is this a very unorthodox arrangement?

A.—The arrangement you suggest is unorthodox and I would not recommend it for two reasons, particularly if you read in bed. High lamps will shine right into your eyes. As an alternate, get more usual height lamps and use elongated shades on them. These are new and good looking. An unframed mirror over the bed also seems unwise for it could present a potential danger, if by some remote chance it fell from the wall.

Q.—What color shall I paper or paint my dining room? Also the ceiling? Furniture is antiqued ivory touched with gold. Rug is Oriental with beige ground, blue and maroon flowers. Draperies are ivory. The room has old-fashioned dutch shelving with natural oak trim.

A.—Because of the oak I feel you would do best to paint the walls ivory, but you might make the ceiling light blue.

THE HOME SHIFT

Many Private Pools In Area

By MILDRED SWIFT

With summer vacation here most families with children are yearning for their own swimming pool. Many families have given up vacation trips and used the money for this project, instead. They felt no expense was too great that would furnish a wholesom recreation to keep the children at home. This pool is a lasting thing, too, adding to the value of property.

Did you know that you can buy your own equipment and get information to build your own swimming pool. And - this equipment can be purchased right here in Ouachita Parish.

If you can afford to have one built, they tell me the work only takes twelve days. Two very beautiful pools completed recently are those in the Jamar Adcock's garden, Point Drive and the Kokinos yard on Spencer.

GARDEN JOBS

Easter Lilies have done their blooming for this year so give them a top dressing of complete fertilizer such as 8-8-8. Dividing comes later after the tops have died.

The lawn could take another feeding of complete fertilizer now. Be sure to soak this down well or it will burn. I think St. Augustine grass likes nitrogen now, if you fed it with a complete fertilizer earlier in the year.

Some gardeners are complaining about a sooty material on their lawns. After consultation with county agents and insect and disease specialists, I came up with this conclusion - there's nothing to worry about. This does no harm to the grass.

Now, when you see this sooty substance on your gardenias or other evergreens, get busy and spray with malathion. Be sure to get under the leaves.

A good general rule to follow for insecticides is: use Malathion to control aphids, mealybugs, thrips, scale, white fly. DDT will also control thrips and most caterpillars. Use chlordane on roaches and ants.

A reminder: be sure to prune oleanders in time for the new growth to harden before fall frosts.

Keep water off the foliage of roses and zinnias to control black spot and mildew. No - there's nothing you can do about the rain. That's why you'll be fighting these two diseases all summer.

MORE GARDENING

It is not too late to plant tuberose, rain lilies, hosta, and lycorus. Rain lilies are blooming in my garden. Last week when we weeded these, several bulbs were pulled up, unavoidably. We just put these back in the ground and now they're blooming, too. These are the pink ones and such a gorgeous shade of pink! They multiply rapidly and will grow in most any ordinary soil.

If you grew rice paper plants last year, you'll have more than you can use this year. Pass these around to your friends. They grow beautiful, large, bold foliage and bloom in late summer. The blooms dry well.

The same is true of elephant ear and banana plants. You can transplant these if you're careful to get up some soil with the roots. This coarse foliage is needed in most of our gardens. We're prone to get too much of the same kind small leafed plants.

IT'S TRUE!

Do you create a peaceful serene environment for your children? Not just at naptime or bedtime, but all the time? We're told, by people who have studied the problem, that a child growing up in a noisy home with hurly burly, loud coming and goings and talking, will reflect this, as a grown-up. Home is meant to be cheerful, happy, and lively, but never like a three-ring circus.

You can eliminate some of the noise, and everybody will appreciate it. Study the situation a little and see if you can't get rid of dripping faucets, shrill doorbells, creaking doors, noisy refrigerators — and what about the clatter of pots and pans?

Pretty, full-skirted dresses in old fashioned cotton voile are some of the big favorites of the season. And — the hems make the dress. Some are as wide as 18 inches in these voiles.

Here's today's beauty hint: many experts say that if women would only take care of their feet as they do their faces, they would be much prettier. As they explain, when feet hurt, the discomfort shows in the face. The best exercise, they say, is to go barefoot for an hour or so each day!

MEN'S FASHIONS

Men's fashions are getting more attention and causing more discussion this spring than they have for some time. The women favor the continental look, which is a form-fitting cut designed to follow the body lines. The ivy look, you know, is casual, with soft shoulders and loose-draped coat.

One fashion expert (a woman) who voted against the ivy look, said this, defiantly, "Since men didn't want to accept the sack look for women, why should we accept the sack look for men?"

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Your Open House programs for next week are: Monday - Elizabeth McDaniel will show us outdoor cooking equipment; Tuesday - Lola Caldwell will show us how to use this equipment; Wednesday - flower arrangements with Mrs. Jardine; Thursday - a style show with our Arkansas friends; Friday - marketing with Mildred.

See you next Sunday.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Feeding Time For All Trees

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Last call for feeding trees and shrubs! Woody plants will need the time from midsummer till frost to mature their new growth. If you have some starving trees or shrubs, get them fed right away.

As we have pointed out several times in the column, you can prolong the bloom on your crape myrtles by feeding them now and then keeping them watered during th edrouth in late summer. The new branchlets which they will send out as a result of a feeding now will usually flower in late summer and autumn if there is enough water to make them develop.

If you have one of those clerodendrons called harlequin glory-bower, feed it now. The big display of white flowers and the red and blue chalices and berries in August and September cannot devleop in poor soil. This clerdendron is a ravenous feeder. We notice that people seem to cut it down to the ground every year because some of the wood frequently gets killed at the tips in cold winters. You can develop tall specimens that are like very small trees if you will just let the longest trunks go up. In a warm spot that has some winter protection this is apt to happen, anyway, when clerodendrons are not pruned back. They look much more natural as a small tree than as a rounded bush.

The powder blue vitex is another summer shrub that is very tractable. Old specimens that develop into large shrubs or small trees are attractive. They will even become large enough to provide shade if you want a small summer flowering shade tree. Like crape myrtle, vitex is grown as a large perennial in gardens of colder regions. It will bloom on the shoots that come from the roots in one season. Even here in the South, some gardeners like to cut vitex almost to the ground each year and make it bloom as a small shrub. In flower borders and on the lawn, it can be a very beautiful mass of blue in this form.

OLD GARDEN

Some time ago, your columnist visited one of the old gardens he created years ago. It was larkspur and cornflower time, and as these two flowers were beginning to wane, clouds of powder blue flowers had taken over. The soft dusty blue reminded one strongly of the gardens of blue delphiniums which our gardening friends can grow in cooler climates than ours.

We can grow only the small Chinese delphinium or the belladonna hybrids as annuals and throw them away when the heat comes. We do not need to feel so sorry for ourselves, however, if we will just plant masses of the soft blue flowers that made that old garden a truly distinctive color scheme. The flowers were nothing at all but masses of Salvia farinacea which your columnist has been pushing for thirty-five years. We still have nothing that will take the heat nor bloom all summer and fall like this native perennial.

Florida Man Makes History Into Fence

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—When Victor Rahner decided to build a fence in his back yard, he had some unusual material to work with, including a piece of coffin dating back to 1574.

The idea of a historic fence came to Rahner when work started on widening a street near his home.

Rahner, who had collected historic objects for years, joined others in hunting souvenirs uncovered when the dredge started pumping sand from the bayfront.

He found such souvenirs as pottery, broken bottles, ammunition pellets and parts of old ships.

"I collected a number of objects and friends gave me quite a few," he says. "I had planned to build a fence in the back yard for several years so I got the idea of embedding these historic objects in the fence."

To keep everything on a historic plane, Rahner hired Louis Solana to put the fence together. Solana is a descendant of the oldest documented family in the continental United States as well as a brick mason.

The fence was built primarily of brick and coquina rock, much of it used in early construction in this city. The chunks of coquina came from the old governor's palace, a fort, city library, old city gates, oldest house and other historic buildings while renovations were being made.

Bits of pottery, olive jars, rum bottles and other items were added to the fence for a colorful effect. There also are bottles of sand, ink wells, ammunition pellets, steer horns found in the bay and a piece of an old Spanish sailing vessel.

The prized item is a piece of the coffin of Pedro Menendez de Aviles, who founded this city in 1565 and died in 1574.

Pointers On Color Scheme For Exteriors

By VIVIAN BROWN

Many letters to this column ask advice about decorating the outside of a home. Typical of these is this query from Columbus, Ohio.

"My husband is going to paint our house on his vacation. It is surrounded by wooded areas, with other homes further down the road. We have a two story frame house with a garge 10 feet away. One wants to paint the bottom charcoal gray, with a pink top or imitation stone bottom and pink top, the other prefers a solid color. We have a lot of shade on both sides of the house and across the road. I thought something bright and cheerful that can be spotted and noticed coming down the road off the main highway might be nice. What is a beautiful combination for a two story home?"

The matter of exterior paint color depends to a large degree on (1) the preference of the occupants, (2) other houses in the vicinity, and (3) the location of the house.

If two people can agree on a color that does not clash with neighborhood homes, and the color is not garrish, then why not choose the color they like? There should be no rules binding them to colors that they do not like.

There are certain observations that shouldn't be overlooked in evaluating color schemes, however. A green house might not be flattering when a house is surrounded by shrubbery unless one was interested in camouflaging it. A house that is one color on top and another color on bottom might look as if it were chopped in half. A solid color house will make a house look larger. A white house will have that effect also, providing the shape is rambling.

It would be fun to have a cheerful color, and that will always appeal to women. I think yellow with white trim makes a beautiful, sunny approach to a home. If I had a home, however, that was very tiny, more on the cozy side, I would paint it white with greenish-black trim. The door could be dark barn red or black.

A pink house is a charming idea, but these require painting more often than other colors and have a tendency to fade. Ditto blue. A charcoal gray house with white trim is another possibility, and these are very chic when the house is all on one level. Colonial stye architecture comes off best when the house is in the traditional white with dark shutters (if there are shutters) and shiny brass door knockers and knobs.

Check The Garden For Mistakes Now

CHAPPAQUA, N.Y. — The first tiny tomatoes have just started to form on the window-sill started plants, but it's not a minute too soon to start thinking about fall work in the garden - and next year's annual and perennial beds.

As a matter of fact, this is a pretty good time for most of us to see what's wrong with our garden plan. We usually do pretty well with the early spring bloom and color, and acquire a good basic perennial planting through the years. But in most gardens, tended by weekend amateurs, there comes an early summer period when our gardens contain mostly green foliage. That is, unless we have bought seedlings to fill in with bloom until our own home-grown ones start producing. It takes extremely meticulous planning — which turned into action months ago — to have a riot of color in the early summer weeks.

There are, of course, the good standby flowers found in almost every garden: ageratum, cosmos, hollyhock, verbena, phlox, snapdragons, marigold and zinnia — easy to grow and undemanding as to soil.

But a great deal of the fun of gardening is finding and producing special flowers or special effects. And what they are is the gardener's own personal adventure.

This year, a parsley - loving friend of mine devoted most of her horticultural attention to establishing what she calls her "hors d'oeuvres garden" beside the stone-paved terrace behind her house. It started with a supermarket purchase of a tiny seed. The parsley now forms a low border around the slightly raised garden, behind which are such ingredients of hors d'oeuvres as chives, a number of herbs and — center of attention — cherry tomato vines climbing a trellis where the small red berries will be handy for guests to pick.

My own particular interest this season has been starting a special bed of miniature plants. Early in the season I transplanted into the border a small dogwood and a Chinese raintree seedling from a nursery bed. Then I added three miniature rose bushes, a tiny fern and then — when the ground had warmed up — put in dwarf specimens of some popular annuals. Next year I shall have some dwarf bulbs blooming and some of the tiny glads.

This, of course, isn't a true "minigarden," such as some English gardeners achieve with the help of sunken stone sinks. Mine this year is not in any kind of scale, but it's the beginning of a special gardening interest which already has led me to reading and experimenting with the old Japanese art of dwarfing trees. If it is possible in our climate, I'd like to develop a gill-size replica of a formal garden, complete with tiny hedges and fine gravel walks.

The joy of gardening lies in finding and pursuing such projects — raising the biggest dahlias or the smallest row of box. And no two seasons are ever alike.

What To Plant In The Shade

By MARY JARDINE

Many of the new home development areas are in wooded sections and recently we have had numerous inquiries about what to plant in the shade. To define shade it simplifies matters to divide it into three main categories — full, light and half.

To illustrate, full shade: (a) Perpetual shade or winter shade caused by evergreens, high wall or building facing north. (b) Shade under trees which cast a deep shadow in summer. Light shade is (a) Among deciduous trees which branch high. (b) Among deciduous trees with foliage which is not heavy. (c) In such a situation where there is practically no direct sun, but where the sun's rays filter through the leaves from time to time. (d) On the north side of a low obstruction which causes a light airy shade and where one feels the nearness of the sun or the reflection of the sun. This is re'erred to as a "Cheerful shade" (e) Where there is filtered sunshine for probably an hour or two a day. (f) The shade of distant trees or buildings. Half shade (a) Either morning or afternoon sun. (b) On the east or west side of a wall, hedge or house. NOTE! the late afternoon summer sun is very powerful in North Louisiana.

Let's start with shrubs azaleas, camellias, mahonia (Oregon holly grape) Pieris Japonica, acuba (Gold-dust plant), hydrangea. Of interest to the birds are the following Ilex crenata (Japanese Holly) and Ilex glabra (Inkberry) ligustrum, tatarica honeysuckle, shadbush, flowering dogwood with its bright foliage and berries in the fall. Suggested ground covers are English ivy, vinca, ajuga and pachysandra. Flowers for half-shade include columbine, foxglove, daylilies lilium auratum (Goldband lily) and all the true lilies, phlox paniculata, roses, tuliph clematic, hosts, wild mint, violets in masses, many species of narcissus, iris verna (dwarf iris) and iris cristata) crested ris) Scillas and for summer color the caladums. These are only samples the list is almost unlimited.

WELCOME CLUB

The Welcome Garden Club presented a delightful summer show at the Garden Center this week.

Blue ribbons in the horticulture section were awarded as follows: Mrs. M. H. Montgomery for canna, red flowering, green foliage. Mrs. O. O. Cummings for cyperus alternifolius (umbrella plant), Mrs. K. R. Young for flowering allium, and rudbeckia speciosa.

A cool and refreshing arrangement in pastel tints of green, yellow and pink was designed by Mrs. K. R. Young. The design was triangular in pattern, made in a soft yellow pillow vase set on a black scroll base. Graceful curves of padilanthus (red-bird cactus) in yellow green delineatded the triangle, for background and depth hydrangea foliage was added. The center of interest was composed of hydrangea blooms of green tinged with pink. Staged against a very pale green background this was most effective.

Mrs. O. O. Cummings also featured hydrangeas in her modern design. A large round chartreuse bowl lined with dark green was placed on two scroll bases. In this Mrs. Cummings made an open crescent design of Bells of Ireland with red violet hydrangeas as a center of interest. The effect was cool and crisp. A pale pink background was selected for this lovely arrangement.

Mrs. Cummings also made an Oriental arrangement of great charm and simplicity. For her composition she first selected a rather large black Oriental scroll base, on which she placed her arrangement and accessory. In a white rice bowl vertical design was achieved with placements of sedge grass, three white spathe shaped flowers of the caladium and small green and white caladium leaves at the base. The pinholder was covered with white stones. As an accessory, a beautiful white figurine of the Chinese Goddess of Mercy (Kwan-Yin) was placed on the base beside the arrangement. Perfect for a contemporary living room featuring Oriental decor.

Also in display at the Center were salmon and red tuberous begonias grown by Mrs. W. B. Awl and colorful daylilies from the garden of Mrs. E. C. Cobb.

Words Shift In Tune Gets Canada Okay

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP)—"Cunnel Jackson, suh, they's rewriting history up Nawth again.'

And successfully, too. Because if you think the American rebels won the 1815 battle of New Orleans, you have another think coming—the Canadians won it.

Country singer Johnny Horton dug up the all-but forgotten battle between the rebels and the British Redcoats, grabbed his guitar and warbled himself to riches by recording "The Battle of New Orleans."

The record has sold more than a million copies but when it reached Canada—a member of the British Commonwealth — well suh, the Redcoats saw red.

Canadian record distributors were swamped by mail protesting the British didn't lose the battle as Horton sings.

One of the protests came from Tom Pakenham, 52, of Vancouver, the great-grand-nephew of Colonel Pakenham, who led the British during the battle.

The letters blasted Horton for "mutilating history" by singing how the "Bloody British:"

Ran through the briars, and
They ran through the
Brambles and they ran
Through the bushes
Where a rabbit wouldn't go.

"Tain't so," say the Canadians. The British didn't lose the battle.

It was just a strategic surrender.

So Horton recorded a new version of the tune, designed to placate the angry Canadian cousins of the British Redcoats.

Now Horton sings, for Canadian consumption, how the British troops stormed up the Mississippi and routed the "Blooming rebels," instead of the other way around.

The record went on sale here this week. Already it appears to be a big hit—in Canada.

Well, let's dig up those muskets, men.

Anyone for a nice, safe French-Indian war?

Father Asked To Suggest Home Ideas

This year, there'll be some changes made.

Three years ago, a group of business men announced plans for a confab between the United States housewife and one of the giants of American industry, home building. The session was called the Women's Housing Congress. The ladies were asked by manufacturers, contractors and home builders to give their ideas on the way houses should be designed, built, operated and serviced.

Pop was asked to do nothing but stay at home and mind the kids while his spouse went to Washington to sound off like a Congressman during an election campaign. The hosts and guests at the Women's Housing Congress agreed everything was fine. Delgates passed out ideas by the carload. The industry soaked up the suggestions, promised new houses, new products — and more Women's Housing Congresses.

For three years, Pop read how Mom and the housing people were planning to let him live. Many of the women's suggestions were put into effect. Plans for houses built in line with the desires of the Women's Housing Congress were drawn up and sold.

It appeared that the ladies would continue indefinitely to dictate how houses should be built and what should go into them. But somebody suddenly discovered that it might be a good idea to cater to the tastes of the man of the house. And so, this year, for the first time, Pop has been invited to attend.

The men will not be at the annual parley in Washington merely as a husbands' auxilliary. They will be there on equal status. In fact, this year, the whole thing—to be held September 15-17 — will be known as the Family Conference on Housing instead of the Women's Housing Congress.

Husbands and wives from approximately 50 cities throughout the United States will be sent to the capital by the local chapters of the National Assn. of Home Builders. In Washington they will be the guests of a dozen or more industry organizations who originally formed the Women's Housing Congress, Inc., to sponsor the earlier meetings.

Head Of House Honored Today

By AUDREY DAWSON

Today is Father's Day — and we all agree that Father is a great guy. Have you told him so? If not, I know you will before the day is over, and I am sure many, many of you have planned surprises all just for Dad.

GARDENING

Summer is the best time to make plans for shade trees. Check where you need shade most in the morning, noon and afternoon ----near the house, driveway and play area. The next thing you should do is study trees as a form, size, rate of growth so as to know which will fit best into your landscape. One of the best seasons to plant your trees is in the fall . . . but it is best to make your plans now as the summer season is the time you want shade in certain areas. So study your areas now and mark them for fall planting. Be sure to do this if you have just built a new home and cannot put yours trees out until fall.

DAIRY MONTH

One of the nutrients most often lacking in Louisiana families' diet is calcium. The best source of calcium in our food supply is milk. Milk would be an important food if it offered no more than the mineral calcium which is needed all life long for healthy bones. Along with calcium, milk contains about 100 nutrients ---- minerals, vitamins, sugar, protein elements -- which altogether make milk a very special food bargain.

Drinking milk is the simplest ways to get the good from milk, but there are many opportunities in cooking to get part of the milk needed daily.

Louisiana families need to drink more milk. Each adult should drink 2 to 3 glasses of milk daily --- teenagers should drink 4 or more glasses -- children under the teen years should drink 3 to 4 glasses.

WE'RE DOING FINE

I read an interesting fact a day or so ago that I want to share with you. We hear a lot of complaints about how bad things are today, but the release from the tax foundation showed that the typical American works 2 hours and 29 minutes out of each 8 hours to pay his taxes --- only 1 hour and 39 minutes to buy his food ----- 1 hour and 25 minutes to pay his mortgage or rent --- 42 minutes for transportation ---- 37 minutes for clothing -- 24 minutes for medical care --- 20 minutes for recreation --- 24 minutes for other purposes. Considering that, a vast majority of the people around the world spend practically all their working hours merely to find enough food to stay alive. We Americans are doing pretty well, don't you agree?

INTERESTING NOTE

Out of 654 people asked, "Which would you choose if money were available for only one project?" 54 per cent chose a new program for medical research, 32 per cent new approaches to juvenile delinquency, 7 per cent basic research in sciences like chemistry and physics and only 3 per cent voted for putting the first man on the moon

A THOUGHT

Touring Royalty Visits U.S. Base In Newfoundland

SCHEFFERVILLE, Que. (UPI) —Britain's touring Queen Elizabeth II Saturday dropped in on a U. S. air base in Newfoundland and then flew on to the povince of Quebec to visit a iron mine.

The Queen, accompanied by her husband, Prince Philip, started her busy itinerary with a flight from Deer Lake, Nfld., to Ernest Harmon Air Force Base, where she saw a key segment of the continental air defense setup.

The couple arrived in North America Thursday for a 45 - day, 15,000-mile, 100-city tour of Canada. Their only stop in the United States will be a one-day pause July 6 at the end of a cruise through the St. Lawrence Seaway aboard the royal Yacht Brittainia.

A Royal Canadian Air Force plane carried the couple to Harmon Air Force Base, which was obtained by the United States during World War II under the lend-lease agreement.

They spent 20 minutes inspecting long lines of jet fighter planes standing prepared to take off at a moment's notice on orders from the U. S. Strategic Air Command headquarters at Omaha, Neb.

After exchanging pleasantries with American officers at the base Elizabeth and Philip went a short distance to visit Canada's tiny transport department airport at Stephenville. They also toured Stephenville.

Calls For Strict Control Of Eggs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Erwin Bernstein of Freehold, N. J., warned Congress Friday that unless government production controls are imposed on eggs, a few companies will ultimately monopolize the business and control consumer prices.

The poultry producer issued a statement supplementing his testimony Thursday before a House Agriculture subcommittee considering legislation to combat the slump that has engulfed the chicken and egg industry.

Further Drop In Price Of Pork Is Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The retail price of pork is expected to drop further this fall.

The drop will come when the spring pig crop, up 12 per cent from a year ago, begins to hit the market in August. The Agricultural Department reported Friday the spring pig crop totalled 58,494,000 head. This crop, combined with the anticipated fall crop of 46 million head, will make a total of 104,200,000 head for the year.

The year's total will be 10 per cent above 1958 and 16 per cent more than the 1948-57 average. A department spokesman said the current hog slaughter is up from 1958 and prices paid to hog farmers are down $5 to $6 per 100 pounds from last year.

When the big 1959 spring pig crop starts to the slaughterhouses in August, prices are expected to be pushed down even more. In turn, retail prices will come down.

A Tea Dance Is Held Honoring Janis Powell

Miss Janis Powell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Powell, was honoree on Sunday afternoon for a Tea Dance in the Green Room of the Penn Hotel. Hostesses for this delightful affair were Misses Brenda Crow, Peggy Marx and Janet Vanderpool.

In the receiving line with the girls were Mr. and Mrs. Lee Vanderpool, Dr. and Mrs. Fred Marx, Mr. and Mrs. Klien Crow and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Powell.

Janis was wearing a pink embroidered organdy and a split pink carnation corsage. Brenda's blue polished cotton dress had lace insets. Her corsage was of white carnations. Peggy wore a lace trimmed yellow polished cotton with a white carnation corsage, while Janet's white nylon had a green grosgrain sash. Her corsage was of white carnations.

The party table held a pink net cloth over pink taffeta in the center of which was a crystal bowl of pink carnations, this was flanked by matching crystal candleholders of pink candles. Pink fruit punch and a variety of cookies were served.

The Guest Book was "Autograph Hound" which all guests signed. Janis was presented with a Scrap Book and a silver engraved "Map of Louisiana" charm for her bracelet by her hostesses.

Guests present were Kathy Martin, Lynn Haddad, Lela Rowan, Carrie Brown, Lynn Allen, Kathryn Bird, Arah La Grange, Kay Adams, Susan Johns, Sandra Marshall, Susan McClary, Brenda Carso, Camile Carso, Jo Anne Patterson, Elaine Hanna, Alice Smith, Kathy Stadler, Pam Burgess, Julia Hoodemaker, Nancy Gilliland, Merrie Jo Simonton, Mary Alice Pankey, Al McDuff, Buzz Redding, Charles Williams, Robert McSherry, Bob Rowan, Mike Williams, Branton Kellogg, Ken Brazzel, Randy Harding, Eddie Morrison, Kent Dean, Dee Strickland, Mike Strausser, Robbie Clay, Jay Harris, Jay Marx, David Fragala, Larry Mullens, Johnny Clay, Steve Hanson, Larry White, Don Gordon Hesdorffer, Joe Terrell, Jeff Turpin, Dick Pope, Lane Allen, Fredick Amman, Jerry Album, John Salisbury and Lee Albright.

Girl Scout News

First Class Rank is indeed a milestone which a girl deserves much credit for reaching. Not many achieve this coveted position, largely because they don't have continuous leadership. After five years of Scouting under the leadership of Mrs. Edmund Middleton, three girls of Troop 24, Mickie Varnado, Barbara Suomi, and Becky Middleton, were awarded the rank at a recent court-of-awards at the home of their leader. The program consisted of singing, reciting the Promise and Laws, and talks by the three girls on what Scouting had meant to them, their future plans, and how Scouting helps in the community. In addition to First Class Rank, Miss Middleton presented the following badges earned by the girls: Musician, Reader, Dabbler, Hospitality, Insect, to Barbara; Cat and Dog, Child Care, Hospitality, Homemaker, Housekeeper to Mickie; Insect, Child Care, Hospitality, Homemaker, Housekeeper, to Becky.

These badges, together with others earned during the past years show that the girls have majored in the Homemaking Field, also earning a number of badges in the out of doors. The girls are veterans of day camping, looking forward to a real pioneer experience for their fifth year.

We are always glad to hear of inter - troop activities that promote friendship among girls. A recent example was the skating party planned by the Brownies of Troop 85, Mitchell School. The girls invited the three other troops at the school, 9, 12, 37 whose leaders are Mrs. Cleo Martin, Mrs. G. P. Jordan, and Mrs. Morris Chambless. According to all reports, the girls had a wonderful.

Troop 9 held its fly-up ceremony at Bernstein Park, where they used one of the little bridges to mark the passage from Brownie to Intermediate Scouting. Mrs. Martin pinned Girl Scout pins on the following: Charlotte Fleming, Helena Horne, Patricia Johnson, Charolette Martin, Belinda Mathis, Kathleen McCoy, Rita Wood, Rita Creech, Ann Works, Brenda Yates. A picnic supper followed, with the families taking part. It is interesting to learn that every girl in the troop is registered for day camp.

Training for day camp staff continues with a session at the office Tuesday at 9:00 a.m. and one at Pine Wood Thursday from 9:30 until 2:00. Deadline for completing registration for the first session of day camp, July 6-17, was Friday. We hope everybody who really wants to go to camp qualified by that time.

The Mon Amie Newcomers' Club Meets

The Paragon Club was the scene of the June meeting of the Mon Amie Newcomers Club. Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Victor Marsh, Mrs. C. S. Edgar, and Mrs. Ed Daigle.

The dining area was beautifully decorated with blue hydrangeas and daises. Seated were guests Mesdames Hollis Lonsberry, B. H. Brown, R. D. Weilder, Coleman Rowland, Jerry Gregg, Bruce Gregg and Miss Helen Cook.

And members Mesdames Fred Baker, Phil Beggs, Mel Cook, E. L. Carter, G. L. Gladney, Robert Mohr, W. S. Nash, Chas W. Overton, Roger Reynolds, C. Douglas Smith, John Summerfield, Robert Whitelaw, C. During the business session it was voted that the new officers taking office would serve only six months. Mrs. Mel Cook, President, Mrs. Robert Mohr, Vice-President, Mrs. John Summerfield, Secretary, Mrs. Chas W. Overton, membership, Mrs. W. S. Nash, Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. G. L. Gladney Historian and Mrs. M. P. Marshman, Treasurer.

The door prize was won by Mrs. R. D. Wilder.

After lunch the guests and members adjourned to tables of bridge and canasta. High bridge prize was won by Mrs. Brue F. Gregg and low prize went to Mrs. John Summerfield. Canasta prize went to Mrs. B. H. Brown.

Jaycee Janes Hold Country Club Meeting

The West Monroe Jaycee Jaynes had their monthly night dinner meeting at the Highland Park Country Club with the president elect, Nina Albright, presiding. After the opening prayer, the outgoing president Evelyn Lolley was presented a gold bracelet with the inscription "For being our president 1958-1959". Peggy Downey was also given a voice of recognition for her outstanding work for the year.

The program consisted of making plans for the installation banquet and dance of the incoming 1959-60 officers of the West Monroe Jaycees and the Jaycee Jaynes, June 23rd. Those Jaynes attending the dinner meeting and fellowship were Mesdames Charles Albright, F. A. Brown, James Dana, Bill Downey, Wayne Frank, Lawrence Guidry, John Lolley, Dan Pickens, Lester Shivers, Claude Smith and guest Aline Lonsberry.

New Officers Installed By Catholic Club

The monthly meeting of the Catholic Newcomers Club was held on Wednesday, June 17th at the Rendezous. At this meeting the club's new officers were installed as follows: Mrs. J. D Stephens, Pres., Mrs. Allen Brinkhaus, Vice Pres., Mrs. O. H. Jarnagin, Sec., Mrs. M. W. Blaes Treas. The members enjoyed a short talk was given by the guest speaker, Father Roy De Caigny of St. Matthews. The new members introduced at this meeting were Mrs. W. L. Licht, Mrs. George Colletti, Mrs. Donald Green, Mrs. Jean Yasko. After the business meeting the members enjoyed games of Canasta and Bridge thru the afternoon.

Bennette, Mrs. David Smith, Mrs. C. B. McMahan, Mrs. C. C. Page, Mrs. J. D. Stephens, Mrs. Audrey Cerise, Mrs. M. W. Blaes, Mrs. M. R. Decunha, Mrs. M. B. Rivas.

June's the season for parties. When you're entertaining and want to serve green beans as the vegetable, buy the handsome asparagus style pack. These are cut the length of the can and carefully packed so that they come from the can whole and straight. Heated in their own liquid, they make an attractive addition to any party luncheon menu. To avoid breaking the beans in cooking, it's a good idea to warm them in a skillet. Lift them onto serving plates with tongs or a slotted spatula. Serve the beans with hollandaise sauce topped with a little finely chopped fresh parsley or chives, or with commercial sour cream, lemon butter or your favorite cheese

VACATION SPECIAL. A suit that will travel and wear like a gentleman, and which can be washed and drip-dried overnight, is this Mr. Jeeves dacron and orlon fully tailored model that looks like fine worsted and feels like a light shirt.

Most Vacationing Hubbies Look Like Handy-Men

The great exodus has begun and thousands of vacationists are flocking to all parts of the nation and the globe Travel experts see a boom year, bright with record numbers of tourists.

But a leading men's clothing manufacturer sees it as a nightmarish parade of millions of American males putting their worst foot forward.

For some unaccountable reason the domestic male tends to dress at his worst when he leaves home. He drags out his oldest clothes in the mistaken thought that he is thus insuring comfort and economy. He emerges from trains and planes and cars rumpled, creased, dusty and drab.

He dresses for traveling the way he does for fishing in the Canadian North Woods. He stands in terminals and airports in badly fitting, outmoded jackets pulled further out of shape by cameras slung over the shoulder, in slacks that hang too long over his shoes. He creates a bewildering contradiction as a representative of the richest country in the world.

And American women, who travel in the company of these lads who look more like their handy-men than their husbands, must bear a share of the blame.

Today's husbands are either too busy or too removed from fashion to be as smart as they need to be about their apparel. They increasingly depend on the little woman for help and ideas ... and when it comes to helping her man travel comfortably and smartly, mama has goofed!

To enable her man to travel in comfort and still not look like a 'local yokel,' here are some special travel ideas. Travel in a suit . . . you'll be just as comfortable and look and feel far better than in a sports outfit. Try a feather-weight dacron and worsted that won't crease, a light-weight, drip-dry, cotton shirt with a special vanishing neckband for comfort and wear it with a clip bow tie. If there are dressy occasions ahead short of black tie a mohair and worsted suit will make a man as elegant as a duke and still give him a suit that is famous for its tough resistance to wrinkling and wear.

If there's a lot of hot weather and fast travel, a fully tailored, wash-and-wear suit can perform wonders of comfort and provide good loooks. It can be washed completely in a hotel sink basin, hung up wet and emerge the next day fully pressed and completely fresh. They are light and comfortable, too, and the jacket serves extra duty as a sport jacket. Wash-and-wear fabrics in sheer summer weaves and special hot-weather styles also are available in shirts, underwear and pajamas to keep a man comfortable, smart and traveling light.

An important preparation for any vacation is dressing up father - so he can both look and feel like the 'head man' of the expedition.

Members Of Hancock Family Hold Reunion

Bernstein Park, was the setting Sunday, June 14, for the reunion of 48 members of the Hancock family, descendents of J. Alexander Hancock and Wilhelmina Jackson Hancock, who settled in Amite County, Mississippi, near Gloster, in 1896.

A pleasant period of fellowship was enjoyed and at noon a picnic lunch was served, arrangements being made by Mrs. Frank Ford. A business session followed with Mr. R. V. Hancock, Arcadia, being elected president of the group, and Mrs. Keith Cobb, West Monroe, secretary. The family reunion in 1960 will be held on the second Sunday in June at Bernstein Park.

Those attending the happy occasion included: Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Hancock; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hancock and Ronald; Butch McCall; Tallulah. Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Hancock, Arcadia. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hancock, Clear Water, Florida. Mr. and Mrs. Coy Bennett, Kay, Ann, Don Gibsland. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hancock, Shreveport. Mrs. Lizzie Huff, Gloster, Miss.; Mrs. Leona Miller, Mr. Lee Miller and Nona, Darrell, Mrs. Ora Moreland and David; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Greer and Jeffrey; Mr. and Mrs. Keith Cobb, Rebecca and Jimmy; West Monroe, Mrs. Verrel Sullivan, Jean, Julius, and Maria Ruth, Mrs. Erna Lee Hare, Patricia and Virgel, Forest, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Hancock, Sr., McComb, Miss.; Mrs. Frank Ford, Frank, Jr., Arthur, and Sally, Monroe, Miss Betty Mae Hancock, Baton Rouge, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mangum, Linda, and Alletha Mae, Vicksburg, Miss. Guests included Miss Sue Broughton, Hico, and Bobby Richards, Baton Rouge.

Y-Teens Hold Conference On Gulf Coast

Returning from eight days of fun and enjoyment at the mid-south Y-Teen Conference on the Gulf Coast in Mississippi were girls representing Neville, Ouachita and West Monroe High Schools. They were Ann Hays, Kathy Williams, Diann Laird, Anne Hobgood, Sylvia Pritcher, Joy Oglesbu, Judy Lane, counselor; Sharon Crew, Linda Wood, Gay Demmary, counselor; Chlee Smith, Miss Bess Sharp, sponsor and Reverend Carney Burcham.

Mrs. Bonnette Hostess For Okaloosa HDC

The Okaloosa Home Demonstration Club held its regular meeting in the home of Mrs. Dora Bonnette Tuesday at 1:30, with Mrs. C. K. Brooks, president presiding.

A short business session was held. The July meeting will be in the home of Mrs. C. P. Holloway. Mrs. N. L. Coon gave the Council report. Mrs. Samuel Crowell acting vice - president had charge of the program and leader reports were given as follows:

Citizenship and civil defense — Mrs. C. K. Brooks.

THE HOME SHIFT

Many Private Pools In Area

By MILDRED SWIFT

With summer vacation here most families with children are yearning for their own swimming pool. Many families have given up vacation trips and used the money for this project, instead. They felt no expense was too great that would furnish a wholesom recreation to keep the children at home. This pool is a lasting thing, too, adding to the value of property.

Did you know that you can buy your own equipment and get information to build your own swimming pool. And - this equipment can be purchased right here in Ouachita Parish.

If you can afford to have one built, they tell me the work only takes twelve days. Two very beautiful pools completed recently are those in the Jamar Adcock's garden, Point Drive and the Kokinos yard on Spencer.

GARDEN JOBS

Easter Lilies have done their blooming for this year so give them a top dressing of complete fertilizer such as 8-8-8. Dividing comes later after the tops have died.

The lawn could take another feeding of complete fertilizer now. Be sure to soak this down well or it will burn. I think St. Augustine grass likes nitrogen now, if you fed it with a complete fertilizer earlier in the year.

Some gardeners are complaining about a sooty material on their lawns. After consultation with county agents and insect and disease specialists, I came up with this conclusion - there's nothing to worry about. This does no harm to the grass.

Now, when you see this sooty substance on your gardenias or other evergreens, get busy and spray with malathion. Be sure to get under the leaves.

A good general rule to follow for insecticides is: use Malathion to control aphids, mealybugs, thrips, scale, white fly. DDT will also control thrips and most caterpillars. Use chlordane on roaches and ants.

A reminder: be sure to prune oleanders in time for the new growth to harden before fall frosts.

Keep water off the foliage of roses and zinnias to control black spot and mildew. No - there's nothing you can do about the rain. That's why you'll be fighting these two diseases all summer.

MORE GARDENING

It is not too late to plant tuberose, rain lilies, hosta, and lycorus. Rain lilies are blooming in my garden. Last week when we weeded these, several bulbs were pulled up, unavoidably. We just put these back in the ground and now they're blooming, too. These are the pink ones and such a gorgeous shade of pink! They multiply rapidly and will grow in most any ordinary soil.

If you grew rice paper plants last year, you'll have more than you can use this year. Pass these around to your friends. They grow beautiful, large, bold foliage and bloom in late summer. The blooms dry well.

The same is true of elephant ear and banana plants. You can transplant these if you're careful to get up some soil with the roots. This coarse foliage is needed in most of our gardens. We're prone to get too much of the same kind small leafed plants.

IT'S TRUE!

Do you create a peaceful serene environment for your children? Not just at naptime or bedtime, but all the time? We're told, by people who have studied the problem, that a child growing up in a noisy home with hurly burly, loud coming and goings and talking, will reflect this, as a grown-up. Home is meant to be cheerful, happy, and lively, but never like a three-ring circus.

You can eliminate some of the noise, and everybody will appreciate it. Study the situation a little and see if you can't get rid of dripping faucets, shrill doorbells, creaking doors, noisy refrigerators — and what about the clatter of pots and pans?

Pretty, full-skirted dresses in old fashioned cotton voile are some of the big favorites of the season. And — the hems make the dress. Some are as wide as 18 inches in these voiles.

Here's today's beauty hint: many experts say that if women would only take care of their feet as they do their faces, they would be much prettier. As they explain, when feet hurt, the discomfort shows in the face. The best exercise, they say, is to go barefoot for an hour or so each day!

MEN'S FASHIONS

Men's fashions are getting more attention and causing more discussion this spring than they have for some time. The women favor the continental look, which is a form-fitting cut designed to follow the body lines. The ivy look, you know, is casual, with soft shoulders and loose-draped coat.

One fashion expert (a woman) who voted against the ivy look, said this, defiantly, "Since men didn't want to accept the sack look for women, why should we accept the sack look for men?"

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Feeding Time For All Trees

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Last call for feeding trees and shrubs! Woody plants will need the time from midsummer till frost to mature their new growth. If you have some starving trees or shrubs, get them fed right away.

As we have pointed out several times in the column, you can prolong the bloom on your crape myrtles by feeding them now and then keeping them watered during th edrouth in late summer. The new branchlets which they will send out as a result of a feeding now will usually flower in late summer and autumn if there is enough water to make them develop.

If you have one of those clerodendrons called harlequin glory-bower, feed it now. The big display of white flowers and the red and blue chalices and berries in August and September cannot devleop in poor soil. This clerdendron is a ravenous feeder. We notice that people seem to cut it down to the ground every year because some of the wood frequently gets killed at the tips in cold winters. You can develop tall specimens that are like very small trees if you will just let the longest trunks go up. In a warm spot that has some winter protection this is apt to happen, anyway, when clerodendrons are not pruned back. They look much more natural as a small tree than as a rounded bush.

The powder blue vitex is another summer shrub that is very tractable. Old specimens that develop into large shrubs or small trees are attractive. They will even become large enough to provide shade if you want a small summer flowering shade tree. Like crape myrtle, vitex is grown as a large perennial in gardens of colder regions. It will bloom on the shoots that come from the roots in one season. Even here in the South, some gardeners like to cut vitex almost to the ground each year and make it bloom as a small shrub. In flower borders and on the lawn, it can be a very beautiful mass of blue in this form.

OLD GARDEN

Some time ago, your columnist visited one of the old gardens he created years ago. It was larkspur and cornflower time, and as these two flowers were beginning to wane, clouds of powder blue flowers had taken over. The soft dusty blue reminded one strongly of the gardens of blue delphiniums which our gardening friends can grow in cooler climates than ours.

We can grow only the small Chinese delphinium or the belldonna hybrids as annuals and throw them away when the heat comes. We do not need to feel so sorry for ourselves, however, if we will just plant masses of the soft blue flowers that made that old garden a truly distinctive color scheme. The flowers were nothing at all but masses of Salvia farinacea which your columnist has been pushing for thirty-five years. We still have nothing that will take the heat nor bloom all summer and fall like this native perennial.

Florida Man Makes History Into Fence

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)— When Victor Rahner decided to build a fence in his back yard, he had some unusual material to work with, including a piece of coffin dating back to 1574.

The idea of a historic fence came to Rahner when work started on widening a street near his home.

Rahner, who had collected historic objects for years, joined others in hunting souvenirs uncovered when the dredge started pumping sand from the bayfront.

He found such souvenirs as pottery, broken bottles, ammunition pellets and parts of old ships.

"I collected a number of objects and friends gave me quite a few," he says. "I had planned to build a fence in the back yard for several years so I got the idea of embedding these historic objects in the fence."

To keep everything on a historic plane, Rahner hired Louis Solana to put the fence together. Solana is a descendant of the oldest documented family in the continental United States as well as a brick mason.

The fence was built primarily of brick and coquina rock, much of it used in early construction in this city. The chunks of coquina came from the old governor's palace, a fort, city library, old city gates, oldest house and other historic buildings while renovations were being made.

Bits of pottery, olive jars, rum bottles and other items were added to the fence for a colorful effect. There also are bottles of sand, ink wells, ammunition pellets, steer horns found in the bay and a piece of an old Spanish sailing vessel.

The prized item is a piece of the coffin of Pedro Menendez de Aviles, who founded this city in 1565 and died in 1574.

Pointers On Color Scheme For Exteriors

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Many letters to this column ask advice about decorating the outside of a home. Typical of these is this query from Columbus, Ohio.

"My husband is going to paint our house on his vacation. It is surrounded by wooded areas, with other homes further down the road. We have a two story frame house with a garge 10 feet away. One wants to paint the bottom charcoal gray, with a pink top or imitation stone bottom and pink top, the other prefers a solid color. We have a lot of shade on both sides of the house and across the road. I thought something bright and cheerful that can be spotted and noticed coming down the road off the main highway might be nice. What is a beautiful combination for a two story home?"

The matter of exterior paint color depends to a large degree on (1) the preference of the occupants, (2) other houses in the vicinity, and (3) the location of the house.

If two people can agree on a color that does not clash with neighborhood homes, and the color is not garrish, then why not choose the color they like? There should be no rules binding them to colors that they do not like.

There are certain observations that shouldn't be overlooked in evaluating color schemes, however. A green house might not be flattering when a house is surrounded by shrubbery unless one was interested in camouflaging it. A house that is one color on top and another color on bottom might look as if it were chopped in half. A solid color house will make a house look larger. A white house will have that effect also, providing the shape is rambling.

It would be fun to have a cheerful color, and that will always appeal to women. I think yellow with white trim makes a beautiful, sunny approach to a home. If I had a home, however, that was very tiny, more on the cozy side, I would paint it white with greenish-black trim. The door could be dark barn red or black.

A pink house is a charming idea, but these require painting more often than other colors and have a tendency to fade. Ditto blue. A charcoal gray house with white trim is another possibility, and these are very chic when the house is all on one level. Colonial stye architecture comes off best when the house is in the traditional white with dark shutters (if there are shutters) and shiny brass door knockers and knobs.

Check The Garden For Mistakes Now

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

CHAPPAQUA, N.Y. — The first tiny tomatoes have just started to form on the window-sill started plants, but it's not a minute too soon to start thinking about fall work in the garden - and next year's annual and perennial beds.

As a matter of fact, this is a pretty good time for most of us to see what's wrong with our garden plan. We usually do pretty well with the early spring bloom and color, and acquire a good basic perennial planting through the years. But in most gardens, tended by weekend amateurs, there comes an early summer period when our gardens contain mostly green foliage. That is, unless we have bought seedlings to fill in with bloom until our own home-grown ones start producing. It takes extremely meticulous planning — which turned into action months ago — to have a riot of color in the early summer weeks.

There are, of course, the good standby flowers found in almost every garden: ageratum, cosmos, hollyhock, verbena, phlox, snapdragons, marigold and zinnia — easy to grow and undemanding as to soil.

But a great deal of the fun of gardening is finding and producing special flowers or special effects. And what they are is the gardener's own personal adventure.

This year, a parsley - loving friend of mine devoted most of her horticultural attention to establishing what she calls her "hors d'oeuvres garden" beside the stone-paved terrace behind her house. It started with a supermarket purchase of a tiny seed. The parsley now forms a low border around the slightly raised garden, behind which are such ingredients of hors d'oeuvres as chives, a number of herbs and — center of attention — cherry tomato vines climbing a trellis where the small red berries will be handy for guests to pick.

My own particular interest this season has been starting a special bed of miniature plants. Early in the season I transplanted into the border a small dogwood and a Chinese raintree seedling from a nursery bed. Then I added three miniature rose bushes, a tiny fern and then — when the ground had warmed up — put in dwarf specimens of some popular annuals. Next year I shall have some dwarf bulbs blooming and some of the tiny glads.

This, of course, isn't a true "minigarden," such as some English gardeners achieve with the help of sunken stone sinks. Mine this year is not in any kind of scale, but it's the beginning of a special gardening interest which already has led me to reading and experimenting with the old Japanese art of dwarfing trees. If it is possible in our climate, I'd like to develop a gill-size replica of a formal garden, complete with tiny hedges and fine gravel walks.

The joy of gardening lies in finding and pursuing such projects — raising the biggest dahlias or the smallest row of box. And no two seasons are ever alike.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

What To Plant In The Shade

By MARY JARDINE

Many of the new home development areas are in wooded sections and recently we have had numerous inquiries about what to plant in the shade. To define shade it simplifies matters to divide it into three main categories — full, light and half.

To illustrate, full shade: (a) Perpetual shade or winter shade caused by evergreens, high wall or building facing north. (b) Shade under trees which cast a deep shadow in summer. Light shade is (a) Among deciduous trees which branch high. (b) Among deciduous trees with foliage which is not heavy. (c) In such a situation where there is practically no direct sun, but where the sun's rays filter through the leaves from time to time. (d) On the north side of a low obstruction which causes a light airy shade and where one feels the nearness of the sun or the reflection of the sun. This is referred to as a "Cheerful shade" (e) Where there is filtered sunshine for probably an hour or two a day. (f) The shade of distant trees or buildings. Half shade (a) Either morning or afternoon sun. (b) On the east or west side of a wall, hedge or house. NOTE! the late afternoon summer sun is very powerful in North Louisiana.

Let's start with shrubs azaleas, camellias, mahonia (Oregon holly grape) Pieris Japonica, acuba (Gold-dust plant), hydrangea. Of interest to the birds are the following Ilex crenata (Japanese Holly) and Ilex glabra (Inkberry) ligustrum, tatarica honeysuckle, shadbush, flowering dogwood with its bright foliage and berries in the fall. Suggested ground covers are English ivy, vinca, ajuga and pachysandra. Flowers for half-shade include columbine, foxglove, daylilies lilium auratum (Goldband lily) and all the true lilies, phlox paniculata, roses, tuliph clematic, hosts, wild mint, violets in masses, many species of narcissus, iris verna (dwarf iris) and iris cristata) crested ris) Scillas and for summer color the caladums. These are only samples the list is almost unlimited.

WELCOME CLUB

The Welcome Garden Club presented a delightful summer show at the Garden Center this week.

Blue ribbons in the horticulture section were awarded as follows: Mrs. M. H. Montgomery for canna, red flowering, green foliage. Mrs. O. O. Cummings for cyperus alternifolius (umbrella plant), Mrs. K. R. Young for flowering allium, and rudbeckia speciosa.

A cool and refreshing arrangement in pastel tints of green, yellow and pink was designed by Mrs. K. R. Young. The design was triangular in pattern, made in a soft yellow pillow vase set on a black scroll base. Graceful curves of padilanthus (red-bird cactus) in yellow green delineated the triangle, for background and depth hydrangea foliage was added. The center of interest was composed of hydrangea blooms of green tinged with pink. Staged against a very pale green background this was most effective.

Mrs. O. O. Cummings also featured hydrangeas in her modern design. A large round chartreuse bowl lined with dark green was placed on two scroll bases. In this Mrs. Cummings made an open crescent design of Bells of Ireland with red violet hydrangeas as a center of interest. The effect was cool and crisp. A pale pink background was selected for this lovely arrangement.

Mrs. Cummings also made an Oriental arrangement of great charm and simplicity. For her composition she first selected a rather large black Oriental scroll base, on which she placed her arrangement and accessory. In a white rice bowl vertical design was achieved with placements of sedge grass, three white spathe shaped flowers of the caladium and small green and white caladium leaves at the base. The pinholder was covered with white stones. As an accessory, a beautiful white figurine of the Chinese Goddess of Mercy (Kwan-Yin) was placed on the base beside the arrangement. Perfect for a contemporary living room featuring Oriental decor.

Also in display at the Center were salmon and red tuberous begonias grown by Mrs. W. B. Awl and colorful daylilies from the garden of Mrs. E. C. Cobb.

Words Shift In Tune Gets Canada Okay

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP)— "Cunnel Jackson, suh, they's rewriting history up Nawth again.'

And successfully, too. Because if you think the American rebels won the 1815 battle of New Orleans, you have another think coming—the Canadians won it.

Country singer Johnny Horton dug up the all-but forgotten battle between the rebels and the British Redcoats, grabbed his guitar and warbled himself to riches by recording "The Battle of New Orleans."

The record has sold more than a million copies but when it reached Canada—a member of the British Commonwealth — well suh, the Redcoats saw red.

Canadian record distributors were swamped by mail protesting the British didn't lose the battle as Horton sings.

One of the protests came from Tom Pakenham, 52, of Vancouver, the great-grand-nephew of Colonel Pakenham, who led the British during the battle.

The letters blasted Horton for "mutilating history" by singing how the "Bloody British:"

Ran through the briars, and
They ran through the
Brambles and they ran
Through the bushes
Where a rabbit wouldn't go.

"Tain't so," say the Canadians. The British didn't lose the battle.

It was just a strategic surrender.

So Horton recorded a new version of the tune, designed to placate the angry Canadian cousins of the British Redcoats.

Now Horton sings, for Canadian consumption, how the British troops stormed up the Mississippi and routed the "Blooming rebels," instead of the other way around.

The record went on sale here this week. Already it appears to be a big hit—in Canada.

Well, let's dig up those muskets, men.

Anyone for a nice, safe French-Indian war?

Father Asked To Suggest Home Ideas

This year, there'll be some changes made.

Three years ago, a group of business men announced plans for a confab between the United States housewife and one of the giants of American industry, home building. The session was called the Women's Housing Congress. The ladies were asked by manufacturers, contractors and home builders to give their ideas on the way houses should be designed, built, operated and serviced.

Pop was asked to do nothing but stay at home and mind the kids while his spouse went to Washington to sound off like a Congressman during an election campaign. The hosts and guests at the Women's Housing Congress agreed everything was fine. Delgates passed out ideas by the carload. The industry soaked up the suggestions, promised new houses, new products — and more Women's Housing Congresses.

For three years, Pop read how Mom and the housing people were planning to let him live. Many of the women's suggestions were put into effect. Plans for houses built in line with the desires of the Women's Housing Congress were drawn up and sold.

It appeared that the ladies would continue indefinitely to dictate how houses should be built and what should go into them. But somebody suddenly discovered that it might be a good idea to cater to the tastes of the man of the house. And so, this year, for the first time, Pop has been invited to attend.

The men will not be at the annual parley in Washington merely as a husbands' auxilliary. They will be there on equal status. In fact, this year, the whole thing— to be held September 15-17 — will be known as the Family Conference on Housing instead of the Women's Housing Congress.

Husbands and wives from approximately 50 cities throughout the United States will be sent to the capital by the local chapters of the National Assn. of Home Builders. In Washington they will be the guests of a dozen or more industry organizations who originally formed the Women's Housing Congress, Inc., to sponsor the earlier meetings.

Head Of House Honored Today

By AUDREY DAWSON

Today is Father's Day — and we all agree that Father is a great guy. Have you told him so? If not, I know you will before the day is over, and I am sure many, many of you have planned surprises all just for Dad.

GARDENING

Summer is the best time to make plans for shade trees. Check where you need shade most in the morning, noon and afternoon ----near the house, driveway and play area. The next thing you should do is study trees as a form, size, rate of growth so as to know which will fit best into your landscape. One of the best seasons to plant your trees is in the fall . . . but it is best to make your plans now as the summer season is the time you want shade in certain areas. So study your areas now and mark them for fall planting. Be sure to do this if you have just built a new home and cannot put yours trees out until fall.

DAIRY MONTH

One of the nutrients most often lacking in Louisiana families' diet is calcium. The best source of calcium in our food supply is milk. Milk would be an important food if it offered no more than the mineral calcium which is needed all life long for healthy bones. Along with calcium, milk contains about 100 nutrients ---- minerals, vitamins, sugar, protein elements -- which altogether make milk a very special food bargain.

Drinking milk is the simplest ways to get the good from milk, but there are many opportunities in cooking to get part of the milk needed daily.

Louisiana families need to drink more milk. Each adult should drink 2 to 3 glasses of milk daily --- teenagers should drink 4 or more glasses -- children under the teen years should drink 3 to 4 glasses.

WE'RE DOING FINE

I read an interesting fact a day or so ago that I want to share with you. We hear a lot of complaints about how bad things are today, but the release from the tax foundation showed that the typical American works 2 hours and 29 minutes out of each 8 hours to pay his taxes --- only 1 hour and 39 minutes to buy his food ----- 1 hour and 25 minutes to pay his mortgage or rent --- 42 minutes for transportation ---- 37 minutes for clothing -- 24 minutes for medical care --- 20 minutes for recreation --- 24 minutes for other purposes. Considering that, a vast majority of the people around the world spend practically all their working hours merely to find enough food to stay alive. We Americans are doing pretty well, don't you agree?

INTERESTING NOTE

Out of 654 people asked, "Which would you choose if money were available for only one project?" 54 per cent chose a new program for medical research, 32 per cent new approaches to juvenile delinquency, 7 per cent basic research in sciences like chemistry and physics and only 3 per cent voted for putting the first man on the moon

Touring Royalty Visits U.S. Base In Newfoundland

SCHEFFERVILLE, Que. (UPI) —Britain's touring Queen Elizabeth II Saturday dropped in on a U. S. air base in Newfoundland and then flew on to the povince of Quebec to visit a iron mine.

The Queen, accompanied by her husband, Prince Philip, started her busy itinerary with a flight from Deer Lake, Nfld., to Ernest Harmon Air Force Base, where she saw a key segment of the continental air defense setup.

The couple arrived in North America Thursday for a 45 - day, 15,000-mile, 100-city tour of Canada. Their only stop in the United States will be a one-day pause July 6 at the end of a cruise through the St. Lawrence Seaway aboard the royal Yacht Brittainia.

A Royal Canadian Air Force plane carried the couple to Harmon Air Force Base, which was obtained by the United States during World War II under the lend-lease agreement.

They spent 20 minutes inspecting long lines of jet fighter planes standing prepared to take off at a moment's notice on orders from the U. S. Strategic Air Command headquarters at Omaha, Neb.

After exchanging pleasantries with American officers at the base Elizabeth and Philip went a short distance to visit Canada's tiny transport department airport at Stephenville. They also toured Stephenville.

Further Drop In Price Of Pork Is Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The retail price of pork is expected to drop further this fall.

The drop will come when the spring pig crop, up 12 per cent from a year ago, begins to hit the market in August. The Agricultural Department reported Friday the spring pig crop totalled 58,494,000 head. This crop, combined with the anticipated fall crop of 46 million head, will make a total of 104,200,000 head for the year.

The year's total will be 10 per cent above 1958 and 16 per cent more than the 1948-57 average. A department spokesman said the current hog slaughter is up from 1958 and prices paid to hog farmers are down $5 to $6 per 100 pounds from last year.

When the big 1959 spring pig crop starts to the slaughterhouses in August, prices are expected to be pushed down even more. In turn, retail prices will come down.

Calls For Strict Control Of Eggs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Erwin Bernstein of Freehold, N. J., warned Congress Friday that unless government production controls are imposed on eggs, a few companies will ultimately monopolize the business and control consumer prices.

The poultry producer issued a statement supplementing his testimony Thursday before a House Agriculture subcommittee considering legislation to combat the slump that has engulfed the chicken and egg industry.

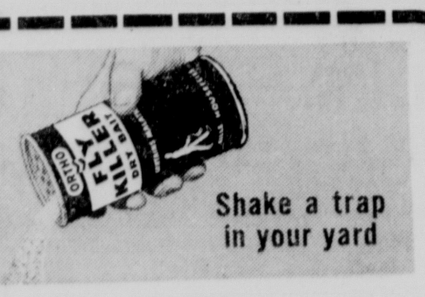
Flies?



Shake a trap in your yard

ORTHO Fly Killer Dry Bait lures — kills

Now control house flies outdoors quickly, easily and effectively! ORTHO Fly Killer Dry Bait is dry—shakes just like salt. The tiny granules are hardly noticeable. Yet each one can kill as many as 20 flies (about 500,000 particles to a pound). Ideal for barbecues, picnics. Or shake wherever flies swarm—near garbage cans, trash piles, etc.

MASSIVE SEARCH PRESSED

Sheriff Fears Boy Victim Of 'Gators

LILLIAN, Ala. (UPI) — The search for a three - year - old boy lost four days in a South Alabama swamp Saturday settled down to a macabre hunt for several large alligators, which have killed him.

Baldwin County Sheriff Taylor Wilkins, who has headed the search since Danny Barter of Mobile wandered away from a family outing about 9:30 a. m. Wednesday, said, "If he's in the area, it's unlikely he's alive.

"But we don't see how he could be in the area," Wilkins added, "unless a gator got him. We are hunting for several large gators known to be in the swamp where he disappeared.

"We'll cut them open and just hope we don't find anything."

He said the youth probably was too young to travel far in the dense underbrush. He pointed out that hunger "and hoardes of mosquitoes" probably would have killed him by now.

The massive ground search, numbering up to 1,000 persons, was abandoned in favor of a wide sweep by a Pensacola, Fla., Navy helicopter, private planes, horses, cars and jeeps.

The ground search, "almost arm-to-arm" for three days failed to find any trace of the youth in the area from the Gulf of Mexico and Peridido Bay shores, through a woody, snake and alligator infested swamp and across a major highway, U. S. 98, near the Alabama - Florida border.

"Kidnaping is a possibility," Wilkins admitted, "but we have no information at all to lead us in that direction. We have been closely questioning every one on the area and have come up with nothing."

He discounted the possibility that the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Barter of Mobile, who were sent home earlier in the week to care for their other six children, had drowned, because "the body would have turned up by now."

Deputy Carlisle Childress said dynamite was set off in several deep water holes near the Perdido Bay shoreline this morning but only debris floated to the surface.

At Mobile, Mrs. Barter said, "we all are praying. We want to have hope but it's hard."

Grandmother Asks Youth To Surrender

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A young mental patient was urged Saturday by his grandmother to surrender in the kidnaping of a 7-year-old girl whose mother rescued her by ramming the abductor's car.

Minnie Hardy of suburban East Point declared that she plans to stand by her grandson, Raymond Alwyn McMahon, 17.

"We want him back," she said. "We will stand by him through thick and thin. We will walk side by side with him. We know he is a good Christian boy with just one wayward step."

Raymond apparently took the "wayward step" Friday, police said, when he allegedly lured Sally Carroll into his car and drove away with her.

The abduction occurred in Hapeville, another Atlanta suburb adjacent to East Point.

The girl's sister, Susie, 9, ran home and told her mother, Mrs. R. E. Carroll Jr. of Hapeville. Mrs. Carroll jumped into her car, found the kidnaper's car and rammed into it to prevent him from fleeing with her daughter.

Sally was thrown from the youth's car and suffered a gash in the forehead. Mrs. Carroll scooped up her daughter and ran to a nearby residence where she called police.

The kidnaper had leaped from his wrecked car and fled into nearby woods.

Police found papers in the car identifying its occupant as McMahon.

They widened the search for him, but reported no new leads on his whereabouts. Detectives speculated he may be trying to turn to Chicago where he lived prior to moving here about two months ago.

Mrs. Hardy said her grandson had been living in Chicago with his mother. His parents are divorced and the father is here.

Mrs. Hardy said the boy had been under psychiatric treatment in Chicago and had been in trouble before on account of "sudden impulses" that he could not explain or understand.

Homicide Detectivve Lt. George Christian said McMahon also is wanted for questioning in the recent kidnaping and beating of Eelyn Loudermilk Bomar, 31, in Atlanta.

METALLIC'S NEW LO-PITCH BUILDINGS

Modern architectural treatments developed the need for a Metallic-type building with a low pitch roof, such as the building above. The Metallic Lo-Pitch building combines all the economy and adaptability of standard Metallic buildings plus the Lo-Pitch roof that blends into the architectural pattern of modern shopping centers. Unobstructed, clear span interiors provide maximum usable space. These buildings are easily insulated and air conditioned and can be furnished with any type walls desired. Roofing and siding is available in six eye-appealing colors. Exclusive Stran-Satin color sheets have a two-layer protective coating of vinyl-aluminum that is vastly superior to paint — assures minimum maintenance.

These buildings can be financed through Metallic's own time purchase plan.

MASSIVE SEARCH PRESSED

Sheriff Fears Boy Victim Of 'Gators

LILLIAN, Ala. (UPI) — The search for a three - year - old boy lost four days in a South Alabama swamp Saturday settled down to a macabre hunt for several large alligators, which have killed him.

Baldwin County Sheriff Taylor Wilkins, who has headed the search since Danny Barter of Mobile wandered away from a family outing about 9:30 a. m. Wednesday, said, "If he's in the area, it's unlikely he's alive.

"But we don't see how he could be in the area," Wilkins added, "unless a gator got him. We are hunting for several large gators known to be in the swamp where he disappeared.

"We'll cut them open and just hope we don't find anything."

He said the youth probably was too young to travel far in the dense underbrush. He pointed out that hunger "and hoardes of mosquitoes" probably would have killed him by now.

The massive ground search, numbering up to 1,000 persons, was abandoned in favor of a wide sweep by a Pensacola, Fla., Navy helicopter, private planes, horses, cars and jeeps.

The ground search, "almost arm-to-arm" for three days failed to find any trace of the youth in the area from the Gulf of Mexico and Peridido Bay shores, through a woody, snake and alligator infested swamp and across a major highway, U. S. 98, near the Alabama - Florida border.

"Kidnaping is a possibility," Wilkins admitted, "but we have no information at all to lead us in that direction. We have been closely questioning every one on the area and have come up with nothing."

He discounted the possibility that the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Barter of Mobile, who were sent home earlier in the week to care for their other six children, had drowned, because "the body would have turned up by now."

Deputy Carlisle Childress said dynamite was set off in several deep water holes near the Perdido Bay shoreline this morning but only debris floated to the surface.

At Mobile, Mrs. Barter said, "we all are praying. We want to have hope but it's hard."

Grandmother Asks Youth To Surrender

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A young mental patient was urged Saturday by his grandmother to surrender in the kidnaping of a 7-year-old girl whose mother rescued her by ramming the abductor's car.

Minnie Hardy of suburban East Point declared that she plans to stand by her grandson, Raymond Alwyn McMahon, 17.

"We want him back," she said. "We will stand by him through thick and thin. We will walk side by side with him. We know he is a good Christian boy with just one wayward step."

Raymond apparently took the "wayward step" Friday, police said, when he allegedly lured Sally Carroll into his car and drove away with her.

The abduction occurred in Hapeville, another Atlanta suburb adjacent to East Point.

The girl's sister, Susie, 9, ran home and told her mother, Mrs. R. E. Carroll Jr. of Hapeville. Mrs. Carroll jumped into her car, found the kidnaper's car and rammed into it to prevent him from fleeing with her daughter.

Sally was thrown from the youth's car and suffered a gash in the forehead. Mrs. Carroll scooped up her daughter and ran to a nearby residence where she called police.

The kidnaper had leaped from his wrecked car and fled into nearby woods.

Police found papers in the car identifying its occupant as McMahon.

They widened the search for him, but reported no new leads on his whereabouts. Detectives speculated he may be trying to turn to Chicago where he lived prior to moving here about two months ago.

Mrs. Hardy said her grandson had been living in Chicago with his mother. His parents are divorced and the father is here.

Mrs. Hardy said the boy had been under psychiatric treatment in Chicago and had been in trouble before on account of "sudden impulses" that he could not explain or understand.

Homicide Detectivve Lt. George Christian said McMahon also is wanted for questioning in the recent kidnaping and beating of Eelyn Loudermilk Bomar, 31, in Atlanta.

METALLIC'S NEW LO-PITCH BUILDINGS for
BOWLING ALLEYS
SUPER MARKETS
COMMERCIAL BUILDINGS
SHOPPING CENTERS
Modern architectural treatments developed the need for a Metallic-type building with a low pitch roof, such as the building above. The Metallic Lo-Pitch building combines all the economy and adaptability of standard Metallic buildings plus the Lo-Pitch roof that blends into the architectural pattern of modern shopping centers. Unobstructed, clear span interiors provide maximum usable space. These buildings are easily insulated and air conditioned and can be furnished with any type walls desired. Roofing and siding is available in six eye-appealing colors. Exclusive Stran-Satin color sheets have a two-layer protective coating of vinyl-aluminum that is vastly superior to paint — assures minimum maintenance.
These buildings can be financed through Metallic's own time purchase plan.

This Association is devoted to encouraging two traditional American virtues — thrift and home ownership. We aid the first by providing a safe and profitable place for the funds of provident families . . . protecting their money by sound investments, sound management, high reserves, and insurance . . . and adding to it with our regular liberal returns. We abet the second by making money available on convenient terms to buy or build good homes in the community. We look upon this double, inter-related function not only as our business, but also as our opportunity to serve our friends and neighbors, and to promote the American way of life.

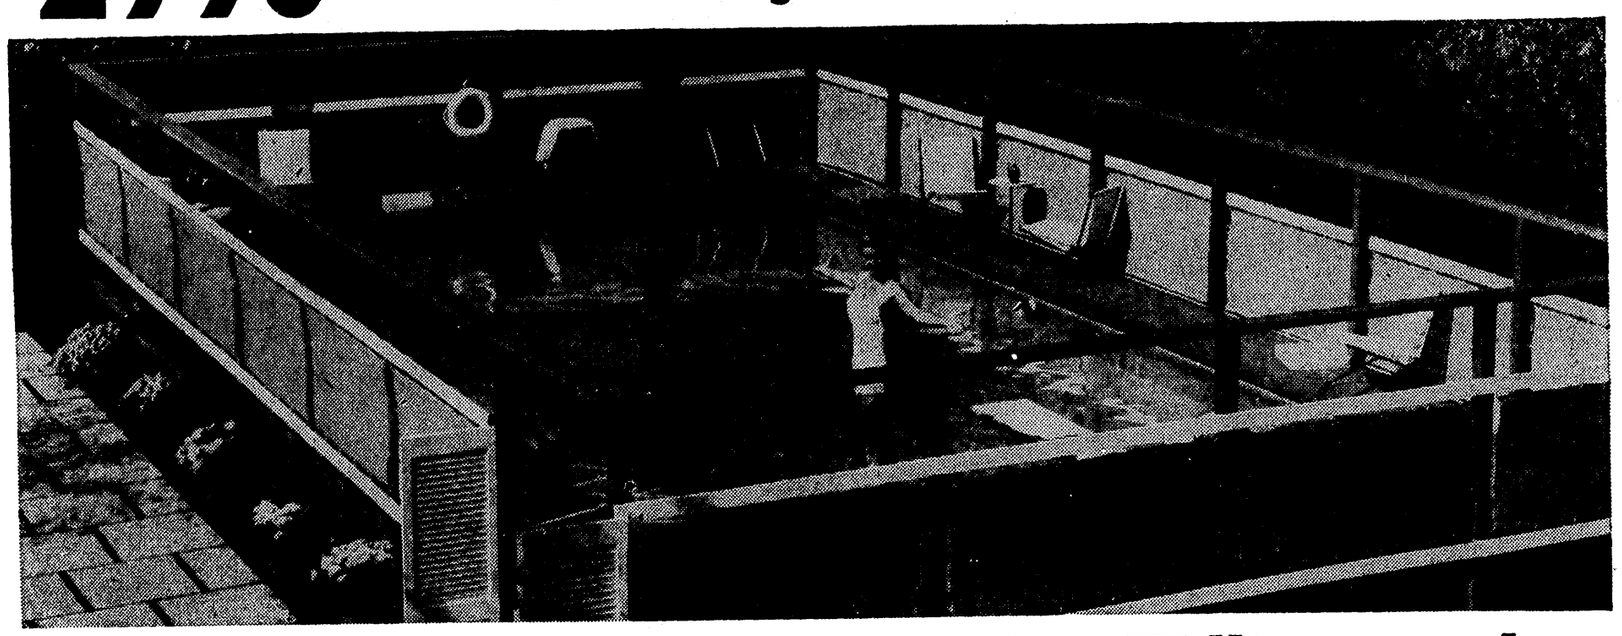
16x32 ESTHER WILLIAMS Swimming Pool: Only 2 of These Famous GUARANTEED All Family Pools Available at This SPECIAL PRICE

$2990.00 Completely Installed in Your Yard Immediately—
Take Advantage of This Low—Low Price Today!



Which of these fabulous Esther Williams pools would you like to have in your yard this summer?

(ABOVE) THE ESTHER WILLIAMS "LIVING POOL"... a totally new concept in home pools is now available here. The first, full-size luxury-type family pool engineered for every backyard; level, sloping or rocky. Exclusive split-level design, with construction above and below ground, utilizes beautiful, durable steel-reinforced California Redwood. Self-locking doors, built-in fence provide important safety features.

The Penthouse model shown has a swimming area of 16 x 32 feet . . . and is bordered by a spacious 25 x 41 foot Redwood sundeck for sunbathing and entertaining. Every Esther Williams Pool comes complete with filtration system plus all other necessary equipment, except water. Priced for most families.

(BELOW) THE ESTHER WILLIAMS "SUPREME" POOL . . . the country's most popular steel-reinforced concrete family pool . . . now available in three pool sizes. All concrete walls reinforced with steel rods. Short-wall construction cuts installation time, lowers cost, gives maximum resistance to ground pressures. Exclusive safety walk around deep end.

Fill the pool once — and that's it. Filter continually circulates clear, clean water. Savings on water are tremendous.

No costly, troublesome painting, wash-out or scrub downs are necessary in Esther Williams pools . . . thanks to exclusive water-tight Poolskin Liner. There is an Esther Williams swimming pool for your family.

Your choice for only 10% down and 5 years to pay!

This Association is devoted to encouraging two traditional American virtues — thrift and home ownership. We aid the first by providing a safe and profitable place for the funds of provident families . . . protecting their money by sound investments, sound management, high reserves, and insurance . . . and adding to it with our regular liberal returns. We abet the second by making money available on convenient terms to buy or build good homes in the community. We look upon this double, inter-related function not only as our business, but also as our opportunity to serve our friends and neighbors, and to promote the American way of life.

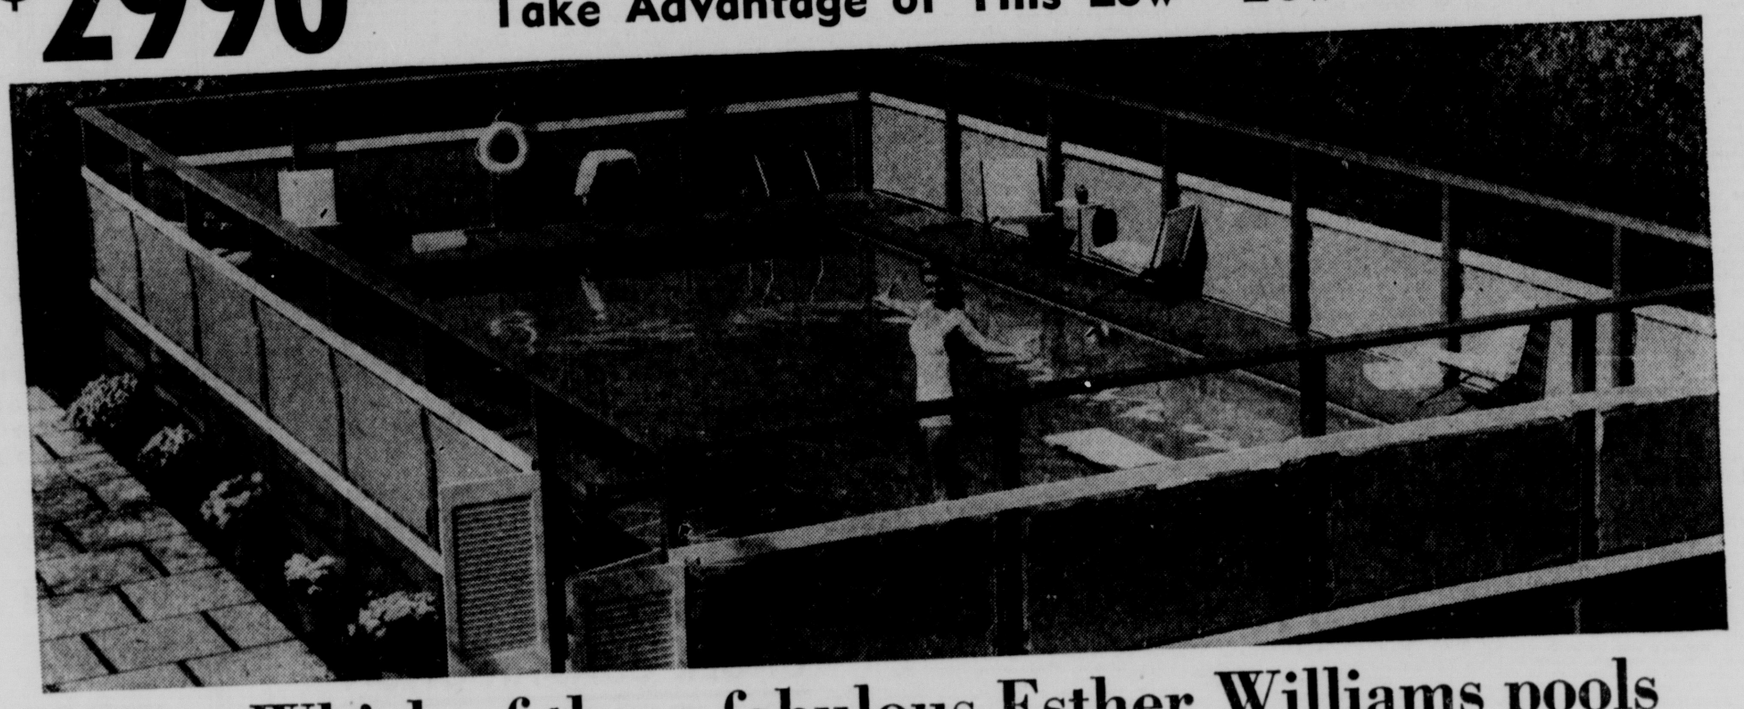
16x32 ESTHER WILLIAMS Swimming Pool. Only 2 of These Famous GUARANTEED All Family Pools Available at This SPECIAL PRICE

$2990.00 Completely Installed in Your Yard Immediately— Take Advantage of This Low—Low Price Today!



Which of these fabulous Esther Williams pools would you like to have in your yard this summer?

The Penthouse model shown has a swimming area of 16 x 32 feet . . . and is bordered by a spacious 25 x 41 foot Redwood sundeck for sunbathing and entertaining. Every Esther Williams Pool comes complete with filtration system plus all other necessary equipment, except water. Priced for most families.

(BELOW) THE ESTHER WILLIAMS "SUPREME" POOL . . . the country's most popular steel-reinforced concrete family pool . . . now available in three pool sizes. All concrete walls reinforced with steel rods. Short-wall construction cuts installation time, lowers cost, gives maximum resistance to ground pressures. Exclusive safety walk around deep end.

Fill the pool once — and that's it. Filter continually circulates clear, clean water. Savings on water are tremendous.

No costly, troublesome painting, wash-out or scrub downs are necessary in Esther Williams pools . . . thanks to exclusive water-tight Poolskin Liner. There is an Esther Williams swimming pool for your family.

Your choice for only 10% down and 5 years to pay!

Want Ad Recovered Lost Prayer Book For Ben Franklin

When Benjamin Franklin's wife told him her prayer book had disappeared from their pew in church, he placed this Want Ad:

THE PERSON who took the prayer book is desired to open it and read the Eighth Commandment, and afterwards return the prayer book into the same pew again, upon which no further notice will be taken.

The prayer book was returned.

THAT'S ENUFF, POIL... I GOTTA TAKE CHOLLY BACK TO TH' GYM.

OH, DEAR... HE'S SO MUCH FUN!

YA DOUBLE-CROSSIN' INGRATE. I TRY T' ENTERTAIN YA AN' YOU GO AN' STEAL MY BEST GOIL!

HEY! YA DOPEY MONSTER...COME BACK!!

NOW PLAYING MOLLY THE CHIMP

KISS KISS

COME ON...WE GOT NO TIME FER YER FOOLISH SHENANNIGANS

HAW-HAW! MOLLY GIVE YA TH' COLD SHOULDER!

SOIVES YA RIGHT! NO REAL GENT WALKS UP TO A GOIL WITHOUT A INTERDUCTION...YA AIN'T CIVILIZED!

...AN' FOITHERMORE— HUH? WHERE'D HE GO? HEY, CHOLLY!

WHERE'S CHOLLY?

HE'S G-GONE...I SOICHED ALL OVER! SNIFF IT'S MY FAULT, JOE...WE'LL NEVER SEE THAT S-SWELL LI'L LUG AGAIN!

MEANWHILE...

OUR ROCKET IS READY TO ORBIT THE SUN... BUT WE CAN'T GET A VOLUNTEER TO GO UP WITH IT!

FELLA-DOGPATCHERS!!—AH GOT SOME CONFOOZIN' BUT NOT AMOOZIN' NEWS FO' YO'!! DOGPATCH HAIN'T PART O' TH' YEW-NITED STATES NO MORE!!—ON ACCOUNT TH' ORIGINAL YOKUM NEVAH SOLD IT!!

THEY-GULP!—DISCOVERED THET IN WASHIN'TON!!— SO DOGPATCH IS A INDY-PENDENT NATION NOW— LIKE MONACO——AN' IT BELONGS TO TH' YOKUM FAMBLY—SAME AS MONACO BELONGS TO PRINCE RAINIER'S FAMBLY!!

BUT, PANSY!!

HARRY HAWGFAT, YO' WILL ADDRESS ME AS "YORE MAJESTY"— OR AH'LL BUST YORE COMMON FACE, WIF MAH ROYAL FIST!!

Y-YASSUH, YORE MAJESTY, MA'M!!

NOW THET WE HAIN'T PART O' TH' U.S.A. NO MORE—WE'LL LOSE ALL TH' ADVANTAGES O' BEIN' AMERICANS!!

LOOK!!

WHUT'S THET?

A 5-MILLION-DOLLAR, PRE-FABRICATED UNIVERSITY!! COMPLIMENTS OF THE U.S. GOVERNMENT!!

MAH GOODNESS!! WHEN WE WAS MERELY PORE LI'L BROKE-DOWN DOGPATCH, WE COULDN'T GIT TH' GOVAMINT TO GIVE US A SEED CATALOG!!

BUT, NOW THET WE IS A FURRIN COUNTRY—THEY'S BUILDIN' US A WHOLE COLLEGE!!

NATCHERLY!! THEY NEEDS OUR GOOD WILL!!

SPECIAL DELIVERY, FROM WASHINGTON, D.C.!!

GULP!!—WE AXED 'EM FO' A 20-DOLLAH LOAN, TO KEEP DOGPATCH ALIVE—BUT THET WAS A WEEK AGO—WHEN WE WAS AMERICANS!!

D-DID THEY TURN US DOWN?

RIGHT, MAMMY!!—NO 20 DOLLAHS!! BUT—THEY HAS SENT US A CHECK FO' 80 MILLYUN DOLLAHS, TO IMPROVE OUR RIVERS AN' HARBORS—NOW THET WE IS FURRINERS!!

THASS OUR RIVER AN' HARBOR!!— HOW IS WE GONNA SPEND 80 MILLYUN DOLLAHS ON THET?

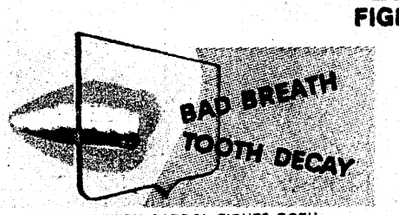
Brushing With Colgate Dental Cream Helps Give The Surest Protection All Day Long!*

STOP BAD BREATH WITH COLGATE

WHILE YOU Fight Tooth Decay All Day!

*Brushing for brushing, it's the surest protection ever offered by any toothpaste! Because of all leading toothpastes, only Colgate contains Gardol!

FIGHTS BOTH BAD BREATH AND TOOTH DECAY ALL DAY



COLGATE WITH GARDOL FIGHTS BOTH BAD BREATH AND TOOTH DECAY ALL DAY

Colgate Dental Cream with Gardol is backed by published results of 2-year clinical research on the reduction of tooth decay. And of all leading toothpastes,† only Colgate contains Gardol to form an invisible, protective shield around your teeth that fights decay all day. Colgate with Gardol stops mouth odor all day for most people, too! That's why Colgate is the world's largest selling toothpaste!

New Power Packed COLGATE DENTAL CREAM
- New Aerosol Container!
- New Finger-Tip Ease!
- Same Refreshing Colgate Flavor!

© 1959, COLGATE-PALMOLIVE COMPANY

†TOP THREE BRANDS AFTER COLGATE'S...GARDOL IS COLGATE'S TRADE-MARK FOR SODIUM N-LAUROYL SARCOSINATE.

Colgate Dental Cream with Gardol CLEANS YOUR BREATH While It CLEANS YOUR TEETH!

"SLEEP CALMLY IN THY DUNGEON-TOMB." CALMLY, HE SEZ! WHO CAN BE CALM OR GET MUCH SLEEP IN A SPOT LIKE THIS? LEAPIN' LIZARDS!!! —WHITTIER.

SO! MIDNIGHT, AND WE MEET AGAIN! WHAT IS YOUR PLAN TO BRING JUSTICE TO THE DUCHESS?

HARK! THAT SOUND! LIKE A STEALTHY STEP!

JUST RATS, PROBABLY!

RATS LEFT THIS CHAMBER OF HORRORS LONG YEARS AGO!

BUT I DID NOT LEAVE! SO-O-O, I SEE YOU HAVE MADE A GREAT DISCOVERY! HA! HA! HA! YOU POOR FUTILE PEASANTS!

S-S-SHE CAN WALK!

OF COURSE I CAN WALK! AND I TRICKED AND KILLED THEM ALL! WHY NOT? HERE IN MY CASTLE I AM THE LAW!

WE'LL SEE ABOUT THAT, Y'FAT OLD ....!

HA! HA! HA! IMBECILES! SO YOU FOUND THEM, EH? WELL, STAY WITH THEM! AT MY PLEASURE I'LL OPEN THE SEA-GATE AND YOU'LL DROWN LIKE RATS IN A TRAP!

AU REVOIR, MY CAGED ONES! I'LL GIVE YOU TIME TO CONSIDER YOUR STUPIDITY ... BEFORE YOU DIE! HA-HA-HA-HA-HA-HA !!!

WE CAN BUST OUT O' HERE WITH TH' TOOLS WE USED TO TEAR DOWN THAT WALL! WHERE ARE THEY?

WE WAS NEAT! WE TOOK TH' TOOLS BACK TO FROG'S SHOP! REMEMBER?

ASLEEP! GOOD! WHAT SHE DOESN'T KNOW WON'T HURT HER! "LET THE DEAD PAST BURY IT'S DEAD"... WITH A BIT OF HELP FROM THE DUCHESS!

6-21-59

HILE THROUGH THE CROOKED, DARK AND NARROW CHANNEL, INTO THE COVE, SLIPS SILENTLY, AND WITHOUT A LIGHT, A SLEEK BLACK SCHOONER!

ITHOUT A SPLASH THE ANCHOR GOES DOWN. A FIGURE LEANS ON THE AFTER RAIL—A TALL, TRIM MAN, WHO STARES STEADILY AND SILENTLY AT THE CASTLE!

THEN PUT THAT BACK!

A SELF-WINDING WATCH.. LET'S SEE IT, FUNGO.... I JUST WANNA SEE HOW MANY JEWELS IT'S GOT... DON'T WORRY... I CAN PUT IT TOGETHER AGAIN....

HATLO'S HISTORY

THE DUTCH REAL-ESTATE MEN TAKE A FLIER.... THE FIRST AMERICAN LAND BOOM....

BEFORE WE GO THROUGH WITH THE DEAL.. HOW ARE THE NEIGHBORS? ARE THEY FRIENDLY? IS THE LAND GOOD FOR GROWING THINGS?

FINE NEIGHBORS... VERY PEACEFUL... GOOD LAND.. DEEP DOWN RICH SOIL... GROW MUCH CORN... YOU SURE THESE BEADS AND STUFF IS WORTH TWENTY-FOUR BUCKS?

NICE NEIGHBORS.. HEH-HEH.. THE SHAWNEE WILL ONLY BE TOO HAPPY TO GIVE 'EM ALL FREE HAIRCUTS....

GOOD SOIL.. HAR-HAR.. SOLID ROCK ALL THE WAY DOWN.. ONLY CORN THEY'LL GROW IS FROM TIGHT MOCCASINS!

IT'LL BE A RELIEF TO GET RID OF THIS PLACE.. TOO BUSY. GETTING LIKE ISLE OF CONEY!

SNIFF SNIFF

THIS BETTER BE BETTER THAN LAST TIME!

YEAH!

CHEDDAR... YOU GOTTA FILL IN AS TOASTMASTER... JUST MAKE IT FUNNY... RIB EVERYBODY! BUT DON'T PULL ANY GAGS ABOUT THE BOSS... AND DON'T MENTION BULLGRAVY'S NEW SECRETARY... DON'T KID ABOUT ANYTHING IN THE FIRM... DON'T REFER TO THE OLD MAN'S RELATIVES....

BE FUNNY—BUT! THEY HANDCUFF THE POOR AMATEUR TOASTMASTER EVERY TIME....
